

418 Chapter 418- Alpha, She's Going to Die

Alpha Denzel's first plan failed, but he was not going to give up. This was the first time something like that had happened, but they still had time because the underground rogues seemed to find it hard to find a way around the warriors.

They could not eat them, which meant they were hungry, and the safety of the warriors meant Alpha Denzel had a little time to think before the rogues decided to kill the warriors they could not eat.

'It's time to use your claws.' Denzel had already shifted before giving the instruction, so he went ahead to demonstrate as he continued to communicate with them through the mindlink.

"Target their eyes and blind them." The pack of shifted werewolves roared and ran towards their enemies from their Alpha's lead, but falling on their backs, the underground wolves seemed prepared for defense this time, making it difficult for the warriors to get their eyes.

As soon as they felt the weight on their backs, the slime made it easy for them to turn and throw the warriors off them.

This seemed like a mission impossible for many of them, and only a few like Alpha Denzel himself met the target, but these rogues were defending themselves better than the last time.

After what those two women did, they also prepared more and came back stronger. The styles of flipping to their backs and throwing off the werewolves riding them The pack of shifted werewolves roared and ran towards their enemies from their Alpha's lead, but falling on their backs, the underground wolves seemed prepared for defense this time, making it difficult for the warriors to get their eyes.

As soon as they felt the weight on their backs, the slime made it easy for them to turn and throw the warriors off them.

This seemed like a mission impossible for many of them, and only a few like Alpha Denzel himself met the target, but these rogues were defending themselves better than the last time.

After what those two women did, they also prepared more and came back stronger. The styles of flipping to their backs and throwing off the werewolves riding them Some of the falls were disastrous, but they were glad to not have been eaten, which was a result of the repulsive herb they drank and smeared on their bodies.

The underground rogues were getting upset, as if whatever made the Ever pack warriors repulsive to them was also causing their stomachs to churn.

Ray and Raven were leading the team of emergency services to apply the herbs for quick recovery, and the fallen warriors were quickly getting back on their feet.

Alpha Denzel was glad to see this but still wanted means of getting rid of the underground rogues.

Those monsters showed no signs of leaving rolling around in the darkness, blocking the path for warriors, and they needed weapons to kill them completely.

Alpha Denzel could only use a weapon in human form, but due to the size of the rogues, it would be a bad idea to fight in human form, as they had to make themselves smaller than they already were in the sight of these giants.

As the leader he was, fast thinking was one of the things to get a war going. 'Change of plans,' he mindlinked the warriors who were ready for another instruction. Ww@.n@vélWor(m).com

It came faster than they expected but was also the first time Alpha Denzel gave such an order during a war. 'Retreat, everybody,' Alpha Denzel mindlinked, and he waited until the warriors were in safety.

were in sync.

Some of the falls were disastrous, but they were glad to not have been eaten, which was a result of the repulsive herb they drank and smeared on their bodies.

The underground rogues were getting upset, as if whatever made the Ever pack warriors repulsive to them was also causing their stomachs to churn.

Ray and Raven were leading the team of emergency services to apply the herbs for quick recovery, and the fallen warriors were quickly getting back on their feet.

Alpha Denzel was glad to see this but still wanted means of getting rid of the underground rogues. Ww@.n@vélWor(m).com chewed no signs of leaving were in sync.

Some of the falls were disastrous, but they were glad to not have been eaten, which was a result of the repulsive herb they drank and smeared on their bodies.

The underground rogues were getting upset, as if whatever made the Ever pack warriors repulsive to them was also causing their stomachs to churn.

Ray and Raven were leading the team of emergency services to apply the herbs for quick recovery, and the fallen warriors were quickly getting back on their feet.

Alpha Denzel was glad to see this but still wanted means of getting rid of the underground rogues.

Those monsters showed no signs of leaving any time soon. Those he blinded were rolling around in the darkness, blocking the path for warriors, and they needed weapons to kill them completely.

Alpha Denzel could only use a weapon in human form, but due to the size of the rogues, it would be a bad idea to fight in human form, as they had to make themselves smaller than they already were in the sight of these giants.

As the leader he was, fast thinking was one of the things to get a war going. 'Change of plans,' he mindlinked the warriors who were ready for another instruction.

It came faster than they expected but was also the first time Alpha Denzel gave such an order during a war. 'Retreat, everybody,' Alpha Denzel mindlinked, and he waited until the warriors were in safety.

In normal times, they would fight to the death, but this time, he seemed to be protecting the lives of his warriors rather than his eagerness to end the rogues.

His heart sunk when he witnessed one of the warriors stubbornly fighting one of the rogues and ended up being swallowed but was soon vomited out.

It was either the mindlink had broken off and he did not hear the instruction, or he was in a position that made it impossible for him to leave so fast.

Luckily, he fell right beside Raven and received a healing herb stuffed into his mouth. "Try sipping the juices if you can hear me," Raven screamed in his ears, and as soon as he obeyed, he was brought back to a state of consciousness.

The underground rogues had already crossed the slimy traps and were getting back to their feet, so Alpha Denzel settled on using his last resort before it was too late.

He could not endanger the lives of more warriors when there was a way around it. He mindlinked Alice, who had been on guard and itching the whole time to try using her powers.

'Alice, use your powers.' A relief si gh escaped her when she began to use her powers. Everyone watched in amazement when fire from nowhere began to burn the rogues, their painful growls gave the pack warriors joy as they tried to run back to their underworld.

However, due to the slimy traps, they stumbled, falling over each other, as the fire mercilessly burned them.

Alpha Denzel was thinking of the next move because the rogues were taking too long to die.

If they were able to escape alive, then there would be the probability of them returning again, especially when they have not been able to feed.

The moment he turned to see for how long Alice could hold on, Burke was already screaming.

"Alpha, she's going to die." Alpha Denzel jumped and pinned Alice on the ground, trying to stop her from losing her powers any longer, but as usual, she was already in a trance.

Her whole body was so hot and red, he could feel himself burning from it.

"Alice please, you have to stop," he roared, but the petite woman on the floor could not hear anything.

Everyone was now worried as the attention was taken away from the rogues to Alice.

"Raven, can you quench her heat?" Alpha Denzel asked worriedly, but for the first time, Raven did not have a solution and was feeling helpless and pathetic.

"I don't have a herb for it right now. It will take time, and we might lose her." Alpha Denzel could not give up on Alice. If he decided to use her, then he had a plan on how to save her in case things went south.

"Burke, you have to do something." Alpha Denzel said, a tear dropped from Burke's eyes when Alpha Denzel got off Alice but carried her from the floor. www.©oVélWorM.©om

Burke was his mate, and though it was still remaining with a few days for Alice to get her wolf and know this, Alpha Denzel could only depend on the mate bond, hoping that Burke would be able to do something.

Burke was afraid and saddened when he said, "Alpha, I can only knock her out, but that would mean her powers would no longer work." He stared at the rogues whose growls were shaking the pack.

"Do it," Alpha Denzel instructed.

Raven's life was more important than winning this battle. Then he remembered Valerie and looked up, but she wasn't there.

Burke was about to knock out Alice, but someone held his hand firmly, and when Alpha Denzel saw it, his heart sank into his stomach. w(w)w.ℳ.VélWorM.CoM