

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3796-After they had traveled a few kilometers, the agonizing screams of Heinrich and Edward could still be heard!

Jared could tell that Lauden was constantly furrowing his brow!

Perhaps Lauden never wanted things to get that far!

The Five Great Sects, in the future, might be reduced to just two!

After examining Keelan, Jared discovered that he was merely affected by a common energy- dispersing poison. Consequently, he rummaged through his storage ring and handed Keelan some elixir pills.

Lauden sighed as he spoke! "Jared, I really can't thank you enough. I honestly wouldn't have known how to break the deadlock if it weren't for you. Upon my return this time, I'm determined to set things straight. The Five Great Sects need a thorough shake-up!" It seemed as though Lauden had aged significantly all at once.

Jared gave a casual smile and said, "Mr. Delacroix, you're too modest. Had you not stood against everyone's opinion back then, I fear I would have died at the hands of the Five Great Sects long ago." Lauden smiled bitterly. He hadn't anticipated that his adamant decision to let Jared go would eventually save his own life. This might just be what they call karma!

Lauden pulled out a fist-sized stone from his chest pocket, a stone that was peculiarly imbued with five different colors.

"Jared, this is the Penta-Color Stone of our Five Great Sects. It's been passed down for many years. However, we've never understood its purpose. When I saw you collecting that polar stone for cultivation today, I couldn't help but think it might be of use to you!" Lauden handed over the Penta-Color Stone to Jared!

Jared took the Penta-Color Stone, surprisingly feeling a warmth seeping into his hand. However, Jared didn't pay much attention to it, assuming it was from Lauden's body heat.

After tucking away the Penta-Color Stone, Jared briefly conversed with Lauden.

Soon after, they parted ways!

Lauden led his disciples back to their sect!

After all, there wasn't an immortal's tomb, so their stay was essentially pointless!

Moreover, the recent death of Heinrich's group still lingered. The disciples under their sect required both control and intimidation!

Jared, accompanied by Bianca and the others, continued their quest for the polar stones. As they sought the stone, Jared made a point of steering clear of other cultivators who had entered the polar region!

Although Jared had found a fair amount of polar stones, he was somewhat frustrated because he hadn't seen a polar stone mine.

Searching like that, bit by bit, would take an eternity to gather enough polar stones required for Lunarius Palace.

As the sky began to darken once again, Jared had no choice but to find a relatively safe place to rest for the night!

While the holy maidens were resting, Jared was dutifully standing guard nearby!

Sitting cross-legged, Jared, out of boredom, took out the Penta-Color Stone!

In the dim light, the Penta-Color Stone was surprisingly emitting a subtle sheen, a blend of five distinct glows!

Waves of warmth continuously flowed from Jared's palm into his body!

At first, Jared thought the warmth of the Penta-Color Stone was due to body heat!

However, holding the Penta-Color Stone in such freezing weather, the stone was still radiating a sense of warmth!

Jared found that rather puzzling. If it was due to body temperature, it couldn't possibly still be warm!

"What a peculiar stone." Jared gazed at the Penta-Color Stone. His palm suddenly tightened with force.

He aimed to crush the stone, eager to discover what was hidden within!

Despite exerting all his strength, Jared was unable to crush the stone. That unexpected failure left Jared momentarily dumbfounded!

After all, his strength was such that he could effortlessly shatter a mountain with a single punch, yet he couldn't crush a stone.

Thus, he was perplexed.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3797-Jared had been fiddling with the Penta-Color Stone for a good hour, yet he still couldn't figure out its significance.

It was important to note that what had been passed down from the Five Great Sects couldn't possibly be just a useless rock.

However, Jared was clueless about the purpose of this stone.

"Mr. Chance, what are you looking at?" Yuliya walked over and took a seat next to Jared.

Jared glanced at Yuliya but remained silent. He still held some reservations toward her because he didn't like her.

Looking at Jared's expression, Yuliya took the initiative to say, "Mr. Chance, I'm truly sorry. Due to my ignorance and willfulness these past few days, I've caused a loss for the holy maiden. Thank you for saving me. I realize now that I had some prejudice against you!" Yuliya sincerely apologized, realizing at that moment the extraordinary nature of Jared.

Had it not been for Jared, not to mention her, even these holy maidens might not have located these polar stones, let alone survived up until then.

"Let's not bring up the past anymore!" Upon hearing Yuliya's sincere apology, Jared chose not to say anything more.

After all, this Yuliya was not inherently bad by nature.

Yuliya looked at the Penta-Color Stone in Jared's hand and asked, "Mr. Chance, I see that you've been examining that stone for quite some time now. Is there something special about it?" "The stone has always been warm. I want to find out what is inside, but I simply can't discover anything!" Jared uttered and handed over the Penta-Color Stone to Yuliya.

Yuliya took the Penta-Color Stone and immediately yelled, "It's so hot..." The Penta-Color Stone was tossed onto the ground by Yuliya.

The ground was blanketed with a thick layer of snow and ice. Yet, when the Penta-Color Stone fell, even the accumulated snow surprisingly caught fire.

Upon witnessing this peculiar sight, Jared widened his eyes in surprise as he quickly picked up the Penta-Color Stone. "It's not hot at all..." Jared was quite perplexed, wondering how Yuliya could claim that the Penta Color Stone was burning hot.

Yuliya cautiously moved her hand closer, but she quickly pulled away the moment she got near.

“I can feel the heat wave from within this stone. It’s scorching...” Yuliya said.

Jared was utterly bewildered this time. What on earth is going on? Back then, when Mr. Delacroix gave it to me, it didn’t seem like he mentioned anything about it being hot. He just handed it directly to me!

Jared gazed at the Penta-Color Stone in his hand and cast his eyes to the scorch marks on the ground. The ground is covered in ice and snow, yet it could still ignite. How bizarre!

“Mr. Chance, have you ever tried to see if this stone would change when exposed to fire?” Yuliya questioned.

Upon hearing this, Jared felt it might be worth a shot. Thus, within his palm, a demonic fire began to blaze. He then held the Penta-Color Stone in his hand.

The demonic fire was directed toward the Penta-Color Stone, rapidly causing the previously radiant glow on the stone to start dimming until it lost all its brilliance.

Following that, the Penta-Color Stone astonishingly transformed into a deep, dark hue.

At that moment, Jared was somewhat taken aback. He had scorched the Penta Color Stone black. What should I do now?

As Jared found himself at a loss, the stone astonishingly began to crack open slowly.

Following that, the Penta-Color Stone shattered, surprisingly revealing an object the size of a crystal core within.

This time, Jared held the crystal core from within the Penta-Color Stone, gradually infusing it with spiritual energy.

The flames inside then started to dance wildly.

“So beautiful!” Yuliya exclaimed with a face full of shock.

“D*mn! Fire Spirit Lord’s demonic fire soul essence?” At that moment, the voice of Vermilion Demon Lord echoed in Jared’s mind

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3798-Jared hurriedly approached. Looking at the state of Keelan, he asked in puzzled curiosity, “Mr. Cervantes, what happened to you? How did you end up like this?” At this moment, Keelan could no longer hold on. As he fell from mid-air, his aura was extremely frail.

As Keelan's soul remnant was on the verge of dissipating, Jared reached into his Storage Ring and pulled out the Soulbinding Bead.

That was a gift from Soul Demon Sect's Trystan, and it was finally coming in handy.

After the Soulbinding Bead was brought out, Keelan's soul remnant clearly began to stabilize. His aura was also slowly recovering. It must be said that the Soulbinding Bead of Soul Demon Sect was truly a remarkable item.

"Mr. Cervantes, calm down. Can you slowly explain what happened?" Jared urged Keelan not to worry, continuously infusing spiritual energy into Keelan's soul remnant.

This would help replenish the aura that Keelan had expended, preventing his soul remnant from dissipating due to exhaustion.

"Mr. Chance, we were ambushed. Mr. Delacroix and the disciples from the Five Great Sects are trapped. In the end, I had to sacrifice my physical body to allow this soul remnant to escape. Hurry and go save Mr. Delacroix and the others. If you're late, they might not survive!" Keelan said with a face full of anxiety.

"Who launched the surprise attack?" Jared was puzzled. In theory, the Five Great Sects are all renowned clans. Who would dare to ambush them?

Moreover, considering Mr. Delacroix is already a Ninth Level Tribulator, who would dare to provoke him?

"It's Lethal Spirit Sect. I didn't expect these Demonic Cultivators to have made it to the polar region as well..." Keelan said.

"Lethal Spirit Sect?" Jared's brow furrowed slightly. He was unfamiliar with this sect.

At that moment, Yuliya voiced her confusion by asking, "Lethal Spirit Sect?"

Didn't that sect get annihilated by the Demon Seal Alliance long ago? It should have been many years. How could they suddenly appear and launch a surprise attack on you?" "Lethal Spirit Sect, which was supposedly eradicated by the Demon Seal Alliance years ago, has actually persisted all this while. Our Five Great Sects have been tracking Lethal Spirit Sect for many years, and we've eliminated quite a number of their disciples. These Demonic Cultivators practice eerie and sinister techniques, cultivating their powers by absorbing lethal intent.

That's why we've always been secretly pursuing these Demonic Cultivators.

Nobody expected that these people from Lethal Spirit Sect would actually venture to the polar region, let alone set up an ambush for us. Previously, these members of Lethal Spirit Sect would only operate in small groups, but this time, nearly a hundred of them showed up. It's too strange..." Keelan explained.

Upon hearing this, Jared instantly understood. Lethal Spirit Sect must have been a puppet under the control of the Demon Seal Alliance. Many Demonic Cultivator sects that were annihilated by the Demon Seal Alliance had no choice but to submit. Those who were willing to comply essentially became the Demon Seal Alliance's lapdogs! And those who were unwilling to submit to the Demonic Cultivator sects were indeed executed without hesitation.

I've finally come to understand why the Five Great Sects were reluctant to cooperate with the Demon Seal Alliance to jointly eliminate the Demonic Cultivators! So, it turns out that the Five Great Sects had already uncovered the schemes of the Demon Seal Alliance! However, this time, Lethal Spirit Sect has mobilized hundreds of people. It seems they aren't just targeting the Five Great Sects. They are coming for me!

Jared knew that dealing with the Five Great Sects, the Demon Seal Alliance wouldn't dare to make such a massive move, even risking the exposure of Lethal Spirit Sect.

Lethal Spirit Sect was eradicated by the Demon Seal Alliance. If they were to appear on a large scale then, it would certainly raise suspicions. People would doubt whether the Demon Seal Alliance truly eliminated Lethal Spirit Sect or not.

Since the Demon Seal Alliance had mobilized all of Lethal Spirit Sect's elites, it was clear they were targeting him.

Lethal Spirit Sect harnessed lethal intent for their cultivation, evidently a Hadad Descent.

At that moment, Bianca, accompanied by numerous holy maidens, also gathered around.

They were curious about what had happened.

They were all waiting for Jared's order.
