

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3761-“Bianca, look, who’s that?” At that moment, one of the holy maidens exclaimed upon spotting Jared, who was deep in thought on the rooftop.

Upon seeing Jared, Bianca had an idea. She started whispering to the other holy maidens. After hearing her words, all the other holy maidens waved their hands frantically.

“Bianca, stop messing around. If Ms. Nieva finds out, we’ll surely be punished,” another holy maiden said in fear.

“What’s there to fear? We’re setting off tomorrow, not knowing if we’ll survive.

I’m sure Ms. Nieva won’t punish us. We are merely testing him. As long as we don’t hurt him, everything will be fine. Didn’t Ms. Nieva say that even if we joined forces, we were no match for him? I’d like to find out if that’s true!” The disdain was unmistakable in Bianca’s eyes.

“Alright then, just be careful and don’t go too far.” The holy maidens nodded in agreement.

Thus, they quietly approached Jared.

All of them suppressed their presence and held their breath, not wanting Jared to notice them.

In truth, he had already sensed their presence as soon as they returned, However, Jared hadn’t anticipated that these holy maidens would dare to lay a hand on him.

Soon, over a dozen figures darted toward Jared, akin to streaks of lightning.

Jared’s brow furrowed slightly. Just as Bianca and her companions arrived behind him, his figure suddenly vanished.

The holy maidens were taken aback, finding it somewhat unbelievable.

Even though Jared was right before their eyes, he suddenly vanished the moment they attempted to attack him.

“Are you guys not convinced?” At that moment, the sound of Jared’s voice echoed from somewhere nearby.

Just moments ago, Jared had utilized Blazing Stride, appearing instantly somewhere else.

“That’s right. We are not. I don’t believe you can defeat us,” Bianca asserted as she looked in Jared’s direction.

“Even if all of you teamed up, you can’t harm me, let alone defeat me, understand?” Jared gave a faint smile.

“Insolence...” With a casual wave of her hand, the frost energy in the air materialized into a frost sword in Bianca’s palm.

In response, the other holy maidens seized the opportunity to do the same.

With that, a dozen or so frost swords all flew toward Jared.

Jared knew that without showing some real skills, these maidens would not willingly obey him.

As a golden glow flashed above his head, Golem Body instantly enveloped his entire body.

Faced with a dozen frost swords, Jared didn’t even dodge, planning to withstand the impact with Golem Body.

Jared’s Golem Body, coupled with his robust physique, could effortlessly withstand the attacks of the holy maidens.

After all, they were merely Sixth Level Tribulators.

Boom, boom, boom... A dozen frost swords simultaneously struck Jared, resulting in massive explosions.

Shockwaves raged around them, while the void even began to contort.

Upon contact with Jared, the frost swords shattered instantly.

And there stood Jared, unscathed, with a faint smile still lingering on his face.

Staring at the shattered frost swords, the holy maidens were all dumbfounded.

They looked at Jared in disbelief.

Despite their relentless attacks and his not moving, they couldn't inflict even the slightest injury on his body.

This massive gap in strength was somewhat hard for all the holy maidens to accept.

At that moment, Nieva arrived.

The sight of her unsettled all the holy maidens.

Bianca and the other holy maidens finally realized just how formidable Jared was.

“Mr. Chance, we are sorry. We were blind to not recognize how powerful you truly are.” Bianca quickly apologized to Jared and did so sincerely.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3762-Jared gave a faint smile, not blaming the holy maidens. He knew that after this instance, they would no longer doubt him.

“Get some rest, we're setting off tomorrow. All I can do is try my best to protect you. However, the polar region is treacherous, and no one knows what could happen. So, in the end, it's still up to you. The future development of Lunarius Palace also depends on you,” Jared said to the holy maidens.

“Thank you for the advice, Mr. Chance.” With that, Bianca led the holy maidens to rest.

“I noticed you were daydreaming just now. What were you thinking about?” Nieva inquired after the holy maidens were gone.

Upon hearing Nieva's question, Jared's face instantly flushed red. Had I been caught sneaking glances at just now?

“I was... was gazing at the moon, thinking. The cycle of human life is all due to the passage of time. Yet, we find it hard to physically see this flow, given that it takes several decades for a person to transition from birth to death. For us cultivators, the concept of time becomes even more elusive. Living for hundreds of years comes easily, and even after a century, our appearance might not change at all. But as I was staring at the moonlight just now, I could distinctly feel its flow because the position of the moonlight was shifting with every second, and this change in the moonlight is the very movement of time itself.

Even though I understood the logic, grasping time nascence still proved to be quite a challenge,” Jared said with a slight frown.

“You’re merely a Tribulator, yet you aspire to comprehend time nascence. You must be out of your mind. However, the fact that you can articulate these thoughts shows that you have indeed started to gain a basic understanding of it.” Upon hearing Jared’s words, Nieva was somewhat taken aback. Jared was merely a Tribulator, yet he had already begun thinking about the nature of time nascence.

Upon hearing Nieva’s words, Jared asked, “Ms. Nieva, have... have you comprehended time nascence?” If Nieva had grasped time nascence, Jared could definitely learn from her. It would certainly be better than thinking aimlessly about it on his own.

Nieva chuckled, shaking her head hastily. “I’ve only grasped frost nascence and not any other elements, especially when it comes to time nascence.

Understanding it is not like the other nascences. It demands one to experience life and death and have a true appreciation of the cycle of life. Only then can one truly comprehend time nascence.” “Life and death? The cycle of life?” Jared fell into deep thought. Nieva’s words were somewhat profound, and for a moment, he found them hard to comprehend.

“Alright, stop dwelling on these things. Once you’ve gained more experience and elevated your cultivation level, you’ll naturally comprehend it. We’re leaving tomorrow, so make sure you get some rest. Also, be wary of the Mueller family, they might try something against you,” Nieva cautioned Jared.

“Alright, I’ll be careful.” Jared gave a nod.

Nieva turned and left, while Jared was still pondering over her words.

“Kid, you appear experienced, yet are still a fool. If you truly want to comprehend time nascence, you must genuinely understand life and death.

The cycle of life and death is essentially the passage of time. Life and death are the outcome, while time sets the rules!" At this moment, Vermilion Demon Lord spoke out.

"The outcome? The rules?"

It seemed as though Jared had an epiphany.

"Mr. Vermilion, thank you..." Jared suddenly broke into a wide smile.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3763-As his words fell, a soft hum echoed from within Jared. The nascence power circulating around him grew increasingly intense.

Within Jared's nascence space, a once dim star began to gradually shimmer radiantly. It was none other than the star of time nascence.

Boom!

Suddenly, a cloud drifted across the sky. Under the illumination of the moonlight, it radiated a vibrant spectrum of colors.

The largest beam of light descended upon him, enveloping Jared's entire body.

This sudden phenomenon instantly drew the attention of Lunarius Palace's disciples who came out to watch.

Nieva had just returned to her room when she immediately rushed back out.

Almost everyone had leaped into mid-air, their eyes riveted on the dazzling rainbow-colored light, curious to see what it was illuminating.

"It's Mr. Chance. Why is the light shining on him? What is going on?" "Could it be that he has achieved a breakthrough, weathering the lightning tribulation? But the lightning tribulation cloud doesn't look like this!" During the lightning tribulation, heavenly thunder would rage and lightning would flash across the sky.

As for this cloud, aside from the brilliant radiance, there was nothing else.

Moreover, this light was incredibly gentle, casting a warm glow on Jared's body.

It gave off a comforting sensation, reminiscent of being cradled in a mother's loving embrace.

"How is this possible? Could he have truly comprehended it? Did my words lead to his epiphany?" Nieva's eyes were filled with disbelief.

Her grasp of time nascence was merely superficial. Even then, she shared everything she knew with Jared.

Who would have thought that he actually had an epiphany.

However, Nieva was unaware that Jared did not gain his realization from her words.

"Ms. Nieva, what has Mr. Chance comprehended?" Bianca curiously asked.

Nieva's eyes were filled with astonishment as he murmured, "Time nascence..." "Time nascence?" Bianca didn't understand. After all, she hadn't even grasped the concept of frost nascence, let alone time nascence itself.

"You wouldn't understand. It seems Mr. Chance is truly a genius. He is the Chosen One. On this expedition to the polar region, you must stay close to Mr.

Chance at all times. This might be the most beneficial experience of your life, and you may not get another chance like this in the future. All of you need to appreciate this. If fate hadn't brought Mr. Chance to me, you might never have had the chance to witness such a sight in your entire life. Seize this excellent opportunity and start cultivating immediately. This light of the Heavenly Law is an extremely rare event!" After Nieva finished speaking, she was the first to enter into a state of cultivation.

Under the illumination of that radiant light, the speed of her cultivation was tremendously enhanced, while her body felt exceptionally comfortable.

Upon seeing this, Bianca and the others hurriedly began their cultivation.

At this moment, Jared found himself in a state resembling death. He felt as if he had passed away, yet didn't experience the fear of death.

Under that radiant light, he found himself suspended. His consciousness had entered the realm of nascence space.

Rays of light struck the star of time nascence, causing the once dim star to gradually brighten up.

However, this time nascence star had just begun to glow when it already surpassed all the other stars.

Meanwhile, the light continued to shine relentlessly on the time nascence star.

It seemed as though even the moonlight was focused solely on Jared himself.

At the same time, nascence energy flooded into Jared's body, much like an ocean with crashing waves.

Jared was suspended in mid-air, passively receiving and cleansed by this nascence energy.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3764-After an indeterminate amount of time, the radiant rays gradually faded away.

The clouds in the sky dispersed and even the moonlight drastically dimmed.

It seemed as though Jared had drained it, causing it to lose its luster.

With that, Jared gently descended onto the ground, his eyes slowly opening. He remained a Third Level Tribulator. However, the aura emanating from him was absolutely breathtaking.

When Jared's gaze swept over Bianca and the others, the holy maidens couldn't help but kneel on the ground.

It felt as though they weren't standing before Jared, but rather before the master of the universe himself, compelling them to kneel.

Even Nieva was deeply shaken, unsettled by the intensity of Jared's gaze.

Realizing that something was amiss, Jared quickly reined in his otherworldly aura, casting a somewhat embarrassed glance toward Bianca and the others.

"Get up, all of you. We don't have a hierarchy here. There's no need to kneel," Jared quickly said.

Bianca and the others were also overcome with embarrassment. It felt as if they had been controlled by someone else when their bodies involuntarily kneeled down.

“Everyone, go back and reflect on what I just said to you all.” With a wave of her hand, Nieva dismissed all the disciples of Lunarius Palace.

After the disciples had left, Nieva cast a glance at Jared, her eyes revealing a hint of envy.

“Mr. Chance, congratulations on comprehending time nascence. You should know that it is the most difficult nascence to comprehend,” Nieva said.

“It’s all thanks to your guidance, Ms. Nieva. Otherwise, I wouldn’t have been able to comprehend it,” said Jared hurriedly.

Though his understanding of time nascence wasn’t largely attributed to Nieva, Jared was still grateful that she had shared her wisdom generously.

Nieva chuckled, then shook her head. “What I’ve shared with you is insignificant. Your understanding of it was due to your own intellect. It would be wonderful if I wasn’t the master of Lunarius Palace. I could then cultivate alongside you right now. Perhaps I might gain a deeper understanding of time nascence through you!” Upon hearing this, Jared was instantly overwhelmed. He hadn’t anticipated that Nieva would harbor such thoughts. Back at the Seizon residence, Ozrell had taken an interest in his lineage and forced him to cultivate alongside Miya and Livya.

Later on, he encountered Catina, who was also drawn to his lineage. She relentlessly pressured him into cultivating together daily, treating him like a beast of burden.

And now, even Nieva harbored such thoughts, to Jared’s surprise.

Thus, he was at a loss for words.

Is it possible that relationships between men and women are only transactions, devoid of any emotions? The cultivators of Ethereal Realm value their spiritual cultivation more than anything else, even their emotions!

After Nieva finished speaking, she turned around and left, leaving Jared staring blankly at her silhouette.

Jared then pondered over her words.

Jared found himself trapped in a whirlwind of self-doubt.

The words of Vermilion Demon Lord echoed out, snapping Jared out of his self-doubt.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3765-The following morning, Nieva summoned the dozen or so holy maidens before awaiting Jared's arrival. Jared slowly emerged from his room, his face bearing traces of fatigue.

Seeing that, Nieva asked, "Mr. Chance, didn't you get a good rest?" "It was all right!" Chen said, flashing a nonchalant smile.

Last night, he had spent the entire night pondering over his women, trying to figure out who his true love was.

"You can set off now. There shouldn't be any danger along the way. Yesterday, Yuliya and her fellow outer circle disciples, along with the cultivators who passed the evaluation, have already embarked on their journey. I had them leave markers along the way. All you need to do is follow these markers, and there shouldn't be any risks!" Nieva said to Jared.

Jared nodded, understanding that those outer circle disciples were merely cannon fodder, the vanguard paving the way!

However, this was an inevitable circumstance. The growth of a sect always demanded sacrifices.

After bidding farewell to Nieva, Jared set off with Bianca and the rest.

By then, they were already at the southernmost point of the southern region.

Nonetheless, the direction Jared and his group set off in was, surprisingly, further south!

The boundary of the Ethereal Realm, shrouded in chaos, was now visible. Could it be possible that the polar region was concealed within this chaos?

"Mr. Chance, Lunarius Palace isn't even at the southernmost point. The border of chaos is about five hundred kilometers away," Bianca explained to Jared while following him.

The phrase “so close and yet so far” perfectly described their current situation.

The border seemed close, but in reality, it was still quite a distance away.

Since the path had already been cleared for them, Jared and his group were able to move quickly and with ease.

Meanwhile, on a small hill not far from Lunarius Palace, the members of the Mueller family had all gathered there.

“Ms. Selma, the people from Lunarius Palace have already set off...” Leighton reported to Selma.

“All right, you guys should set off too. Whatever you do, don’t start any fights on the way. We can use the people from Lunarius Palace as our front line. Once you reach the polar region, then you can take action. Get the job done efficiently, and don’t leave any loose ends. Not a single survivor should be left.

Otherwise, we’ll be handing Lunarius Palace something to hold against us,” Selma said coldly.

“Understood, Ms. Selma.” Leighton gave a nod, then with a wave of his hand, he led the Mueller family members away.

At the same time the Mueller family set off for the polar region, several groups of people were also heading toward the polar region from the surrounding fifty kilometers.

After all, with such allure present, many people were hoping for a fortuitous encounter in the polar region.

Among these individuals, one was clad in an unusual black robe, adorned with the embroidered image of a ferocious demon beast.

This was none other than Pablo, who had been injured by Jared previously!

After he was injured and escaped from Demonica Sect, he took some time to recover from his wounds. Upon hearing that the polar region was an immortal’s tomb, he hastily rushed over.

With this, things were likely to heat up in the polar region.

Inside Lunarius Palace, Nieva was seated solemnly in the grand hall.

“Understood!” Nieva waved her hand, signaling for the disciple to leave.

Nieva merely chuckled. “Tell me, between the Mueller family and Lunarius Palace, who do you think is more powerful?” The disciple paused, then shook her head and answered, “I don’t know...”

After Nieva finished speaking, a subtle smile graced her lips before she began to laugh.
