

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE

/ A Man Like None Other

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4441 – Jared also carried Draconian blood, so seeing Cyanna in her current state, he felt a deep sense of pity.

“What can I do to help you regain your strength and get you out of here?” Jared asked.

He had decided that rescuing Cyanna was his priority for now. As for the other prisoners, he had no time to concern himself with them.

Cyanna said, “Restoring my strength isn’t difficult. I just need to merge with a man. But getting out of here is another matter. This place is sealed with arcane arrays and barriers, so there’s no way to escape.”

“Merge with a man?” Jared hesitated slightly.

There were so many people around. How could he do that?

Seeing Jared’s dilemma, Cyanna quickly added, “Mr. Chance, since you are also Draconian, particularly from the Golden Dragon bloodline, all we need to do is merge our Draconian auras.

There’s no need for anything else.”

“Ah, good.”

Jared nodded immediately.

However, there was a trace of disappointment on his face. After all, Cyanna was incredibly beautiful.

Who wouldn’t be tempted?

Cyanna noticed Jared’s thoughts but simply smiled gently.

Meanwhile, Cloud and the lightning beast were still lost in the allure of Cyanna’s beauty, unable to snap out of it.

With her powers sealed, Cyanna had managed to control Cloud and the lightning beast simply with her beauty and fragrance. That alone was quite a skill.

Even Judith and Catalina were beginning to lose focus.

Who didn't like a beautiful woman?

Jared released his Draconian aura, which intertwined with Cyanna's own, merging their energies together.

As their auras merged, Jared's body shivered slightly, overwhelmed by an unfamiliar but incredibly pleasant sensation.

Cyanna smiled and then slowly closed her eyes.

Jared felt himself transported to a foreign space.

There was no one around-only Cyanna.

Jared smiled, his expression radiant.

After an indeterminate amount of time had passed, Jared took a deep breath and opened his eyes.

Cyanna also opened her eyes, and the seductive aura surrounding her vanished. Her body was now enveloped in a faint white glow.

Cyanna's powers had been restored, and her once red dress had turned to a soothing shade of green.

With the allure gone, Cloud and the others slowly began to come to their senses.

"I'm so sorry. My strength was sealed, and I had to rely on my beauty to charm everyone. But now that my power is restored, I no longer need to do that," Cyanna apologized, looking a bit sheepish.

Although Cyanna's appearance hadn't changed, the transformation of her dress and the disappearance of her enticing aura had a significant effect. Now, men no longer felt the same impulses when they saw her.

Cloud and the lightning beast wiped their mouths, both embarrassed.

"Jared, Jared, are you dazed or something?"

Catalina called out when she saw Jared's dazed expression.

Jared snapped back to reality and asked, "What's going on?"

"Should we continue up?" Catalina asked.

“I’d suggest you not go up. I’m not sure if there’s anything valuable above, but every level definitely holds someone very strong,” Cyanna warned.

“I’ll go check the floor above. Didn’t you say there’s an old geezer who’s cultivated for ten thousand years? I want to see who’s on that level,” Jared replied.

He had learned that each floor of the tower imprisoned someone, so he was curious about the occupant of the next level.

“Mr. Chance, since you want to see for yourself, I’ll try to break the restriction on this level. If I can, I’ll accompany you,” Cyanna said, then walked toward the staircase.

As soon as her foot touched the stairs, a burst of blood-red light swept through the area, and Cyanna was instantly blasted back.

She stood up, and a swirl of energy formed around her, creating a rapidly spinning vortex.

She tried stepping onto the stairs again, but the blood light struck her once more, sending her flying.

After trying twice without success, Cyanna reluctantly gave up.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4442 – “Let me give it a try...”

Jared, with the Dragonslayer Sword in hand, slowly ascended the staircase.

“Mr. Chance, I’m afraid this might not work. I can’t even break this restriction.”

Cyanna expressed her worries.

“Don’t worry, even if I can’t break this restriction, I won’t get hurt,” he assured.

Jared ascended the stairs, smiling.

Since Jared was not one to suppress others, even when he ascended the stairs, he was unable to trigger any restrictions.

“You guys go ahead first,” he instructed. “Once you’re up there, don’t move around recklessly. Wait for me to break through this restriction!”

Jared instructed Cloud and the others to proceed to the fourth floor, as he was going to break the restriction between the third and fourth floors.

In that case, Cyanna could now access the fourth floor.

Meanwhile, Jared was figuring out how to leave the tower.

Cloud and his companions nodded in agreement before proceeding to the fourth floor. Meanwhile, Jared turned to Cyanna and said, "Ms. Cyanna, could you activate the restriction? I'll break it open!"

"Alright!" Cyanna nodded, then slowly ascended the staircase.

The moment Cyanna stepped onto the staircase, a humming sound resonated, followed by a flash of white light. Subsequently, in the surrounding void, countless tiny mysterious runes emerged. These runes radiated a strange power, which directly sent Cyanna flying.

Upon witnessing the situation, Jared swiftly swung his hand. As he did so, an array of array runes simultaneously emerged in his palm.

In an instant, Jared's palm struck the restriction. Two types of runes began to clash fiercely.

The void itself began to tremble.

Cyanna stared blankly, unable to believe what she was witnessing. Jared, a cultivator who was a Tribulator, was actually able to counteract the restriction within the tower.

As Jared was busy dismantling the restriction, Cloud and the others, who had already ascended to the fourth floor, were left utterly astounded by the scene before their eyes.

Upon reaching the fourth floor, one could see various magical items displayed, each radiating a divine light. At a single glance, it was clear that these were no ordinary items.

"So many magical items..."

Catalina spoke, her eyes brimming with excitement.

"Mr. Chance has instructed us not to meddle with it recklessly."

Cloud warned Catalina, fearing that she might sneak off to get the magical item on her own.

"Don't worry. I won't be taking them. Even though these magical items are tempting, they're not worth the risk," Catalina said.

Catalina was no fool. She knew well the dangers that lurked within the tower. If she were to risk her life for this magical item, it simply wouldn't be worth it.

Her life was far more valuable than any of these magical items.

"That's good then..."

Cloud gave a nod.

No sooner had Cloud's words fallen than a figure suddenly lunged toward those magical items.

It was the lightning beast. This creature was unable to contain itself at the sight of these magical items.

He followed Jared and a few others inside, all in the pursuit of finding the magical item.

Now, the opportunity was right before its eyes, and with Jared nowhere to be found. It could totally grab the magical item and make a run for it.

Cloud and the others wanted to intervene, but it was already too late.

The sight of the lightning beast reaching out for a magical item was indeed a spectacle. However, the moment it made contact with the magical item, it seemed to sense something. Its expression turned incredibly grim as if a powerful force enveloped it.

"Save me, save me..."

In a state of terror, the lightning beast cried out for help toward Cloud and his companions, but nobody made a move.

After all, they didn't have any particular bond with the lightning beast, and this creature was even trying to seize the magical item opportunistically. Naturally, Cloud and his group wouldn't lift a finger to save it.

Suddenly, a beam of light struck the lightning beast, causing its body to shatter bit by bit.

In just a brief moment, the lightning beast vanished, completely obliterated.

Cloud and the others watched the scene unfold, utterly taken aback.

If any of them had gone to grab the magical item just now, chances were, this could have been the outcome.

It was simply terrifying...

That kind of power, none of them had ever witnessed before. It could obliterate a lightning beast—a creature of such high cultivation in an instant.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4443 – Cloud and the others didn't dare to make a move. They could only wait for Jared.

At that moment, Jared was desperately trying to break through the restrictive arcane array, his forehead visibly slick with sweat.

Seeing Jared struggle so much, Cyanna then said, "Mr. Chance, if it's not possible, you shouldn't keep trying. After all, I've been here for many years and I'm already used to it."

"Don't worry, I can break through..."

After Jared finished speaking, an eye suddenly appeared on his forehead.

Immediately after, the Nethersky Eye was activated, revealing the complete restriction arcane array right in front of Jared.

Some of the runes on the array, Jared had never seen before. They appeared to be even more complex than the divine markings he had studied.

However, Jared knew that every different technique would still share similarities. Even the most complex arrays and runes, no matter how varied, never stray from their root. In the end, there would always be a pivotal point to control it all.

Moreover, there must certainly be a way to provide energy for the arcane array; otherwise, it's impossible for the arcane array to function and activate on its own.

With this in mind, Jared surveyed his surroundings.

When Jared's gaze fell upon those stairs, his vision suddenly brightened.

Beneath Jared's Nethersky Eye, the staircase surprisingly took on a russet hue.

This confirmed the presence of energy within the staircase.

Jared stared into the void with his Nethersky

Eye, seeing nothing but a hazy grey expanse. The sudden appearance of a russet hue indicated that this staircase was far from ordinary.

The distant rotation of the restriction array was all dependent on the energy transferred by these steps.

"Ms. Cyanna, could you please step aside a bit?" Jared suddenly asked.

Cyanna gave a nod, then took a few steps back. She had no idea what Jared was about to do.

Jared was seen drawing out the Dragonslayer Sword, which was immediately followed by a burst of golden light.

The sword's light slashed out, severing the staircase in an instant. What seemed like an ordinary staircase, now crumbled dramatically.

Jared's body also tumbled down the stairs.

At that moment, there was no longer a staircase connecting the third and fourth floors.

Cyanna couldn't comprehend why Jared had severed the stairs, so she asked in confusion, "Mr. Chance, why did you slash the stairs?"

"Cut off this staircase, and the arcane array will naturally be broken. If you don't believe me, follow me to the fourth floor and see for yourself..."

Once Jared finished speaking, he leaped up in a single bound and went straight to the fourth floor.

Cyanna's face was filled with confusion, but she still leaped up. Despite her concerns, she surprisingly reached the fourth floor, without any restrictive arcane arrays hindering her.

At that moment, Cyanna was brimming with excitement. She couldn't even recall how many years it had been since she last stepped out of this third floor.

Upon seeing Jared and Cyanna approach, Cloud and the others quickly went up to greet them.

"Where's the lightning beast?"

Jared didn't catch sight of the lightning beast, so he curiously asked about it.

"The lightning beast had intended to seize the magical item, but in the end, it was wiped out by a formidable force..."

Cloud spoke truthfully.

"What?" Jared was taken aback.

The lightning beast was of the Ultimate Realm.

Just how terrifying must the power be, to obliterate a Ultimate Realm cultivator with a single strike?

At that moment, Jared's gaze was captivated by the magical items within the fourth layer. These magical items were radiating with a light that made it clear they were no ordinary items.

"Ms. Cyanna, what... what exactly is going on here?" Jared asked.

Cyanna also shook her head. "I'm not sure, I've never been up there myself. Let me ask around for you!"

After she finished speaking, Cyanna took two steps forward. Then, she called out toward the vast four-story main hall. “Coall, Coall...”

After shouting twice, a man appeared, sturdy and towering like an iron pillar, his skin a dark and healthy hue. He was clad in a piece of black armor, its texture reminiscent of scales.

Upon seeing Cyanna, the burly man furrowed his brows slightly and asked, “You... Are you Cyanna from the third floor?”

“Correct, it’s me!” Cyanna nodded in affirmation.

Although they had never met, they could still recognize each other’s voices.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4444 – “How... How did you manage to get up here? How is this possible?”

Coall’s face was filled with astonishment, he incredulously asked.

“The arcane array was broken, so I came up!” Cyanna spoke the truth.

Upon hearing that the restrictive arcane array had been breached, Coall became incredibly thrilled, his aura suddenly surging.

Boom!

Coall was seen exuding an aura so powerful, it seemed as though it could destroy the heavens and the earth. This caused the entire tower to appear as if it were shaking. Following this, a beam of black light was seen shooting straight toward the fifth floor.

However, in the next moment, a sweeping surge of crimson energy overpowered and quelled the dark light in an instant.

With a roar of fury, Coall charged toward the fifth floor once again, only to face the same oppressive force. He was thrown back, crashing heavily onto the ground.

And so, after several attempts, Coall was continually suppressed, unable to reach the fifth level at all.

“Mr. Chance, what is this guy up to?” Cloud asked, quite confused.

Jared shook his head. “I don’t know. Has he lost his mind?”

Baffled, Cyanna stared at Coall, completely unsure of what he intended to do.

“Cyanna, did you dare to deceive me? Where has the arcane array been broken?”

Coall glared at Cyanna, feeling as though he had been deceived.

Upon hearing Coall's words, everyone was momentarily speechless. This guy actually thought that once the arcane array was broken, he could just ascend the tower.

Cyanna was speechless as she said, "Coall, I mentioned that my level of arcane array was broken, not yours. You rushed in without asking clearly. Have you lost your mind?"

"You..." Coall was momentarily at a loss for words.

Jared and the others couldn't help but feel a mix of amusement and bewilderment as they looked at Coall. They truly couldn't figure out how this guy had managed to cultivate for ten thousand years.

With this level of intelligence, it seemed completely mismatched with his actual abilities.

"Break through this restriction. I need to go to the tower..."

Coall spoke to Cyanna.

"I can't break through..." Cyanna responded.

"D*mn, you're still messing with me. You're not

"I didn't break the restriction spell. It was Mr. Chance who helped broke it," Cyanna interjected, pointing at Jared before Coall could finish speaking.

She knew that Coall was not particularly bright, so she needed to make things clear.

At that moment, Coall finally noticed the presence of Jared and his companions. Initially, he completely ignored them.

After giving Jared and his group a quick once-over, Coall sneered, "Cyanna, are you trying to fool me? A mere kid who has only passed the Tribulator level, how could he possibly break the tower's restriction spell? With just a flick of my finger, I could crush him. If I can't break it, how could he possibly do it?"

Coall was clearly skeptical. He believed that Cyanna was deceiving him.

"Believe it or not, that's up to you. I've already told you. If you plead with Mr. Chance right now, he might just be able to help you break through the restrictive arcane array," Cyanna said impassively.

Upon sensing Cyanna's tone, Coall glanced at Jared. He then beckoned and said, "Kid, help me break this arcane array, and I won't kill you, but if you fail, I will obliterate your soul!"

Jared was taken aback, somewhat incredulous. Was this really the attitude of someone asking for a favor?

Upon hearing this, Cyanna felt the urge to curse out loud. What makes him think he's entitled to ask for a favor in this manner?

"Haha, Coall! You're such a dimwit. With that attitude of yours when asking for help, not even your own father would lift a finger for you."

At that moment, a child's voice surprisingly echoed from the fifth floor.

The voice carried a tone of mockery, causing Coall's face to flush with embarrassment.

At that moment, Coall's face was flushing a deep shade of red, then paling, then reddening again.

"You little rascal, once I get up to the fifth floor, I swear I'm going to give you a piece of my mind.

I'll teach you a lesson you won't forget, and then I'll make sure you can't spout your nonsense anymore," Coall ran to the bottom of the stairs, looked up, and started yelling at the fifth floor.

"Hahaha, you can't make it! You just can't get up here. It's driving you mad, you dumb*ss! Hehehe!"

The child's voice taunted Coall.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4445 – Coall was fuming with rage, so much so it felt as though his hair might catch fire!

At that moment, it dawned on Jared and his companions why, upon hearing the news of the restriction array being broken, Coall had desperately rushed toward the fifth floor.

It seemed like these two had been bickering for quite some time.

It was clear that Coall wasn't good with words and often found himself being humiliated by this child.

"Kid, break the restrictive arcane array for me immediately, or I'll kill you..."

Coall was beyond furious, subsequently heading toward Jared.

It seemed he was ready to vent his anger on Jared.

"Coall, how dare you-" Cyanna stood protectively in front of Jared.

"Get out of my way," he warned. "Don't try to stop me, or I won't hesitate to take you down too!" Coall exclaimed rather heatedly.

"I've told you, I won't let you harm Mr. Chance..." Cyanna didn't move an inch.

As a Draconian herself, and especially when

Jared was a Golden Dragon, how could Cyanna possibly let Coall harm Jared?

“Don’t blame me then...”

The dark armor on Coall erupted with a surge of energy, heading straight for Cyanna.

Cyanna was sent flying in an instant. She was no match for Coall.

Upon witnessing this scene, Jared was somewhat taken aback. Coall was incredibly impressive.

“Mr. Vermilion, can you defeat this guy?”

With a sense of helplessness, Jared turned to ask Vermilion Demon Lord.

At this point, his only option was to turn to Vermilion Demon Lord for help. He would then have to control his own body to subdue Coall. Otherwise, they were genuinely afraid they might die right here.

“You could beat him, but there’s one thing. Dealing with this big brute and his explosive power, I fear your physical body simply can’t handle it!” Vermilion Demon Lord said.

Upon hearing this, Jared was instantly rendered speechless. Despite his robust physique, he was not strong enough to support unleashing Vermilion Demon Lord’s full strength.

This was quite the predicament. It seemed the only option was to temporarily agree with Coall’s terms.

“Kid, is it death you’re seeking, or are you going to break through this arcane array? The choice is yours,” Coall approached Jared and asked.

“I’d rather die.” Facing the intimidating Coall, Jared stood his ground, speaking without a hint of backing down.

Coall was taken aback. He hadn’t expected Jared to respond in such a manner. He had perceived Jared as merely a minor cultivator at the Tribulator level, assuming that upon witnessing his own strength, Jared would surely be trembling in fear, begging for mercy on his knees.

However, Jared now declared that he would rather die than comply with his request.

Killing Jared was an easy task for him. But once Jared was dead, who would help him break that arcane array?

“Kid, what did you just say? I’ll give you another chance. Do you wish to die, or do you want to break through this arcane array for me?” Coall asked again.

"I'd rather die," Jared repeated himself.

Jared's response had also caused Cloud and the others to break out in a cold sweat, especially Catalina.

She never expected that Jared would be so brazen.

Cyanna was dumbstruck as she looked at Jared, unable to believe that he showed no fear toward Coall.

"Brat, are you... are you truly unafraid of death?"

A terrifying aura erupted from Coall, engulfing Jared.

At the very moment when Coall's powerful aura enveloped Jared, the draconic essence on Jared's chest surprisingly began to flicker. Beams of golden light radiated from within the draconic essence.

The aura of the Golden Dragon spread out, clashing with the explosive energy released by Coall.

"Golden Dragon faction? Could it be that you're a descendant of the Golden Dragon?"

Immediately, Coall's eyes widened in surprise, hastily retracting his aura.

"Could you possibly be a Draconian too?" Jared's brow furrowed slightly, as he sensed the aura of a Draconian from Coall's aura.

Although this aura didn't exactly match that of Cyanna, it was unmistakably that of the Draconians.

"I am Coall Trentham, a descendant of the Black Dragon bloodline. I apologize for any offense I may have caused, and I beg for the understanding of the Golden Dragon!"

Coall no longer held the arrogance he had just a moment ago, his face filled with panic as he fell to his knees before Jared.

Upon seeing the situation, Cyanna hurriedly asked in surprise, "Coall, so you are a Draconian from the Black Dragon bloodline. I am from the Azure Dragon bloodline!"

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4446 – Upon seeing someone of her own kind, Cyanna seemed rather pleased.

Coall's face lit up with joy when he heard that. "I never thought I'd encounter a fellow clan member within this tower."

“Surely, the ones imprisoned in this tower aren’t all Draconians, are they?” Jared asked with a hint of surprise.

Just as Coall was about to speak, he heard the voice of a child from the fifth floor ring out. “I am also a Draconian. I’m from Veil Dragon...”

Upon hearing the person on the fifth floor claiming to be a Draconian, Coall instantly grew irate and exclaimed, “Don’t try to fool me! Don’t think that just because you say these things, I won’t take you to task once we reach the fifth floor...”

“I truly am from Veil Dragon!” The child’s voice abruptly shifted into an old man’s voice. “I can disguise anything, and the voice is the easiest to fake. You’ll know if it’s real once you break through that restriction arcane array and see me!”

“My lord, hope...” Coall turned toward Jared.

“Just like Cyanna, you can call me Mr. Chance. I’m going to see if I can unlock that restriction arcane array!”

After Jared finished speaking, he headed toward the staircase.

This time, he didn’t send Coall to test the arcane array. Instead, he activated his Nethersky Eye, and the restriction arcane array came into view before Jared’s eyes.

A slight frown formed on Jared’s forehead when he saw the intricate arcane array and countless runes.

The restriction arcane array on each level was surprisingly different.

Moreover, there was nothing wrong with the staircase this time. To break the arcane array, one needed to start from the arcane array’s core.

Jared tried numerous times, but all his attempts failed.

In the end, Jared attempted to forcefully break through the restriction arcane array with the Dragonslayer Sword, time and time again. However, he was repeatedly repelled.

“The arcane array on each level is different. The one on this level is significantly stronger. I can’t break it.”

After numerous attempts, all Jared could do was express his helplessness.

Coall’s expression was filled with disappointment. However, he still managed to squeeze out a small smile and said, “It’s okay. This restriction arcane array is naturally strong, so it’s normal if we can’t break it.”

“I’ll head up to the fifth floor first to assess the situation. Perhaps I might come up with other solutions up there!”

Jared planned to head up to the fifth floor himself to see who exactly this man, who claimed to be from Veil Dragon, really was.

“Mr. Chance, a man’s heart is incomprehensible, so you must be cautious...” Cyanna reminded Jared.

“I’ll accompany you...”

Catalina walked up to Jared, deciding to accompany him and see what was going on.

They all knew the truth. The individual sealed upstairs was growing stronger by the day. As for the person on the fifth floor, no one could say for certain if he was a Draconian or a good person. Therefore, rushing up there would be nothing short of a gamble.

However, Catalina was willing to accompany Jared to go up, and Jared didn’t reject her offer.

He always felt that there were many undiscovered secrets surrounding this young lady, Catalina.

“Cloud, Ms. Judith, please wait here for a moment. I’m going to check out the situation upstairs!”

Jared went to assess the situation. If things didn’t look right, he wouldn’t proceed with climbing the tower.

It wasn’t always such a stroke of luck to encounter only Draconians.

Had Coall not been a Draconian, Jared would have been in danger already.

After giving his advice, Jared followed Catalina to the fifth floor.

After the two of them had ascended to the fifth floor, they were seemingly awaited by a hunched old man of a slight build. His face was covered in a full beard.

Upon seeing Jared and his companion approach, the old man cracked a grin, revealing a mouthful of large, yellow teeth.

This utterly disgusted Catalina.

Jared glanced at the old man, recalling the child’s voice moments earlier. The contrast was indeed stark.

No one would have thought that the voice that had just sounded like a child’s surprisingly came from a hunchbacked old man.

If he was from Veil Dragon, his image would also be a facade.

Before Jared could utter a word, the hunchbacked old man suddenly thrust out both palms. The hands, akin to an eagle's talon, lunged toward Jared and Catalina.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4447 – It was too sudden, and Jared had not anticipated that this old man would suddenly make a move. For a moment, he couldn't react.

Surprisingly, it was the jade pendant worn by Catalina that suddenly emitted a burst of red light, causing the old man to momentarily falter.

Only then did Jared and Catalina react. They quickly retreated to the fourth floor.

"Mr. Chance, what's wrong?" Cyanna quickly inquired after seeing Jared and Catalina return hastily after they had just left and noticing their off-color complexions.

"A hunchbacked old man is upstairs. As soon as we got there, he suddenly attacked us!"

Catalina spoke out in considerable frustration.

"Hunchbacked old man?" Coall was utterly bewildered.

"That guy, true to his Veil Dragon lineage, really knows how to disguise himself. I'd bet even his appearance is a facade!" Jared exclaimed.

"Mr. Chance, can you confirm that guy is also a Draconian?" asked Cyanna.

Jared nodded and said, "Yes. I investigated the moment I arrived on the fifth floor, but I just didn't expect him to launch a surprise attack."

"My life-saving token... Poor thing..."

Catalina held her broken jade pendant, her expression filled with sorrow.

Had it not been for the sudden activation of the life-saving token earlier, they both would have fallen victim to that old man's malicious intent.

"Ms. Lantz, I'm sorry..." Jared said apologetically.

After all, Catalina's jade pendant saved him just a moment ago.

“Forget it. It didn’t only save you. This jade pendant was originally meant to save my life. If worst comes to worst, I can just ask my master to give me another one when I get back. What do we do next? I guess we can’t go any further, right?” Catalina asked.

“I have to go back. I’ll try to see if I can get Ms. Cyanna and Coall out of here,” Jared said.

Upon hearing that, Coall and Cyanna were instantly thrilled. “Many thanks, Mr. Chance...”

If they could leave that tower, they would finally be free, no longer trapped there.

“Coall, Mr. Chance has already helped us so much. Aren’t you going to share some of your magical items with them?” Cyanna asked Coall.

Jared probably felt too embarrassed to ask directly. After all, they were Draconians, so it was up to Cyanna to speak up.

Coall was taken aback. Afterward, with a bitter expression, he said, “Those magical items aren’t mine, and I can’t get them. They’ve been here since I was sealed here. These might belong to the one who was sealed before me.”

“Not yours?”

At the same time, Jared and the others turned their gaze toward Coall.

They had always thought that those shimmering magical items belonged to Coall, but to their surprise, this man actually claimed they were not his.

With that in mind, Jared found himself intrigued by these magical items. Seeing as they were unclaimed, there was no harm in him taking them all.

“Mr. Chance, you need to be careful. That lightning beast went for the magical items just now and got completely obliterated,” Cloud quickly reminded.

“It really wasn’t my doing, and it doesn’t concern me. These magical items may appear to be within reach, but in reality, they’re in a different dimension. You can only obtain them by entering that space. Trying to grab them directly, it’s simply impossible to get them,” Coall quickly clarified.

The person who had just obliterated the lightning beast was not him.

“So, who exactly was the previous person held captive here?” Cyanna curiously asked.

Coall shook his head, saying, “I’m not entirely sure. After all, I’ve never gotten close to those things before.”

Jared slowly made his way toward the magical items. After that, he activated his Nethersky Eye.

Under the scrutiny of Nethersky Eye, these so- called magical items lost all their luster, proving they were not magical items at all.

“Is all of this really just a deception?”

Jared’s brows furrowed slightly before he reached out to grasp a magical item.

“Don’t...”

Observing the situation, Catalina, who was standing nearby, stepped forward and grabbed hold of Jared, attempting to stop him.

However, just as she grabbed hold of Jared, he had already seized the magical items.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4448 – There wasn’t any terrifying force that struck, but rather, with a ripple through the void, Jared and Catalina had surprisingly vanished without a trace.

“Mr. Chance! Mr. Chance!”

Upon seeing the situation, Cloud was immediately thrown into a panic, hastily crying out in alarm.

Cyanna also furrowed her brow, asking, “What’s going on? Could it be that Mr. Chance and the other have been taken into a different dimension?”

“Don’t worry. They can’t leave this place. The restrictions of this tower are such that even using teleportation magecrafts, there’s no way they can get out. They’re still in this tower right now. It’s just that they’re no longer in the same dimension as us! However, they should be able to return soon...” Coall comforted Cyanna.

Upon hearing Coall’s words, Cyanna finally breathed a sigh of relief.

At that moment, Jared and Catalina found themselves transported into another dimension.

However, as they looked around, it was evident that they were still on the fourth floor of the tower. The only difference was that Cloud and the others were nowhere to be found.

Moreover, the floor within the tower was strewn with all sorts of odds and ends, rendering it extremely disordered.

Looking around, Catalina asked in utter confusion, "What's going on? Why does it seem like this tower has changed? Where is everyone else?"

Jared's brow furrowed slightly as he said, "There's a good chance we've stepped into a different dimension. Even though we are still within the tower, we're no longer on the same plane as the others, which is why we can't see them."

Amidst the recent tremors in the void, Jared had sensed that they were likely drawn into another dimension.

"What do we do, then? How are we supposed to get back?" Catalina asked with a hint of fear.

Gazing at the scattered items on the ground, Jared said, "It's all right. As long as we break through this dimension, we can return. Let's first see if there are any valuable things here. I believe these items must have been left behind by the person who was sealed on this floor before!"

Jared trailed behind Catalina, observing the various items strewn across the ground. Many of them were already damaged, leaving them to wonder if it was the result of deliberate actions or simply the ravages of time.

At that moment, a flash of golden light suddenly sparkled, and Jared followed in the direction of the golden light.

Accompanied by a golden light, a scroll surprisingly began to unfold slowly in mid-air.

On that scroll, there was surprisingly a vague illusory shadow.

"What is this?" Catalina asked, her face filled with astonishment as she looked at the scroll.

Jared didn't say a word. Instead, he was fixated on the illusory shadow. He couldn't help but wonder if that illusory shadow was the predecessor who was sealed. Is this illusory shadow left within the scroll, awaiting its destined beholder?

While Jared was deep in thought, suddenly, the illusory shadow began to gradually alter. Astonishingly, it transformed into a magic sword suspended above the scroll.

It appeared not as if it was merely painted but rather like a genuine, magic sword.

Jared gazed at the magic sword and reached out to touch it. However, with that single touch, the sword began to tremble violently. Following this, an immense suction force started to draw from within Jared, like a tidal wave rushing toward the sword.

Jared was taken aback, his whole being rapidly retreating. However, the pull from the magic sword persisted, relentlessly draining the strength from his body.

Upon seeing the situation, Jared hastily drew his Dragonslayer Sword, intending to destroy that scroll.

Surely, he couldn't let all of his strength get drained away.

However, just as the Dragonslayer Sword was unsheathed, it unexpectedly flew straight into the scroll.

All that could be heard was the resonating hum of the Dragonslayer Sword. Astonishingly, two swords were clashing within that scroll, creating a symphony of rivalry.

As the clash of the two swords echoed, the sudden suction force had also vanished.

Seizing the opportunity, Jared reached out to grab the sword.

This time, Jared held onto the magic sword tightly, his immense spiritual sense enveloping the sword.

He wanted to find out what this magic sword was all about. How could it possibly absorb my power so suddenly?

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4449 – Just then, Jared, clutching the magic sword, astonishingly stepped right into the scroll painting himself.

In just a blink of an eye, the magic sword Jared had seized transformed into a beam of light, piercing straight into Jared's forehead.

Boom!

Jared could sense countless lights radiating around him. These lights were densely packed, relentlessly surging into his body.

However, amidst all these lights, Jared didn't sense any danger, nor did he feel anything at all.

Within him, an inexplicable force was rapidly growing.

"Sword intent? Could this be sword intent?" Jared was shocked.

Even though Jared had once demonstrated his sword intent, he was unable to control it. Moreover, his understanding of sword intent was only half-baked at best.

However, at that moment, Jared suddenly became aware of an inexplicable force within him. It was actually sword intent.

Countless sword intents were continually flooding into Jared's body.

Jared, on the other hand, had his eyes slightly closed, basking in the growth of his sword intent.

At that moment, Catalina was terrified.

"Jared! Jared!"

She stared at the scroll, calling out incessantly.

However, Jared remained motionless as if he hadn't heard a thing.

Catalina was on the verge of tears. If Jared were to get trapped within that scroll, what on earth would I do? How am I supposed to leave this dimension?

Catalina attempted to immerse herself in the scroll painting, but despite several attempts, she was unsuccessful.

After an indeterminable amount of time, Jared slowly opened his eyes. He was surrounded by ink-like darkness as if submerged in water, the space around him pulsating with waves.

Jared reached out and grasped the Dragonslayer Sword. With just a light swing, a surge of immense sword intent erupted, completely enveloping the surrounding space.

With just a gentle wave, the space around Jared began to shift, as if he were enveloped in a large bubble.

“What is this?”

Jared’s face was filled with disbelief as he observed the transformation of the space around him.

At that moment, Vermilion Demon Lord uttered, “Could this be the sword domain? Although I’m not a swordsman myself, I’ve heard of the sword domain before.”

“Sword domain? What does that mean?” Jared asked, his face filled with surprise.

Vermilion Demon Lord responded, “Sword domain is a dimension, a domain carved out by the sword. Within this domain, you are the master! It’s just that your current strength isn’t enough, and this sword domain is a bit too small for you... However, to be able to establish a sword domain, that person would indeed be an exceptional person.”

“This...”

Incredulously, Jared watched as the space around him transformed.

He had never imagined that he could carve out a domain of his own. In the vast universe, amidst countless cosmos, there existed many spatial worlds. Yet, these were all created with a mere wave of the hand by the supreme beings.

However, those individuals were from the celestial realm, and they were incredibly impressive rulers.

Jared was merely a minor Tribulator, yet he could truly carve out a domain of his own within this vast cosmos.

Even though the domain was small, it was indeed a good beginning.

Jared’s hand, gripping the Dragonslayer Sword, quivered slightly. His excitement was palpable!

With his newfound understanding of sword intent, Jared held the Dragonslayer Sword. The sensation of his sword intent was even more pronounced.

Once again, Jared swung his Dragonslayer Sword with all his might.

Boom!

In an instant, a terrifying surge of sword intent erupted, shattering the sword domain he had crafted and causing the entire tower to quiver violently.

The scroll vanished with Jared’s strike, revealing his figure before Catalina.

At that moment, Jared finally understood. The scroll must have been the sword domain created by the previous person who was sealed here.

That person had intentionally left behind the magic sword, waiting for the one destined to find it!

Upon seeing Jared emerge, Catalina hastily said, "When you stepped into that scroll, you scared me to death..."

"There was no danger within that scroll. It was safe."

With a slight smile, Jared stowed away his Dragonslayer Sword.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4450 – He didn't discuss the sword domain matters with Catalina. After all, her identity remained a mystery to him. Jared couldn't possibly share everything with Catalina.

"Let's get out of here quickly. I feel a bit uneasy in this place!" Catalina started to feel a sense of fear. Something about this place just didn't feel right to her.

However, Jared was not in a hurry to leave. Perhaps among these disarrayed items, there could be magical items.

"No rush. Let's keep looking. We might still find other magical items. Since we took the risk to come here once, we should try to gain as much as we can!"

After Jared finished speaking, he began rummaging through those items.

"Stop searching. Instead of doing this, you might as well take everything!"

After Catalina finished speaking, she took out her item pouch. With a grand sweep of her hand, all the items in the field were swiftly gathered into the item pouch.

Regardless of whether it was a magical item or trash, everything was collected.

Rather than painstakingly searching there, it would be better to look outside.

Catalina couldn't bear to stay there for another moment.

Seeing the situation, Jared could only laugh helplessly. "All right. Let's go out, then. I suppose everyone else must be getting anxious."

After Jared finished speaking, he glanced around. They were indeed on the fourth floor of the tower, but due to the differing dimensions, they couldn't see Cloud and the others.

However, this dimension could be breached. Given that the previous sealed one could lure others into this place using magical items from different dimensions, there had to be a way out. After all, they shared the same dimension. No matter how the dimensions shifted, they were still within the tower.

Hence, going back and finding Cloud and the others would be a breeze.

Jared drew his Dragonslayer Sword, channeling an impulse of sword intent into it. The Dragonslayer Sword resonated with the hum of a dragon's roar.

"Let me break through this dimension and see..."

After Jared spoke, he was about to swing his sword, intending to use brute force to shatter the dimension.

Just as Jared was about to unsheathe his sword, a sudden spatial fluctuation occurred. Surprisingly, Cloud and the others appeared.

Upon seeing the situation, Jared hastily withdrew his hand. If he had struck with his sword, he might have inadvertently hurt someone.

"Mr. Chance!"

Upon seeing Jared and Catalina, Cloud quickly called out.

"How did it go? Did you gain anything?"

"I have the feeling that the previous person who was sealed here was quite an impressive character..." Coall said.

"There really wasn't any magical item, just a pile of junk," Jared said with a slight smile.

"Let's get out of here. I have this unsettling feeling!"

Catalina's complexion was somewhat off, and she urged Jared to leave the tower.

"All right. Let's go!"

Jared gave a nod.

"Mr. Chance, could you also take us out?" Cyanna quickly asked.

"Of course. We're all of the same kind. I can't possibly stand by and watch as you're being sealed here," Jared said.

Cyanna and Coall were both Draconians. Even though they weren't from the same faction, when a fellow Draconian was in trouble, it was impossible for Jared to just turn a blind eye.

"Many thanks, Mr. Chance!"

Cyanna and Coall were both elated as they bowed respectfully to Jared.

Descending from the fourth floor, the journey was surprisingly smooth.

Jared effortlessly broke through the restriction that blocked the passage from the third floor to the second.

The restriction on the passage from the second floor to the first was just the same.

Although Cyanna and Coall were utterly shocked as they observed the scenes unfolding on the first and second floors, they had never known that such brutal sights could exist right under their feet.

They couldn't comprehend who could possibly be responsible for such an act. What is the purpose of the corpse on the first floor and the body on the second floor? Could it be that there's actually someone inside this tower cultivating with ghoulish energy? Which floor is that guy on? Given the numerous layers of separation, logically speaking, how could one possibly achieve this without anyone noticing? After all, every individual who is sealed here isn't an ordinary cultivator. They're all people of great strength and power!