

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE

/ A Man Like None Other

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4451 – However, at that moment, they no longer had the time to ponder on those matters. The exit was right before their eyes. Both Cyanna and Coall were growing increasingly impatient.

Once they stepped out of there, they were free.

Jared and his group were the first to exit the tower. After that, they turned to Cyanna and Coall, saying, “You two try to come out slowly. If you can’t, I’ll help you break the array...”

Jared knew that besides the restrictions on each level, there must be more restriction arcane arrays around the tower. However, he wanted to let Cyanna and Coall give it a try first.

The two of them nodded, slowly making their way toward the exit.

Just as they were nearing the exit, a strange flash of white light suddenly erupted. Both Cyanna and Coall were instantly thrown backward.

In an instant, countless mysterious runes appeared around the tower. These runes radiated a peculiar power, enveloping the entire tower.

At that moment, the four stone lions surrounding the tower seemed to come to life within the radiance, letting out earth-shaking roars.

Upon witnessing this scene, Jared was utterly dumbfounded. He hadn’t expected the restriction arcane arrays outside the tower to be so incredibly powerful.

He didn’t even have the courage to attempt breaking the arcane arrays anymore.

Accompanied by the roars of the four stone lions, the entire tower, wrapped in a radiant glow, began to blur gradually as if it was about to vanish into thin air.

At the same time, a terrifying and immense force enveloped Jared and his companions, rendering them completely immobile.

Just like that, panic seized Jared and his companions.

Suddenly, a few beams of light shot out from the mouths of those four stone lions, heading straight for Jared and his companions.

The group of people, utterly immobilized, were dumbfounded by the sudden burst of light. They didn't have the slightest ability to resist.

Jared was desperate to break free from this overpowering force, but his efforts were utterly futile.

As Jared and his companions were on the brink of death under the radiant light, a figure slowly emerged.

The figure was seen clad in a robe, sporting a streak of white in his beard, with a cane in his hand.

With a gentle sweep of the cane in his hand, the streaks of light vanished instantly.

"Master..."

Initially, Catalina was certain that she was doomed. However, upon seeing the old priest, she immediately burst into excited exclamations.

Jared and his companions were also taken aback as they stared at the old priest before them.

The radiant glow that had just erupted from those four stone lions was incredibly terrifying in its intensity.

Surprisingly, the old priest before him lightly waved his cane and managed to block it.

Moreover, judging from the other party's demeanor, he wasn't even his true self.

"Lina, are you all right?" The old priest asked Catalina with concern.

"Master, I'm fine!" Catalina nodded.

"My calculations were off. I foresaw everything, but I didn't predict that Demon Seal Tower would appear here. Thankfully, I've arrived just in time. Otherwise, you would have been dead. In the future, don't ever dare to recklessly venture into unknown territories again," the old priest reprimanded Catalina.

"Understood!" Catalina nodded.

Jared knew that Catalina's master must be incredibly impressive, so he asked, "Sir, what exactly is this Demon Seal Tower? Who are the people being sealed inside? Could you possibly help me rescue the two people inside? They're right at the tower's exit!"

The old priest merely glanced at Jared. After that, with a slight smile, he said, "Demon Seal Tower is filled with Draconians. I have no ties with them, so why should I save them?"

Jared was taken aback. He hadn't expected that Demon Seal Tower was actually restraining Draconians.

Jared asked in confusion, "Why? Why are these Draconians being sealed?"

The old priest looked at Jared and responded, "You're quite talkative, aren't you? Why should I tell you anything? Who do you think you are? You're not my disciple's man. What makes you think I should help you?"

"Master..." Catalina's face suddenly turned red.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4452 – "I..." Jared was at a loss for words. He's right, after all. Why should he share anything with me when we're unrelated? Why should he help me to save someone?

"S-So if I become your disciple's man, could you help me?" Jared glanced at Cyanna and Coall inside the tower, gritting his teeth. I have to make a sacrifice to ensure that both Cyanna and Coall are rescued! Moreover, Catalina is quite attractive, so it's not like I'm at a disadvantage!

"Brat, you said it yourself. There's no backing out now..." The old priest immediately burst into laughter.

"Master, what are you talking about? I..."

Upon hearing that, Catalina became somewhat anxious. What on earth is going on? He's only arrived and is already on the hunt for a man for me! It's so embarrassing, especially in front of others!

"Lina, just be quiet and listen..."

The old priest told Catalina to keep quiet.

"Sir, I won't back out. Please save those two!" Jared pleaded.

The old priest looked at Jared and said, "I can't save them. Their fate is bound to this disaster. Unless a Golden Dragon descended, no one would be able to rescue them from the tower.

The only one who can save them is you, but you simply don't have the capability now."

Jared was slightly taken aback. He hadn't expected this old priest to discern his identity at first glance.

"Sir, when will I be able to save them? This tower seems to be disappearing. Where am I supposed to find this Demon Seal Tower then?"

Jared stared at Demon Seal Tower before him, which was gradually fading as if it could vanish at any moment.

“Demon Seal Tower isn’t located in a fixed place. Instead, it roams the boundless universe. Once it leaves here, no one knows where it’ll end up in next. Finding Demon Seal Tower and rescuing them is up to you. I can’t interfere! Don’t forget what you promised. You’re my disciple’s man!”

After the old priest finished speaking, his figure gradually faded away.

Upon hearing that, Jared instantly felt like cursing. Did I just sacrifice myself for nothing? What the f*ck?

The old priest seemed to notice Jared’s dissatisfaction, so he chuckled and said, “Brat, we can consider ourselves old friends now...”

After he spoke, a gentle white light radiated from the old priest. The light shone on several people, and they instantly felt a sense of relief throughout their bodies.

Jared was still puzzled. Old friends? I don’t even know this old priest!

However, when the white light illuminated him, Jared suddenly remembered something. This soft white light feels incredibly familiar! When I was in Rock Village, I was enveloped by this white light...

“Mr. Chance!”

At that moment, the sound of Cyanna’s cry jolted Jared out of his reverie.

“Ms. Cyanna, I’ll find a way to save you all...”

Jared drew his Dragonslayer Sword, determined to give it a forceful attempt.

“Mr. Chance, please stop worrying about us and don’t take any more risks. Take my draconic essence. When the time comes, you can use this draconic essence to find out where we are.”

Cyanna spat out a red draconic essence from her mouth and forcefully threw it to Jared.

“Mr. Chance, I trust in you. I’m certain that you can save us in the future. The future of Draconians now rests on your shoulders!” Cyanna shouted.

Jared caught the draconic essence from Cyanna. As he was about to say something, Demon Seal Tower slowly faded away, its next destination unknown.

Holding Cyanna’s draconic essence, Jared felt a peculiar sensation in his heart.

He felt utterly powerless. If only he had been stronger, perhaps he could have saved Cyanna and the others.

Demon Seal Tower had then vanished, and Jared hadn't even fully grasped what the tower was all about.

A sense of helplessness welled up from the depths of Jared's heart.

"Don't worry. I will definitely rescue you all!"

Jared's eyes sparkled with a determined look, instantly suppressing any sense of helplessness.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4453 – Jared knew the responsibility on his shoulders was growing larger and larger..

He had no choice but to strive with all his might.

"Jared, don't take my master's words seriously from earlier. Just consider it a joke," Catalina said to Jared.

"Ms. Lantz, when I give my word, it carries weight. What I promise, I must deliver. I'm your man now, and I'm always available whenever you need me. Rest assured, I'll make sure to meet your needs," Jared said with a serious expression.

On the side, Cloud and Judith looked at Jared, who was full of awe-inspiring righteousness. They couldn't help but find it extremely amusing. Jared's audacity to speak so righteously about such matters shows how shameless he truly is! Is he really expecting the girl to take the initiative and approach him?

Catalina was also amused by Jared's antics. After giving him a playful glare, she turned around and walked away.

However, during the time they spent together, Catalina had indeed developed quite a fondness for Jared.

Otherwise, based on Jared's statement of satisfying her, Catalina would have already showered him with a barrage of insults.

If a man she didn't fancy spoke to her in such a manner, it would feel like harassment.

If a man she liked spoke in such a way, it would feel like he was flirting.

Jared, at this moment, belonged to the latter category.

In other words, Catalina was starting to develop feelings for Jared.

Outside the Celestial Battlefield, Leftblind and Rightblind were still locked in fierce combat with Ruth and Seth.

Ruth and Seth were locked in a fierce battle while simultaneously trying to escape. Meanwhile, Leftblind was desperately chasing after them. He needed to vent his pent-up rage.

Despite Rightblind's strenuous efforts to prevent it, it was all in vain.

Unbeknownst to them, they had already ventured far from Mount Gonagles.

After Catalina and her companions emerged from the Celestial Battlefield, they found no trace of Leftblind and Rightblind.

Only the bodies of those guards, armed with blades, lay chillingly scattered around.

The color drained from Catalina's face, leaving her looking extremely distressed.

She was well aware of the capabilities of Leftblind and Rightblind.

Although those sword-bearing guards only possessed the strength equivalent to a Tribulator, their loyalty was unmatched. The combined force of these guards was not to be underestimated.

"Who on earth dares to make a move against my people?"

The color had drained from Catalina's face to an alarming degree.

"Let's go and find your people. Your subordinates have quite the temper, so there's a chance they might end up in trouble," Jared said to Catalina.

In an instant, Catalina's silhouette leaped up, heading toward Leftblind and Rightblind.

Jared and the others were closely following behind.

Catalina quickly caught up with Leftblind and Rightblind, who were both embroiled in a heated battle. Seeing this, she shouted out loud, "Stop!"

Seeing Catalina emerge, both of them immediately stopped what they were doing.

Ruth and Seth were drenched in sweat, seizing the opportunity to catch their breaths.

They had already sent out a distress signal.

They believed it wouldn't be long before Gatlin would arrive with reinforcements.

All that was needed then was to stall for a bit of time.

“What’s going on?” Catalina asked, turning to Leftblind.

After all, Leftblind had been keeping watch outside from the very beginning, so he would undoubtedly know the cause of the incident.

“Ms. Lantz, these two guys wanted to get in without giving the spiritual stones. I didn’t allow it, and that’s when the fight broke out,” Leftblind said.

Catalina knew Leftblind’s temper probably got him into trouble again because of his loose tongue.

“Why did you two fellow cultivators have a conflict with my people, and even go as far as killing my guards?” Catalina questioned Ruth and Seth.

“Demon Seal Alliance never needed a reason to kill. Let me tell you something. Our leader will be here any moment now. Kneel down and apologize now, and I might just let you scurry off. Otherwise, you’re in for an ugly end!” Ruth said to Catalina.

Catalina’s expression turned icy. “Are you guys from Demon Seal Alliance?”

“Indeed, we are from Demon Seal Alliance. Since you’re aware of Demon Seal Alliance, you must also understand the extent of our influence.”

Ruth spoke with an air of arrogance.

“Kill them. I can’t stand people from Demon Seal Alliance!” There was a fleeting murderous glint in Catalina’s eyes.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4454 – What’s going on? Ruth and Seth were utterly bewildered. They couldn’t comprehend who these people were and why they showed no fear toward Demon Seal Alliance.

Furthermore, whenever Demon Seal Alliance was mentioned, these people would become instantly agitated.

At that moment, the two individuals noticed Jared and his companions trailing behind Catalina. Instantly, they understood the reason these people acted that way. These people are indeed with Jared!

It was no wonder the mere mention of Demon Seal Alliance made them anxious. After all, Demon Seal Alliance had issued a hundred-year offering to hunt Jared down.

The people who were with Jared, naturally, despised Demon Seal Alliance.

Realizing what was going on, Ruth and Seth prepared themselves for battle. They were not far from Quinlan Town then, so they thought Gatlin would be arriving with reinforcements any moment.

Upon hearing Catalina's command, Leftblind immediately sprang into action. He pointed at Ruth and exclaimed, "F*ck! Today, I'm going to end your pathetic little life..."

Leftblind roared in fury as he charged toward Ruth.

Ruth, too, was scolded until his face contorted with anger. He also threw a punch toward Leftblind.

Rightblind and Seth had simultaneously sprung into action, plunging the group once again into a chaotic melee.

Catalina simply watched in silence, seemingly having no intention of intervening.

"Ms. Lantz, it seems like these Demon Seal Alliance folks might have reinforcements. Should we lend a hand to wrap things up quickly?" Jared asked Catalina.

With a frosty gaze, Catalina replied, "Having help is great. It's just perfect to catch them all in one swoop. These guys from Demon Seal Alliance all deserve to die!"

Upon observing the situation, Jared chose to remain silent. He couldn't comprehend why Catalina harbored such intense hatred toward Demon Seal Alliance.

While the group was deeply engrossed in battle, a sudden wave of terrifying aura swept over them from afar.

Both Jared and Catalina's expressions subtly shifted when they felt the aura.

At the same moment, both Leftblind and Rightblind were retreating in unison. They didn't stop until they had backed up by several hundred meters.

Upon seeing the situation, Ruth and Seth hurriedly shouted out, "Mr. Gatlin!"

Catalina and Jared turned toward the ominous aura, only to see an old man with a hunched back slowly emerging.

Jared and Catalina's expressions turned incredibly grave when they saw the sudden appearance of the hunched old man.

Catalina was in disbelief. "A Fourth Level in Ultimate Realm? Are there really people of such high strength in the eastern region?"

Jared also wore a somber expression. He hadn't expected Demon Seal Alliance to actually send out such an expert.

An expert of the Fourth Level in Ultimate Realm was certainly determined to drive Jared to the brink of destruction.

A chill ran through both Leftblind and Rightblind when they saw the hunchbacked old man before them.

The hunchbacked old man, Gatlin, didn't even glance at anyone else. Instead, he walked up to Jared and asked, "Are you Jared?"

"Yes!" Jared fearlessly nodded.

"You've got some nerve, admitting who you really are. So, did you know I was coming for you?"

Gatlin squinted his eyes slightly, offering a faint smile as he spoke.

"Yes!" Jared still nodded.

"If you knew, then why didn't you run or hide your identity?" Gatlin asked with a hint of confusion.

Even though Jared knew that he was from Demon Seal Alliance and was there to capture him, he surprisingly showed no fear and didn't even attempt to flee.

"That's because I don't take you seriously!" Jared uttered with a look of disdain on his face.

"How audacious..."

Gatlin was infuriated. With a subtle stomp of his foot, instantly, a terrifying aura radiated from beneath him.

Jared's eyes narrowed, as all kinds of power within him erupted instantly. His Golem Body was activated in no time, covering his entire body in golden scales.

Upon seeing the situation, Catalina also pushed out her palm. Golden runes materialized, one after another. Soon after, a golden shield emerged, safeguarding everyone within its confines.

Boom!

The force struck against the golden shield, instantly shattering it into pieces.

Gatlin turned to Catalina. "What's your relationship with Abbot Infinides?"

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4455 – "Mind your own business!" Catalina huffed coldly.

"Hmph! The only reason you can talk to me like this is because I'm showing respect for Abbot Infinides. Do you have any idea what happens when you cross paths with Demon Seal Alliance? If you leave right now, I'll act as if nothing happened. However, Jared must stay," Gatlin sneered at Catalina.

Catalina, however, gave a cold laugh, saying, "Impossible! I've got Jared's back..."

"You're protecting him? What is he to you that you would defend him? Do you even know that he's the one we, Demon Seal Alliance, are hunting with a hundred-year offering?" Gatlin asked.

"He's my man, so naturally, I have to protect him," Catalina replied in a subdued manner.

Jared looked at Catalina with a hint of surprise. He hadn't expected her to say something like that.

Leftblind and Rightblind were both visibly shocked. It was clear that before entering the Celestial Battlefield, Jared and Catalina were complete strangers to each other. How did they end up in a romantic relationship in such a short span of time? Isn't this too fast?

"Haha! Are you sure you want to protect him?"

Gatlin roared with laughter.

"Of course! Who else am I supposed to protect? An old geezer like you?"

With a smirk, Catalina scolded Gatlin.

Gatlin's eyes hardened, his voice frosty as he said, "Don't think that being associated with Abbot Infinides gives you the right to speak to me like this. By doing this, you're opposing the entire Demon Seal Alliance. Do you have any idea how formidable Demon Seal Alliance is?"

"To me, Demon Seal Alliance is nothing but a joke. I just love killing their members," Catalina stated nonchalantly.

Jared watched Catalina, surprised by her unexpected resilience.

Jared's curiosity about Catalina's identity was growing more intense. Who exactly is she to be able to dismiss Demon Seal Alliance with such nonchalance?

Infinides was Catalina's master, the very same old priest that Jared had met himself.

Infinides' strength was indeed unfathomable. Otherwise, Gatlin wouldn't have spoken in such a manner.

"Well, aren't you a cheeky little thing, daring to speak ill of Demon Seal Alliance. I don't care who you are to Abbot Infinides. Today, I will strip you and let my two disciples have their fill of fun."

Gatlin glared at Catalina fiercely as he spoke.

Upon hearing those words, Ruth and Seth instantly lit up with excitement, exclaiming loudly, "Thank you, Mr. Gatlin! It's been a while since we've been with a woman."

"You jerk!"

Infuriated, Catalina swiftly slapped Gatlin.

However, with a light step, Gatlin unleashed a force so devastating that it enveloped the area within tens of kilometers in an instant.

Jared's face drastically changed when he saw the situation. Facing a Fourth Level cultivator of Ultimate Realm, Jared knew he was no match.

Feeling the terrifying power, Jared had no choice but to rely on the strength of Vermilion Demon Lord.

"Sir, help me..."

Jared began pleading for help from Vermilion Demon Lord.

Regardless of whether his body could endure it or not, he had no choice but to rely on Vermilion Demon Lord to withstand this terrifying power.

Despite Jared's repeated calls, Vermilion Demon Lord didn't respond at all. He didn't even bother to reply. It was as if he had somehow lost connection with Jared.

Seeing Gatlin about to charge toward him, Jared was consumed with anxiety.

Catalina, however, was not as panicked. Instead, she called out loudly, "Master, I know you're here!"

Boom!

As soon as Catalina finished speaking, a beam of light suddenly emerged from the void, swiftly dissipating the terrifying force that was present.

Gatlin was also sent flying backward from the shock.

As the glow gradually faded, an illusory shadow materialized. It was the old priest with his cane.

"Master!"

Upon seeing Infinides, Catalina quickly called out to him.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4456 – Jared also bowed deeply in respect. Regardless of what the old priest was like, at that moment, he was the only one who could save Jared and his companions.

At that moment, Gatlin was staring intently at Infinides. "Infinides, I am from Demon Seal Alliance-"

Infinides interrupted him bluntly, "I don't care about your so-called Demon Seal Alliance. Anyone who dares to bully my disciple will face certain death, especially those from Demon Seal Alliance."

After he finished speaking, Infinides launched a powerful punch.

With just this punch, an overwhelming aura surged toward Gatlin.

In just a fleeting moment, Gatlin was sent flying, while Ruth and Seth, were directly struck down, severely injured and incapable of getting back up.

Just like that, a mere illusory shadow had managed to suppress a Fourth Level Ultimate Realm cultivator.

Jared was utterly astounded. He couldn't fathom just how immense Infinides' power truly was.

Who is Infinides? How could he possess such terrifying power? Does he belong to the northern region or the eastern region?

As Jared was pondering over Infinides' identity, Gatlin came to a halt, his face turning incredibly unsightly.

He was internally astounded. He hadn't anticipated that Infinides' strength would be so terrifying.

Although he had heard of Infinides' formidable reputation in the past, he had never personally crossed paths with Infinides. After today's battle, he finally understood the extent of his opponent's strength.

Someone merely showed up as a mere illusory shadow, and yet, he was beaten so badly.

With such a gap in strength, even a fool would know what to do next.

Gatlin swiftly grabbed both Ruth and Seth. Then, without a second thought, he turned and bolted.

Staying would simply spell death for all three of them.

"F*ck! Trying to escape, are you?" Upon seeing this, Catalina was about to give chase.

However, Infinides intercepted her and said, "Don't pursue a desperate enemy. I was merely trying to scare them off just now. I'm nothing more than an illusory shadow, incapable of lasting very long."

No sooner had Infinides finished speaking, than his figure simply vanished.

At the very moment the figure of Infinides vanished, a multitude of terrifying auras emerged from the void.

This time, Jared was taken aback. Just as three had left, dozens more appeared. If they were also from Demon Seal Alliance, then he would be in trouble.

"Don't worry; they're here for me," Catalina told Jared.

Before long, dozens of figures emerged, each garbed in white combat attire, brandishing long swords. They appeared more formidable than the swordsmen Catalina had initially brought along.

All these individuals were Tribulators, with a middle-aged man, who was in the Ultimate Realm, leading them. This man exuded a profound energy that Jared could perceive in an instant. It was clear to him that the man was practicing a superior cultivation technique.

The middle-aged man approached Catalina and, dropping to one knee, he said, "Your Highness, His Majesty has ordered us to escort you back to the imperial city. Your unsanctioned departure has greatly upset him."

Upon hearing this, Catalina immediately pouted and said angrily, "My mentor had sent me out; I didn't sneak out on my own. I'm certain he didn't mention it to Father. I'll have a word with him when I return."

"You should go back and explain everything to His Majesty, Your Highness." After the middle-aged man finished speaking, he was about to take Catalina away.

Catalina gestured with her hand as she said, "Wait a moment; let me say a few words."

At that moment, Jared was totally flabbergasted on the side. He hadn't expected that Catalina would turn out to be a princess.

No wonder she seemed so impressive! Turns out, she had an imperial city backing her up!

However, Jared had no idea which imperial city Catalina was from.

There doesn't seem to be an imperial city in the entire eastern region, right?

"I hope you can make it quick, Your Highness," said the middle-aged man before he stepped aside.

Catalina turned to Jared, offering him a slight smile as she said, "I'm about to leave, Jared. Is there anything you want to tell me?"

"Tell you what?" Jared asked, utterly bewildered.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4457 – Catalina stared at Jared as she questioned him, “I did save your life, you know. Don’t you have anything to say to me? Moreover, you’re already my man now. Your woman is about to leave you; don’t you have anything to say?”

“Which imperial city are you from?” Jared asked.

Catalina pouted. “Is that all you’re going to say? I’m not allowed to reveal my identity. Father forbade me from telling anyone.”

“I’m your man, aren’t I? Can’t you even tell me?”

Jared was somewhat at a loss for words.

“No, I can’t. We’re not even truly husband and wife yet. What makes you think you’re my man? If you truly wish to be my man, then you must seek my father’s approval for our union. Only his consent holds any weight.”

After Catalina finished speaking, she turned around, ready to leave.

“Where should I look for you? I don’t even know where you are!” Jared asked with a hint of urgency.

“I’ll tell you later,” Catalina said, before leaving with the guards.

Leftblind and Rightblind looked toward Jared, their gazes filled with a touch of confusion.

“Hey, brat! With just this much skill, you’re dreaming if you think you can become Ms. Lantz’s man. You probably won’t have the chance to see her again in the future, so just consider today’s events as a dream.”

After Leftblind finished speaking, he turned and vanished into thin air.

Rightblind, too, let out a cold laugh, a laugh filled with contempt, before he too disappeared.

It wasn’t until Catalina and her entourage had completely disappeared from sight, that Jared realized he had no idea which imperial city Catalina was a princess of.

Who exactly were these people? They’re being overly mysterious!

Seeing Jared still staring blankly, Judith expressed her dissatisfaction by saying, “Let’s go; they’re gone.”

“R-Right...” Jared said, feeling somewhat embarrassed.

He was originally accompanying Judith in search of Myocyte Grass, but was unexpectedly delayed by the sudden appearance of the Celestial Battlefield.

Jared and his companions returned to Mount Gonagles, embarking on their quest to find Myocyte Grass.

Judith searched with great intensity, for only Myocyte Grass could restore her beauty.

“Let’s split up and search. Mount Gonagles is very vast, so continuing like this isn’t going to work. I’m giving you all communication devices.

Whoever finds it, make contact immediately.”

Jared knew that, at the rate they were going, it would take forever to find that Myocyte Grass.

Only by searching separately could they increase their chances.

Luckily, the cultivators in the eastern region generally weren’t too powerful, so there wasn’t too much to worry about.

“All right.” Both Cloud and Judith nodded in agreement.

After handing over two communication devices to them, the trio then split up to search for Myocyte Grass.

“Jared! Jared!”

While Jared was engrossed in his search for Myocyte Grass, Catalina’s voice unexpectedly echoed by his ear.

Startled, Jared quickly turned around, but he couldn’t find any trace of Catalina.

But I clearly heard Catalina’s voice, didn’t I?

“Ms. Lantz, where are you?” Jared asked, quite taken aback.

“I’m on my way home!” Catalina exclaimed.

Jared was even more confused. He couldn’t understand how he had managed to hear Catalina’s voice.

We don’t have any communication devices, though.

“How are you able to contact me using telepathy while you’re on your way home?” Jared asked.

“I’m not telling you!” Catalina said with a laugh.

At that moment, behind Jared’s neck, a faint word “Lantz” was shimmering.

This was the imprint Catalina left on Jared while they were on the Celestial Battlefield.

There was no actual harm done to Jared's body; it was merely used for communication.

Catalina knew that she and Jared were destined to part ways sooner or later. As such, she adopted this method to stay connected at all times. Moreover, she could always keep track of Jared no matter where he was.

However, Jared himself was completely oblivious.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4458 – “It's fine if you're not going to tell me. I don't have time for idle chatter right now.”

Jared had no intention of continuing the conversation with Catalina. She was simply too mysterious for him to handle.

“Don't be like that! I-”

“Ms. Lantz, we are almost at the imperial city.”

The sound of Rightblind's voice echoed in Jared's ears, before abruptly cutting off.

“Ms. Lantz? Ms. Lantz?” Jared called out twice, but there was no response from Catalina.

“How odd...” Jared wore a slight frown, genuinely puzzled about how exactly Catalina managed to get in touch with him.

At that moment, Vermilion Demon Lord said, “Hey, brat! That little lady isn't as simple as she seems. She's already left her contractual imprint on you, so you're hers now. She can know your whereabouts at any time and in any place, and she is also able to contact you at will.”

“A contractual imprint? When did this happen? How come I wasn't aware?”

Jared was utterly dumbfounded. He couldn't recall any instance of Catalina leaving an imprint on him.

“She secretly left it on you when you carried her,” Vermilion Demon Lord said.

Upon hearing this, Jared recalled the time he carried Catalina on his back in the Celestial Battlefield, and there were indeed some suspicious circumstances.

He had only carried Catalina for a short while before she said she was fine and insisted that she didn't need to be carried anymore.

It seemed that this young lady had been planning this for quite some time.

“Where’s the imprint? I need to erase it.” Jared was on the hunt for the mark, not wanting to be under Catalina’s watchful eye wherever he went.

“No need to keep searching. What’s done can’t be undone, so just accept your fate. From now on, you won’t be able to escape that girl’s grasp,” Vermilion Demon Lord said with a gleeful delight in the face of disaster,

Jared was left speechless, and he could only sigh in response. However, he quickly remembered the incident where his calls to Vermilion Demon Lord were met with no response during their encounter with danger. He immediately asked, “Mr. Vermilion, why didn’t you respond to my calls when we were in danger just now? Were you scared too?”

“I fear nothing. In this Ethereal Realm, there’s no one left for me to fear. I simply didn’t want to give you the chance to play the hero and rescue the damsel in distress. You’ve always been a charmer, attracting so many women who would do anything for you. Despite my thousands of years of cultivation, I’ve never had a dual cultivation partner. I’ve only been in your consciousness field for a short time, and you’ve already toyed with so many women. It’s so unfair!” Vermilion Demon Lord exclaimed.

Upon hearing this, Jared could only shake his head, caught between laughter and despair. Vermilion Demon Lord was evidently green with envy after seeing the number of women by his side.

Jared stopped talking. Instead, he earnestly began his search for Myocyte Grass.

Twilight Imperial City was the imperial city of the Lantz family.

The city was magnificent and grand, covering an incredibly vast area. The city walls around it soared high, disappearing into the clouds, giving it the ethereal look of a celestial city.

Moreover, above the imperial city, the sun and moon simultaneously illuminated the sky, and countless spiritual energies were floating all around.

Such a vast city, and with an incredibly large area. If it were in Ethereal Realm, it would have been impossible to go unnoticed.

Yet, amongst the numerous cultivators in Ethereal Realm, very few knew about Twilight Imperial City.

Although Twilight Imperial City existed within Ethereal Realm, it was uniquely situated in a void. The entire city was actually within another dimension.

Hence, even after traversing through Ethereal Realm, one would not discover the existence of Twilight Imperial City.

Twilight Imperial City was originally a fortress in Ethereal Realm, but before the Celestial Battle, the founder of the Lantz family expended a thousand-year spirit ley line to transport Twilight Imperial City into a different dimension of time and space. This was how the city managed to avoid a catastrophic disaster.

Several millennia had passed, and following the Celestial Battle, the celestial realm began to thrive anew. Twilight Imperial City, too, reestablished its connection with this flourishing celestial world.

The individuals flanking Catalina, known as Leftblind and Rightblind, were once dark sorcerers of the celestial realm.

Simply because of the relentless pursuit by Demon Seal Alliance, the two had been forced to flee hither and thither. They were eventually rescued by Infinides, which led to their appearance in Twilight Imperial City.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4459 – Eventually, the two of them became Catalina's personal guards.

In Twilight Imperial City, there were many demonic cultivators who had been saved by Infinides.

"Ms. Lantz, we've arrived at the imperial city. Please, remember not to argue with your father," Rightblind quietly reminded Catalina.

When they journeyed to the Celestial Battlefield, they did not seek the approval of Catalina's father.

Although Infinides was aware, Catalina was still a princess. If something were to happen during her unauthorized visit to Ethereal Realm, no one could possibly bear such responsibility.

"I understand." Catalina nodded in agreement.

A group of people, accompanied by dozens of guards, grandly marched toward the city gates.

A faint smile graced Catalina's face. Even though she was aware she had made a mistake, she was absolutely fearless.

She was aware that her father cherished her the most; thus, the possibility of him punishing her was simply out of the question.

However, Leftblind and Rightblind bore a solemn expression on their faces. Despite knowing that the king would certainly show them respect as they were recommended by Infinides, they were also sure that a stern reprimand was inevitable.

Just as Catalina and her group had barely reached the city gates, they were abruptly stopped by someone.

A young man, draped in a long yellow robe and crowned with a golden circlet, exuded an air of nobility as he said, "Catalina, the imperial decree from Father was clear. Upon your return, you are not to enter the imperial city. Instead, you will head directly to Cloudstride Peak to reflect on your actions for ten years."

This individual was none other than Catalina's elder brother, Dorian Lantz, who also happened to be the crown prince of Twilight Imperial City.

"You'd better not be falsifying Father's decree, Dorian. I don't believe he would have me reflect on my actions for ten years. I need to find Father and get some clarity."

Ignoring Dorian's objections, Catalina was determined to rush into the city.

Dorian blocked Catalina's way and said, "Catalina, I assure you I didn't falsify Father's decree. That's exactly what Father said."

Upon seeing the situation, the two elders on either side, despite their desire to assist Catalina, dared not intervene. After all, this was a matter between the siblings.

Catalina glared at Dorian, her anger evident. "I know you've always harbored resentment toward me, Dorian. You despise the fact that Father favors me. But I'm a girl, so I could never compete with you for the throne. What's wrong with Father showing me some favoritism? Why are you always making things difficult for me? If you don't let me in today, I'll go find my mentor and ask him to help me clarify things. Why have I been forced to reflect on my actions for ten years?"

For as long as she could remember, Catalina never held much affection for her older brother. She always felt that he was narrow-minded and had a particular penchant for jealousy.

As the only girl among the nine royal children, Catalina was especially cherished by her father.

This stirred feelings of jealousy within Dorian, causing him to constantly pick on Catalina.

"What are you implying, Catalina? I am merely carrying out Father's decree. How could you interpret that as me giving you a hard time? Just so you know, Infinides is in the palace too, but he can't save you either!" Dorian said.

Upon hearing this, Catalina was instantly taken aback. I went to the Celestial Battlefield with my mentor's permission, so how could things have turned out this way?

However, Catalina was far from giving up. She planned to barge in and clarify things personally.

Upon seeing this, Dorian's expression turned cold. "Catalina, if you continue to act so unreasonably, then don't blame me for what I'll do."

After Dorian finished speaking, he gestured toward the guards at the city gate, saying, "Take the princess into custody."

Just as the guards were about to take action, suddenly a figure came rushing in.

"Hold it right there!"

A man, also dressed in a long yellow robe and carrying a long sword, came running over. "Dorian, Father has given an order for Catalina to enter the city."

This individual was the fourth prince, Fraser Lantz.

Upon seeing Fraser arrive, Catalina instantly broke into a smile. She stepped forward, grabbing Fraser's arm. "Let's go, Fraser."

"Wait a moment." Dorian's eyebrows furrowed slightly as he continued, "Fraser, you aren't falsely conveying Father's decree, are you?"

Father did tell me that he ordered Catalina to reflect for ten years."

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4460 – "Dorian, if you don't believe me, go ask Father. See if I'm lying about the imperial decree," Fraser declared confidently.

Dorian shot him a skeptical look before stepping aside. "Fine, I suppose you wouldn't dare lie. Go on, then."

As they entered the city gates, Catalina leaned closer to Fraser and whispered, "Fraser, was Father really angry?"

"Of course he was," Fraser replied with a sigh. "It took forever to convince him to let you in. And Abbot Infinides was there too, so you're not getting out of your punishment this time. But don't worry, your big brother's got your back." He reached out and gently patted her head.

"You're the best, Fraser," Catalina murmured, resting her head coyly on his shoulder.

Fraser shook his head with a chuckle. "You're all grown up now, but you still act like a little kid. If you keep this up, your future partner's going to get jealous."

Catalina replied without hesitation, "He wouldn't."

She was certain that Jared wouldn't get jealous just because she was acting spoiled around her brother.

Her certainty caught Fraser off guard. He stared at her for a moment, then asked, "Wait a second, Catalina. Do you have a dual cultivation partner?"

"I-I don't! Of course, I don't!" Catalina stammered, quickly trying to cover her slip-up.

Fraser narrowed his eyes. "Don't lie to me.

You've never been able to fool me, not since we were kids. This time, when you left Twilight Imperial City for the Ethereal Realm, did you meet someone you like?"

"No! Stop making things up. I didn't meet anyone!" Catalina's face flushed bright red as she turned and ran off.

Watching her retreat, Fraser felt certain-his little sister was in love.

"Both of you, come here," Fraser called, motioning to Leftblind and Rightblind who were standing nearby.

Leftblind and Rightblind, Catalina's bodyguards, exchanged glances before stepping forward.

Though technically not under Fraser's command and not part of the imperial city, the two respected his close relationship with Catalina and followed his instructions without hesitation.

"Tell me," Fraser began, his curiosity getting the better of him, "does my sister have someone she's fond of? Who is he? What's his status?"

"Your Highness, how could we, mere subordinates, know anything about Her Highness' personal affairs? You'd have to ask her yourself," Rightblind said evenly.

"Rightblind, isn't that Jared Her Highness' man?" Leftblind asked, clearly puzzled by his companion's response. "I thought they'd already made that clear."

Rightblind gave Leftblind a sharp look but said nothing, choosing to let his silence speak volumes.

Fraser's eyes lit up with interest. "Leftblind, who exactly is this Jared? What's his background?"

"Your Highness, I don't know much about him," Leftblind admitted. "But he's only a Seventh Level Tribulator-not exactly impressive. He entered the Celestial Battlefield with Her Highness once, and when they came out, something about him seemed different. Later, she announced that Jared was her man. They're not officially married yet, but it seems like they've made some kind of private commitment to each other."

"A Seventh Level Tribulator?" Fraser's brows knit together. "That's unacceptable. My sister can't be with someone so... mediocre. I need to have a word with her."

Without another word, Fraser strode off in pursuit of Catalina.

Rightblind turned to Leftblind, shaking his head. "Leftblind, you're in for it now. You really need to learn when to keep your mouth shut."

"What? What did I do wrong? I was just being honest!" Leftblind replied, utterly oblivious to the trouble he had caused.

