A Man Like None Other Chapter 2656-Spotting Ghaylen, Jared loosened his grip on Viola and said, “Mr. Samoll, please explain to her quickly. I’m in a tough spot here. Your Ms. Viola is convinced that I did something inappropriate to her and wants to get back at me!”

Realization dawned upon Ghaylen. He promptly clarified, “Ms. Viola, I actually invited Mr. Chance to treat your condition. You were poisoned and remained unconscious for years. Despite my efforts, I couldn’t bring you back. It’s all thanks to Mr. Chance that you’ve regained consciousness.”

“Mr. Chance?” Viola was taken aback. “Isn’t he your disciple?”

“Ms. Viola, allow me to clarify. Mr. Chance became my disciple and joined Emerald Cauldron Sect in order to access the medicinal pool...” Ghaylen began to narrate to Viola, providing a comprehensive account of the transformations that had transpired in Emerald Cauldron Sect over the recent years.

The more Viola found out, the more furious she got. The revelation that Hosen had leveraged Emerald Cauldron Sect’s medical expertise to amass considerable wealth and accumulate a plethora of cultivation resources left her seething.

Her father had founded Emerald Cauldron Sect with the core principle of healing and aiding the ill, prioritizing compassion over monetary gains.

The fact that Hosen had deviated so starkly from this noble objective, transforming the sect into a profit-driven entity, incensed Viola even further.

Tears welled up in her gaze when she recalled her father, who had been poisoned to his death.

“I must teach Hosen a lesson and get Emerald Cauldron Sect back!” she exclaimed between gritted teeth.

“Now that you’ve regained consciousness, Ms. Viola, you have the power to bring Hosen’s misdeeds to light. However, it’s essential to tread cautiously. Hosen wields considerable influence within Emerald Cauldron Sect, and a significant portion of our members are his disciples. Moreover, Mr. Ebenezer supports him as well. If you were to expose him abruptly, your safety might be compromised before you can take effective action against Hosen. At present, he remains oblivious to your recovery, offering us the opportunity to await a more favorable timing,” Ghaylen wisely suggested.

“Timing? When will that be? A few years have passed since my father’s death. If we wait any longer, Hosen’s influence in Emerald Cauldron Sect will merely increase with time,” Viola retorted, her brows furrowed in anger.

“Considering your current level of strength, facing off against Hosen would likely result in defeat. He possesses the means to overpower you effortlessly, putting your life at grave risk. Reclaiming Emerald Cauldron Sect under such circumstances would prove challenging. Your temper seems fiery, despite your apparent frailness and vulnerability,” Jared pointed out.

His criticism merely served to increase Viola’s fury. She roared, “I have yet to settle scores with you. How dare you criticize me?”

“Why would you need to settle scores with me? Didn’t we explain everything to you earlier?” Jared was puzzled.

“You didn’t take advantage of me, but you were the one who undressed me! As a result, you saw me naked. Don’t you think I should hold you accountable for that? Was there no other method to treat me that didn’t involve undressing me? You probably did that on purpose as you wanted to see me naked, didn’t you? You dared not exploit the situation only because Mr. Samoll is always outside. Otherwise, why sneak into the cave alone secretly? You could’ve been trying to force yourself on me! If I hadn’t regained consciousness, you might’ve succeeded already!”

Hearing Viola’s accusation, Jared was speechless.

He came here secretly to check on her, not to take advantage of her!

Alas, even if he tried to defend himself, she wouldn’t believe him.

“Fine. I came here to force myself on you. I treated you, so can’t I do that? It’s my reward. After all, you’re gorgeous and curvaceous. It’s a waste if I don’t take the opportunity to enjoy myself.”

Knowing she wouldn’t believe that he was innocent, Jared decided to anger Viola.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 2657-Upon hearing that, Viola flew into a rage as expected. She was about to attack Jared but was quickly stopped by Ghaylen.

“Ms. Viola, Mr. Chance is definitely not that kind of person. He was just teasing you. I believe he didn’t come here to lay his hands on you. I can tell Mr. Chance has been with countless women. Ms. Viola, although you have a good figure and outstanding countenance, I reckon Mr. Chance isn’t interested in you,” Ghaylen hurriedly elaborated.

“You’re indeed astute, Mr. Samoll. I can’t believe you can even figure that out.” Jared couldn’t help but be amazed. How did Mr. Samoll realize I’ve been with countless women?

“Mr. Chance, the first time I brought you here to help treat Ms. Viola, I noticed the indifferent look in your eyes when you gazed at her. You didn’t harbor the slightest hint of perverted thoughts toward her. Therefore, I believe you when you say you haven’t touched Ms. Viola,” Ghaylen explained.

Hearing Ghaylen’s words, Viola couldn’t help but feel a sense of competition surge within her.

“Jared, let me ask you. Did you avoid touching me because I’m not as pretty as the women you’ve been with?” She was very curious why he wouldn’t make a move on her.

“Your figure and looks are considered slightly below average among my many women.” Jared deliberately sized up Viola as he spoke.

Viola was instantly enraged after listening to Jared’s remark. “How many women do you have? I’m only considered slightly below average? I may not be the most beautiful woman in the country, but I have absolute confidence in my figure and appearance! Where are those women of yours? I’d like to see how much better they are compared to me!”

All women were highly competitive when it came to their figures and appearances, and Viola was not an exception.

“I don’t even know how many women I’m with at this point. I can’t bring them to you now, but I have a portrait here. You can take a look, and you’ll know how significantly inferior you are to my women.”

Jared gently waved his hand while uttering those words. The air in front of him quivered, and a portrait appeared the next second.

The woman featured in the painting was Cecilia. She wore a white outfit, and her long hair cascaded down her shoulders. Her facial features were as delicate as an angel.

Cecilia’s aura was exceptionally remarkable, not something any woman possessed.

Looking at Cecilia’s portrait, Viola was stunned. She never imagined a woman as exquisite and elegant as Cecilia existed in the world.

“Mr. Chance, is this really your woman? She’s as gorgeous as an angel who descended from the heavens.” Even at his advanced age, Ghaylen was mesmerized at the sight of Cecilia’s portrait.

“Of course! She’s just one of my many women. All my other women are also incredibly stunning. Do you understand why I’m uninterested in other women now?”

Jared sounded as if he was bragging, but when he spoke, his eyes were riveted on Viola.

He was deliberately saying that to her, intentionally provoking her.

Subsequently, Viola fell silent. If the woman in the painting is truly in a relationship with Jared, it’s only logical that he’s indifferent about me.

“Ms. Viola, you can stay here for the time being. The medicinal pool will open in a few days. By then, I’ll find a way to get you in there. We’ll use the medicinal pool’s power to help you break through to Body Fusion Realm, then we can figure out a strategy to overthrow Hosen,” Ghaylen said to Viola.

She nodded in response. That was their only option at that moment. If she rashly went out now, she would only cause herself to die in vain.

Following Jared and Ghaylen's departure, the peace and tranquility of the cave's interior were restored.

Recalling Jared's words just now, Viola suddenly blushed, and her face instantly turned crimson.

She sat on the bed and slowly extended her hand downward, wanting to check for herself whether Jared had told the truth.

When she felt an obstacle with her fingertips, Viola immediately let out a sigh of relief.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 2658-Two days later, Hosen returned to Emerald Cauldron Sect.

When he saw the base in a complete mess, he almost exploded with rage.

"What happened? What exactly happened here? Can someone explain it to me?" he questioned loudly while standing at the entrance of Emerald Cauldron Sect's inner court.

All the disciples lowered their heads, none daring to speak. Even Sigurd appeared anxious.

Now that Hosen had come back, Sigurd didn't know how he should explain Jared's matters to his master.

"Sigurd, tell me. What the h*ll happened here?" Hosen inquired Sigurd.

"Master, this is the result of a fight that broke out between Mr. Samoll and Mr. Erdell's disciples," Sigurd told the truth.

"What?" After hearing that, Hosen grew more furious. "This is outrageous! According to Emerald Cauldron Sect's rules, our disciples are not allowed to fight each other, let alone within the inner court. Now, not only did they exchange blows, but they have also destroyed so many buildings. It seems that I must teach them a lesson. Bring Ghaylen and Ebenezer here. I demand an explanation from both of them. Otherwise, neither of them will get away with it!"

Hosen was beside himself with rage. After all, he was Emerald Cauldron Sect's leader at that moment. Breaking the sect's rules was no different from disrespecting him, which was something he wouldn't allow to happen.

No matter who it was, as long as they dared to threaten his authority, Hosen wouldn't show them any mercy. It was precisely his ruthlessness and iron-fisted approach that made Hosen highly revered in Emerald Cauldron Sect.

Sigurd nodded, then hastily ran toward Ghaylen's dwelling. He wanted to inform Jared that Hosen had returned so that Jared could brace himself.

After all, Jared had a conflict with Hosen. If Hosen insisted on dealing with Jared, the situation would turn ugly.

"Why are you here, Sigurd?" Zebediah asked at once when he saw Sigurd.

Sigurd had been very kind to Ghaylen's disciples during that period, so Zebediah and the others no longer regarded Sigurd with enmity.

"Is Mr. Chance here? I have something urgent to talk to him about!" Sigurd replied.

"Yes, he's here. Mr. Chance is discussing medical skills with Master inside the room," Zebediah responded.

Not wasting time to speak further, Sigurd rushed into the room.

"Mr. Chance, bad news. My master is back!" Sigurd uttered nervously after meeting with Jared.

Ghaylen was unaware of the discord between Jared and Hosen, so he asked in bafflement, "Sigurd, what's the big deal about Hosen coming back? Why are you in such a panic? Besides, what does your master's return have to do with Mr. Chance?"

"Mr. Samoll, I have some friction with Hosen, so Sigurd is worried his master may take action against me," Jared briefly recounted his conflict with Hosen to Ghaylen.

Upon hearing that, Ghaylen immediately laughed. "This is nothing. You're nominally my disciple now and a member of Emerald Cauldron Sect. Hosen won't do anything to harm you because of this slight disagreement. If he dares to try anything, I'll object. I believe he'll still grant me this favor."

Jared was a little relieved after hearing Ghaylen's reassurance. He didn't want to have a falling out with Hosen at that critical juncture either, as that would affect the opening of the medicinal pool.

Besides, they would have to deal with Hosen sooner or later since Viola had regained consciousness and would eventually expose Hosen's crimes.

Sigurd turned to Ghaylen and said, "Mr. Samoll, my master instructed me to invite you over."

"All right. I'll be right over." Ghaylen bobbed his head.

"Please practice extra caution, Mr. Chance," Sigurd reminded Jared before turning around and leaving.

"Mr. Samoll, I'll tag along with you. This meeting with Hosen is inevitable, and I'll have to face it in time." Jared decided to go with Ghaylen to see Hosen.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 2659-At the main hall of Emerald Cauldron Sect's inner court, Ebenezer stood, his face displaying a mixture of aggrieved emotions, as he faced Hosen's furious roars.

"Hosen, you must bring justice to me. While you were away, many unfortunate events occurred in the Emerald Cauldron Sect! The state of the sect has deteriorated due to the actions of the new disciple Ghaylen brought in. Even my most senior disciple, Bilius, has lost his life. If you hadn't returned, Ghaylen would have taken over the sect completely," Ebenezer pleaded with a sense of urgency.

He was swift to tattle on Ghaylen.

"What?" Hosen's eyes widened in shock. "How dare he be so audacious as to destroy houses in the inner court and kill Bilius? This is outrageous! Furthermore, Bilius should have advanced to become a Top Level Manifestor by now. How could Ghaylen's disciple possibly defeat him, given how weak Ghaylen is?"

Hosen remained in disbelief. After all, Bilius was one of the most accomplished disciples, and even Sigurd would find it challenging to end Bilius' life.

"Hosen, the new disciple is strange, to say the least. Despite being only a Manifestor, the power he has displayed seems to be on par with yours! Moreover, he possesses numerous divine weapons. He appears to be a son of some wealthy family, but I can't fathom why he would join our sect and become Ghaylen's disciple," Ebenezer added with a touch of exaggeration.

Ebenezer was well aware of Hosen's fondness for magical items, and he deliberately brought up the topic of the divine weapons in Jared's possession. He hoped to manipulate Hosen by playing on his greed for these items.

"Do you not know his identity? What's his name?"

Hosen's curiosity about Ghaylen's new disciple was piqued.

"He goes by the name Jared Chance. Sigurd seems to be familiar with him, so I believe Sigurd might have more information about his true identity," Ebenezer revealed.

"Jared Chance?" Hosen exclaimed, leaping to his feet with surprise written all over his face. He then turned to Sigurd and asked, "Sigurd, tell me, is Jared..."

"Yes, he's the one you sent me and Francois to capture," Sigurd responded in a whisper.

At that moment, Sigurd's heart was racing, his entire body gripped by nervousness.

When he heard Sigurd's response, a murderous intent flashed in Hosen's eyes as he questioned him, "Explain this to me. What's going on?"

"Master, I'm deeply sorry!" Sigurd suddenly knelt on the ground and confessed, "I brought Jared to the sect because he said he had something to offer to you and that he wants to be your disciple! But you weren't around when we returned, so Mr. Samoll got to him first."

In a desperate attempt to navigate the situation, Sigurd resorted to half-truths and half-lies, hoping that Hosen would believe his words.

“Offer me something? What is it?” Hosen pressed on.

“The Divine Cauldron, I believe. It’s said to be a powerful cauldron for alchemy. If my memory serves me right, he used it at Mr. Samoll’s place before,” Sigurd replied.

“The Divine Cauldron?” Ebenezer’s eyes widened in astonishment when he heard the name of the item.

Unlike Ebenezer, Hosen wasn’t surprised at all, as he had dispatched Sigurd and Francois to pursue Jared and retrieve the Divine Cauldron.

“In that case, the colorful Spirit Cloud that appeared above Ghaylen’s place had to have come from the Divine Cauldron. Here I was, thinking that Ghaylen’s alchemy skills were finally improving!” Ebenezer exclaimed, remembering the striking Spirit Cloud that had emerged not long after Jared’s arrival at the sect.

“It looks like Ghaylen took Jared as his disciple for the Divine Cauldron.” Hosen then narrowed his eyes. “Why hasn’t Ghaylen shown up yet?”

“I’ve already informed him about this. He said he’ll be here soon,” Sigurd answered.

Hosen nodded, resolving to wait for Ghaylen to arrive. He was determined to find a way to obtain that powerful cauldron. If Jared were to offer the Divine Cauldron to him, Hosen was willing to forgive Jared for his past actions.
