

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE /

A Man Like None Other

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4641 – Teegan and Riehl appeared in the sky, swiftly descending until they landed right in front of Jared.

“Mr. Teegan, you’re finally here! Jared broke through the arcane array. We couldn’t trap him no matter what we tried!” Billy’s eyes lit up immediately, his expression brightening as if he’d just seen his savior. Relief washed over him, and he allowed himself a relaxed smile.

Ezio exhaled audibly, finally letting go of the fear that had been gnawing at him. Now that Teegan and Riehl had arrived, there was no need to be afraid of Jared anymore.

“Billy, don’t worry,” Teegan assured him with a smug confidence. “Now that you’ve joined the Buckley family, your safety is guaranteed.”

There was an air of arrogance in Teegan’s words. He had completely forgotten his previous defeat at Jared’s hands. With Riehl present, Teegan was confident that the two of them together could overpower Jared.

“So, you’re Jared,” Riehl said, his voice laced with disdain as he looked Jared over. “You managed to break my arcane array? That’s mildly impressive. But don’t think that just because you broke through it, you’ve earned the right to act arrogant in front of me. The arcane array you dismantled was low-level. Breaking it is hardly an accomplishment worth boasting about.”

“Did I boast?” Jared asked with a faint smile. “If I’d been showing off, you’d already be dead.”

“How dare you!” Riehl barked, his voice fierce. “You’re just an Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator, and yet you dare speak to me this way? Even the Three Beast Generals bow their heads in my presence! Who do you think you are?”

Riehl's rage was palpable. As a highly regarded senior array master in Beast City, his status was unmatched. Even the Three Beast Generals sought his favor. No one dared to provoke him, let alone a mere Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator. Jared's words were nothing short of an affront to his dignity.

"The Three Beast Generals?" Jared scoffed. "Are they really so formidable?"

Having advanced to Ultimate realm, his power had grown exponentially. Not even the strength of the Three Beast Generals, each at Ultimate Realm Level Eight, could faze him.

"Kid, you're biting off more than you can chew," Teegan interjected, his voice dripping with scorn. "Just because you think you can fight above your level doesn't mean you can disregard the Three Beast Generals."

Teegan's tone grew more haughty as he continued, "Let me remind you, the Buckley family leads the Three Beast Generals. My father has reached Ultimate Realm Level Eight and is on the verge of breaking through to Level Nine.

"In our family alone, we have three cultivators at Ultimate Realm Level Six and over ten at Ultimate Realm Level Five. Dozens of others fall below Ultimate Realm Level Five. With that kind of power, do you really think you-a mere Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator-can stand against us?" Teegan smirked as he boasted about the Buckley family's strength, his eyes fixed on Jared, hoping to detect a glimmer of fear. In Teegan's mind, Jared's talent, while undeniable, was nothing compared to the sheer might of his family.

Jared remained silent, meeting Teegan's gaze with an unreadable expression. The tension grew thick as the moment stretched into quiet.

Billy and Ezio exchanged satisfied smiles, believing that their threats had finally subdued Jared.

Then Jared spoke, his voice steady and calm. "If that's the full extent of your family's power, I alone am more than enough to wipe them out."

His words carried no arrogance-only the weight of certainty. If Jared had still been a Ninth Level Tribulator, such a claim would have been laughable. But having advanced to the Ultimate Realm, he knew his capabilities. Only someone like Rex, at Ultimate Realm Level Eight, posed a real threat to him.

It seems Beast City has been isolated for so long that they have no idea what's been going on outside. Only a dozen Ultimate Realm Level Five and Six cultivators, yet they're showing such arrogance.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4642 – Teegan burst into laughter. “You’re full of yourself! Aren’t you afraid you’ll bite your tongue?”

The more Jared spoke, the less seriously Teegan took him. To Teegan, only the powerless relied on bold words to bolster their confidence.

“Mr. Teegan, let me handle this,” Riehl said, stepping forward. His hands itched for action. Jared’s earlier remarks had struck a nerve, and Riehl was eager to prove himself. The loss of his arcane array had been a bitter blow to his pride, and now he intended to redeem himself.

Teegan gave a nod of approval. “Go ahead, Mr. Rundacel.”

Riehl’s expression turned deadly serious. He began forming seals with his hands, chanting an ancient incantation under his breath.

Two massive specks of light emerged in the air, spinning slowly as they grew brighter. They connected, forming an intricate arcane array that enveloped Jared entirely.

“Hmph, breaking one arcane array doesn’t mean you can break them all,” Riehl sneered. “I’ll show you what a true arcane array master can do!”

Jared remained calm, unfazed by the dazzling display. His eyes closed briefly, as if feeling out the arcane array’s structure. Then, with a flick of his fingers and a single word-“Release”-the arcane array shattered like glass, scattering into nothingness.

Riehl froze in disbelief as the remnants of his formation vanished. Jared stood unmoved, his expression cool and indifferent, as if nothing of significance had occurred.

“W-What?” Riehl stammered, his face pale. He tried again, pouring his spiritual energy into crafting another arcane array. But every time, Jared found the flaw and unraveled it with ease.

“Your formations are rather unimpressive, Mr. Rundacel,” Jared said, his tone light but cutting.

Riehl’s face turned ashen as he struggled to maintain his composure. Deep down, he knew pressing further would only make him a laughingstock.

Eventually, he let out a long, frustrated sigh, withdrawing all his spiritual energy. His body trembled slightly, a clear indication of how deeply shaken he was by Jared’s strength.

“Mr. Teegan... I can’t help anymore,” Riehl admitted, lowering his head in shame, his voice heavy with defeat.

Teegan, observing the scene unfold, was filled with conflicting emotions. He had been so sure of Riehl's abilities, confident that defeating Jared would be effortless. The unexpected outcome left him stunned.

Billy and Ezio, meanwhile, were utterly astonished. It was now evident that Jared's array craft was far superior to Riehl's, a fact that neither of them could deny.

Gordon and Elena, along with Mia, couldn't hide their joy as they watched Jared break through Riehl's arcane arrays with such ease.

For the first time, hope flickered in their hearts -they might have a real chance at salvation after all.

"Kid, you've got some skills," Teegan said, his gaze narrowing as he scrutinized Jared. His tone carried a grudging note of respect.

"This pitiful excuse for an arcane array, and you call yourself a master? What a joke!" Jared retorted, his voice calm and his expression one of cool indifference.

Riehl, however, didn't react to the insult. Instead, he kept his gaze fixed on Jared, a complicated glint in his eyes. Slowly, a sinister smile began to form on his face.

"You've been duped," Riehl said suddenly, his tone brimming with malice.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4643 – Everyone turned their attention to Riehl, confusion etched on their faces. His words made no sense.

Without a word, Riehl reached into his sleeve and pulled out a pitch-black gourd. The gourd was entirely black, its surface adorned with intricate, ancient runes that gave it an ominous aura. Though beautiful in craftsmanship, its negative energy sent chills through the air.

Uncorking the gourd, Riehl bellowed, "Kid, get ready to experience the might of my Devouring Sky Gourd!"

As soon as he finished speaking, a powerful suction force erupted from the gourd. The force was so intense that Jared found himself momentarily paralyzed, unable to move.

It felt as though the space around him had been frozen in time, rendering him utterly unresponsive. Before he could react, darkness engulfed his vision, and the immense suction pulled him straight into the gourd.

"Jared! Jared!" Mia cried out in alarm, her voice trembling with fear.

"What just happened? Could Mr. Chance really have been sucked into that gourd?" Gordon exclaimed, his face a mask of shock.

Even Billy and Ezio stood frozen in disbelief, their eyes glued to the small gourd in Riehl's hands.

How is this even possible? That tiny gourd... it actually managed to subdue someone as powerful as Jared!

Teegan, too, was momentarily at a loss for words. "Mr. Rundacel... this..."

Riehl, clearly pleased with the reactions around him, sealed the gourd with triumph.

Everything up until now was a performance. I wanted to lull Jared into a false sense of security, make him believe my arcane arrays were weak, and lower his guard. That was the only way to catch him off guard and trap him inside this gourd!

He turned the gourd over in his hands, admiring it. "This Devouring Sky Gourd was crafted by my master, in collaboration with dozens of array masters," Riehl explained. "It may look small, but it contains the combined knowledge of countless array crafts, as well as the mysteries of space and time itself."

He continued, "Jared may have been a formidable opponent, but now that he's trapped inside, even his strength won't save him. He's completely at my mercy. The gourd's inner realm is filled with wind blades that'll slice through his flesh. It won't be long before he's begging for me to release him!"

As Riehl spoke, Teegan's expression shifted to one of admiration. He stared at the gourd in disbelief. "This gourd... can it really swallow the universe?" he asked.

"Not the entire universe," Riehl admitted with a sly grin. "But it can consume everything within a hundred feet, freezing time and manipulating space within that range. It's more than enough to handle someone like Jared."

"Amazing... absolutely amazing," Teegan murmured. "I never expected you to have something this powerful. With you on our side, the Buckley family's future is brighter than ever."

Riehl chuckled, clearly enjoying the praise. "Of course, of course..." he replied.

Meanwhile, Teegan turned his gaze toward Billy and Ezio. "I'll send someone to keep mining the celestial crystals," he said. "As for these three, they've outlived their usefulness. Kill them."

Ezio, alarmed by Teegan's words, stepped forward. "Mr. Teegan, leave them to me. I'll make sure they're dealt with thoroughly."

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4644 – Teegan glanced at Ezio and gave a firm nod.

"All right, but don't let your emotions cloud your judgment. When it comes to personal gain, family ties mean nothing. If I find out you've let them go, I'll tear you to pieces."

"Rest assured, Mr. Teegan," Ezio replied, his tone resolute. "Since I've chosen to pledge my loyalty to you, I won't have second thoughts."

Satisfied, Teegan waved dismissively, allowing Gordon, Elena, and Mia, led by Ezio, to leave.

Meanwhile, inside the gourd, Jared found himself surrounded by a dimension of absolute darkness. Despite the strange environment, he showed no fear. Instead, his Nethersky Eye activated, scanning his surroundings.

“This is supposed to be some great treasure?” Jared remarked, his voice laced with a touch of amusement.

“What nonsense!” came the disdainful voice of Vermillion Demon Lord. “It’s just an ordinary gourd modified with an arcane array. There’s nothing precious about it, let alone spiritual. That fool had the nerve to call it a Devouring Sky Gourd? Ha! If that’s a Devouring Sky Gourd, then what’s my Celestial Devourer supposed to be?”

Vermillion Demon Lord huffed, clearly irritated by the audacious claim. It was evident he didn’t take kindly to anyone else using the term “Devouring.” In his mind, only his own Celestial Devourer was worthy of such a title.

“Why get so worked up?” Jared replied with a chuckle. “I know this gourd was created using an arcane array, combined with space and time nascence. Otherwise, there’s no way it could’ve drawn me in. But the space nascence? Hardly worth mentioning. Even the array master who designed it was mediocre at best.”

Jared laughed, his voice echoing in the empty void. “If they’d turned the inside of this gourd into an actual realm, I might’ve been impressed. But this? A chaotic, empty mess? It’s only good for scaring children!”

True master cultivators of space and time nascence could create entire realms-complete with grass, trees, mountains, and rivers. The scale of their creations depended on their strength and understanding. But this void? It was a pale imitation, chaotic and devoid of structure.

For cultivators unfamiliar with the intricacies of space and time nascence, such tactics might’ve been effective. But Jared, a cultivator who had mastered the divine markings technique and time nascence, wasn’t so easily trapped.

The intricate runes on the tiny gourd might’ve looked impressive, but Jared could see that they amounted to nothing more than a hundred insignificant scribbles. He could destroy them with a simple wave of his hand.

Swish, swish, swish!

Suddenly, the void around him began to tremble. From every direction, wind blades hurtled toward him with incredible speed.

“So, he inscribed a wind formation here,” Jared murmured, narrowing his eyes.

Without hesitation, he activated his Golem Body, a powerful golden light enveloping him as he braced against the onslaught of wind blades.

As the gusts struck him, they shattered on contact with his golden armor, feeling no more harmful than a light breeze.

“Weren’t these wind blades supposed to be powered by the gourd’s arcane array?” Jared wondered aloud, his brow furrowing.

He could feel the spiritual energy emanating from the shattered blades. Yet, something about it felt strange. Though the wind blades didn’t injure him, the spiritual energy they released upon breaking gave off an odd sensation, one Jared couldn’t ignore,

The wind blades didn’t simply dissipate after shattering. Instead, the spiritual energy regrouped, reforming into new blades that launched another attack.

These wind blades weren’t fixed in their movements. They seemed almost alive, actively seeking out weak points in Jared’s defenses.

Using his Nethersky Eye, Jared studied the phenomenon closely. He realized that the wind blades originated from a single arcane array, and at its core was a source of nascence power.

The arcane array’s designer had infused it with their own wind nascence, giving the wind blades spirituality.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4645 – A thought struck Jared as he remembered the Stillwind Orb he carried within him when he was faced with those wind blades with spirituality.

That orb had been a valuable treasure since ancient times, known for its power to control the wind element. It had the ability to calm any storm in the world and could even absorb wind essence.

A thought stirred within Jared. The Stillwind Orb gradually rose from within him, hovering above his head. It emitted a faint blue glow, creating a stark contrast with the surrounding chaotic darkness.

“Let me give it a try to see if this Stillwind Orb can absorb all these peculiar wind blades.”

Jared spoke softly, his eyes shimmering with curiosity and anticipation.

Guided by his thoughts, the blue light on the surface of the Stillwind Orb became increasingly dazzling. It was as if a massive vortex had begun to spin slowly, drawing in the surrounding wind blades.

The wind blades, which had originally been roaming around, seeking opportunities to attack, surprisingly changed their course upon encountering the suction force released by the Stillwind Orb. It was as if they were being led by invisible ropes, all flying toward the Stillwind Orb.

Every wind blade, as it neared the Stillwind Orb, was gently enveloped by its surface’s blue light.

Subsequently, it transformed into pure wind essence, which was slowly absorbed by the orb.

That process was both silent and filled with an enigmatic sense of power, causing Jared to marvel in secret.

As time went by, the wind blades within the gourd diminished progressively until they eventually vanished completely.

The Stillwind Orb had become even more lustrous and warm, as if it had absorbed wind essence from the heavens and earth, strengthening its connection with Jared.

Jared could sense that through this process, his understanding and control over the wind element had made a significant leap.

“Indeed, this is not merely a simple wind blade attack, but rather a direct manifestation of wind nascence itself.”

Jared had a sudden realization. A wave of understanding surged within him. “Through the medium of the Stillwind Orb, I’m able to glimpse the secrets of wind nascence. This insight is far more valuable than escaping from this gourd.”

After fully absorbing all of the wind blades, Jared closed his eyes in concentration, beginning to understand the surge of wind elements within him deeply.

He discovered that his perception of the wind had become unusually sharp, to the point where he could even detect the subtlest changes in the air currents.

Wind essence, this primal nascence among the five, then seemed almost within reach.

Within Jared’s nascence space, the wind nascence star gradually emitted a gentle glow. Although the light wasn’t particularly bright, Jared knew that as long as he had the opportunity to absorb wind nascence, that star would shine brighter and brighter.

At that moment, Riehl, outside the gourd, was proudly showing off his masterpiece to Teegan, completely oblivious to the fact that Jared, inside the gourd, was undergoing a transformation.

Inside the gourd, Jared slowly opened his eyes, a confident sparkle flashing within them.

He took a deep breath as if drawing the entire dimension within the gourd into his chest. After that, with a gentle push of his hands, ripples started to appear on the inner walls of the gourd. A tiny crack quietly emerged and rapidly expanded.

“It’s time to go out,” Jared whispered softly, his figure transforming into a streak of light, effortlessly piercing through the gourd and returning to the real world.

There it was, the once-praised Devouring Sky Gourd, then lying silently on the ground. Its surface was covered in cracks, clearly having lost the power it once held.

Riehl's face turned deathly pale in an instant when he saw the situation. He stared at the unfolding scene before him, struggling to believe what he was witnessing.

Jared's emergence was like a sledgehammer, hitting everyone's hearts fiercely.

That was especially the case for Billy. He initially intended to keep mining the celestial crystals, but to his surprise, in just a blink of an eye, Jared emerged from what was known as Devouring Sky Gourd. At that moment, Billy's eyes were filled with terror and despair.

At that time, on the other side, Ezio was escorting Mia, Gordon, and Elena toward the dense forest.

He was determined to kill them within that dense forest.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4646 – With tears welling in her eyes, Mia looked at Ezio, pleading with him, “Ezio, don't be so obstinate. Do you really want to kill the three of us? You should run away with us...”

“That's enough. It's not every day that I get a chance like this. How could I possibly give it up? We have always been the targets of ridicule and humiliation. This time, by joining the Buckley family, I can walk with my head high in Beast City. I'd like to see who dares to mess with me. Don't worry, Mia. I'll make it quick, so you won't feel any pain.” Ezio looked at Mia, and his gaze was filled with cold indifference.

“Are you even human? Are you really going to kill your own sister?”

Gordon's face instantly turned beet red with anger when he saw Ezio behaving in such a way.

Just like anyone with a sister, Gordon would rather die himself than ever harm his sister.

Bang!

Ezio swiftly landed a punch on Gordon and said coldly, “Shut up. The reason I brought you here is because your sister is too beautiful. It'd be a waste to kill her just like that. I want to have my fun before I do.”

Ezio's eyes flashed with greed and ruthlessness. He forcefully pushed Gordon aside, relentlessly advancing toward Elena.

With a look of terror, Elena retreated, her eyes filled with despair. She clung tightly to Mia's hand, and Mia, her voice trembling with desperation, pleaded, “Ezio, I'm begging you. Please spare them! They are innocent!”

Seeing that Ezio was about to harm Elena, Gordon was filled with rage, his entire body shaking as he roared out loud, “If you dare lay a finger on my sister, I swear I won't let you off easily!”

However, he was utterly powerless to stop Ezio. The spiritual energy within the three of them had long been sealed, rendering them mere mortals at that moment.

“Mia, get out of my sight. If not for the fact that you’re my own sister, I would also toy with you. Giving you to Jared is a real loss. I thought that brat had a solid background, and I thought I could live a life of luxury with him. As it turns out, he’s nothing.” Ezio forcefully pushed Mia away, causing her to fall harshly onto the ground.

Mia bawled as she looked at Ezio. At that moment, her heart was aching as if being twisted by a knife.

She had gone through hell and high water to save Ezio, but little did she know he would turn out to be such a person.

He was so self-obsessed that he even wanted to toy with his sister. In fact, he was barbaric.

Ezio looked at Elena, a cold smirk playing on his lips. As he reached out toward Elena, she yelled, “You b*stard! We won’t let you get away with this!”

“Haha! I’m a b*stard? So what? I’ve yet to experience a beauty like you! Even if it costs me my life, having you once would be worth it...”

Once Ezio finished speaking, he lunged at Elena. With nowhere to escape, Elena found herself pinned down by Ezio.

Ezio’s eyes were blazing red when he relentlessly tore at Elena’s clothes.

Elena was desperately struggling, screaming for help. However, no one could save her in the desolate wilderness.

Gordon watched as Elena was humiliated, a glint of determination flashing in his eyes. He knew well that in his current state, he stood no chance against Ezio. However, the thought of protecting Elena sparked an unprecedented courage within him.

He forcefully broke free from the feeling of confinement brought about by his sealed spiritual energy. Despite the power being feeble, it was enough to enable him to take action.

“I swear on my bloodline that I will protect you to my dying breath!”

With a low growl, Gordon seemed to awaken some ancient power within him. His eyes instantly turned a fiery red, and a faint flicker of flames could be seen surrounding his body.

That was a force of a guardian inherited from the ancestors, which awakened at a critical moment.

A flicker of shock flashed across Ezio’s face when he witnessed that scene. However, he quickly sneered coldly, “Do you think your meager strength can stop me?”

With a look of disdain, he effortlessly swung his hand, sending Gordon reeling backward.

Gordon, who had just broken free from his constraints, hadn't fully recovered yet.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4647 – “Ezio, stop it! Stop...”

Mia rushed over, desperately tugging at Ezio, pleading with him to let go of Elena.

At that moment, Ezio was consumed by lust, so there was no way he could possibly let Elena go.

“Get out of my way!”

Ezio struck out with a single palm, sending Mia flying straight away. Mia's body heavily crashed onto the ground, and she spat out fresh blood.

Yet, Ezio hardly spared her a glance, his attention solely focused on Elena beneath him.

At that moment, Jared heard a faint cry for help, his brow furrowing instantly.

That was because he recognized Elena's voice.

Jared's clothes fluttered as if moved by an unseen breeze. Soon after, the surrounding forest echoed with the rustling sound of the wind, and the leaves began to sway in response.

Jared began to harness the power of wind nascence. Suddenly, an unusual gust of wind sounded. The once serene forest was abruptly engulfed by a wild gale, causing leaves to flutter about.

Taken aback, Ezio involuntarily paused in his actions.

Immediately after, he was startled to find that the sudden gale that had whipped up around him had astonishingly begun to morph into wind blades, hurtling toward him.

“What's going on?” Ezio was utterly stunned, constantly dodging the wind blades. He no longer had the opportunity to lay a hand on Elena.

Upon seeing the situation, Elena quickly rose to her feet and rushed toward Mia. “Mia! Mia!”

Elena was deeply concerned about Mia's safety.

Bewildered, Gordon stared at the sudden appearance of the wind blades. He couldn't comprehend how this gale that had abruptly picked up could possibly produce wind blades.

Gordon knew that someone had deliberately stirred up this storm, and without a doubt, that person had sent out those wind blades. However, who on earth is lending us a hand in a place like this?

Just as Gordon was unable to figure out who had lent them a hand, a figure gradually emerged.

“Mr. Chance!”

Upon seeing the newcomer, Gordon was utterly astounded. He never expected it would be Jared.

Upon seeing that it was Jared who had arrived, both Elena and Mia were instantly moved to tears.

Ezio was somewhat taken aback, staring at Jared in disbelief.

In disbelief, Ezio asked, “W-Weren’t you sucked into that gourd, trapped inside?”

At that moment, Teegan, Riehl, and Billy also caught up. The sudden gust of wind that had just arisen sent shivers down their spines.

“It’s wishful thinking to think that shabby gourd could trap me! If it hadn’t been for the wind nascence inside that gourd, I would have come out a long time ago.” Jared scoffed with a dismissive laugh.

Riehl’s face alternated between shades of red and white once he heard Jared’s words. He had just been boasting about how impressive his skills were, only to be immediately put in his place.

Ezio turned to Riehl and said, “Mr. Rundacel, quickly cast your arcane array and capture him!”

However, Riehl did not pay him any attention. Instead, he was intently gazing at Jared with a serious expression.

Jared glanced at Elena. By then, Elena’s clothes were torn, revealing large patches of her fair skin. Her skin was delicate and smooth, akin to being soaked in milk.

Seeing Elena’s slightly flushed cheeks, Jared felt a surge of warmth rush through him. No wonder Ezio simply couldn’t resist!

At that moment, Mia appeared rather disheveled, with fresh blood trickling from the corner of her mouth. Her face was exceptionally pale.

Jared turned to Mia and Elena, questioning them, “Did he do all of these?”

The two girls reluctantly nodded in agreement, which instantly ignited Jared’s fury.

After all, Mia went through a great deal of hardship and effort to save Ezio.

Yet, in the end, that was the outcome.

Jared looked toward Ezio, gritting his teeth as he uttered, “You deserve to die...”

Upon hearing those words, Ezio was so frightened that his body shivered. He hurriedly hid behind Teegan and Riehl.

Jared moved toward Ezio step by step. The overwhelming aura he exuded was so intense that Ezio could barely breathe.

“Get lost!” Jared said coldly to Teegan and Riehl.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4648 – Taken aback, Teegan wanted to say something. However, feeling the murderous intent radiating from Jared, he finally closed his mouth and slowly moved away.

Riehl quickly stepped aside as well. They couldn’t possibly start a conflict with Jared over Ezio at this point.

In their eyes, Ezio was regarded as less significant than an ant.

“Mr. Teegan... Mr. Teegan...”

Ezio was dumbfounded, desperately wanting to call for help, but Teegan didn’t even spare him a glance.

Upon seeing both Teegan and Riehl abandon him, Ezio was overwhelmed with a fear that surged like a tidal wave.

He retreated repeatedly until there was nowhere left to retreat to, his back pressed against a large rock. His face was as pale as paper, his eyes filled with despair and terror.

“Jared... N-No... J-Jared, spare me, I-I was wrong. I shouldn’t have harmed Elena, and I should have respected my sibling bond with Mia...”

Ezio’s voice quivered, his tone filled with pleas and regret.

Despite the situation, Jared remained unmoved. His gaze was as cold as frost, as if intending to freeze Ezio completely.

“Your faults can’t be rectified with a mere apology. The harm you’ve inflicted isn’t limited to Elena and Mia. It extends to your own soul and humanity.”

Jared’s voice was cold and ruthless, as if he had already sentenced Ezio to death.

Upon hearing this, Ezio was so frightened that his legs gave out, and he collapsed onto the ground with a thud.

“Mia! I was wrong! Save me! Please save me...”

At that moment, Ezio could only turn to Mia for help.

Mia's tears fell once again when she looked at Ezio. She was heartbroken over Ezio's misdeeds yet also terrified by Jared's sternness.

She knew, at that moment, no matter how much she pleaded, she couldn't change Jared's decision.

"Jared, I-I'm willing to trade my life for Ezio's. All I ask is that you give him a chance to make amends."

Suddenly, Mia fell to her knees, her hands clasped together, her eyes filled with pleading.

Mia couldn't match Ezio's ruthlessness and cold-heartedness. After all, he was her biological brother, and she simply couldn't bring herself to give up on him.

Jared's expression eased slightly, but soon after, it hardened once again.

"Mia, I understand your kindness, but we cannot let personal feelings blur the line between justice and evil. Your brother's actions have crossed my boundaries."

After speaking, Jared moved swiftly, appearing in front of Ezio like a ghostly apparition. He casually raised a hand, the palm flickering with a lightning-like glow. It was the signal of his impending deadly strike.

"No! Don't! Jared, I was wrong! I truly was!"

Ezio cried out in despair, but it was too late to undo anything.

With a flash of lightning, Ezio's body was completely devoured, leaving behind only his charred clothing and a lingering smell of burning in the air.

At that moment, his life had come to a definitive end.

Jared withdrew his hand, his gaze settling on Mia with a complicated expression. "I hope that this incident serves as a lesson for you. The greed and malice within human nature, once indulged, can drag a person into the abyss. Some people and actions can be forgiven, but there are those who can never be pardoned... Don't blame me..." "

At that moment, Mia could do nothing but cry helplessly. She had no right to blame Jared. After all, Ezio merely reaped what he sowed.

Meanwhile, Teegan and Riehl, who were standing aside, watched as Ezio disappeared. Their expressions became increasingly solemn.

Jared's moves and abilities continuously shattered their perceptions.

At this point, the most frightened one was Billy. He had thought that by aligning himself with the Buckley family, he would be able to enjoy a life of luxury and comfort.

At that moment, it seemed that wasn't the case.

He was filled with regret. He regretted agreeing to collaborate with the Buckley family. It would have been better to mine the celestial crystals with Jared instead.

However, it was too late for regrets. Billy had no idea what outcome awaited him.

Billy shifted his gaze to Teegan and Riehl. Knowing well that Jared would never let him off the hook, he could only hope for their assistance.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4649 – “Now, it's your turn. Do you know the type of person I despise the most in my life?”

Jared cast a frosty gaze toward Billy.

At that moment, Jared was already consumed by anger. He had initially placed a great deal of trust in Billy, even thinking of lending him a hand by giving him an opportunity.

To his surprise, Billy took his good intentions for granted and betrayed him.

Billy dared not meet Jared's eyes. Evasively shifting his gaze, he answered, “I-I don't know...”

“I despise those who betray me the most. Anyone who betrays me, there's only one outcome for them, and that is death...”

As soon as those words fell, an overwhelming aura of terror enveloped Billy directly.

Billy was startled, and his body gave a slight shudder. He then retreated two steps.

However, with Teegan and Riehl by his side, Billy could only brace himself and retort, “Stop bragging! With Mr. Teegan and Mr. Rundacel here, there's no way you can kill me. They wouldn't possibly stand by and do nothing. If you dare to lay a finger, you'll be the one who's doomed!”

“Hmph!” Jared snorted disdainfully, his eyes filled with contempt. He never considered Teegan and Riehl as a threat.

“Both of you, get lost!” Jared said to Teegan and Riehl.

The two exchanged a glance. Afterward, Teegan's eyes narrowed slightly as he said, "Brat, Billy is now an associate of the Buckley family. I won't allow you to harm him. I don't care if you're a foreign official of Jaime or not. If you truly upset me, you won't be able to bear the consequences. You killed Niel, but we can put that aside. All I ask is for you to surrender that celestial crystal vein mine to me. In return, I'll allow you and these three individuals to leave unharmed. From then on, we'll not interfere with one another."

In truth, Teegan didn't have much confidence. Ever since Jared had effortlessly escaped from the Devouring Sky Gourd, Teegan had lost all trust in Riehl's abilities.

He had sparred with Jared before, and it was clear he was no match for Jared. Since Jared had advanced to Ultimate Realm, if a fight were to break out, it seemed that even their combined efforts wouldn't stand much of a chance.

However, if Teegan simply gave up on Billy and then turned tail to run, it would destroy his reputation.

If word of that got out, no one would ever want to align themselves with the Buckley family in the future.

Hence, Teegan wanted to intimidate Jared a bit, hoping that he could successfully scare Jared off.

Upon hearing Teegan's words, Jared burst into laughter.

"What's the matter? Are you scared?" Jared asked with a smile.

Jared knew, given Teegan's character of a pampered son, he would never utter such words if he was confident of victory. He probably sees himself dying a pathetic death. Otherwise, he wouldn't have said the words about not interfering with one another! Clearly, Teegan lacks the confidence to defeat me! That's why he said those words!

Maintaining a facade of calm, Teegan let out a cold, mocking laugh and said, "What a joke! What do I have to fear? With my capabilities and Mr. Rundacel's help, we can certainly defeat you, someone in Ultimate Realm Level One. I'm merely offering you a chance. If you don't want it, don't blame me for being merciless!"

"In my eyes, the two of you are worth nothing. In fact, even if there were three of you, I'd still look down on you!"

There was a tone of mockery and disdain in Jared's voice.

That tone of voice immediately infuriated Teegan.

As the son of the Buckley family, he couldn't possibly endure such humiliation.

A gentleman preferred death to humiliation, so Teegan said, "Billy, Mr. Rundacel, we three must join forces today to take down this arrogant brat. He's far too cocky. I can't stand it anymore..."

Teegan had also called on Billy. After all, an extra person meant extra strength.

"All right!"

Billy and Riehl nodded in response.

"Mr. Chance, let me assist you..." Gordon stepped forward, positioning himself next to Jared.

Gordon had broken through the constraints of his spiritual energy, and although his strength hadn't fully recovered, he couldn't just stand by and watch Jared fight against three people all by himself.

"You should go protect Mia and Elena instead. I can handle these three troublemakers on my own!"

Jared asked Gordon to step back.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4650 – "Kid, you're courting death. Die!"

With a loud cry, Teegan was the first to thrust his sword toward Jared!

Immediately after, Billy and Riehl also launched an attack on Jared!

Following Teegan's furious roar, a breathtaking battle officially commenced.

Teegan's sword shone like a bolt of lightning, cutting through the vast sky. The tip of the sword was imbued with a dense spiritual energy. With a whistling sound, it aimed straight for Jared's chest.

Jared maintained a calm and composed expression, his movements akin to a phantom. With a slight sidestep, he easily evaded the strike.

Meanwhile, his right hand swiftly moved, the palm shimmering with a lightning-like glow as he delivered a punch toward Teegan's ribs.

Boom! The collision between the fist and the sword's radiance created a deafening explosion.

Teegan felt an overwhelming force slam into him, causing him to involuntarily stagger back several steps, his face turning slightly pale.

Meanwhile, Jared stood firm as a rock, rooted to his spot, his gaze intensifying.

At that moment, Billy and Riehl launched their attack.

Billy held a short blade in his hand, his movements agile, reminiscent of a cunning fox. He circled around Jared, seeking the perfect moment to strike.

Riehl, meanwhile, was making seals, muttering incantations under his breath. A chilling aura emanated from his body, gradually forming a black vortex that seemed intent on pulling Jared into its depths.

Faced with the joint attack, Jared showed no fear. He sprang forward like a fierce tiger. With a sweep of his left hand, a wall of fire appeared out of nowhere, blocking Billy's short blade from reaching him.

At the same time, with a push off his feet, he launched himself toward Riehl like an arrow shot from a bow.

"Hmph, just a trivial trick!"

Riehl snorted coldly, his hands shifting to form a different seal. Suddenly, the black vortex started spinning at a faster pace, emitting a strong suction force that seemed to be trying to pull Jared into it.

However, Jared was well-prepared. His spiritual energy surged, forming a golden shield that kept the pulling force at bay.

Just then, Billy seized the opportunity to launch a surprise attack from Jared's blind spot.

The short blade glinted menacingly in the sunlight, aimed directly at Jared's unsuspecting heart.

However, just as the short blade was about to touch Jared's skin, his body eerily shifted to one side. At the same time, his right hand transformed into a claw, firmly grabbing Billy's wrist.

"Ah!" Billy cried out in pain, feeling an overpowering force that left him almost immobile.

Taking advantage of the situation, Jared forcefully twisted, and with a crisp crack, Billy's wrist was fractured.

“Useless!”

With a cold huff, Jared tossed Billy aside as if he was discarding trash.

At that moment, Riehl saw the situation was turning sour. He no longer held back his strength, his hands forming new seals.

Suddenly, numerous black tendrils surged forth from the black vortex, winding toward Jared like venomous snakes.

Jared’s gaze hardened, his spiritual energy surging wildly. With a swift sweep of his hands, a burst of golden flames erupted from his palms, instantly incinerating the black tendrils to nothingness.

Meanwhile, he surged forward once again, swift as a bolt of golden lightning, heading straight for Riehl.

Riehl was taken aback, not anticipating that Jared’s strength would be so formidable.

However, at that moment, it was too late to escape. Jared launched a punch, its force reminiscent of a dragon’s might, accompanied by roaring golden flames. It landed squarely on Riehl’s chest.

Bang!

Riehl was sent flying backward like a kite with its string cut, landing heavily on the ground with a thunderous crash.

He spat out fresh blood, his face as pale as paper. Clearly, he had been seriously injured.

At that moment, seeing Billy and Riehl both injured, a chill ran through Teegan’s heart.

He was well aware that he was no match for Jared. If he continued to fight, he feared that death would be his only fate.

However, as a son of the Buckley family, how could he easily admit defeat?

“Kid, don’t get cocky just yet! The Buckley family is teeming with experts. Even if I were to die here today, you can forget about leaving here alive!” Teegan shouted with false bravado.
