A Man Like None Other Chapter 3939

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3939-“How could this be? I personally set up this assessment array myself, didn't I?” The elder, Rohan Cunningham, furrowed his brows.

Jared noticed that Thiago seemed quite intimidated by Rohan. He then quietly asked, “Judd, is Mr. Cunningham affiliated with Mr. Garrido?” Judd shook his head and said, “No, Mr. Cunningham doesn't belong to either faction. In the Violet Flame Sect, only Mr. Cunningham remained neutral. His impartiality is so profound that it intimidates everyone. Mr. Cunningham arranges the entire formation of the Violet Flame Sect. Thus, regardless of who becomes the sect leader, no one dares to offend Mr. Cunningham.”

Upon hearing Judd's words, Jared realized Rohan was actually a senior array master.

After all, in Ethereal Realm, array masters were indeed quite scarce. If a sect had a senior array master, they would be considered a precious asset.

No wonder Thiago was so terrified.

Rohan was seen casually drawing a few array runes, followed by the examination area flickering with a white light.

Quickly, Rohan grimaced. “The intensity of the fire source in the examination area suddenly increased, indicating that someone amplified it. Who on earth did this?” After he finished speaking, his intimidating gaze swept over the faces of everyone present. After all, only those who participated in the assessment could enhance the fire aura. It was something that couldn't be controlled outside.

Upon hearing Rohan's words, Thiago couldn't help but gulp, his expression becoming somewhat unnatural.

Meanwhile, Adan's body was subtly trembling.

He was merely an outer court disciple, and so he couldn't possibly bear the consequences. When Rohan's gaze fell upon Adan, Adan was instantly petrified.

Seeing Adan in that state, even a fool would know who was responsible.

However, Adan was an outer court disciple, clearly not yet fully mastering the fire source of the Violet Flame Sect. There was no way he could have increased the intensity of the fire source in the examination area.

Rohan stared at Adan, his voice icy as he posed his question. "What's your name?" "My name... My name is Adan..." Adan, trembling, stuttered out his words.

"Do you know why the fire source exploded?" Rohan asked.

Adan was taken aback and sneakily stole a glance at Thiago. Meanwhile, Thiago was desperately trying to signal Adan not to spill the truth

Rohan looked at Adan and knew the latter wasn't lying. Adan was still an outer court disciple even at Sixth Level Tribulation precisely because he still couldn't master the fire source.

"Mr. Cunningham, during the entire assessment, not many were able to harness the fire aura. It's unlikely that was the cause behind the increase in the intensity of the fire source during the assessment. However, there was someone who had already harnessed a significant amount of fire aura and even mingling among the inner court disciples during the assessment."

After glancing at Carla, an idea suddenly struck Thiago. He had the desire to frame Carla.

Upon catching Thiago's signaling gaze, Adan subsequently shook his head and said, "I'm not sure. I haven't fully grasped my fire source yet, and its fire aura is extremely faint. It's impossible for me to have increased the intensity of the fire source in the examination area." Adan straightforwardly admitted that he hadn't fully mastered his fire source.

Adan had only recently developed some fire aura, which was why he partook in the assessment.

"Mr. Cunningham, during the entire assessment, not many were able to harness the fire aura. It's unlikely that was the cause behind the increase in the intensity of the fire source during the assessment. However, there was someone who had already harnessed a significant amount of fire aura and even mingling among the inner court disciples during the assessment."

After glancing at Carla, an idea suddenly struck Thiago. He had the desire to frame Carla.

"Who is it?" Rohan frowned.

"Carla, Mr. Moreau's treasured disciple. She's the deacon of the assessment, fully capable of swiftly passing the inner court disciples evaluation Yet, she dawdled, following the pace of those being assessed for internal court discipleship. I bet she's up to something. For all we know, the sudden explosion during this assessment could be her doing.”

Thiago pointed at Carla, accusing her.

That sequence of events left Carla utterly bewildered. Even Judd was shocked.

Jared’s eyes narrowed slightly in surprise. He hadn’t expected Thiago to have such a lack of shame.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3940-“You’re spouting nonsense, accusing me without evidence. I didn’t add anything to the fire source, and I have no idea why it exploded.” Upon realizing she was being falsely accused, Carla was immediately filled with rage and roared in anger.

“Do you think you’re clean just because you said that? What proof do you have?”

Out of all the disciples in the assessment, only you have the power to increase the strength of the fire source. If it wasn’t you, then who could it be?” Thiago questioned Carla for an answer.

“It was her. I saw her sneaking up to the fire source. Also, during this whole thing, she, a participating examination deacon, didn’t seem to be in a hurry at all. It was clear she was up to no good.” Upon seeing the situation, Adan also directed his accusations at Carla.

At that moment, Carla was at a loss for words and flushed with frustration. Yet, she didn’t know how to retort.

She didn’t understand why the fire source suddenly erupted.

In the end, Carla started crying out of sheer injustice, Seeing Carla’s demeanor, Thiago and Adan were brimming with satisfaction.

Jared couldn’t help but shake his head. It’s like that saying. Those who wrong you often know better than you just how unjustly treated you are.

Upon seeing Thiago and Adan both blaming Carla, Judd also voiced out his question. “Carla, did you do this?” After all, among those disciples, only Carla had the capability to pull off something like that.

To Judd, it was possible that Carla was scared of losing in the end and sabotaged the assessment, ensuring that a winner couldn’t be determined.

Upon hearing Judd's question, Carla looked at him with a sense of injustice and said, "You... You think I did it too?" "Carla, I didn't mean it that way. I was just asking. If it really wasn't you, there's no need to be afraid. I won't let the sect punish you." Judd hastily spoke up.

"You jerk! Get lost. I didn't do it at all," Carla roared in anger and was truly on the verge of a breakdown.

Observing Carla's breakdown, Judd also grew somewhat fearful.

Rohan asked Carla, "If it wasn't you, then who was it? The array I set up for the evaluation would never malfunction. Who exactly amplified the power of the fire source?" At that point, Carla was in deep trouble, unable to prove herself innocent. She was utterly clueless about who was responsible, and furthermore, within the entire assessment, she was the only one capable of doing that.

Moreover, she was always seen with the inner court disciple examinees, so it wasn't too big of a leap to assume she must have had an ulterior motive.

How do I explain myself? Carla merely wanted to take care of Jared, but she didn't know things would turn out that way.

"It wasn't me. It really wasn't me! Do I have to die for you all to believe me?" Carla was driven to the brink of insanity and was completely falling apart.

Jared finally understood why many people who were wronged to the point of despair would commit suicide. It was because they had truly reached their breaking point.

"Die, then! Once you're dead, we'll believe you," said Adan smugly.

If Carla committed suicide, then it would be easy to place the blame squarely on her. It would be seen as her taking her own life due to her own wrongdoings.

In a state of utter despair, Carla let out a loud cry, abruptly striking her crown.

Jared, who was standing nearby, was quick to react. He immediately stepped forward and firmly grabbed Carla's wrist.

"Carla, you weren't responsible. Why would you contemplate suicide? By doing this, aren't you just letting the cliffit escape without punishment?"

Jared spoke to Carla.

"I believe in you." Jared nodded in agreement.

Carla looked at Jared and asked, "No one believes me., Jared) de you' belieye me?"

Of course he believed her. After all, he was the one responsible.

Carla threw herself into Jared's arms, bursting into tears.

That left Jared somewhat at a loss.
