

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3941-Thiago piped up, "What do you know, you newbie? There's no one else capable of pulling this off except Carla!" Thiago was quick to pin the blame on Carla so he wouldn't have to bear any responsibility himself.

Jared retorted, "Why would you think that only Carla could do this?" "It's simple! She's the only one powerful enough to cause the fire source at the test site to surge and cause an explosion. No one else has that kind of skill," Thiago replied with a cold snort.

Jared glared coolly at Thiago and returned, "Even without her capabilities, it's not impossible to trigger an explosion from a fire aura. For example, if someone were to bring in an artifact imbued with a fire source and then release it into the air, couldn't that also cause an aura surge that would lead to an explosion?" Upon hearing this, Thiago instantly furrowed his brows. A hint of alarm flitted through his gaze.

Meanwhile, a wide-eyed Adan stared at Jared in utter disbelief.

No one saw me when I was acting. But how on earth does Jared know about this?

Rohan nodded and muttered, "Indeed, that could be a possibility." "Mr. Cunningham, don't listen to these newbies' nonsense. They're all outer circle disciples; how could they possibly possess a magical time imbued with a fire source?" Thiago hurried to dissuade Rohan.

Jared pointed at Adan and suggested, "A quick search will reveal the truth. I suspect that Adan is carrying the magical item imbued with a fire source." "I d-d-don't have it." A sputtering Adan hastily shook his head, his expression becoming incredibly flustered.

"You don't have it? Really?" Jared asked with a mocking glint in his eyes. He stared at Adan and continued, "If you insist there's nothing, why not let us search you to be sure-" Thiago interjected to reprimand Jared, "You good-for-nothing! Just who do you think you are? Adan is the most senior outer circle disciple! How do you have the right to order a frisk on him?" If they search Adan and find that bronze mirror, we'll be in hot soup!

Noticing Jared's insistence on frisking Adan, Judd asked, "Axel, do you happen to know something?" Jared lowered his voice to a whisper and replied, "Judd, Adan's carrying something. I saw him use it during the assessment. It seemed to contain a fire source. He probably wanted to boost his fire source aura, pushing us to our limits until we had no choice but to withdraw. His operation then failed, which caused the fire source to explode!" Judd was immediately livid when he heard this. I can't believe these guys actually cheated!

“Thiago, the unexpected explosion of the fire source must be investigated. The request for a search by Axel is reasonable. Are you preventing the search because you’re feeling guilty?” Judd asked Thiago.

“What do I have to be guilty about? Go ahead and search us then, but it’s only fair if everyone gets searched,” Thiago answered, forcing a calm facade.

Judd nodded in agreement. “Of course. Everyone who was evaluated must be searched.” “Oww!” At that moment, Adan suddenly clutched his stomach, his face contorted in pain.

“My stomach hurts,” he groaned, “I need to use the restroom. You guys go ahead and search the others first!” After that, Adan made a move to leave. It seemed as though he intended to get rid of the bronze mirror.

Judd leaped up and blocked Adan’s path. He grabbed the latter’s gollar and warned, “Quit blaying innocent.

Youfe trying to get rid of something, aren’t you?”

“I didn’t. I just had a stomachache!” Adan insisted stubbornly.

“A stomachache? You really think anyone would buy such an excuse?” Judd scoffed coldly.

Thiago was so frustrated that he glared at Adan, unable to believe it the latter would come up with such a childish excuse.

“Thiago, he-” Adan turned to Thiago for help, but the latter merely glared at him and snapped, “Shut up. Just shut up!” Thiago was genuinely afraid that Adan would betray him too.

You’re a cultivator at Tribulator level!

Who the h*ll would believe you’re suddenly incapacitated by a 0 M stomachache and need to dash to the restroom? You’re not even an ordinary person! Adan must’ve panicked so much that his brain’s not working!

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3942-Everyone knew that Rohan was an impartial man. He wouldn’t be swayed by the sect leader, not even if Thiago’s master, Harlan, was the newly appointed leader.

Adan was merely an outer sect disciple, so the severity of his punishment wouldn’t matter much. The worst-case scenario was simply his exile from Violet Flame Sect.

But Thiago couldn't afford a punishment. After all, he was now a deacon and the treasured disciple of the sect leader to boot. He was destined for a bright future.

"Adan, if you hand over the item and explain yourself clearly, Mr. Cunningham may just spare your life," Judd said to Adan.

Adan stubbornly declared, "I-I don't have anything at all!" Judd's eyes narrowed slightly, and without hesitation, he reached into Adan's clothes.

Before Adan could even react, the bronze mirror was already in Judd's hands!

"What is this?" asked Judd.

A flustered Adan struggled to find the words to explain the mirror's existence.

"Let me see." Thiago stepped forward, intending to snatch away the bronze mirror.

Judd swiftly avoided Thiago and shot the man a cold glance. "Thiago, are you trying to seize and then destroy the evidence?" "What evidence am I supposedly trying to destroy?" Thiago feigned innocence and continued, "Isn't this some plain bronze mirror? What's so special about it? I don't think I sensed any fire aura from it!" The fire source in the bronze mirror had been completely absorbed by Jared, so there was no trace of it left.

It was precisely for this reason that Thiago adamantly refused to admit the presence of a fire source in the bronze mirror.

At that point, Adan regained his composure and claimed loudly, "That's right.

This is just a regular copper mirror that I use for training. There's no fire source in it!" Judd attempted to channel his spiritual energy into the bronze mirror, but though the mirror's array runes began to flicker, no fire source appeared.

This left Judd feeling somewhat embarrassed and at a loss for what to do next.

Just then, Rohan reached his hand out and said, "Let me take a look at that bronze mirror." "Please inspect the mirror, Mr. Cunningham. I'm convinced that Adan rigged this bronze mirror!" Judd handed the bronze mirror to Rohan respectfully.

Rohan immediately furrowed his brows upon seeing the bronze mirror. His expression also turned noticeably unpleasant.

He pointed at Judd, Thiago, and Adan, ordering, "The few of you stay, but everyone else should leave immediately!" Meanwhile, Jared said comfortingly, "Carla, you're okay now. Please stop crying." Rohan's orders clearly showed that the matter of the explosive fire source had nothing to do with those who were told to leave.

“Wait for me outside. I believe Mr. Cunningham will make a decision soon!” Judd said as he ushered Jared and the others out.

After everyone had left, Rohan casually waved his hand and effortlessly set up a formation. No one could see what was happening within the formation.

Thiago’s and Adan’s expressions changed instantly, Rohan was renowned for his impartiality. He suddenly decided to act against them within the formation and punish them according to the rules of Violet Flame Sect, they would truly have nowhere to turn for help.

“Thiago, what’s the story behind this bronze mirror?” Rohan turned to Thiago with a somber expression.

Thiago feigned ignorance and replied, “Mr. Cunningham, I-I’m not really sure either. Isn’t this something Adan used for his own training?” Slap!

Rohan landed a harsh slap across Thiago’s face before snarling menacingly, “That sullah tip M personally etched the formation on this bronze mirror, sealing a fire source within it.”

Upon hearing Rohan’s words, Thiago’s face turned ashen with fear.

he continued, “This was to allow gifted disciples to utilize the bronze mirror for their cultivation. That way, they could grasp the fire source of Violet Flame Sect more swiftly. How did such an important item end up in the hands of an outer circle disciple?”

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3943-He hadn’t expected that this bronze mirror was actually handcrafted by Rohan himself.

Harlan had given him this bronze mirror. It was intended to aid Thiago in his cultivation. After all, with this bronze mirror, he could be in constant contact with the fire source, accelerating his cultivation process.

Unexpectedly, Thiago had actually used the bronze mirror to cheat during the assessment.

Suddenly, Thiago fell to his knees in front of Rohan, his voice choked with emotion as he admitted, “Mr. Cunningham, I was wrong. This bronze mirror was given to me by my master for my cultivation. Adan is currently a Sixth Level

Tribulator, and he’s still unable to master fire aura, so he couldn’t pass the assessment to become an inner court disciple. That’s why I lent him the bronze mirror. I never thought that Adan would actually cheat during the assessment using this bronze mirror, causing the fire source to explode in the assessment venue, which resulted in damage to the assessment array!" Thiago proved to be quite quick-witted. He reacted so swiftly, finding a way to deflect the situation.

Meanwhile, Adan was looking at Thiago with a face full of shock. He didn't expect Thiago to act so fast in this situation and put all the blame on him.

"Are you speaking the truth?" Rohan questioned.

Thiago knelt on the ground. "Every word I've spoken is the truth. I would never dare to deceive you, Mr. Cunningham..." "Adan!" Rohan shouted.

The fright caused Adan to fall to his knees with a thud.

At that moment, Thiago kept shooting glances at Adan.

As long as Adan shouldered all the responsibilities, it would have nothing to do with him anymore.

Adan looked into Thiago's eyes, realizing he had no choice but to take responsibility. Even if he were to betray Thiago, it wouldn't do him any good.

Perhaps by ensuring Thiago's safety, he would still have a chance in the future.

"Mr. Cunningham, it was my own momentary lapse of judgment that led me to use the fire source from the bronze mirror to enhance the fire aura in the assessment venue. I simply wanted to intensify the fire aura, ensuring that everyone else failed and only I would pass the assessment. In this way, I could impress everyone. Unexpectedly, a mishap in handling caused all the fire sources within the bronze mirror to escape. It then merged with the fire source of the assessment venue, resulting in an explosion. I deserve to be punished. I deserve to be punished. Please punish me, Mr. Cunningham!" Adan took it upon himself to shoulder all the matters.

Upon hearing this, Thiago instantly felt a wave of relief wash over him.

"Mr. Cunningham, I'm certain that Thiago must be behind this. Otherwise, Adan wouldn't have dared to commit such an act. We must punish Thiago," Judd suddenly said upon seeing the situation.

It's clear that Thiago instructed Adan to do this!

"Judd, don't make baseless accusations. What proof do you have that I was behind this?" Thiago, seething with anger, bellowed at Judd.

"It was you. Adan doesn't have the guts," Judd said.

"It wasn't me!" Thiago argued.

The two were arguing so fiercely that their faces turned red and their ears were burning. They were at an absolute impasse.

"That's enough!" Rohan roared, and the two people immediately shut their mouths. "Since there's no evidence to prove that Thiago was evidence to prove that Thiagg was.

behind this, let's stop arguing about it! The responsibility for this incident falls solely on Adan. From this point onward, Adan is prohibited from participating in the assessment to become an inner court disciple for thirty years. Thiago, in his role as the chief examiner, will have his salary withheld for three years as a penalty."

Rohan's words made Thiago and Adan express their gratitude repeatedly.

Considering what had happened, this punishment could definitely be considered lenient.

Though Judd was displeased, there was nothing he could do.

"Mr. Cunningham, what are we going to do about this assessment?" Judd asked.

"This assessment is nullified. Once I've repaired the assessment array, we'll proceed With the assessment!"

Thiago and Adan, drenched in cold sweat, let out a long sigh of relief.

After Rohan finished speaking, he turned and left, and the groan@ array disappeared aufomatically.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3944-When Judd walked out, Carla and the others immediately approached.

"Judd, how did it go? What did Mr. Cunningham say?" Carla asked.

"Mr. Cunningham has forbidden Adan from participating in the assessment to become an inner court disciple for thirty years. Thiago is penalized by having his salary withheld for three years," Judd answered.

"What about the assessment? We should have passed, right?" someone asked.

It wasn't easy to make it to the final stage, and they were not blessed with such luck for every assessment.

Judd shook his head and said helplessly, "The assessment has been nullified.

Mr. Cunningham will be repairing the assessment array. We'll just have to wait for further notice." "Huh... Nullified?" "What a complete waste that was." "We were really lucky this time. I didn't expect such a thing to happen." Upon hearing that the assessment had been nullified, the disciples began to voice their complaints.

Jared also furrowed his brows. If he couldn't advance to become an inner court disciple, he wouldn't have the freedom to move around in the inner court, let alone meet Gael.

Now that the assessment had been nullified, there was no telling when the next assessment would be.

Jared turned to Judd and asked, "Judd, I recall you mentioning another way to become an inner court disciple, which is through the recommendation of three elders, right?" Judd nodded, then with a troubled expression, he said, "Axel, being recommended by the elders is not as easy as you think. Besides, you've just entered Violet Flame Sect and you haven't even been an outer court disciple.

I'm afraid the method of getting the elders' recommendation simply won't work!" Upon hearing this, Jared instantly felt deflated.

"Axel, don't lose heart. Even though you can't be recommended by the elders, there's still a way for you to advance to become an inner court disciple," Carla said.

"What is it?" Jared's eyes lit up.

"Carla, are you talking about a challenge?" Judd asked.

Carla gave a nod. "Exactly, if you succeed in the challenge, you can also be promoted to an inner court disciple." Judd shook his head and said, "Forget it. The sect hasn't seen a successful attempt in hundreds of years. Sending Axel to a challenge is like sending him to his death." "Judd, how do we go about the challenge? And who are we challenging? Is it the inner court disciples? Do we have to win against them to get promoted?" Jared asked.

"It's not that easy. If it was just about challenging the inner court disciples, it would have been a lot simpler, Adan wouldn't have had to wait all these years. You have to challenge the deacons of the sect. Only by defeating them could you become an inner court disciple. How could an outer court disciple possibly succeed in challenging a deacon?

Every time a challenge was issued, the deacons would give it their all.

Otherwise, if they were defeated, they would be too ashamed to stay within Violet Flame Sect. For centuries, the deacons of Violet Flame Sect have been challenged almost annually.

However, not a single challenger has ever succeeded. Instead, many were left incapacitated. This challenge is too risky, which is why I didn't tell you."

Jared's interest was instantly piqued. "Judd, I want to take on the challenge.

How do I sign up for it?" He was certain he could succeed in the challenge. Although he didn't want to reveal his abilities too early, he knew that he had to take on the challenge in order to gain entry into the inner court.

"Axel, you're only a Fourth Level Tribulator. If you take on the challenge, you're bound to lose without a doubt. The weakest among the deacons is at least a Sixth Level Tribulator. Thiago is already an Eighth Level Tribulator. With a little more time, he could become a Ninth Level Tribulator. Do you think you can defeat them?"

"Judd, how can we know without giving it a shot? I think I can defeat Thiago," Jared said confidently

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3945-At that moment, Thiago emerged, accompanied by Adan.

Upon hearing Jared's words, Thiago responded with an expression of disdain, "You've got quite the nerve, I must say. If you're so confident, I'll allow you to challenge me. If you manage to defeat me, I'll let you become an inner court disciple." He simply couldn't believe that Jared, a mere Fourth Level Tribulator, could ever defeat him.

He could defeat Jared with just one hand.

Thiago's words had drawn a crowd. Seeing that Jared was challenging Thiago to join the ranks of the inner court disciples, everyone was taken aback.

Jared was merely a Fourth Level Tribulator, while Thiago was an Eighth Level Tribulator.

The difference was just too vast.

"Axel, don't listen to him. We'll figure things out. Once Master comes out from the council meeting room, we'll discuss it with him. If you challenge Thiago, you're definitely going to lose. That guy doesn't know how to hold back.

Besides, you don't have to challenge Thiago. You can easily choose anyone from the deacons. That is your right," Judd hastily said.

He was worried that Jared didn't understand the rules and would fall for Thiago's tricks.

“Judd, that doesn’t matter. He has no other choice but to challenge me. If he chooses someone else, I won’t allow it. Don’t forget, I’m the chief examiner,” Thiago said with a somber look in his eyes.

After what had happened with the assessment, Thiago was feeling quite upset.

Now, he could take his frustration out on Jared.

Upon seeing the situation, Carla glared at Thiago. “You’re so despicable...”
“Despicable?” Thiago chuckled. “These are the rules of our sect. Are you implying that those who established these rules are all despicable?” “Hahaha, if you wish to become an inner court disciple, you’ll need to get through Thiago first. Otherwise, none of you should even dream of becoming an inner court disciple.” Adan laughed heartily in triumph.

“Kid, you seem to have impressive credentials. If you choose to join our faction now, I can easily make you an inner court disciple,” Thiago said to Jared.

“Are you worthy?” Jared let out a cold laugh.

Thiago’s eyes narrowed slightly. “Kid, there are times when you can’t be stubborn. If you want to become an inner court disciple, then you have to defeat me!” At that point, Judd was absolutely livid.

Both were deacons, but he had no power at all now, as Harlan had become the new sect leader. He was worried that Jared would end up getting hurt if he were to challenge Thiago.

There was a chance he could be crippled.

“Beating you is way easier than taking a dump!” Jared looked at Thiago with a face full of disdain.

All eyes suddenly turned to him. They were all astonished. A Fourth Level Tribulator is claiming that defeating an Eighth Level Tribulator is as easy as taking a dump?

What a braggart!

“Axel, stop talking and shut your mouth!” Judd furrowed his brows, fearing that Jared’s provocation of Thiago would lead to an uncontrollable situation in the end!

Carla and the others also advised Jared to stop speaking.

“Judd, everything I’ve spoken is the truth. Why can’t I say it? With this level of ability, I can crush him with one hand!” Jared responded with a sneer.

Since he could no longer conceal his abilities, he decided to show off his impressive skills.

What Jared said was indeed the truth. Given Thiago's capabilities) he could certainly defeat him with one hand.

"Would there be any repercussions if I crippled you, then?" Jared asked.

Thiago was seething, his face flushed with anger. "Kid, you're too arrogant.

Even if grigole you during the challenge, it's all on you. There won't be any repercussions."

Judd was momentarily at a loss for words.

There's a limit to showing off, and he has certainly crossed that line!

All the other disciples were looking at Jared, their eyes filled with mockery.
