

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3936-The Heist Upon reaching the edge of the fire source, Adan halted and smirked.

“You all are still too green to compete with us. Thiago has been prepared for this long ago.” Adan smirked smugly.

As Adan gently aimed the bronze mirror toward the fire source, it quickly intensified, burning even more fiercely. Waves of scorching heat relentlessly swept toward Jared’s group.

Jared seemed indifferent, but it was clear that the other cultivators were struggling to resist.

“Just quietly brace yourselves for defeat.” After succeeding, Adan carefully wrapped the bronze mirror again and tucked it into his pocket, slowly retreating back.

The waves of intense heat continued to escalate, yet it seemed as if Adan’s group were entirely unaffected.

“Ah! I’m backing out!” Finally, a cultivator could no longer bear it and began to scream in agony.

Accompanied by a flash of light, the cultivator was transported away.

Upon seeing the situation, Jared quickly unleashed his extremus frost flame, enveloping the entire area his group was in.

The extremus frost flame was also a type of internal flame, so it wouldn’t have been rejected during the evaluation.

The extremus frost flame, however, emitted an intense frost energy.

At that moment, Carla’s group suddenly felt a chill run through their bodies.

Immediately after, the intense wave of heat had completely disappeared.

That sensation was incredibly soothing to the group, leaving everyone utterly baffled.

However, they couldn’t see or feel anything, so they could only make wild guesses.

While Jared was assisting everyone in warding off the heat wave, his spiritual sense gradually ventured into the heart of the flame.

At the heart of the flame, a ball of deep brown fire source pulsed.

At that moment, if Jared were to refine and absorb that fire source, the assessment would surely be terminated. Moreover, the Violet Flame Sect would definitely be aware of it. After all, the sudden disappearance of the fire source was a major event that the Violet Flame Sect could not possibly be ignorant of.

If there had been more of the fire source there, Jared could have absorbed a bit of it. However, there was only a small ball of fire source. If Jared wasn't careful, he could refine it all.

He had come to learn the fire fusion technique. If his attempt to absorb the fire source caused the Violet Flame Sect to doubt his identity, then his loss would outweigh the gain.

However, faced with an unknown fire source, Jared felt it would be too wasteful if he didn't refine it. After a moment of contemplation, it seemed as though Jared had thought of something.

Just a moment ago, Adan had used the bronze mirror to cause the fire source to flare up, and the heat wave became much more intense.

It seemed that within the bronze mirror, there was a fire source from the Violet Flame Sect. Otherwise, the fire source there wouldn't have suddenly become so intense.

As long as Jared could get his hands on that bronze mirror, he could attempt to harness the fire source within it.

However, Adan had already returned to his own area, and Jared was unable to obtain the bronze mirror.

After much consideration, Jared decided to seize the bronze mirror from Adan's grasp.

The entire area was sealed off, and everyone was busy warding off the heat waves. Thus, no one would notice Jared's movements.

As for the impenetrable formation, Jared found it quite easy to decipher.

Jared's hand was seen glowing, gently sweeping over the vast white expanse before him. Swiftly, this sweeping motion shaped the white expanse into a corridor.

If Jared directly entered Adan's territory and forcibly seized the bronze mirror, it would certainly cause fluctuations in the assessment array. Moreover, Adan would definitely be able to detect it.

Jared strolled out leisurely, gradually making his way to the fire source.

Jared was continuously drawing closer to the area where Adan's group was.

Thus, his only option was to devise a plan to lure Adan out. As long as Adan left his area, Jared could m epsnare hift with an illusion array.

Then, Jared would have the chance.

to seize the bronze mirror from Adan's grasp.

Getting Adan to leave his area on his own wasn't going to be a simple task.

After all, he had just effto mess with the assessment fire source. There was no way he could brazenly leave again.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3937-Explosion Followed Jared gazed at the fire source before him when a sudden idea sparked in his mind. With the fire of the Earth's core dancing at his fingertips, he gently waved toward a particular area in front of him.

Swiftly, a wave of heat surged forth, heading straight toward Adan's group.

In just a fleeting moment, screams and curses could be heard from not too far ahead.

"Darn it, what the heck is this? It's way too hot. I'm practically getting roasted." "I'm leaving! It's too hot here!"

Among the disciples of Harlan's faction, many chose to withdraw because they couldn't bear the heat.

Adan was also drenched in sweat, his expression turning into confusion. "What just happened? Did I somehow mess up and draw all that heat wave toward myself?" Adan suspected that he might have made a mistake.

After all, in the entire assessment area, he was the only one who could move around freely and manipulate the fire source.

Adan rose, gripping the bronze mirror as he once again went to the fire source.

Upon seeing Adan arrive, Jared smirked. Without missing a beat, he conjured an illusion.

Unsuspectingly, Adan stepped into the illusion. The scenery before his eyes didn't change, yet he couldn't locate the position of the fire source anymore.

Adan was confused, ceaselessly searching for the fire source. He even took out the bronze mirror, feeling the heat waves emitted by the fire source, hoping to locate its whereabouts through that method.

“Weird. Where did that fire source go?” Adan furrowed his brows, oblivious that he had already fallen into the illusion set up by Jared and was going in circles.

After walking around for a while, Adan still hadn’t found the fire source, which started to make him panic.

“What’s going on? How did I get lost? I can’t find my way back. Could it be that there was a glitch in this assessment?” Adan realized that not only could he not find the fire source, but he couldn’t even find his way back.

At that moment, he didn’t suspect he had fallen into an illusion. Rather, he was questioning if there had been a malfunction in the testing grounds.

Out of options, Adan ceased his actions. Instead, he sat down cross-legged, channeling a stream of spiritual energy into the bronze mirror.

The many array runes on the bronze mirror shimmered, immediately followed by a flicker of brown flame that leapt out.

It seemed he intended to use the fire source within the bronze mirror to locate the fire source of the assessment.

There was a connection between fire sources of the same kind. One could utilize that connection to locate the position of the source fire meant for the test.

Just as the fire source began to dance upon the copper mirror, Jared unleashed a fierce sword energy. In the blink of an eye, he had split the fire source into two.

Adan was taken aback. Before he could even react, an immense force of attraction instantly drained away the fire source.

“This…” Adan was utterly bewildered. He had absolutely no clue what had just transpired.

Jared could clearly see Adan in front of him. However, Adan was utterly oblivious to Jared, manipulated by the latter like a fool.

The moment Jared absorbed the fire source into his body, the brown fire source was instantly surrounded by the three types of fire sources within Jared’s body.

The fire source he had just inhaled was still struggling, running rampant within his body.

Before the new fire source could escape, it was relentlessly suppressed by Jared's three other fire sources. In the end, it was completely subdued and refined by Jared.

The fire nascent star within Jared started to shine even brighter.

"The fire source of the Violet Blaze Sect seems somewhat weako !!!

considering I can refine it so easily."

Jared was at a loss for words.

He had assumed it would take some time to refine the fire source of the Violet Flame Sect.

Seeing that he had successfully refined the fire source, Jared waved his hand and dispelled the illusion.

At that moment, Adan, holding the bronze mirror in his hand, was panicking.

Originally, he intended to use the fire source within the bronze mirror to locate the fire source in the test area.

Suddenly, the fire source within the bronze mirror vanished, and the fire spurge within the examination area reappeared before Adan's eyes.

Just as Adan was utterly perplexed, the fire source within the examination area suddenly exploded into a blaze.

No data found.