

411 Chapter 411 - I think she's pregnant

Earlier, when Alice ended the call with Alpha Denzel, a familiar person rushed to her side, whom she had forgotten was equally gifted as Raven.

"I think she's pregnant. I know some herbs that would give her strength," Ray said seriously. Having carried an Alpha through a long journey, a Luna was nothing in terms of weight.

Before Burke could counter, Ray already carried Luna Valerie carefully and rushed her to the pack house.

After setting her on the bed, he rushed to get some herbs and after pouring the concoction into a wet towel, he pressed it to her nose, making her sniff as she slowly regained consciousness and drank a minimal amount of it. Once awake, she placed a demand.

"I'm hungry." Valerie felt embarrassed to have fainted during training, but all the people in her room only showed care.

They were not thinking what she was thinking, but that did not make her feel too good either.

Alice took the cue of her being hungry, rushed to the kitchen, and made her some chicken soup.

Valerie was enjoying her soup with Ray monitoring her closely, Alice by her side to crack jokes, and Dorothy waiting for any signs to alert Alpha Denzel.

She seemed sorted with trusted people around to take very good care of her, being grateful for the herbs as they soothed her discomfort.

However, she could still not help wishing that Denzel was around. She wanted to be cuddled because of the temporary loss of her wolf, but since no one could give her that at the moment, all her desires were directed at the soup she was drinking. www.NovelORM.com

Raven rushed in, but seeing her brother, she slowly relaxed and asked him, "how is she?" She had forgotten to have trained her brother in knowing a lot of herbs, which came in handy when the need arose.

"As you can see, she's fine. I used the herbs you taught me," Ray said, smiling profoundly at his sister, who smiled back but did not want to interrupt Luna Valerie, as she seemed to be enjoying her soup.

Alpha Denzel entered the room and froze when he saw the way Valerie was busy with the bowl of soup on the tray in front of her. Also, as soon as he saw Ray, he understood the boy had helped with herbs.

Internally, he laughed, having forgotten that Ray was there. He had even forgotten that Raven could help if she had not reminded him. www.NovelORM.com

That showed the depth of his worry when he found that his mate and Luna had fainted.

Everyone excused themselves as soon as Alpha Denzel approached the bed, and it was just the two of them in the room, left to themselves.

"We shall be outside in case you need us," Ray said, being the first to excuse himself. Denzel took the bowl of soup from Valerie and sat beside her.

"Let me help you." He scooped the soup into the spoon and fed it to her gently, but somehow, Valerie felt ashamed to hold his gaze when she accepted the soup.

She missed him so much but could not help the level of shame creeping into her chest. "I caused you embarrassment." A frown creased Denzel's face, revealing the depth of confusion flooding through his mind. "What are you talking about?" He asked seriously. Valerie forced a smile and said, "Fainting during training." She already knew that Denzel knew about it, and due to the level of faith he had in her, it worried her that she let him down.

Alpha Denzel shook his head and gazed at her with admiration. "You are the strongest she-wolf I know. I never expected you to go for training." The fact that he had no idea what she-wolves went through during pregnancy increased his respect for them.

No matter how he tries or wishes, he would never be able to carry pregnancy, so the best he could do was to be there for the carrier, taking very good care of her.

"Do you think the warriors would laugh at me?" Valerie suddenly asked after swallowing another scoop of soup Alpha Denzel fed her. www.NovelORM.com

It felt good that they were left alone once more, and she was happy for his presence.

"They wouldn't dare. Besides, they love you too much for that," Alpha Denzel pointed out. Valerie agreed.

The pack members loved her, just as much as she loved them. "You are right, but just so you know, I'm back to being human again." It would be a lie for her to say that she did not miss her wolf and her powers, but she was also glad to be carrying the pack's pup.

"We've been through that before," Alpha Denzel reminded her, excited about the fact that they would soon be parents, but Valerie stated.

"I'm weaker than before." Alpha Denzel smiled and kissed her on the forehead. The bowl was empty, so he carried the tray, playing with the empty bowl on top of the nightstand.

"That's because you are carrying an extraordinary pup. He's feeding on every part of your body to gain strength." His voice was so soft, touching the depth of her heart. "How do you know it's a he?" She asked curiously, since she had also wished for the same.

Exhaling, Alpha Denzel stroked her hair as he spoke. "Because of what I have in store for him. I can't do that to a female pup." He remembered the training his father gave him when he was young, and for a moment, he thought the man hated him. Not until he began to face his peers in a fight that he realized that his father did him a lot of good.

"Denzel, it's not easy," Valerie yawned, wishing for another round of sleep as Denzel encouraged her. www.NovelORM.com

"I know, and that is why I'm here." "But Denzel, Ray..." Valerie was saying, but Denzel interrupted her, guessing what she wanted to say, and his words marveled Valerie.
