A Man Like None Other Chapter 4181

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4181-“Medicine God Island is too much. If the Sky Slasher Sect were to attack, many alchemists will lose their lives.” Heidi too, spoke out in exasperation.

Everyone began to curse at Medicine God Island, feeling as though they had all been deceived.

“Ladies and gentlemen, you’ve all misunderstood Mr. Laurent. He didn’t ask for your help to resist the Sky Slasher Sect. He just wanted to prevent the numerous legacies and treasures of the Medicine God from falling into the hands of the Sky Slasher Sect. So, his decision to relocate the Alchemist Fair to Medicine God Island is also to allow everyone to benefit from this site where the Medicine God had fallen. Three days later, everyone is to leave, as the Sky Slasher Sect is planning to attack Medicine God Island in three days.” Jared assisted in explaining on behalf of Sylvain.

“If that’s the case, then we really don’t have time to waste on fighting anymore. But at this moment, even if we don’t engage in a fight with Thaddeus and his people, they probably won’t let us off,” Dylan said with a furrowed brow.

“That’s easy. I’ll just discuss this matter with President Surrey. I’m sure they’ll understand what to do.”

Jared planned to share this matter with Thaddeus.

As soon as Thaddeus learned that the Sky Slasher Sect was about to attack Medicine God Island and that they only had three days, they wouldn’t waste their time on the Zeever and Rider families.

But Jared was still in the dark, unaware that Thaddeus had long since been privy to the affairs of Sky Slasher Sect. Moreover, he had already established a partnership with them.

“All right then, I’m entrusting this matter to you, Mr. Chance.” Dylan had no desire to fight with Thaddeus and the others on Cauldron Peak.

After all, they had come to try their luck at the site of Medicine God’s fall. If they could obtain the Medicine God’s legacy, they would skyrocket to success in an instant.

“I’ll try my best!” Jared nodded.

After bidding farewell to Dylan and the others, Jared and his group continued their journey up the mountain.

The expanse of Cauldron Peak was vast. Their presence was hardly noticeable even though there were thousands of them.

Jared himself wasn't sure if he would run into Thaddeus and his group. However, if he did, he was determined to do everything in his power to stop the impending conflict.

Jared was still unaware that he had become the prey of Thaddeus and his gang.

Not long after Jared and his companions had left, they suddenly felt a few auras heading their way.

Even though they weren't very close, Jared could sense that these auras were heading straight for them.

"Mr. Chance, what's wrong?" Seeing that Jared suddenly stop, Sigurd curiously asked.

"Someone's coming at us. I have no clue who," said Jared with a solemn expression.

Even though everyone who entered Cauldron Peak was an alchemist, it was impossible for Jared to know them all.

He was unsure whether the approaching auras were a friend or a foe.

By now, nearly all the alchemists were aware of Jared's identity. It was inevitable that some would harbor ill intentions at the Demon Seal Alliance's hundred-year offering.

Even with the daunting presence of Bernard, there were still those who would risk it all for the hundred-year offering.

As the saying goes, men would do anything to succeed.

"Jared, how come we didn't notice anyone arriving?" Viola asked.

"Right, it seems like we didn't feel anything," Felipe and Freya both exclaimed.

"Don't be anxious, it should appear soon." Jared gazed intently at what lay ahead, his expression serious.

Soon, several figures appeared. As soon as they emerged, they immediately surrounded Jared and his group.

Upon witnessing the spectacle, Jared instantly understood what was going on.

“Who are you people? What do you want?” Upon noticing the ill intentions of these individuals, Sigurd questioned.

“This isn’t your concern, scram. We’re here for Jared.” One of the alchemists, clad in a grey linen robe, spoke up.

It was clear that they had come with the sole intention of seizing the hundred-year offerings meant for the Demon Seal Alliance.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4182-Jared cast a glance, realizing that all these individuals were Seventh or Eighth Level Tribulators. Their strength was certainly not to be underestimated.

“Mr. Lorenzo, why are you seeking out Mr. Chance instead of hunting for treasures up in the mountains?” At that moment, Felipe stepped forward, addressing the gray-clad alchemist.

“Felipe, Freya, I can’t believe you two siblings are here too. I’d advise you two to mind your own business. We’re only after Jared. It has nothing to do with you siblings,” the alchemist in grey said.

“Are you after the hundred-year offering of the Demon Seal Alliance?” asked Jared.

“Indeed, once you’re out of the picture, we’ll retrieve the hundred-year offering of the Demon Seal Alliance. The resources will be more than enough to sustain our group’s cultivation for a hundred years,” the alchemist exclaimed.

“Hmph, it’s laughable that a group like you could even dream of killing me and seizing the hundred-year offering of the Demon-Sealing Alliance,” Jared said with a face full of disdain.

“You, a Sixth Level Tribulator, dare to boast shamelessly. Don’t think for a second that we can’t handle you.” The alchemist in grey drew out a long sword.

Others also drew their weapons, ready to strike at Jared at any moment.

Upon observing the situation, Sigurd and Viola both assumed their stances.

Felipe and Freya too, stood protectively in front of Jared.

“Are you two siblings courting death as well?” The grey-robed alchemist furrowed his brow and asked.

“Since we’ve chosen to join Mr. Chance, there’s no way we can just sit back and do nothing,” Felipe said.

“All right, then today you both shall meet your end.” After the alchemist in grey finished speaking, he got ready to attack.

“Stand back, everyone. I can handle a few cultivators in the Tribulation phase all by myself.” Jared instructed everyone, including Viola, to step aside.

A seventh or eighth level tribulator wasn't considered a threat to Jared.

Upon seeing Jared's blatant disregard for the cultivators in the tribulation phase, Felipe and Freya couldn't help but look visibly upset.

Jared was merely a Sixth Level Tribulator, yet he had the audacity to utter such disrespectful words toward cultivators of the tribulator phase.

“Mr. Chance, please be careful not to get splattered with blood...” After giving Jared a word of caution, Sigurd promptly retreated to the side.

Upon seeing the situation, Viola also retreated.

The abilities of the two of them, even if they wanted to help, wouldn't make much of a difference. It could even possibly distract Jared.

They were well aware of Jared's capabilities. A few Seventh and Eighth Level Tribulators couldn't possibly defeat Jared.

However, Felipe and Freya appeared rather taken aback, unsure of what to do next.

“Felipe, you and your sister should come over here too. Let Mr. Chance handle it by himself.” Sigurd waved the siblings over.

Due to sharing the same last name, Sigurd felt a strong bond with these siblings.

Upon seeing the situation, Felipe and Freya slowly stepped aside.

Upon seeing everyone avoiding him, the alchemist in grey's aura instantly filled the air. The remaining people also exuded an overwhelming presence, like a wild wind sweeping through.

“Kid, if you're going to blame anyone, blame it on your own worth, not us...” The alchemist in grey took the first swing at Jared.

A faint smile tugged at Jared's lips. Surprisingly, he didn't dodge or draw any weapon. Instead, a soft golden glow began to radiate all around him.

Seeing the situation, the others also sprang into action, charging toward Jared.

As the group of men approached Jared, it was as if Jared's body had exploded.

Boom!

Suddenly, a surge of fire erupted from Jared, with red flames reaching for the heavens.

Caught off guard, those guys were instantly set ablaze.

"Ah!" "Fire, there's a fire!" "I'm burning up!" Several guys were engulfed in flames, desperately rolling on the ground, but the fire simply wouldn't go out.

Viola and Sigurd were not surprised.

However, Felipe and Freya stared at the scene before them, their faces filled with astonishment.

Several seventh and eighth level tribulators, each no less skilled than the siblings. Yet, they couldn't even touch a single hair on Jared's head before they were engulfed by a sudden eruption of the internal flame.

Terrifying, it was simply too terrifying...

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4183-Overestimating Oneself Kai watched as several people screamed incessantly from the burns they had suffered and asked coldly, "How did you know where to find me?"

The enormity of Cauldron Peak was unparalleled, and Kai and his group were the last to arrive. Yet, these guys managed to come straight for him from a great distance.

It was clear that these individuals had known about his location in advance.

Several alchemists were shrieking incessantly from being burned, and no one responded to Kai's inquiries at all.

At that moment, Felipe and Freya exchanged glances and swiftly drew their swords.

"Hey, you guys..."

Sigurd was about to speak up, but Felipe and Freya had already rushed forward.

Shortly after, all those alchemists were swiftly slain.

After taking out a few people, Felipe let out a cold huff. "Hmph, these folks were disrespectful to Mr. Chance. With such meager skills, they actually dared to covet the hundred-year offering from the Demon Seal Alliance. How utterly delusional."

Sigurd frowned. "Why did you kill them when Mr. Chance was clearly still questioning them?"

"Those guys wouldn't have spoken up, especially while engulfed in flames. Even if they had wanted to, they wouldn't have had the chance. It would be more merciful to kill them outright. As a fellow alchemist, I couldn't stand by and watch them being burned alive so cruelly."

Freya started her moral discourse again.

Sigurd was at a loss for words.

"All right, they're already dead. Even if they hadn't lifted a finger, these people wouldn't have made it anyway. Let's get going. We only have three days. We can't afford any more delays," Kai said and walked straight ahead.

The others trailed behind Kai and didn't encounter any danger along the way.

As they were halfway up the mountain, they suddenly noticed a light curtain cascading down from the peak, and before it was a vast expanse of level ground.

In this open space, there were quite a few alchemists who had come to a halt, and some were lying on the ground, evidently injured.

After getting closer, Kai discovered that most of these alchemists were from the Epean Alchemist Guild, closely associated with the Boucher and Dupont families. There was also a group of alchemists from other regions.

At that moment, Thaddeus, Ernesto, and Vincent were intensely furrowing their brows as they stared at the light curtain in front of them.

At that moment, someone leaned in toward Thaddeus and whispered, "President Surrey, Kai has arrived."

"What?" Thaddeus turned his head and sure enough, he saw Kai walking toward them with Viola and the others.

"What on earth have Emmanuel and his team been doing? Didn't they find him? How did they let him end up here?"

Ernesto expressed his dissatisfaction.

Vincent said, "Since we're already here, there's no escaping. Our immediate task is to figure out how to break through this light curtain in front of us. If someone else reaches the mountain peak before us and obtains the legacy of the Medicine God, all our efforts will be in vain."

“Don’t worry. Even if they obtain the Medicine God’s legacy, they shouldn’t dream of leaving Medicine God Island.”

A cold smirk surfaced on Thaddeus’ face as he proceeded to walk toward Kai.

After successfully treating Cedric, Kai became a distinguished guest of Allardland and quite the celebrity too.

Upon seeing Thaddeus, Kai took the initiative to step forward and greet him, “President Surrey...”

After all, he was supposed to assist the Zorn and Zeever families in reaching an agreement with Thaddeus.

Both of them were alchemists from the same place. It would be best if they could reconcile.

“Mr. Chance, I didn’t expect you to be heading in this same direction. We really must be destined to meet again,” Thaddeus said in a cryptic manner.

Unfortunately, Kai didn’t catch on. He glanced at Ernesto and Vincent standing behind Thaddeus and said, “I presume these two gentlemen must be the heads of the Boucher and Dupont families?” “You’re right.” Thaddeus nodded.

“President Surrey, there’s something I’ve been meaning to discuss with you,” Kai said.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4184-A Discussion “Oh? With me?”

Thaddeus was taken aback.

He hadn’t interacted much with Kai, so he had no idea what Kai might want to discuss with him.

“President Surrey, are you guys planning to join forces and take action against the Zorn and Zeever families during this Alchemist Fair? Actually, the Zorn and Zeever families were already aware of your intentions. That’s why they asked me to help establish an alliance with the Central Alchemist Guild. If it really came to a fight, I’m afraid both sides would end up getting hurt. Moreover, there’s something you might not know. In three days, disaster will strike Medicine God Island. The Sky Slasher Sect plans to attack Medicine God Island in three days. If you guys continue to quarrel, I doubt anyone will be able to leave the island,” Kai said honestly.

Thaddeus was instantly filled with astonishment. Even Ernesto and Vincent were left utterly incredulous.

After all, this was a matter known only to a select few. The rest of the alchemists were completely in the dark.

If they were to know, many people would likely flee from Medicine God Island.

After all, even the most precious treasure wasn't as important as their life.

"Mr. Chance, are you telling the truth?" Thaddeus asked.

"Of course, it was Mr. Laurent himself who told me. There's no way it could be false. I only hope that during the Alchemist Fair, you all refrain from quarreling. After all, it's better to resolve conflicts than to create them. Moreover, there are already a few alchemists in the Ethereal Realm, and they are a vulnerable group. If they were to engage in internal strife, the alchemists of the entire Ethereal Realm would become even more disadvantaged."

Thaddeus didn't respond to Kai's words. Instead, he turned to glance at Ernesto and Vincent.

Thaddeus hadn't expected that Sylvain would actually take the initiative to leak the news about the Sky Slasher Sect's attack on Medicine God Island.

In truth, Thaddeus and his group also believed that Sylvain's decision to forcibly relocate the Alchemist Fair to Medicine God Island was a strategy. The idea was to band together with the numerous alchemists and stand against the Sky Slasher Sect.

Therefore, Sylvain would never reveal this matter. If it were to be disclosed, it would cause panic among the alchemists. Many would choose to flee from Medicine God Island. Then, who would stand with Sylvain to resist the Sky Slasher Sect?

However, now that Sylvain had relayed the news to Kai, it necessitated a change in Thaddeus and the others' plans.

Their goal was to join forces to overthrow the Sky Slasher Sect and then eliminate most of the alchemists. In doing so, they could gain control over all the alchemists in the Ethereal Realm.

But now that Kai had uncovered this secret, he was certain it wouldn't be long before the other alchemists found out too.

If the alchemists were to flee, Thaddeus' plans would be ruined.

They absolutely couldn't allow Kai to leak the news.

"Mr. Chance, I still need to discuss this with the heads of the Boucher and Dupont families. After all, they are the main characters in this matter," Thaddeus said politely.

He needed to first reassure Kai, who was still oblivious to their scheme.

They were hidden in the shadows while Kai was in the open, giving them the chance to strike at him whenever they wanted.

“All right.” Kai nodded.

Thaddeus called Ernesto and Vincent aside.

“How could this happen? At this rate, by the time the Sky Slasher Sect reaches Medicine God Island, I reckon most people will have already fled,” Ernesto said with a hint of anxiety. “What on earth is Sylvain up to? Isn’t he afraid that all these alchemists will run away?” Vincent added.

“I need to inform the Sky Slasher Sect to act sooner than planned. But in the next few days, it’s crucial not to let Kai spread the news.”

Thaddeus knew that if the news of the Sky Slasher Sect’s attack on Medicine God Island were to spread, all the alchemists would flee. By that time, his plan would be a complete failure.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4185-What Is Going On “Why don’t we just kill Kai now? That way, he won’t be able to spread any news. And let’s take out anyone associated with him as well,” Ernesto suggested.

“Taking out Kai would be easy, but what about the Zorn and Zeever families? They’re already aware of this situation too. It’s impossible for us to completely annihilate everyone from the Zorn and Zeever families now,” Vincent said with a frown.

“Let’s not kill him for now. Keep him calm and find a way to make him bring Waylon and Dylan to us. As long as we show sincerity in avoiding conflict, I believe Waylon and Dylan won’t be on their guard. We’ll stage a complete takedown when the time is right. This way, we can prevent any information leaks and eliminate both the Zorn and Zeever families in one go. Besides, with Felipe and Freya accompanying him, we won’t have trouble locating him,” Thaddeus said cunningly.

It turned out that Thaddeus had assigned both Felipe and Freya to stay close to Kai.

The reason why Emmanuel and his team of alchemists were able to locate Kai without fail was all thanks to them.

“All right, let’s go with your idea, President Surrey.” Ernesto nodded in agreement.

“I agree too.” Vincent nodded as well.

They all agreed. There was no need to ask for the others' opinions. At this point, they were all in the same boat with no way out.

Having received everyone's agreement, Thaddeus started walking toward Kai.

"Mr. Chance, we've just had a discussion. Both Mr. Boucher and Mr. Dupont have agreed not to cause any trouble for the Zorn and Zeever families during this Alchemist Fair. However, I can't guarantee they won't start quarreling again once the fair is over."

"Good, with your assurance, I can confidently relay the message to Mr. Zorn and Mr. Zeever. But President Surrey, you must be careful. Try not to linger too long on Cauldron Peak. It's best if you leave before the Sky Slasher Sect arrives," Kai reminded with good intentions.

"I really want to leave quickly, but this light curtain is blocking our way, making it impossible to climb the mountain. Just now, quite a few people passed through that light curtain, only to end up injured. They were repelled by a mysterious force." Thaddeus sighed, looking toward the light curtain cascading from the peak.

"Really?"

Kai's brow furrowed slightly as he carefully studied the light curtain.

Although the light curtain didn't envelop the entire Cauldron Peak, trying to bypass it would likely waste a lot of time.

Kai sensed that this light curtain resembled an arcane array set up by someone. However, Sylvain had never mentioned the presence of an arcane array on Cauldron Peak from the start.

"Cauldron Peak is much more complex than Sylvain suggests. In addition to the fierce beasts that make it extremely dangerous, it's sure to be filled with various trials set by the Medicine God. To obtain the legacy of the Medicine God, we must pass through the numerous thals he set up. Otherwise, why has no one managed to receive his legacy on Medicine God Island after all these years?"

Thaddeus voiced his suspicions.

He suspected that this light curtain was actually a test set up by the Medicine God before his death. Only after passing through numerous trials could they obtain his legacy. "Perhaps. Let me check..."

Kai slowly walked toward the light curtain.

Viola and Sigurd quickly followed behind him.

Upon seeing Kai studying the light curtain, Thaddeus subtly signaled to Felipe and Freya.

The two of them silently trailed behind Thaddeus and then found a secluded spot to hide.

“President Surrey...” Felipe and Freya respectfully called out in unison.

“What’s going on with you two? Was the location you provided not accurate enough? Didn’t Emmanuel and his team manage to find you?” Thaddeus asked angrily. Given that Kai was here now, it was certain that Emmanuel and the others hadn’t encountered him.
