

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

Read A Man Like None Other Chapter 3349

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3349-After all, there is always a bigger fish. Jared had only become a Tribulator cultivator, so he wasn't exactly undefeatable in the Ethereal Realm.

"The opening of the Celestial Battlefield on Demonica Mountain wouldn't be the same as any other location, without any rules to speak of, Mr. Chance. The six major factions on Demonica Mountain have already achieved an agreement with the various clans and cultivators in the same area. No random individual will be given entry to the Celestial Battlefield on Demonica Mountain. Only those who possess a token will be able to get there. This method will ward off some wandering cultivators and cultivators from other regions. Unless they are willing to offer some resources, they can't get it. An entrance fee, so to speak. This way, the cultivators and clans in the southern region will gain a natural advantage and even obtain extra resources. Blood Spirit Valley, as one of the major factions on Demonica Mountain, naturally has a limited amount of tokens we can distribute to people we deem worthy. I can assure you that you will be able to enter the Celestial Battlefield first," said Igor.

His words stunned Hamish, Jared, and the others.

"Why would the cultivators in the southern region agree to cooperate with you Demonic Cultivators?" asked Misho, puzzled.

"Why not? If we work together, everyone benefits from this arrangement. If we don't, then it's a lose-lose situation for everyone. No one will say no to extra resources, so they complied. Don't forget that many people tend to value benefits over most things. If the Celestial Battlefield is located in your territory, and some Demonic Cultivators propose to work with you to make the best out of it, will you turn them down?" Igor sneered.

Misho grew silent because he agreed with Igor's words. After all, the Demon Seal Alliance, an organization with the goal of eliminating the Demonic Cultivators, ultimately worked with them. If that could happen, then why couldn't any group cooperate with the Demonic Cultivators under the right circumstances?

“This is better. With order, massacres can be avoided. If there is no order, then Demonia Mountain will surely become a hellish place littered with death,” remarked Jared.

The entire Ethereal Realm now lacked order. While the realm’s five major territories were governed by someone, the rulers tended to care more about their cultivation than anything. If they didn’t care about their territory, then certainly no one else would.

“Let’s go. Follow me. No one will stop us when we enter the Celestial Battlefield together,” said Igor.

The crowd exchanged glances before settling their gazes on Misho and Hamish.

After all, they were all human cultivators, so they felt a little uncomfortable following the Demonic Cultivators.

However, if they refused to comply, then they wouldn’t be able to enter the Celestial Battlefield because they were outsiders, thereby rendering their journey futile.

Misho and Hamish glanced at each other, not daring to speak up. Upon seeing that, Jared realized those people also wanted to enter the Celestial Battlefield but didn’t want to bear the responsibility of saying it.

After all, there was still a barrier between Demonic Cultivators and human cultivators.

“I’ll follow Mr. Lothian in. If anyone tries to use this as an excuse to cause trouble after we return, ask them to meet me.” Jared took the initiative to bear the responsibility. When the crowd saw this, they agreed and were willing to follow along.

“Very well. Since all of you are willing to join me, we’ll set off right away. We’ll first gather at Creston Sect and wait there for the opening of the Celestial Battlefield. Once we arrive, there will be no more difference between humans and demons. No one is allowed to start any private fights. Several prestigious families in the Demonia Mountain region will also be present, so the other human cultivators will restrain themselves. Even if you encounter your nemesis, please do not act violently. Remember, even if you still have a prejudice against Demonic Cultivators, you must behave yourselves. Remind yourselves that you're here for treasures, not petty fights," reminded Igor.

The crowd nodded. Since they had chosen to follow Igor, they naturally had to obey his commands.

Before long, they set off for Creston Sect, with Igor leading the way.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3350-At that moment, Zayan was still slowly recovering his spiritual sense under a tree on Demonica Mountain. Xavion was getting bored, fiddling with a golden knife in his hand.

At that moment, two branch leaders returned but didn't bring anyone else from the Demon Seal Alliance. Zayan frowned. "What's with the two of you? Do you not have any subordinates?" "Mr. Cabeza, we received a message from Mr. Lefterov. Take a look." One of the branch masters handed a communication device to Zayan. Zayan accepted it.

He read it with his spiritual sense and furrowed his brows.

"What did my father said, Mr. Cabeza?" asked Xavion.

"It seems we aren't allowed to deal with Jared on Demonica Mountain. Right now, everyone in that region is forbidden from attacking anyone. The main demon factions on Demonica Mountain have reached an agreement with the nearby sects to enforce that rule. To think all these people want a piece of the pie waiting in the Celestial Battlefield so badly that they're willing to cooperate with the Demonic Cultivators. How shameless!" spat Zayan disdainfully.

Upon ending his sentence, he instantly felt embarrassed. After all, the Demon Seal Alliance was also working with the Demonic Cultivators behind the scenes.

The only difference was that those on Demonica Mountain were doing so openly.

In response, Xavion persuaded, "In that case, we can visit the Celestial Battlefield too, Mr. Cabeza. You don't need to worry about my safety there." "Mr. Xavion, they only mentioned that no one is allowed to fight on Demonica Mountain. Once inside the Celestial Battlefield, no one can control anyone.

People will definitely battle each other for the various magical items there. While I can bring you there to take a look, you aren't allowed to enter the Celestial Battlefield. If anything happens to you, I won't be able to explain myself to your father," said Zayan. While those people can prevent conflicts from erupting on Demonica Mountain, no one will give a d*mn about the rules once they're inside the Celestial Battlefield.

"Let's go, then! Since we can't do anything on Demonica Mountain, we'll just wait until Jared leaves the place and deal with him then," said Xavion impatiently.

Resignedly, Zayan led Xavion toward Creston Sect. Creston Sect could be considered the largest sect on Demonica Mountain. It had been residing in a large crack deep within Demonica Mountain.

As people rarely passed by that area, and it was swarming with demon beasts, human cultivators rarely visited the place. Creston Sect had the space to develop.

If not for the Celestial Battlefield, barely anyone would visit Demonica Mountain.

Igor eventually brought Jared's group to Creston Sect's territory. Above the sect was a gigantic dimensional crack.

The crack appeared to be tearing the sky apart, surrounded by a cloud of white mist. Anyone could see the continually spinning vortexes above them. Those were all temporal disturbances.

"It seems it'll only be mere days before the Celestial Battlefield fully opens," said Igor as he glanced at the crack.

"So that's what the entrance to the Celestial Battlefield looks like. It's completely different from how I imagined it to be!" "What a superb sight! Also, to think that Creston Sect is such a huge demonic sect despite the current situation in the Ethereal Realm." "If the Celestial Battlefield opens at such an obscure location, how did news of it spread out? Were Creston Sect themselves the ones who leaked the news?" "Why didn't Creston Sect keep this matter a secret and take the magical items for themselves when the entrance opens?" "Is this a conspiracy?" The crowd had numerous thoughts on the matter because they were still wary about the Demonic Cultivators.

Read A Man Like None Other Chapter 3350

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3350-At that moment, Zayan was still slowly recovering his spiritual sense under a tree on Demonica Mountain. Xavion was getting bored, fiddling with a golden knife in his hand.

At that moment, two branch leaders returned but didn't bring anyone else from the Demon Seal Alliance. Zayan frowned. "What's with the two of you? Do you not have any subordinates?" "Mr. Cabeza, we received a message from Mr. Lefterov. Take a look." One of the branch masters handed a communication device to Zayan. Zayan accepted it.

He read it with his spiritual sense and furrowed his brows.

"What did my father said, Mr. Cabeza?" asked Xavion.

"It seems we aren't allowed to deal with Jared on Demonica Mountain. Right now, everyone in that region is forbidden from attacking anyone. The main demon factions on Demonica Mountain have reached an agreement with the nearby sects to enforce that rule. To think all these people want a piece of the pie waiting in the Celestial Battlefield so badly that they're willing to cooperate with the Demonic Cultivators. How shameless!" spat Zayan disdainfully.

Upon ending his sentence, he instantly felt embarrassed. After all, the Demon Seal Alliance was also working with the Demonic Cultivators behind the scenes.

The only difference was that those on Demonica Mountain were doing so openly.

In response, Xavion persuaded, "In that case, we can visit the Celestial Battlefield too, Mr. Cabeza. You don't need to worry about my safety there." "Mr. Xavion, they only mentioned that no one is allowed to fight on Demonica Mountain. Once inside the Celestial Battlefield, no one can control anyone.

People will definitely battle each other for the various magical items there. While I can bring you there to take a look, you aren't allowed to enter the Celestial Battlefield. If anything happens to you, I won't be able to explain myself to your father," said Zayan. While those people can prevent conflicts from erupting on Demonica Mountain, no one will give a d*mn about the rules once they're inside the Celestial Battlefield.

“Let’s go, then! Since we can’t do anything on Demonica Mountain, we’ll just wait until Jared leaves the place and deal with him then,” said Xavion impatiently.

Resignedly, Zayan led Xavion toward Creston Sect Creston Sect could be considered the largest sect on Demonica Mountain. It had been residing in a large crack deep within Demonica Mountain.

As people rarely passed by that area, and it was swarming with demon beasts, human cultivators rarely visited the place. Creston Sect had the space to develop.

If not for the Celestial Battlefield, barely anyone would visit Demonica Mountain.

Igor eventually brought Jared’s group to Creston Sect’s territory. Above the sect was a gigantic dimensional crack.

The crack appeared to be tearing the sky apart, surrounded by a cloud of white mist. Anyone could see the continually spinning vortexes above them. Those were all temporal disturbances.

“It seems it’ll only be mere days before the Celestial Battlefield fully opens,” said Igor as he glanced at the crack.

“So that’s what the entrance to the Celestial Battlefield looks like. It’s completely different from how I imagined it to be!” “What a superb sight! Also, to think that Creston Sect is such a huge demonic sect despite the current situation in the Ethereal Realm.” “If the Celestial Battlefield opens at such an obscure location, how did news of it spread out? Were Creston Sect themselves the ones who leaked the news?” “Why didn’t Creston Sect keep this matter a secret and take the magical items for themselves when the entrance opens?” “Is this a conspiracy?” The crowd had numerous thoughts on the matter because they were still wary about the Demonic Cultivators.