Chapter 2521 Killed In One Slash

• • •

Jared, however, showed no sign of fear whatsoever. “I'm glad you guys admitted to it. Where are Ali and the others?”

“They've become Demon Wolf food long ago!” the man leading the group replied with a sneer.

Percy mustered the courage and shouted, “No, that's impossible! Ali and the others won't die so easily!”

“Impossible, you say? No one has ever entered Demon Wolf territory and made it out alive! I thought we would have to return empty-handed, but you two delivered yourselves to us on a silver platter!" said the leader of the group while the other guys surrounded Jared and Percy.

The young boy grabbed onto the hem of Jared's shirt in fear. Clearly, the two of them were at a huge disadvantage going against dozens of people.

"Just so you guys know, you brought this upon yourselves..." Murderous intent swirled in Jared's ice-cold gaze as he tightened his grip on his sword.

Percy knew that quivering in fear was pointless, so he raised his bow and prepared himself for a fight as well.

The man leading the group snorted in disdain when he saw the look in Jared's eyes. "Still trying to resist, huh? If you two surrender, we might just spare your lives. If you two choose to fight back, then we will kill you both right here and now!”

“You talk too much!” Jared swung his sword as his word hung in the air.

All the men saw was a wave of white light flashing past their eyes.

The man leading the group went wide-eyed as he stood there, as still as a statue.

A few seconds later, blood slowly trickled down his forehead. “Hey, you're bleeding!” said one of the guys when he noticed the blood.

The man leading the group did not respond even though that guy called out to him multiple times. In fact, he didn't even blink.

The guy then tried giving him a gentle nudge on the shoulder, only to see him collapse to the ground.

His body had been sliced in half, and his internal organs spilled all over the place.

“Ahhh!”

The guys that were with him screamed in terror when they saw that.

None of them were expecting Jared's attack to slice that man in half.

“W-We need to avenge him! Kill these b*stards!” someone shouted, prompting the others to leap into action and charge at Jared.

Jared lifted his sword and ran toward them.

All Percy saw was Jared zipping through the group of men at lightning speed.

In less than a minute, all of the men from Cyan Village were lying on the ground in a pool of their own blood.

All of them were dead after having their throats slit in a single slash.

Percy was frozen in shock when he saw what happened. I can't believe this...

Those men are very powerful! Some of them are even stronger than Ali, and yet, Jared had effortlessly killed them all on his own!

Little did he know, Jared had only recovered a part of his strength. Had Jared regained his full strength, he could've killed those men simply by unleashing his aura upon them.

“Let's go, Percy.”

Jared didn't even spare their bodies a glance after doing away all of them.

Percy was so shocked that he was frozen like a statue.

“Percy!” Jared called out to him again.

“R-Right...” The boy finally snapped out of his dazed state and ran after Jared.

His eyes were filled with admiration when he looked up at Jared from behind.

As Jared and Percy made their way into the Demon Wolf territory, they could feel a clear change in the aura around them.

A lone Demon Wolf was not all that terrifying, but a pack of them could be extremely deadly.

The Demon Wolf that they encountered outside had probably been kicked out of the pack, so it was clearly not that strong. Running into a pack of Demon Wolves in their territory, however, would be a whole different story.

• • •

Chapter 2522 Surrounded By Wolves

The Demon Wolves' territory was located in the deeper parts of the area, and Ali and the others were engaged in a bloody battle with the Demon Wolves. Many of the Demon Wolves had died, but more were waiting to pounce at them.

Ali's group was not unscathed, of course. As they fought on, they were slowly making their retreat.

However, it would only be a matter of time before the sheer number of Demon Wolves overwhelmed and killed them.

Nevertheless, the leader of the Demon Wolves did not seem keen to kill Ali's group that quickly. All the Demon Wolves did was surround them, forcing them to move further into the mountains.

If the Demon Wolves wanted Ali's group dead, they merely needed to lunge at them together. Yet, the leader of the Demon Wolves did not do that. It only sent two of its pack to attack Ali's group.

“I'm so sorry. I'm the reason you're in this situation. If we hadn't run here, we might have survived...”

Ali was devastated to see the rest of his party exhausted and covered in blood. If he had not led them into the Demon Wolves' territory to avoid Cyan Village's villagers' chase, they would not have ended up in this state.

The villages from Cyan Village would likely not have killed them all, but the same could not be said about the Demon Wolves.

“Ali, we don't blame you for this. If this is our fate, we might as well go all out against these Demon Wolves!” one of the Rock Village's villagers declared.

“Ali, you've already done well. You were doing this for our sake, and none of us will blame you for this. I just feel bad that the people in Rock Village will have a tougher life after our deaths,” said one of the elderly villagers from Rock Village.

“I'm not scared of dying, but what will my grandma do after I die? Her eyes aren't cured yet...”

Emily was crestfallen. Death was not something she feared, but she was worried that no one would take care of Ira.

“Percy has gone back to the village. Maybe he'll come back with Mr. Antonio to save us,” said someone who was more optimistic than the others.

“That's impossible. We're far from Rock Village. Even if Mr. Antonio does lead the villagers here to save us, I'm afraid they won't be a match for these Demon Wolves either. I'd rather be killed by the Demon Wolves now than have more people die here with us in an attempt to save us!” an elderly villager from Rock Village uttered.

At that very moment, feelings of despair spread among the group.

“Let's do our best to fight them off. We can't keep moving further and further into the mountains. If they're trying to drive us into that area, that area might be their den. We can't retreat anymore. Charge!” Ali cried out, lifting his weapon.

The others nodded in agreement as they tightened their grip on their weapons. By then, they, too, had figured out the wolves' intentions.

“Charge!”

With a loud cry, Ali rushed toward the wolves.

“Charge!”

The rest of the villagers dashed forward as well. At the peak of their despair, they unleashed all the power they had.

Awoo!

At the sight of the charging humans, one of the Demon Wolves went straight after Ali, who was at the frontmost.

Whoosh!

Just as the Demon Wolf was about to reach Ali, a sudden arrow shot out from the side, piercing the creature's neck with astonishing force.

The impact of the arrow sent the Demon Wolf hurtling sideways before it was firmly pinned against a tree.

The unexpected intervention had Ali's group pausing for half a second. Even the Demon Wolves turned their heads, sensing the scent of danger in the air.

“Jared, y-you're amazing!” Percy exclaimed as he stared at the Demon Wolf pinned against the tree.

At that moment, Jared was holding Percy's bow. As it turned out, he was the one who fired the arrow earlier.

Alas, Percy's bow was an ordinary weapon. If Jared had recovered his strength and taken out the Divine Bow, he would have wiped out at least half of the Demon Wolves present with just one shot.

“Jared...”

“Jared!”

When Ali and Emily saw Jared and Percy, shock crossed their faces, and they yelled his name.

Chapter 2523 Turn And Run

Jared ambled over to Ali's group with Percy, but none of the Demon Wolves dared to attack the two.

Upon realizing that Jared and Percy were the only ones who had come, Ali's group was stunned again.

Emily even anxiously shouted, “Jared, why did you come? Hurry up and leave this place! It's dangerous here!”

She was hoping that Jared would leave before these Demon Wolves came back to their senses.

Jared and Percy were heading to their deaths by confronting the Demon Wolves alone.

“Emily, I've come with Percy to save you all,” Jared informed.

“Jared, if you weren't injured, then maybe you could save us. However, you're gravely hurt and have yet to recover. You're only courting death by doing this!” Emily pleaded with desperation.

The pack of at least a hundred Demon Wolves presented an overwhelming challenge for Jared. While he could have handled one or two of them at a time, facing them all simultaneously would be an insurmountable task.

Frankly, that was an issue Jared had contemplated as well, but he was confident. He knew that these Demon Wolves did not dare to attack him. "Don't worry, Emily. I have a way to get you all out of here," Jared told her firmly. "I'm grateful that you've come to save us, Jared, but you won't be able to win against all these Demon Wolves. Take Percy and leave this place. Don't let yourself die here," Ali said, for he also did not believe that Jared could go up against the wolves and win.

"Ali, Emily, maybe Jared can really save you from this place. He has recovered much, and he even managed to kill those people from Cyan Village who were trying to capture you alone!"

Unlike Emily and Ali, Percy had faith in Jared as he had seen how Jared had killed the people from Cyan Village.

Ali's group was visibly astonished to hear Percy's words. Then, a look of delighted surprise manifested on their faces.

“That's fantastic news! With those b*stards finally eliminated, our sacrifices will be worthwhile,” exclaimed one of the villagers from Rock Village.

“No worries. As long as I'm here, the grim reaper won't come near you,” Jared reassured, a small smile playing on his lips.

Right then, the leader of the Demon Wolves howled, and the pack moved to surround them again. This time, Jared was part of the surrounded group.

Perhaps the leader of the Demon Wolves had sensed that Jared was a threat to them, for it instructed dozens of its wolves to rush toward Jared while the rest of the wolves readied themselves for an attack.

At that, Ali and the other people dragged their aching and tired bodies forward, raising their weapons in preparation to fight against the Demon Wolves with Jared.

“Don't move. I can do this alone.”

Yet, to their surprise, Jared stopped them. As he narrowed his eyes, waves of aura began emanating from him. Traces of the Power of Dragons and Phoenixes were in those waves of aura. Although Jared had yet to make a full recovery, even the slightest hint of the Power of Dragons and Phoenixes would create an immense sense of pressure for those demon beasts.

Sure enough, right as Jared unleashed his aura, the Demon Wolves who were darting toward Jared halted.

In fact, the leader of the Demon Wolves was even staring at Jared with terror in its eyes, its body shaking.

Abruptly, the leader of the Demon Wolves let out a frightened howl.

In the next second, the hundred-over pack of Demon Wolves spun around and left without hesitation.

It only took dozens of seconds before all of the Demon Wolves were gone. The only wolves left were those that were already dead.

Everyone was dumbstruck by the turn of events.

Although Jared was somewhat aware of what would happen if he were to make that move, he still did not expect to scare those Demon Wolves that badly just by unleashing a small portion of the Power of Dragons and Phoenixes.

However, those Demon Wolves were not powerful, so they were rightfully terrified of the aura of celestial beasts. Jared could not help but wonder if the Power of Dragons and Phoenixes would have a similar effect on more powerful demon beasts.

• • •

A Man Like None Other

Chapter 2524 A Pity

• • •

“W-What's going on?” Ali squeezed out, still baffled.

“Did they run off because more powerful demon beasts are coming?” the elderly villager from Rock Village wondered out loud.

“I think so. Why else would they be in such haste to flee?” another villager agreed.

“There aren't any powerful demon beasts coming. Jared must have been the one who scared them off!”

Percy loudly declared.

Even though the boy had no idea how Jared had managed to chase away the Demon Wolves, to him, Jared seemed omnipotent, possessing extraordinary powers beyond comprehension.

“All right, let's not dwell on this. Let's make ourselves scarce from this place since the Demon Wolves are gone. If they come back, or if anything more powerful comes along, we'll be in trouble again," Ali urged, gesturing for the others to start moving. "Ali, what do we do with these Demon Wolf carcasses? We'll be able to sell them for good money. It'd be such a waste to leave them lying here," pointed out one of the villagers.

At that, the others turned to look at the dead Demon Wolves, finding it a waste as well.

Ali knew that the carcasses would fetch a good price, but they were all injured at the moment. There was no way they could take these carcasses with them. Furthermore, the Demon Wolves that left might return any time, so they did not have the luxury of time to retrieve the beast cores.

“Let's not. Survival is our priority. If we all die here, all these carcasses will ultimately be useless to us.

Let's go now,” Ali answered in a booming voice.

Hearing that, the others could only cast a reluctant glance at the dead wolves before turning to leave.

Just then, Percy said to Ali, “Ali, Jared has a Storage Ring. He'll be able to take these carcasses along with us.”

“Storage Ring?” Ali tensed up before turning to look at Jared. “You have a Storage Ring?”

Jared nodded in affirmation. “I do.”

For a moment, Ali could only stare at Jared in disbelief. He never expected Jared to have a magical item like a Storage Ring. In the Ethereal Realm, magical items like a Storage Ring were a rare find.

“I didn't think you'd have something like that. Would you mind taking these carcasses along?” Ali queried.

“Sure.” With a smile, Jared waved his hand, keeping all the Demon Wolves in his Storage Ring in the blink of an eye.

The others whipped their heads toward Jared in elation when they saw that the carcasses were gone.

Their impressions of Jared were shifting bit by bit.

At the end of the day, Jared was an outsider. Although he had been staying in Rock Village for days, many of the villagers were still hostile toward him.

However, most of them were now grateful that Jared was willing to store the carcasses of the Demon Wolves in his Storage Ring and transport it for them.

“All right. Let's head off now.”

Ali then began leading the people back the way they came from.

When Jared noticed that Emily was injured, he asked in concern, “Emily, are you okay? Can you still walk?”

“I'm fine, Jared. I can still walk,” Emily replied with a shake of her head.

The people of Ali's group were hurt, so they were slow in their journey. Right then, someone began sighing and lamenting about their situation.

“Although we've escaped death this time and obtained so many Demon Wolf carcasses, I'm afraid we won't have enough money to treat all of our injuries even if we sell these off.”

The mention of that brought down the previously-merry mood again.

“Those alchemists are so greedy! Their pills are so darn expensive.”

“I'd rather not visit one. At most, I'll have to suffer for a few more days. The injuries will eventually recover on their own,” chimed in the elderly villager.

“Hey, don't say that. It's easy for open wounds to be infected, especially wounds caused by demon beasts. Have you forgotten how my eldest uncle passed away from a demon beast bite because he didn't want to spend any money to treat his wound?” Percy said to the elderly villager.

• • •

A Man Like None Other

Chapter 2525 Not Capable Enough

• • •

Upon hearing Percy's words, the elderly villager lowered his head and fell silent.

Everyone had turned equally dispirited, and the tension in the air became palpable.

Emily was worried about her injuries too. She initially wanted to earn more money through hunting to treat her grandmother's eyes, and yet, now, not only did she not have the money for the treatment, but she was even hurt herself.

“Emily, is it also tough for you all to treat external wounds?” Jared asked in confoundment.

After all, to his knowledge, simple medicinal herbs could be used to treat external wounds. No expensive medicinal herbs were needed, so treatment should be something readily accessible.

“Of course it's tough. If we're hurt, we'll need to travel to a town hundreds of kilometers away from our village to visit an alchemist, and the alchemists charge a lot,” Emily explained to Jared.

At that, Jared decided to head up the mountains to gather some medicinal herbs to treat the villagers.

Although Jared had yet to make a full recovery and could not refine high-quality pills yet, creating simple pills for the external wounds they sustained was something he could manage.

“Ali, take them back first. I'm going to gather some herbs on this mountain to treat your wounds,” Jared said to Ali.

Ali blinked at Jared in surprise. “You're going to gather herbs? Are you an alchemist?”

The others turned to look at Jared in equal shock, waiting for the man to respond.

“I've only learned a little alchemy, and I wouldn't call myself an alchemist, but treating your wounds won't be an issue,” Jared nonchalantly answered.

Ali's eyes lit up as he lurched forward to grab Jared's hand. “A-Are you serious? You're not lying to me, right?”

Jared was taken aback by Ali's excited demeanor. “I'm not. Why should I lie to you about something like this?”

“This is great news!”

In his ecstasy, Ali hugged Jared.

The other people also merrily surrounded Jared, gazing at him with reverence in their eyes.

Even Percy had taken a step forward to look at Jared in disbelief. “Jared, you're an alchemist? I thought you were already very strong, but I never expected you'd also be an alchemist!”

Jared was still perplexed by their reactions. He could not wrap his head around why they were so excited to hear that he was an alchemist.

Aren't I just treating their injuries? Why are they so excited, as if I've saved their lives?

“Jared, I never expected you to be an alchemist! Did you know that the role of an alchemist is a role that we greatly admire and wish to become?”

“Becoming an alchemist means succeeding in life. Moreover, there hasn't been a single alchemist in Rock Village for thousands of years!”

“This is wonderful news indeed! We no longer need to head to town if we're sick or injured. We won't need to suffer from bullying anymore, and my grandmother's eyes can be cured! Jared, could you please treat my grandma's eyes?" Emily enthusiastically asked.

However, Jared shook his head. He had studied the elderly woman's eyes previously and found out that she had been blind for many years.

Furthermore, it seemed like she had been blinded by poison. That was something Jared could not cure.

Still, there were no absolutes in this world. If they found a miraculous herb, perhaps the elderly woman might regain her sight.

Thus, Jared regretfully told Emily, "I can't treat your grandma's eyes with my current capability."

A wave of disappointment struck Emily when she heard his reply, and she lowered her head.

“Emily, don't give up just yet. Although Jared can't cure your grandma's eyes, we can hire Dr. Weiss to treat your grandma's eyes after we sell the Demon Wolves,” Ali consoled.

Chapter 2526 Grateful

• • •

Emily nodded, and only then did she flash a faint smile.

“Jared, why don't I go with you to gather herbs? I'm familiar with the terrain here.”

Percy wanted to tag along with Jared to collect herbs.

In fact, he had another plan in mind, which was to learn some skills from Jared. If he could acquire alchemy skills and become an alchemist, that would be great.

Jared could fathom Percy's intention, but he said, "Percy, you can come with me to gather herbs another time. Ali and the others are hurt, so you should escort them back to the village for now."

"Jared, please let Percy go with you. We've already left the Demon Wolves' territory, so there shouldn't be any more danger. We can make it back on our own." Ali also wished Percy could learn more from Jared.

After all, Jared was an outsider who could leave Rock Village at any time. If Percy could become an alchemist, he would become a significant asset to the village.

Hearing Ali's words, Jared agreed and left the party with Percy to collect some herbs.

As the spiritual energy of the Ethereal Realm was abundant, there were countless spiritual plants in the mountains. Those plants would be priceless treasures in the mundane world, but in the Ethereal Realm, they were no different from wild grasses, left unharvested.

Even though the mundane world's spiritual energy had been restored now, those spiritual plants couldn't mature within a short period. Some spiritual plants required ten years or even a century to grow.

“Percy, do you see this? This oval, light green leaf is called...” Jared explained to Percy as he gathered the medicinal herbs.

He was merely imparting the latter with some fundamental knowledge for being an alchemist.

After all, there was no way for one to qualify as an alchemist if one couldn't differentiate between herbs.

Percy was a dedicated student. He remembered everything Jared had taught him after only one explanation. Then, he started helping Jared to collect the herbs.

Before nightfall, Jared and Percy returned to Rock Village with many herbs.

Ali and the others had long since returned. Antonio had already arranged for others to help those injured clean their wounds and apply a black ointment.

Those were folk remedies from Rock Village. Some people who couldn't afford medical treatment could only apply those remedies to their wounds; whether they could heal was up to fate.

When Jared and Percy arrived at Rock Village, Antonio and all the villagers were waiting for them in the village square.

At the sight of Jared's return, Antonio and everyone from Rock Village knelt before him.

“Mr. Chance, thank you for saving Rock Village!” Antonio uttered in agitation.

If Jared hadn't rescued Ali and the others, Rock Village would have lost its younger generations, and their survival would become even more difficult.

“Mr. Antonio, what are you doing? Please stand up.” Jared hurriedly helped Antonio up and asked the other villagers to get to their feet as well.

“Mr. Chance, if it weren't for you, Ali and the others wouldn't have made it back this time. Ali told me everything. I didn't expect you to be an alchemist. You sure are adept at concealing your talents,” Antonio said to Jared.

“This is my obligation. If it weren't for Rock Village, I probably would've died in the jungle.”

As Jared spoke, he took out all the Demon Wolf carcasses from his Storage Ring and said, “Mr. Antonio, have someone deal with these carcasses. I'm going to craft some pills to speed up Ali and the others' recovery.”

“Okay, all right, sure! Feel free to let us know if you need anything, Mr. Chance. Everyone at Rock Village will be at your service from now on,” Antonio responded fervently.

Jared didn't ask for anything. He merely requested a pot and then hastened back to Emily's house to start crafting pills in the courtyard.

• • •

A Man Like None Other

Chapter 2527 Hard Bargain

Medicine to treat external wounds wasn't challenging to craft for Jared. He made some medicinal powder and told Antonio to apply it on Ali and the others. In just two days, those people were completely healed.

As for Emily's injuries, they recovered within a day under Jared's care, and there weren't even any scars left on her body.

After the villagers knew Jared was an alchemist, they sought his help for their ailments. Jared suddenly became the village doctor. Nevertheless, he was always ready to help those people.

“Jared, we're going to the town to sell the Demon Wolves today. Will you come with us?” Emily asked Jared.

“Sure!” He nodded.

After staying in Rock Village for several days, he wanted to venture out and experience the human culture of the Ethereal Realm.

At that moment, at Rock Village's entrance, Ali and the others had packed up the Demon Wolf carcasses and were waiting for Jared. When they saw the latter approach, they all expressed their gratitude.

Jared had gained significant respect in Rock Village, and the villagers now also considered him one of their own.

The party set off toward the town. The closest town to Rock Village was Quakersville, about a hundred kilometers away. Many nearby villages sold goods in Quakersville and bought household items there.

In truth, life for those lower-tier cultivators in the Ethereal Realm was basic.

Although everyone had dreams of becoming immortals, not everyone could ascend to that level.

For the lower-tier cultivators, it was rare even for one among millions of them to attain immortality as the path was arduous and required vast resources.

Despite the hundred-kilometer distance, the journey didn't seem long to those cultivators. They used only an hour to reach Quakersville.

Jared was surprised to find Quakersville wasn't as grand as he imagined; it was just a village with a higher population. A square was situated on one side of Quakersville where people sold their goods.

Most were there to sell demon beast carcasses, while some sold odd-shaped stones or spiritual plants, but Jared noticed those items attracted little attention.

Upon arriving, Ali's party didn't sell their goods like others. Instead, they went straight to a stone house.

Even before stepping into the place, Jared caught whiffs of a strong stench of blood.

“Mr. Leeson, we've brought goods!” Ali shouted outside the house.

A second later, a burly man stained with blood walked out of the house. After seeing Ali, he said, “Oh, it's you, Ali. What do you have for me today? You haven't been here for a while.”

In truth, life for those lower-tier cultivators in the Ethereal Realm was basic.

Although everyone had dreams of becoming immortals, not everyone could ascend to that level.

“Mr. Leeson, I'm here to sell ten Demon Wolf carcasses today!” After saying that, Ali directed his men to place the carcasses on the floor.

The brawny man, Heath Leeson, glanced at the Demon Wolf carcasses and said in disbelief, “Ali, did you all hunt these Demon Wolves?”

“Of course. What else? Do you think we snatched these carcasses from others?

We, people of Rock

Village, are not like those of Cyan Village, who are just a group of bandits!” Ali was furious at the thought of the villagers from Cyan Village.

Heath glanced at Ali, parting his lips but hesitated.

After dithering for a moment, he uttered, “Ali, I can only offer you five spirit coins per carcass.”

“What? Five spirit coins? That's too little!”

“That's right. A few days ago, we were able to sell one Demon Wolf carcass for twenty spirit coins!”

“Mr. Leeson, you're really driving a hard bargain.”

Right after Heath finished his sentence, the villagers started to complain.

Ali also wore a slight grimace. “Mr. Leeson, we've known each other for some time now. I know how much a Demon Wolf carcass is worth. Isn't five spirit coins per carcass a bit too cheap?”

• • •

A Man Like None Other

Chapter 2528 Vibrant Health Clinic

Heath scanned his surroundings. Upon noticing no one was looking in their direction, he uttered to Ali in an undertone, "Ali, it's precisely because we've been acquainted for a long time that I'm offering you five spirit coins per carcass. If you were to sell them to others, they might not even dare to buy them! The people from Cyan Village have spread the word. They claim their hunting party has gone missing and was killed by someone on the Demon Wolf's territory! Therefore, the people of Cyan Village have decreed. If anyone comes to sell a large number of Demon Wolf carcasses, we cannot accept the goods and must report to them. They claimed these Demon Wolf carcasses must have been stolen from them. I'm already taking a huge risk, buying these carcasses from you for five spirit coins each. I suggest you dispose of these carcasses as soon as possible. If others discover and report it to Cyan Village, Rock Village will be in danger."

Ali was stunned, listening to Heath's explanation. He had initially thought they could make a fortune with so many Demon Wolf carcasses. However, now, it seemed he was overly optimistic. He didn't anticipate the members of Cyan Village would act that way.

The other villagers also looked very disappointed, especially Emily. She had planned to use her share of money from selling the Demon Wolf carcasses to hire Brutus to treat her grandmother's eyes.

Unfortunately, with the current reduced selling price, she wouldn't receive much money.

“Those Cyan Village b*stards! They should all be killed,” Percy muttered in anger.

“Those Cyan Village b*stards! They should all be killed,” Percy muttered in anger.

“Mr. Leeson, can you please increase the price a little?” Ali pleaded with Heath.

“I can't. If you don't want to sell, then forget it.” With that, Heath was about to return to his house, but Ali called him back. “Mr. Leeson, I'll accept the deal. Five spirit coins it is, then.”

Ali had to compromise. If Heath didn't buy the carcasses, it was even more unlikely that others would.

After exchanging the Demon Wolf carcasses for spirit coins, everyone hung their head, appearing downcast and upset.

Jared was taken aback upon learning that. I can't believe Cyan Village is so influential here! All these people are afraid of Cyan Village!

Ali didn't distribute the spirit coins among the group after receiving them. Instead, he looked at Emily and said, "Emily, let's use this money to hire Dr. Weiss to treat your grandma's eyes."

Emily was momentarily dazed after hearing that. Then, she immediately shook her head and replied, "Ali, everyone risked their lives to earn this money. I can't just take all of it. We should divide it among all of us."

"That's not necessary. This is what we all decided."

“That's right. I'm grateful we were able to survive that predicament, and that's better than receiving any amount of money.”

“That's right. I'm grateful we were able to survive that predicament, and that's better than receiving any amount of money.”

“Emily, just take the money and hire Dr. Weiss. If he can cure your grandma's eyes, that would fulfill your long-held wish!”

The other members of Rock Village who tagged along said to Emily one after another.

Moved to tears, Emily uttered, “Thank you, everyone.”

“All right. You can all go back first. I'll accompany Emily to find Dr. Weiss.” Ali told the others to return, leaving only Percy, Jared, Emily, and himself.

Then, they went to hire Brutus with the money.

Following the narrow streets of Quakersville, they reached its end. On the left was a store with a sign that read: Vibrant Health Clinic.

“What's with that name?” Jared was baffled by the unusual name of the clinic.

“Jared, the name 'Vibrant Health Clinic' means this place can ensure you're full of vigor and vitality. Once you step into the premise, no matter how gravely ill you are, Dr. Weiss can restore the vibrancy of your health. That's why it's aptly named Vibrant Health Clinic,” Percy explained to Jared.

Jared smiled faintly in response. He didn't expect Brutus to be so boastful. That piqued Jared's interest to witness just how exceptional the doctor's medical skills were.

Jared followed Ali and the others into Vibrant Health Clinic. The place was bustling with people seeking treatment. A man who seemed to be in his early thirties was sitting behind a table, calmly taking people's pulses with his eyes slightly closed. "Jared, that person is Dr. Brutus Weiss," Percy whispered to Jared. Jared gazed at Brutus in astonishment. He didn't expect the latter to be so young, only a few years older than himself.

Still, he thought Brutus' skills might not be that impressive since he was just a revered doctor in such a rural location.

Ali and the others waited in line. Soon, the people in front of them left, and Emily quickly approached Brutus. "Dr. Weiss, I wish to hire you to treat my grandma's eyes. I have the money now."

Brutus opened his eyes. Judging by how nonchalantly he reacted upon seeing Emily, it appeared that wasn't his first encounter with her.

"As long as you have money, I can even resurrect your grandma from death, let alone treat her eyes.

Where's the money?" Brutus asked Emily.

"Here." She hastily placed the fifty spirit coins she got from selling the Demon Wolf carcasses before Brutus.

However, when he saw the spirit coins, he shook his head and said, "That's not enough."

"Dr. Weiss, there are fifty spirit coins here. You previously told me fifty spirit coins would suffice." Emily was astounded.

"That was the price a year ago. The treatment will cost at least a hundred spirit coins now!" Brutus elaborated.

"That was the price a year ago. The treatment will cost at least a hundred spirit coins now!" Brutus elaborated.

Emily was stunned after hearing that. Others gave up their shares to let me have these fifty spirit coins, yet the price has suddenly risen to a hundred spirit coins? How should I gather that amount of money?

“Dr. Weiss, you can't break your word. You clearly said before that fifty spirit coins would be enough!” Ali expressed his discontent.

“That was before. It's a hundred spirit coins now. If you don't have the money, hurry up and leave. Don't interfere with my business!” Brutus' countenance began to darken.

“Dr. Weiss, I beg you. Please treat my grandma's eyes!” Emily knelt before Brutus as she spoke.

She knew if Brutus didn't agree to help her that time, she would have to take a long time to save up a hundred spirit coins.

However, Brutus was unfazed even at the sight of Emily groveling at his feet. Her behavior didn't rouse the slightest hint of pity within him. Perhaps it was because he had seen too many people begging him in that manner.

“Emily, get up. This kind of unethical alchemist can't be that skilled. I think he's just a blowhard!” Jared stepped forward to help Emily up while shooting Brutus a disdainful look.

Hearing that audacious remark, Brutus instantly widened his eyes and glared at Jared. “Brat, are you deliberately looking for trouble here? If you have a death wish, I won't let you leave Quakersville alive.”

Hearing that audacious remark, Brutus instantly widened his eyes and glared at Jared. “Brat, are you deliberately looking for trouble here? If you have a death wish, I won't let you leave Quakersville alive.”

“Dr. Weiss, please calm down. My friend was just talking nonsense. Since you've raised the treatment fee, we'll go and gather more money," Ali swiftly chimed in when he noticed Brutus getting enraged, as he was well aware of the latter's influence in Quakersville.

A single command from Brutus could bar them from leaving Quakersville alive.

"Scram!" Brutus waved his hand.

Ali cast a look at Jared, hinting at the latter to keep his mouth shut and follow him out of the clinic.

However, Emily was reluctant to go. She wanted to beg Brutus but was forcefully dragged away by Ali.

Everyone knew Brutus was an avaricious man, so there was no way he could ever sympathize with Emily.

Shortly after Jared and the others left, a man emerged from a room behind Brutus. That man was in his forties and dressed in combat gear.

Brutus quickly got to his feet when he saw that man. “Francois, why are you here?”

A Man Like None Other

Chapter 2530 Grus Divina

“Master has sent me to inform you that a stalk of Grus Divina has sprouted on the mountains nearby.

Prepare extra hands. Tomorrow you shall accompany me to the mountains to harvest it,” said the man dressed in a robe.

“There's Grus Divina nearby?” Brutus exclaimed. “That's a mystical herb. How can it grow on these mountains? Are you certain there's no mistake?”

“What did you say?” The man in a robe widened his eyes.

“I simply spoke in haste. I do not doubt Master in the slightest, but gathering extra help on such short notice is a challenge.”

Brutus found himself trapped between a rock and a hard place.

“That is your problem,” the man retorted.

“I'm only in charge of notifying you. You should know the consequences of wasting time and not following Master's instructions, right?”

He turned on his heel and strode away, leaving Brutus frowning and fretting about manpower.

But soon, Brutus thought of a solution and ordered his apprentice, “Go fetch the four people who just left here!”

He wanted to get Jared and his companions. Now that they were in need of his assistance, he could enlist their help to pick the Grus Divina, and he would help Emily cure her grandmother's eyes.

“Emily, don't worry,” Ali comforted the downtrodden girl. “Once we've hunted a few more demon beasts and sold them, we will have the money to treat your grandmother's eyes.”

“Emily, don't worry,” Ali comforted the downtrodden girl. “Once we've hunted a few more demon beasts and sold them, we will have the money to treat your grandmother's eyes.”

Emily remained silent, unable to shake off the guilt of keeping the money for herself, knowing others needed the money to sustain themselves too.

“Emily, I might be able to cure your grandma's eyes even without the money,” Jared assured her, his voice gentle yet firm. “If we can find some high-grade spiritual plants, I might be able to restore her sight.”

If Jared regained his power and had spiritual plants, he might be able to cure Emily's grandmother's eyes.

“Really, Jared?” Emily lifted her head, her eyes brimming with hope.

“Of course.” Jared smiled.

A smile bloomed on Emily's face. As long as there was hope, she would never give up.

At that moment, a young child, no older than a teen, rushed toward them. “Please wait! My master has asked you guys to return.”

“Who is your master?” Jared asked, puzzled.

“My master is Brutus Weiss!”

Hearing this, Ali asked curiously, “Why does your master want us to return?”

The child shook his head. “I don't know. He didn't mention it.”

The child shook his head. “I don't know. He didn't mention it.”

“Ali, Jared, let's go back and take a look,” Emily suggested, her heart fluttering with anticipation. “Perhaps Dr. Weiss has changed his mind about fifty spirit coins!”

“All right, let's go back,” Jared agreed, and the group retraced their steps. Gone was Brutus' haughty demeanor. This time, he was obviously more amiable.

“Dr. Weiss, have you decided to treat my grandma's eyes for fifty spirit coins?” Emily asked, her voice tremulous with hope.

Brutus shook his head. "Fifty spirit coins won't suffice, but I'll treat her eyes for free if you agree to my one condition."

"What is it?" Emily asked.

"You guys have to accompany me to the mountains tomorrow to harvest an herb. Once we've successfully get the herb, I can cure your grandma's eyes for free."

"Is that all?" Emily couldn't believe how simple the condition was. She turned to look at Ali.

After all, she couldn't decide for them. If Ali refused to go, she couldn't force him to tag along.
