

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3846-At that very moment, Leighton and his companions had already caught up.

What followed was a relentless onslaught of flames aimed squarely at Jared.

Utilizing Blazing Stride, Jared swiftly dodged.

“Pay attention, all of you. Don’t damage the statue. That brat’s got it in his possession. If the statue gets ruined, it’s utterly useless,” Selma yelled out.

Upon hearing that, Leighton urgently instructed everyone to stop and pursue Jared to block Jared’s path.

Selma’s figure was also rapidly moving.

Whoosh.

Suddenly, Jared felt an aura swiftly approaching from behind.

Without even sparing a glance, Jared swiftly moved, following it up with a swift palm strike toward his back.

A wall of fierce flames formed behind Jared, momentarily blocking Leighton and the others.

As Jared struck out with his palm, several figures appeared before him all at once. Indeed, it was Leighton who arrived with a few members of the Mueller family.

They didn’t launch an attack on Jared. Instead, they simultaneously made their move, aiming straight for the statue in Jared’s hand.

Upon seeing the situation, Jared dropped down instantly, landing heavily on the ground.

Suddenly, the ground collapsed, forming a deep pit, from which a surge of aura continuously erupted toward the sky.

The surge of aura sent Jared’s body reeling.

“What rich celestial energy...” Jared couldn’t help but look down.

Within the deep pit below him, celestial energy was flowing, presenting a unique shade of purple-brown. That was the first time Jared had ever seen such a color of celestial energy.

The celestial energy was usually as invisible and tasteless as spiritual energy.

However, there, the celestial energy had taken on a color, likely due to its overwhelming concentration.

That celestial energy had condensed into a liquid form, appearing just like a serene pond.

“Could it be that the celestial energy from that mansion was actually emanating from this place? Jared’s eyes were filled with astonishment, “This must be the celestial energy pool of Infinitus Celestial Sect. For a sect as grand as this, its disciples must need an abundance of celestial energy for their cultivation. In this chaos dimension, there is no celestial energy nor resources for cultivation to be found. Therefore, the Infinitus Celestial Sect must have constructed this celestial energy pool before they even arrived here. Moreover, this celestial energy pool is hidden underground, which is why it remains undiscovered by anyone until now. It seems that due to its age, the celestial energy pool has suffered some damage, which led to the leakage of its energy into the mansion.” Vermilion Demon Lord explained to Jared.

Upon hearing that, Jared felt his heart was pounding wildly. A celestial energy pool of Infinitus Celestial Sect! How much celestial energy is actually stored within here? It must be a terrifying amount, seeing that this celestial energy had already liquefied, signifying that the energy had reached a certain level of richness.

Had it not been for Jared’s swift dive to the ground to avoid Leighton and others seizing the statue, the celestial energy pool might have remained undiscovered.

Jared’s body fell once again, plunging directly into the celestial energy pool with a splash.

The arriving Selma and Leighton, among others, found themselves at a loss upon seeing the pool of purplish-brown celestial energy.

“What’s this? Why is there suddenly a pool here?” Selma was unaware that What was flowing in the pool was actually celestial energy. She thought it was just a pool of water.

“Ms. Selma, it doesn’t seem to be an ordinary pond but rather appears to be some kind of spintual energy...

Leighton felt waves of aura surging skyward.

“Yes. The Infinitnus Celestial Sect should be a celestial realm sect inhabited by immortals, Surely, their cultivation would involve the use of celestial energy. Could this place be the sacred land of resources for Infinitnus Celestial Sect, a Holy Pond to contain celestial energy?” Leighton analyzed.

Suddenly, Leighton’s eyes widened as he exclaimed, “Ms. Selma, could this... Could this possibly be celestial energy?” “Celestial energy?” Selma was taken aback.

He didn’t understand celestial energy nor had he ever experienced it, so he could only speculate.

“Send someone down to investigate.” After Selma finished speaking, she turned to one of the Mueller family members and said, “You do it.”

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3845-“Brat, you can’t escape, not after you’ve courted death. Today seems to be a fortunate day for our Mueller family. By eliminating you, we can secure a hundred-year offering from Demon Seal Alliance. Moreover, we’ve also acquired the celestial technique legacy.” At that moment, Selma was overjoyed beyond measure.

Jared, who was in the midst of fleeing, suddenly halted. He then looked at Selma with a face full of mockery.

Selma paused, halting in her tracks, a puzzled look etched across her face as she turned to Jared. “Brat, why are you smiling?”

“I’m smiling because you’re such a fool, believing you could actually acquire the celestial technique legacy. What a load of rubbish.” Jared’s smile grew even more radiant.

Then, right before Selma's eyes, his figure gradually vanished.

Upon seeing the situation, Selma was instantly shocked.

"I've been fooled!" Realizing what was happening, Selma hurriedly rushed back.

At that moment, Leighton was leading his people relentlessly pursuing Jared.

Jared's arrival had utterly ruined everything for him.

If Leighton had received the celestial technique legacy, his status in the Mueller family would have skyrocketed.

Yet, Jared stole that statue from him.

"Leighton, what's going on?" Upon rushing back, Selma saw that Leighton had unexpectedly left the mansion, and a sense of unease welled up within her.

"Ms. Selma, Jared seized the statue, interrupting my progress." After Leighton finished speaking, he spat out blood once again, his eyes filled with rage.

"What?" Selma gritted her teeth, then turned to a few members of the Mueller family and spat, "Are you all just good for nothing? Why didn't you stop Jared?" "Ms. Selma, when we located Jared, we had already attempted to stop him.

However, we've discovered that it was just a shadow clone," several members of the Mueller family hastily offered their explanations.

"Chase after him now! We must retrieve the statue at all costs. That celestial technique legacy belongs to our family!" With a thunderous roar, Selma led her men to start chasing after Jared.

How shameless! To think Selma would claim Infnitnus Celestial Sect's celestial technique legacy as theirs! Jared was holding the statue in his hands, using Blazing Stride to sprint rapidly.

"Mr. Vermilion, can you help me understand why I can't store this statue in my storage ring?" Jared asked with a hint of anxiety.

The statue was slowing him down too much, and if a fight were to break out, he wouldn't be able to defend himself.

“What can’t you store in this storage ring of yours?” Vermilion Demon Lord asked.

“I can’t put living people inside,” replied Jared.

“That’s the problem, then. This statue is likely made from flesh, so inside the statue, there’s a person.” Vermilion Demon Lord spoke.

“If it’s a person, then they would be a corpse and should’ve been able to be stored in the storage ring,” replied Jared.

In the past, the corpse of the blood demon was stored within the storage ring, and Jared even used it as a weapon.

“What if the person inside the statue isn’t dead?” Vermilion Demon Lord smirked.

“What?” Jared exclaimed in surprise.

He hadn’t expected that the statue he was holding actually had a living person inside.

“So what you’re saying is that this person is still alive? Doesn’t that mean they’ve lived for thousands and thousands of years?” Jared cast a glance of disbelief at the statue.

At that moment, Jared was genuinely terrified that the statue would suddenly burst open, revealing a frenzied immortal who would give him a good beating.

After all, Jared’s abilities would be as weak as an ant’s compared to the disciples of Infinitus Celestial Sect, a powerful big sect.

Moreover, the fact that the statue was situated deep within the sect’s mansion suggested that the person inside was definitely a higher-up in the sect.

In fact, the person inside the statue might even be the leader of the sect.

The more Jared thought about it, the more scared he became.

“What are you afraid of? Even though the person inside is alive, they may as well be dead. If the statue bursts open, the soul of the person inside will scatter. I believe the person turned themselves into a flesh statue to preserve the last shred of their spiritual sense. Probably, they hoped to find the inheritor of Infinitus Celestial Sect in the years to follow.

After all, such a massive sect would want to preserve its lineage, unwilling to be completely forgotten by the relentless tide of history,” Vermilion Demon Lord explained.

Upon hearing that, Jared finally breathed a slight sigh of relief.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3847-The Mueller family member exclaimed, “Ms. Selma, I really don’t know anything about celestial energy!”

At that moment, the Mueller family was cursing their luck. Every single time, they seemed to be the ones chosen for risky endeavors.

“You don’t need to. Just go down and check if there’s any danger,” Selma said.

Left with no other choice, the Mueller family member proceeded with extreme caution. With a single leap, he descended toward the celestial energy pool.

The moment he came into contact with the pool, a powerful surge of aura targeted his elixir field.

Bang!

In just a fleeting moment, he shockingly met his end in a violent manner. Upon witnessing this scene, both Selma and Leighton were dumbfounded.

“What... What’s going on here?” Selma asked in bewilderment.

This was something beyond her knowledge.

Leighton was just as bewildered. He had merely speculated that the pool was made up of celestial energy.

Now that the person who went into the pool had exploded and died, Leighton didn’t dare speak recklessly.

“Why is it that nothing happened to Jared when he jumped in?’ Leighton was utterly perplexed.

The others just stood by, unable to provide an explanation.

“Ms. Selma, we can’t just keep keeping watch here,” Leighton said with a frown.

“What should we do? What if we leave and Jared shows up?” Selma said.

“Ms. Selma, I don’t think all of us need to stay here. I’ll keep vigil with some men, while you can go and explore the area. If you encounter the holy maidens from Lunarius Palace, capture them at once. I’ve noticed that Jared seems to be quite concerned about them. When the time comes, we can use these maidens as leverage to force Jared to show himself and hand over the statue!” Leighton proposed.

After a moment of contemplation, Selma nodded and said, “Alright, let’s do that.

You must keep a close eye on him. The moment Jared shows up, you must inform me immediately.” “Got it!” Leighton nodded in agreement.

Selma subsequently left, leaving only Leighton and his men waiting there.

At that very moment, Jared continued to dive deeper into the celestial energy pool.

In the end, Jared found himself sinking straight to the bottom.

Surrounded by an overwhelming amount of liquified celestial energy, every pore on Jared’s body greedily absorbed the celestial energy.

With such a vast amount of liquified celestial energy, Jared couldn’t imagine the extent his celestial energy would be elevated after he was done absorbing them.

Moreover, he was certain that after absorbing all of the liquified celestial energy, even Selma, a Top Level Tribulator, would be no match for him.

By then, Jared wouldn’t have to run anymore. He could just take out the entire Mueller family.

They were, after all, as annoying as insects.

As Jared was focused on fervently absorbing the celestial energy around him, the statue he was holding began to shimmer with light unexpectedly.

Countless streams of liquified celestial energy were actually spiraling around the statue while being sucked into it.

A massive vortex emerged, akin to a whale swallowing down water.

When a significant amount of liquified celestial energy was o m absorbed by the statue, one could see With the naked eye quickly it diminished.

“D*mn... Stop, stop. I found this. Leave it for me, leave it...” Jared was utterly dumbfounded as he watched the scene unfold.

The celestial energy pool he had painstakingly discovered was being voraciously drained by the statue.

However, the statue didn't cease, but continued to absorb the energy relentlessly.

Frustrated, Jared slapped the statue twice, but it was to no avail.

As Jared watched the liquified celestial energy dwindle, he became frantic.

Yet all he could do was fret, as there was no solution in sight.

Meanwhile, Leighton, who was back at the surface, noticed the water in the pool degreasing Yapidly. He hastily informed Selma about the situation.

This unusual occurrence left Leighton feeling somewhat puzzled.

“Kid, don't you know Extremus Frost Flame? See if you can freeze this liquified celestial energy As long as ypu gan freeze some of it, I suspect the statue won't be able to absorb it anymore,” Vermilion Demon Lord advised Jared.

The Mueller family member exclaimed, “Ms. Selma, I really don't know anything about celestial energy!”

At that moment, the Mueller family was cursing their luck. Every single time, they seemed to be the ones chosen for risky endeavors.

“You don’t need to. Just go down and check if there’s any danger,” Selma said.

Left with no other choice, the Mueller family member proceeded with extreme caution. With a single leap, he descended toward the celestial energy pool.

The moment he came into contact with the pool, a powerful surge of aura targeted his elixir field.

Bang!

In just a fleeting moment, he shockingly met his end in a violent manner. Upon witnessing this scene, both Selma and Leighton were dumbfounded.

“What... What’s going on here?” Selma asked in bewilderment.

This was something beyond her knowledge.

Leighton was just as bewildered. He had merely speculated that the pool was made up of celestial energy.

Now that the person who went into the pool had exploded and died, Leighton didn’t dare speak recklessly.

“Why is it that nothing happened to Jared when he jumped in?” Leighton was utterly perplexed.

The others just stood by, unable to provide an explanation.

“Ms. Selma, we can’t just keep keeping watch here,” Leighton said with a frown.

“What should we do? What if we leave and Jared shows up?” Selma said.

“Ms. Selma, I don’t think all of us need to stay here. I’ll keep vigil with some men, while you can go and explore the area. If you encounter the holy maidens from Lunarius Palace, capture them at once. I’ve noticed that Jared seems to be quite concerned about them. When the time comes, we can use these maidens as leverage to force Jared to show himself and hand over the statue!” Leighton proposed.

After a moment of contemplation, Selma nodded and said, “Alright, let’s do that.”

You must keep a close eye on him. The moment Jared shows up, you must inform me immediately.” “Got it!” Leighton nodded in agreement.

Selma subsequently left, leaving only Leighton and his men waiting there.

At that very moment, Jared continued to dive deeper into the celestial energy pool.

In the end, Jared found himself sinking straight to the bottom.

Surrounded by an overwhelming amount of liquified celestial energy, every pore on Jared’s body greedily absorbed the celestial energy.

With such a vast amount of liquified celestial energy, Jared couldn’t imagine the extent his celestial energy would be elevated after he was done absorbing them.

Moreover, he was certain that after absorbing all of the liquified celestial energy, even Selma, a Top Level Tribulator, would be no match for him.

By then, Jared wouldn’t have to run anymore. He could just take out the entire Mueller family.

They were, after all, as annoying as insects.

As Jared was focused on fervently absorbing the celestial energy around him, the statue he was holding began to shimmer with light unexpectedly.

Countless streams of liquified celestial energy were actually spiraling around the statue while being sucked into it.

A massive vortex emerged, akin to a whale swallowing down water.

“D*mn... Stop, stop. I found this. Leave it for me, leave it...” Jared was utterly dumbfounded as he watched the scene unfold.

The celestial energy pool he had painstakingly discovered was being voraciously drained by the statue.

However, the statue didn’t cease, but continued to absorb the energy relentlessly.

Frustrated, Jared slapped the statue twice, but it was to no avail.

As Jared watched the liquified celestial energy dwindle, he became frantic.

Yet all he could do was fret, as there was no solution in sight.

This unusual occurrence left Leighton feeling somewhat puzzled.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3848-Upon hearing this, Jared immediately ignited Extremus Frost Flame at his fingertips.

With the appearance of Extremus Frost Flame, the surrounding liquified celestial energy turned into ice.

Noticing its effectiveness, Jared intensified his efforts. However, the statue continued to fervently absorb the liquified celestial energy.

In the end, the liquified celestial energy was completely absorbed, leaving only a large chunk of celestial energy ice in Jared's hand.

At that moment, Jared was holding the statue in one hand, and a large block of ice in the other.

Just as Jared was about to toss the celestial energy ice block into his Storage Ring, he suddenly halted.

If I were to toss this ice block into the Storage Ring, I fear it might get devoured by that Heaven Devouring Beast again. In that case, I'll end up with nothing at all!

Just as Jared was uncertain whether to store the celestial energy ice block in his Storage Ring, Leighton came charging in with his men.

When Leighton saw Jared's strange demeanor from above, he was baffled.

Nevertheless, he was determined to reclaim that statue.

"You brat, return the statue to me, and I might just spare your life!" Leighton, accompanied by several members of the Mueller family, approached Jared in a hostile manner.

In response, Jared couldn't help but furrow his brows. He gently tossed aside the celestial energy ice cube he held and ignited a white flame in his palm.

“Extremus Frost Flame...” With that, Jared launched a palm strike.

Waves of frost energy mist surged toward Leighton and his companions.

With a cold huff, Leighton, along with a few members of the Mueller family, simultaneously unleashed Blazing Palm.

The roaring flames boldly cut through the chilling white mist. However, it didn't take long before Leighton and the others were astonished by what they saw.

Watching the roaring flames colliding with the icy mist, they were shocked to see the fire itself being instantly frozen.

The dancing flames, one after another, were all encased in ice, unable to emit any heat.

A member of the Mueller who was standing toward the front was touched by the chilly fog, and his entire arm was instantly frozen solid.

In just a split second, the arm actually fell off.

“What a terrifying mist. Retreat at once!” Upon witnessing the situation, Leighton was taken aback and quickly ordered his men to retreat.

Seizing the moment, Jared sprang up and escaped in an instant.

He stared at the statue in his hand, yearning to set it ablaze. The precious liquified celestial energy he had painstakingly found had been completely absorbed by it.

Upon seeing Jared escape once again, Leighton was so infuriated that he roared, “After him. We cannot let him escape!” While doing so, he led his men in pursuit.

Meanwhile, Jared's pace had significantly slowed down. Even with the aid of Blazing Stride, he couldn't escape quickly.

Soon, Leighton and his group closed the distance, their eyes burning red.

Subsequently, they unleashed a series of flames.

These flames intertwined, forming a massive fire net that was hurled toward Jared. When he saw the attack, Jared was also so anxious that he was breaking out in cold sweat.

He had his hands full at the moment; there was simply no way for him to retaliate.

Quickly, Jared was enveloped in a net of fire. Leighton sneered, "Let's see how you escape now..." Leighton and his companions controlled the fire net, continuously tightening it.

At the same time, flames continuously surged around Leighton's body, with the flames on the fire net rapidly expanding.

The intention was to burn Jared alive.

Left with no choice, Jared invigorated the nascence star within him, igniting a circle of white flames around his body.

A surge of frost energy then radiated all around Jared's body.

As soon contact was made, the fire net was instantly frozen solid. Immediately after the fire net shattered, Jared managed to escape once again.

"D*mn, not this trick again..." Leighton immediately cursed.

However, Jared knew that he could only use the Extremus Frost Flame one more time. He had just refilled it and hadn't had the chance to properly train with it. After using it three times in a row, he was already feeling extremely weak.

He simply couldn't comprehend what sort of method Jared had used. The fact that the latter could even freeze a blazing flame was absolutely beyond belief.

After much difficulty in capturing Jared, he had allowed the former to escape once again.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3849-Jared continued his escape, with Leighton and his men hot on his heels, a fact that left Jared on edge.

Fortunately, Selma was absent. Jared knew that he certainly wouldn't have stood a chance if Selma had intervened.

The main problem was that the statue was too cumbersome, and it couldn't be stored in the Storage Ring.

"Had I not been interested in the legacy of the Infinitus Celestial Sect, I would have smashed you to pieces long ago." With a sense of helplessness, Jared gazed at the statue and spoke.

No sooner had Jared finished speaking than the statue seemed to glare at him fiercely.

Jared initially thought his eyes were playing tricks on him. Upon closer inspection, he indeed found that the statue was glaring at him.

"F*ck!" Jared was taken aback.

"Kid, I already told you that this isn't a statue. It's actually a living person. Do you think he'd be pleased at your insult?" Vermilion Demon Lord said to Jared.

Jared was at a loss for words. The celestial energy pool he had painstakingly found was absorbed entirely by the statue.

Why can't I even scold it?

Just as Jared was physically and emotionally exhausted and on the verge of being caught, another intact mansion appeared.

Without a moment's hesitation, Jared immediately rushed into it.

He knew that there had to be an arcane array within this mansion. With the help of Nethersky Eye, he could discern the array runes of the arcane array. Once he entered, Leighton and the others would be blocked outside by the arcane array.

No sooner had Jared burst into the mansion than the mansion's defensive arcane array activated, a beam of light hurtling toward him.

"Such a powerful aura. This arcane array is incredibly strong. I'm afraid we can't break it!" Vermilion Demon Lord said helplessly.

Jared also felt it, the arcane array within this mansion was terrifyingly powerful, incomparably stronger than the ones set up by the ordinary disciples outside.

At that moment, Jared was thrown into a panic.

He was worried about not being able to break the arcane array. If a backlash were to result, he would be walking right into a trap.

In the midst of Jared's panic, a beam of light surprisingly struck the statue.

Quickly, the arcane array gradually closed, and Jared walked in unscathed.

This left Jared astonished, but Vermilion Demon Lord quickly caught on and said, "The arcane array must have sensed the aura of the statue, which is why it shut down, allowing you to enter." Jared considered it and realized it was true. After all, the statue was originally a member of the Infinitus Celestial Sect and was still alive. The arcane array would naturally shut down upon sensing the presence of one of its own.

Just as Jared had stepped into the mansion, Leighton and his men followed suit.

Seeing Jared entering without any trouble, they too, rushed in.

No sooner had they entered than they were hurled away by a burst of golden light from the arcane array.

Leighton was taken aback, puzzled as to why Jared could enter without a problem, yet they were forbidden to set foot inside.

After several attempts, he still hadn't succeeded.

Left with no other choice, Leighton could only stay around the mansion, waiting for Selma's arrival before making any further decisions.

After all, Jared couldn't escape from there.

When Jared entered the mansion, he discovered that it was surprisingly empty, with nothing but a worn-out cushion in sight.

"Could it be that everything in this mansion has been cleared out?" Jared scanned the vacant room around him, his face filled with confusion.

“This must be the training hall, a place for meditation and cultivation.

O!

Naturally, there would be much elsewhere. Don't you see the meditation cushion on the floor?”

Vermilion Demon Lord remarked.

“To use such a grand hall only for meditation and cultivation seems rather excessive. It ever has such a powerful array set up outside.

I really can't understand what the leader of the Infinite Celestial Sect was thinking,” Jared commented in resignation.

“You're young and naive. What do you know?” Suddenly, a voice echoed, carrying a hint of displeasure.

“Holy smokes, who's there?” Jared quickly scanned his surroundings. His place is empty. There shouldn't have been anyone speaking!

After scanning the area and finding no one, Jared hurriedly turned to Vermilion Demon Lord and asked, “Who was speaking just now?”

Vermilion Demon Lord remained silent, yet he was frantically signaling Jared with his eyes, as if he was afraid of something.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3850-When Jared realized something was off with Vermilion Demon Lord, he glanced at his own palm and was instantly taken aback.

Without him realizing it, the statue had transformed into a living person.

That person held a device in his hand. Donned in a splendid golden robe, he appeared quite youthful.

However, it seemed like the person couldn't move and was supported by Jared.

Startled, Jared instinctively threw the person away, causing him to tumble onto the ground.

“You clueless kid, why did you drop me? Hurry up and place me on that cushion,” the man yelled at Jared, his face flushed with anger.

Jared studied the individual before him, his face etched with confusion. “Who are you? And why should I listen to you? Besides, judging by our ages, you’re not much older than me. How dare you call me a kid?” “I am the leader of the Infinitus Celestial Sect and have lived for tens of thousands of years. What’s wrong with addressing you as a kid?” The person glared at Jared in irritation. “After becoming an immortal, one can change their appearance at will. You are utterly ignorant to judge age by appearance!” “F*ck...” Jared was flabbergasted.

The sect leader of Infinitus Celestial Sect has lived for over ten thousand years? In that case, he is allowed to call me a kid.

In a hurry, Jared placed the leader of the Infinitus Celestial Sect on the cushion.

Just as he settled down, the sect leader, Wesley Jagger, seemed to breathe a sigh of relief. His hands began to move slowly. Following that, the liquified celestial energy that Jared had painstakingly frozen was now being absorbed frantically by Wesley.

“What are you doing? This is mine...” Jared was shocked. What he had managed to obtain after much difficulty was now being taken away from him.

Jared wanted to intervene, but he found himself completely immobilized.

He watched, wide-eyed, as the celestial energy ice block was completely absorbed by Wesley.

The sight brought Jared to the verge of tears.

“Hahaha, I have finally recovered!” Wesley stood up, bursting into uncontrollable laughter.

In response, Jared said, “You’ve absorbed my celestial energy ice block, what will you compensate me with?” “What do you mean by yours?” Wesley looked at Jared. “The celestial energy pool has always belonged to the Infinitus Celestial Sect. Since when did it become yours?” Jared was suddenly at a loss for words. Wesley spoke the truth, leaving Jared with no room for rebuttal.

“Hand it over!” Wesley beckoned to Jared as he spoke.

“Hand what over?” Jared was taken aback.

“The painting!” exclaimed Wesley.

“What painting? I don’t have any!” Jared acted as if he knew nothing at all.

The painting was a treasured possession of the Infinitus Celestial Sect, undoubtedly a valuable item. Jared certainly couldn’t bear to part with it.

Wesley gestured, and the painting flew out from Jared’s Storage Ring, landing in Wesley’s hands.

“You ignorant fool. If the demon within this painting is released, not just you, but the entire Ethereal Realm will disappear,” Wesley sneered.

“The Ethereal Realm will vanish?” Jared was taken aback, then turned to Wesley and asked, “In that case, was Ethereal Realm established by the Infinitus Celestial Sect?” Wesley nodded in acknowledgment. “Correct!” Jared was even more astonished. It seems the Infinitus Celestial Sect is incredibly powerful!

Intrigued, Jared asked, “Why did the Infinitus Celestial Sect decide to establish the Ethereal Realm? And how did your sect come to be annihilated?”

“Young one, you talk too much. Even if I explained, you wouldn’t, understand, Considering that you helped me without realizing it, ‘ll reward you with a little something.”

After Wesley finished speaking, he casually tossed a documentation device to Jared.

Jared took the documentation device, noticing that it contained the legacy of the Infinitus Celestial Sect.

On the other side of the device, the words “Infinitus Token” were inscribed. The content is on.

This contains the legacy of the Infinitus Celestial Sect. As you are not a disciple of our sect, this legacy is not complete. Moreover, this is an Infinitus Token. Once you ascend to the celestial realm, you can use this Infinitus Token to get the Infinitnus Celestial Sect to assist you with three tasks,” Wesley said.

“What’s the use of this thing?” Jared asked quizzically.