

A warrior undefeatable /

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4651

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4651 – Upon hearing this, Jared couldn't help but scoff, "Hmph, so what if the Buckley family is full of experts? Today, I'll deal with you, the useless one, first!"

After speaking, Jared's figure once again surged forth like an enraged lion as he lunged toward Teegan.

Seeing that, Teegan was scared out of his wits and immediately turned to run away.

However, how could his speed compare to Jared's? In a blink, Jared was already in front of Teegan, landing a punch.

Bang!

The punch, swift as lightning, landed on Teegan's chest in an instant.

Teegan only felt a surge of immense force, sending him flying backward like a kite severed from its string, before he heavily crashed onto the ground.

He spat out fresh blood, his gaze becoming unfocused, clearly having suffered severe injuries and lost his ability to fight.

At that moment, Gordon, Mia, and Elena, who were observing the battle from the sidelines, couldn't help but feel a surge of admiration in their hearts.

They hadn't expected that Jared's abilities were so formidable, that he could single-handedly defeat three experts.

Gordon watched Jared's heroic figure, feeling a sense of relief in his heart.

He felt fortunate for his past decision to follow Jared. Otherwise, he feared he might have ended up as one of Jared's defeated enemies.

Mia looked at Jared with a face full of admiration. She had never seen a man as brave as him before, and she couldn't help but develop a hint of affection for Jared.

However, she also knew that it wasn't the right time to express her feelings. All she could do was bury these emotions deep within her heart.

Elena wore a look of concern as she watched Jared. Despite knowing about Jared's formidable abilities, she couldn't help but feel anxious for him as she saw him fiercely battling against Teegan and the other two.

It wasn't until she saw Jared finally defeat Teegan and the others that she let out a sigh of relief. The look in her eyes as she gazed at Jared was filled with adoration, a clear testament to her admiration for his strength.

As the saying went, a fair lady was fond of a knight in shining armor. Had Jared proposed something inappropriate at that moment, Elena would have undoubtedly not refused. In fact, she would have willingly played along!

"I didn't even need a weapon to take on you three pieces of trash..."

Jared glanced at Teegan and the others who had fallen to the ground, letting out a cold huff!

The three gravely injured men looked upon Jared as if they were gazing upon a devil. Their eyes were filled with nothing but fear!

Especially Billy, who had actually thought that Teegan and Riehl could protect him!

Looking back, it seemed that he had overthought things. Given Jared's current abilities, he was likely capable of contending with the Three Beast Generals!

"Jared... Mr. Chance, Master Jared... Spare me, please spare me..."

Billy, despite his severe injuries, managed to drag himself to Jared's feet, where he began pleading for mercy over and over again!

At that moment, Billy couldn't care less about his dignity; his life was the priority!

He kept begging for mercy, even calling Jared "Master!"

It was clear that Teegan was no longer a reliable option, seeing as both Teegan and Riehl had been injured by a casual punch from Jared!

Could he rely on the Buckley family now?

Given his current status, even if the Buckley family really sent someone, they might not necessarily come to his rescue!

At this moment, Billy was filled with so much regret that he felt like dying. He had never imagined that Jared's strength could be this terrifying!

Had he not pledged allegiance to the Buckley family, had he not revealed the location of the celestial crystal vein mine to Teegan, then by this time, he would have already split the celestial crystals with Jared and made a fortune!

Unfortunately, regret was of no use.

Jared looked down at Billy, asking with a calm expression on his face, "Billy, do you realize now that your choice was a mistake?"

"I understand, I truly do. I was wrong, I admit it. I'm willing to faithfully follow you, Mr. Chance. I'll dedicate myself to mining these celestial crystals for you, and I won't fight with you over them anymore. You can have all the celestial crystals we've mined. Just spare my life, that's all I ask!"

Billy was desperately begging for his life, willing to do anything to survive!

Jared stared at the pleading man, his gaze unyielding and untouched by any hint of compassion. On the contrary, the aura of menace about him only seemed to intensify!

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4652 – "Weren't you intending to leave me whole? Why are you begging me now?"

Jared was looking at Billy as he spoke.

"Mr. Chance, I was talking nonsense back then. Please, don't take it to heart! Considering we're both human cultivators, please spare me this time!"

Inwardly, Billy was groaning in distress. He had never anticipated that Jared would be this formidable, nor that things would escalate to such an extent!

“Billy, I did give you a chance and a choice. Unfortunately, you made the wrong one. Not all mistakes in life can be regretted. If you hadn’t sided with the Buckley family, your potential would have been limitless. Plus, I could have offered you a great opportunity! Alas...”

Jared shook his head!

“Mr. Chance, I was wrong! Please spare my life! Spare-”

Billy was still pleading for mercy, but his words abruptly ended before he could finish!

Jared struck Billy’s head with his palm. Instantly, Billy’s head burst open, leaving him so dead that he couldn’t possibly be deader!

Upon witnessing this scene, both Teegan and Riehl were so frightened that they shivered!

Now that Billy was dead, it was their turn next!

For Riehl, he held no grudges against Jared. He only got involved because he wanted to help the Buckley family!

Now that he was severely wounded, there was nothing left to do but await death!

Upon noticing Jared’s gaze on him, Riehl quickly bowed his head.

“Buddy, we bear no grudges against each other. It was only due to Teegan’s manipulation that I acted against you. If you would spare my life, I am willing to offer you all the magical items I possess. I know you’re quite skilled in array craft. I have here four array documentation devices, all discovered within various ancient ruins. Since I don’t have a good enough understanding of array craft, I’ve failed to comprehend these array documentation devices. I’m willing to hand them all over to you, my friend!”

In order to save his life, Riehl, trembling, pulled out an item pouch!

Inside were some cultivation resources, but the most crucial items were the four array documentation devices. He had obtained these many years ago from some ancient and abandoned ruins!

There were too few array masters in the Ethereal Realm. Even if others managed to get their hands on these array documentation devices, they would be of no use. Nobody knew how to use them, nor could they comprehend them!

Riehl, though proficient in array craft, still couldn’t comprehend the records within the array documentation devices. Thus, he carried them with him all the time, hoping that one day he would be able to understand them!

Given the current situation, where his life was hanging by a thread, there was absolutely no point in holding onto these array documentation devices anymore!

Hence, in a bid to save his life, Riehl had no choice but to present all his treasures. Whether he could survive or not depended entirely on whether he could satisfy Jared!

However, since Jared was also an array master, he would definitely be interested in the array documentation devices from the ancient ruins!

At that moment, Riehl had already given up any thoughts of resistance. It wasn't that he was cowardly, but rather, he understood that compared to Jared, they were no different from mere ants!

As an insignificant being, how dare one harbor resentment against a giant?

Riehl was well aware of this. From the moment Jared broke out of the Devouring Sky Gourd, he had already known!

Yet, he had refused to give up, believing that they could defeat Jared if they joined forces!

Yet, the outcome was a crushing defeat for all three of them!

"I've heard that these array documentation devices hold records of ancient arcane arrays. It's just a pity that my understanding of array craft is too superficial to comprehend them. I believe you would have no such problems, my friend. If you were to acquire these documentation devices, I'm certain it would elevate your array craft to a new level."

Riehl respectfully handed over his item pouch, his demeanor completely different from earlier!

In reality, Jared wasn't particularly interested in the resources stored within Riehl's item pouch. However, upon hearing that it contained ancient array documentation devices, his interest was piqued, leading him to accept it!

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4653 – Upon seeing Jared take the item pouch, Riehl quietly breathed a sigh of relief in his heart!

Since Jared had accepted it, it seemed that his life should be safe now!

After all, Jared would surely not harm him after receiving his gift!

Riehl wiped the cold sweat from his forehead, sucking in a long breath!

Meanwhile, Jared took the item pouch, casually pulling out one of the array documentation devices. Then, he infused his spiritual sense into it!

However, it seemed like there was some kind of restraint surrounding the documentation device. Jared's spiritual sense was utterly unable to penetrate the documentation device, so there was no way for him to discern what kind of array it was!

"This is truly something amazing. It even managed to keep my spiritual sense at bay!"

Jared was momentarily taken aback, then promptly intensified his spiritual sense.

In the depths of Jared's consciousness field, a seemingly chaotic array of stars swiftly emerged!

These stars, some brighter than others, were scattered throughout the entirety of Jared's consciousness field!

"What the hell is this?" The sudden appearance of a sky full of stars left Vermilion Demon Lord somewhat taken aback!

With a glance, Jared immediately understood. "This is the formation diagram of the array within this documentation device. Only after deciphering it can one's spiritual sense enter the documentation device!"

Using his knowledge of array craft, Jared swiftly deciphered the formation diagram!

Riehl had spent so many years trying to decipher it, yet Jared saw through it with just a glance!

The moment he finished deciphering it, Jared's spiritual sense instantly delved into the documentation device!

Jared only felt a sudden dizziness, as if the world was spinning around him. Following that, his vision was filled with nothing but a vast expanse of white!

He couldn't sense an ounce of spiritual energy, nor could he detect the presence of any arcane arrays!

"What kind of arcane array is this? Why can't I sense anything at all?"

Jared's brow slightly furrowed!

Jared was engrossed in that vast white world, attempting to grasp any hint of information about this arcane array.

As time ticked away, he suddenly felt an inexplicable surge of power coursing through his heart, as if resonating with some unspoken law of the universe.

"Could this... Could this be the legendary Heaven and Earth Array?"

Jared was stunned, realizing he might have stumbled upon the most forbidden and mysterious domain in the Ethereal Realm.

The Heaven and Earth Array was a legendary array, established by the ancient powerhouses. They used the heavens and earth as the chessboard, and the stars as the pieces. This arcane array was capable of isolating the celestial realm from the Ethereal Realm, leaving the cultivators stranded in the Ethereal Realm, unable to return to the celestial realm.

Although Jared didn't understand who had set up this Heaven and Earth Array and what their original intention was in doing so, he knew that such an arcane array was not something he could disrupt with his current level of cultivation.

No wonder even my spiritual sense couldn't easily penetrate it. This Heaven and Earth Array is not something that the mundane could fathom.

Jared reflected inwardly, his heart simultaneously filled with shock and exhilaration.

He understood that if he could master this Heaven and Earth Array, he could break it. Then, those celestial cultivators who were left behind in the Ethereal Realm could finally return to the celestial realm.

Divinus, along with others like Hellion, could finally return to the celestial realm they had been dreaming of!

Jared scrutinized the documentation device for quite a while but failed to make any headway. Eventually, he realized that the information recorded within it was merely a fraction of the Heaven and Earth Array!

"Could it be that all four of these array documentation devices are needed to form the complete Heaven and Earth Array?"

With that thought, Jared pulled out another of the array documentation devices. However, no matter how hard he tried, he could no longer manage to infuse his spiritual sense into it!

As Jared stared at the documentation device in his hands, he felt a sense of reluctance in his heart. However, he understood that it was something he could not force.

"Never mind. The timing isn't right yet, so forcing it won't do any good."

Jared let out a sigh, deciding to put the matter aside for now. He turned his attention toward Riehl, who was kneeling nearby with a face full of hope.

"Even though you were under Teegan's command, I can't ignore the fact that you have a genuine passion for studying arcane arrays. Today, I will spare your life."

In his words, Jared exuded an undeniable authority. "Though I may spare you the ultimate punishment, you cannot escape the consequences of your actions. You dared to lay a hand on me, so I can't just let you walk away. Otherwise, people might think I, Jared Chance, am easy to push around. Today, I'll disable your hands as a form of punishment."

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4654 – Having said that, Jared jabbed a finger forward. There was a flash of spiritual light before Riehl felt severe pain in both arms, subsequently losing all sensation from them.

He slumped to the ground, his eyes filled with both fear and relief. He knew he deserved this, yet he was grateful to Jared for sparing his life. His hands were useless now, but they might recover in a decade or so. But if his life was taken, that would be forever!

“Thank you, Mr. Chance”

Riehl, despite his immense pain, was also overcome with joy. From somewhere, he found the strength to suddenly stand and run toward the distance. He was afraid that Jared might change his mind and kill him!

After Riehl had left, Jared turned his attention to Teegan!

Teegan shuddered. However, seeing Riehl spared after offering his magical items, he thought that he, too, could escape death by begging on his knees and presenting his own magical items.

As a son of the Buckley family, he felt that his reputation was more crucial than life itself.

However, everyone was either dead or injured right now. Even if he knelt down to beg Jared for mercy, no one would know.

At that moment, begging for mercy was the wisest choice. As the saying goes, a wise man submits to circumstances!

“Mr. Chance, spare me! Please spare me!”

After realizing his situation, Teegan immediately fell to his knees and begged for mercy.

Seeing as Riehl, despite his hands being rendered useless, had ultimately managed to hold onto his life, a glimmer of hope ignited within Teegan’s heart.

He was kneeling on the ground, repeatedly bowing his head in submission. The arrogance and ruthlessness once evident on his face had long been replaced by fear.

“Mr. Chance, I’m willing to give you everything I have, just spare my life. Look, this is my item pouch, filled with magical items I’ve collected over the years. If you promise not to kill me, it’s all yours!”

Teegan, trembling, held his item pouch aloft, as if it were his only lifeline.

However, Jared merely gazed at him coldly, with not a shred of pity in his eyes.

He spoke slowly, his voice deep and powerful.

“Teegan, do you really think your magical items could save your life?”

Upon hearing this, a look of bewilderment crossed Teegan’s face. He had assumed that Jared would treat him like Riehl – that if only he offered up his magical items, his life would be spared. However, Jared's subsequent words left him feeling as if he had plunged into an icy pit.

"Why not?" Teegan was somewhat baffled!

"You really are clueless. Once I take your life, your magical items will naturally become mine anyway..."

Jared's words were laced with a teasing tone.

Teegan's face turned ashen in an instant. He couldn't believe his own ears, let alone that Jared would do such a thing.

Was it not the norm to trade one's life by offering up one's magical items? Why was Jared suddenly being unpredictable?

Teegan wanted to beg for mercy once more, but despite opening his mouth, he couldn't produce a single sound.

At that moment, Jared moved swiftly, appearing instantly before Teegan, and struck out with his palm.

The accompanying gust felt as sharp as a blade, carrying a chilling intent to kill, aimed directly at Teegan's vital point.

"I just want you to understand," Jared's voice echoed in Teegan's ear, chilling as a death sentence, "I'm not someone you can afford to offend. In my eyes, your Buckley family is worth nothing."

Teegan only felt a powerful force engulfing him. He wanted to dodge, but it was too late. That strike, like a mountain collapsing, landed heavily on his chest.

With a thunderous bang, Teegan's body flew backward like a kite with its string cut, landing heavily on the ground.

His chest had caved in, with blood gushing out profusely, staining the surrounding ground a deep crimson.

His eyes were wide, his face filled with disbelief and resentment. It seemed he was still wondering why Jared could be so heartless and why he wasn't given a chance to survive.

"You... you..." Teegan opened his mouth, barely managing to utter those words before his head tilted to the side, and he stopped breathing.

Jared stood still, staring at Teegan's lifeless body, his eyes devoid of any flicker of emotion.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4655 – Gordon’s eyes were filled with shock as he witnessed Jared killing Teegan without hesitation. Teegan was, after all, the son of the Buckley family!

Buckley Manor was home to Rex, one of the Three Beast Generals. Moreover, Rex was an Ultimate Realm Level Eight cultivator, with at least a hundred Ultimate Realm cultivators under his command.

Did Jared seriously kill Teegan directly? Isn’t he afraid that Rex would avenge Teegan?

Elena was equally shaken when she saw Jared kill Teegan without hesitation.

However, her feelings toward Jared had changed once again. She was initially indifferent when she first met him but now admired him immensely.

Every shift in Elena’s perception of Jared stemmed from the strength he displayed.

Though Elena was stunning, she was merely a Tribulator cultivator. Without strength, her beauty alone was far from enough to thrive in the Ethereal Realm.

In fact, her looks could bring unnecessary trouble her way.

This time was a prime example. Even Gordon’s two friends had betrayed him because of Elena’s beauty, attempting to use him to claim her for themselves.

If Jared hadn’t arrived in time, Elena would have likely been violated.

Her gaze toward Jared shifted constantly. Deep down, she couldn’t help but wish that Jared would take her under his wing.

With him, she would have a safe haven and a dependable protector.

Mia was also struggling internally. Her brother Ezio was dead, leaving her alone without family.

In a place like Beast City, a young woman with no support would inevitably fall prey to male cultivators and be reduced to a plaything.

She also wanted to follow Jared and seek his protection.

However, Mia was self-aware. Whether in terms of strength or appearance, she couldn’t compare to Elena-or even Zelda, the sword spirit.

While Mia’s looks were considered average, Jared was surrounded by countless beauties, so she simply couldn’t stand out.

“Let’s go. I’ll take you into the city and find a safe place for now. This celestial crystal vein mine isn’t secure anymore; others are likely aware of its existence,” Jared said to the three.

Since Billy had revealed the location to Teegan, and Teegan had brought people from the Buckley family here, others from the Buckley family must've also learned about the celestial crystal vein mine.

Leaving Gordon and the others here would no longer be safe.

"Mr. Chance, you just killed Teegan. If you go back to Beast City so openly, won't the Buckley family retaliate? I know of a very hidden place. How about I take you there to lay low for a while?" Gordon suggested.

"No need. The Buckley family wouldn't dare retaliate. If they do, I'll just destroy the entire Buckley family," Jared replied casually.

A cultivator at Ultimate Realm Level One claiming he could wipe out a family led by an Ultimate Realm Level Eight cultivator-anyone else saying such a thing would be laughed at.

It would be dismissed as empty boasting. Since that came from Jared, Gordon and the others couldn't help but believe him.

Jared's display of power had been so overwhelming that they could no longer gauge the true extent of his strength.

The group made their way quickly to Beast City.

Thanks to Jared's possession of Giles Manor' token, they entered the city gates without inspection.

Jared led Gordon and the others straight into Giles Manor. The sight of the grand manor left the three of them dumbfounded.

This was none other than the estate of Jaime, one of the three great Beast Generals. Though they had never entered before, they had seen it from afar.

In Beast City, apart from the city lord mansion, the mansions of the Three Beast Generals were the most extravagant and imposing structures.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4656 – "Mr. Chance, they are..."

Claude looked puzzled as Jared returned with three people.

"These are my friends. They'll stay here for now. Is General Jaime around?" Jared asked.

"Yes, he was just looking for you earlier. It seems there might be an issue with the Buckley family," Claude replied.

Jared immediately guessed that it must have been related to him killing Teegan, which likely caused some unrest in the Buckley family.

“I’ll leave them to you. Make sure they get some rest. I’ll go find General Jaime.”

After instructing Claude to escort Gordon and the others to their rooms, Jared went straight to Jaime’s council meeting room.

When Jared pushed open the door and entered, several commanders were already seated inside.

As soon as the commanders saw Jared enter, they all stood up. This change in attitude clearly reflected Jared’s newfound status after breaking through to the Ultimate Realm.

After all, anyone capable of making the Ultimate Realm lightning tribulation resemble an Immortal Realm tribulation demanded respect.

“Jared, I was just looking for you! Come, sit here,” Jaime said as he stood up.

He invited Jared to sit beside him.

Jaime’s gesture spoke volumes about the importance he placed on Jared and the status Jared now held in Giles Manor.

In Ethereal Realm, strength ruled-not just in words, but in actions.

“General Jaime, what do you need from me?” Jared asked.

“A scout reported that the Buckley family is holding a funeral. Both of Rex’s sons are dead. Teegan was just killed outside Beast City, so Rex is on the verge of losing his mind. Do you know about this?” Jaime asked.

Jared nodded and replied, “I do. I killed both Niel and Teegan. I just killed Teegan before rushing back here.”

“So it really was you,” Jaime said, frowning slightly, though he seemed to have already suspected as much.

“Why did you kill Teegan?” he continued to ask.

Seeing Jaime’s reaction, Jared decided to explain the truth.

He intended to mine the celestial crystal vein mine with Jaime. Jared no longer trusted anyone else.

Since he intended to mine the vein of celestial crystals with Jaime, there could be no secrets between them.

When Jared revealed the details, the entire council meeting room erupted.

“What? Is it still possible to find a celestial crystal vein mine?”

“This is unbelievable! We thought all those celestial crystal vein mines were long depleted.”

“Good thing the Buckley family didn’t get to mine it. If they had those celestial crystals, they’d definitely have made a move against us already.”

The commanders began to discuss spiritedly.

Jaime’s face reflected both shock and excitement. He hadn’t expected that Jared would kill Teegan over a celestial crystal vein mine.

Now that Jared had shared this with him, it meant Jared intended to have Giles Manor involved in the mining.

“You did the right thing. That celestial crystal vein mine doesn’t belong to the Buckley family. Teegan conspired with others to claim it, so he deserved to die! If Rex dares to come after you, I won’t sit idly by,” Jaime declared firmly.

“Thank you, General Jaime!” Jared expressed his gratitude.

“You’re a foreign official of Giles Manor, so this is what I should do. No need to thank me. However, about mining the celestial crystals...” Jaime trailed off, hesitant.

“General Jaime, I rushed back immediately because I want to mine it together with you, but I’ll need you to send more people to help. Since Teegan already brought others to the celestial crystal vein mine, the Buckley family must know its location. I’m worried Rex might bring his men to seize it,” Jared said.

Hearing this, Jaime immediately stood up and nodded repeatedly. “Right, right, we can’t let Rex get ahead of us!”

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4657 – “Everyone, gather your troops immediately. Jared will lead the team, and we’ll head to the celestial crystal vein mine together. This time, I’ll be there in person. If Rex dares to fight me over it, I’ll fight him to the end!”

Following Jaime’s orders, the commanders quickly acknowledged and left.

Within minutes, hundreds of soldiers had assembled, along with dozens of foreign officials. Among them was Claude.

Jared wasted no time and led the large group out of the city.

Along the way, they caused many cultivators who were unsure of what was happening to quickly avoid them.

Even the guards at the city gates stepped aside after spotting them from a distance. No one dared to question or inspect.

Who would be foolish enough to challenge the soldiers of Giles Manor? That would be suicide.

While Jared led the large group out of the city, Rex stood in the hall of Buckley Manor, trembling as he stared at Teegan's lifeless body.

When Niel died, Rex wasn't as heartbroken because he still had Teegan.

Compared to Niel, Teegan was far more capable and was Rex's ideal successor.

Niel had been nothing but a troublemaker who wasted time indulging in pleasure. His death was of little consequence.

But now, Teegan was gone too. Both of his sons were dead. Rex found this difficult to accept.

"Mr. Keegan, Jaime has just led hundreds of people out of the city!" the Buckley family butler reported to Rex.

Rex furrowed his brows and gritted his teeth.

"That guy must be heading for the celestial crystal vein mine. Teegan died because of that vein mine. There's no way I'll let it fall into Jaime's hands. Gather the troops immediately. We're setting off!"

Rex was well aware of the celestial crystal vein mine. Teegan had reported its location before his death.

Now, seeing Jaime suddenly leave the city with troops, Rex quickly pieced together the reason.

It didn't take long for Rex to gather hundreds of his own men and lead them out of the city with similar momentum.

This development left the cultivators of Beast City utterly baffled.

"What the h*ll is going on? Two of Beast City's Three Beast Generals have left the city fully armed and with all their troops."

"I remember that the Three Beast Generals haven't left Beast City in years. What's happening today?"

"Something big must be brewing. Beast City is definitely in trouble..."

On the streets, many cultivators whispered among themselves, but no one knew what was truly happening.

After Rex led his troops out of the city, only one of the Three Beast Generals remained in Beast City.

Of course, the movements of Jaime and Rex didn't escape the notice of Cian.

"General Cian, both Jaime and Rex have left the city, each with all their forces," one of Cian's subordinates reported.

"This is strange. What are those two up to? Beast City seems to have been restless these past few days."

"Captain Ricky was mysteriously killed outside the city, and the Buckley family is holding a funeral. What's really going on?"

Cian narrowed his sharp, eagle-like eyes, lost in thought.

"General Cian, now that both families have left the city, why don't we seize the opportunity to take over Beast City? Once we've taken control, it won't be so easy for them to return," the subordinate suggested.

"Silence. Do you think the lord doesn't exist? He might not have appeared for many years, but that doesn't mean he's gone. I'm not foolish enough to make such a move. I'm content being a general. I don't aspire to be the lord. Let either of those two take the position if they want it. You, continue gathering intelligence. Observe, but do not interfere or assist either side. Understood?" Cian instructed.

"Understood," the subordinate replied and nodded before turning to leave.

Cian toyed with the two iron balls in his hands, a faint smile appearing on his lips. "Two fools. Have neither of you ever heard that the third party profits when two parties fight?"

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4658 – Outside Beast City, at the celestial crystal vein mine, Jaime and his men had arrived at the location and set up layers of guards around the mine. Anyone who approached would immediately be noticed.

As Jaime gazed at the glowing celestial crystals within the mine, his eyes were filled with excitement.

"We've struck gold! We've struck gold! Hahaha... Let's see how Rex dares to fight me over this now!"

Jaime couldn't hold back his excitement and broke into wild laughter.

"General Jaime, let's not celebrate too early. I'm sure the Buckley family has already sent people here. For now, we need to devise a strategy to counter them," Jared reminded Jaime.

"You're right. We must keep Rex out of this place. If he takes over the celestial crystal vein mine, the entire Beast City will be his," Jaime said with a nod.

"General Jaime, how does your strength compare to Rex's?" Jared asked.

“We’re evenly matched. It’s hard to determine which of us is stronger,” Jaime replied.

“In that case, General Jaime, you should lead the men to guard the mine. I’ll take a team and start mining. If we work fast enough, we might deplete this vein mine in just a few days,” Jared said as he surveyed the surroundings.

This celestial crystal vein mine wasn’t large. Larger mines had long been exploited. Only smaller ones like this could remain hidden for years before being discovered.

“Sure!” Jaime nodded and turned to Claude. “Claude, take a team and assist Jared with the mining. No matter what happens outside, focus solely on extracting the celestial crystals.”

“Understood!” Claude nodded.

With the arrangements made, Jared led Claude and the others to begin mining, while Jaime took his men to guard the mountain to prevent a surprise attack from Rex.

Just as Jaime finished organizing everything, the entire mountain began to tremble slightly.

Soon, hundreds of people marched toward them. Leading them was none other than Rex.

Seeing this, Jaime immediately ordered his men to prepare for battle.

Rex reached the top of the mountain and stopped. He coldly stared at Jaime, his eyes brimming with murderous intent.

“Jaime, what are you doing here?” Rex asked, feigning ignorance.

Seeing through Rex’s act, Rex was instantly infuriated and snapped, “I’ll do whatever the h*ll I want. What’s it to you?”

“Is this mountain yours? What are you doing here?”

Jaime’s retort left Rex momentarily stunned before his rage erupted.

“Jaime, were you raised on filth? Let me tell you, there’s a celestial crystal vein mine here, and it was my son who discovered it. Now, my son has been murdered, and I heard it was by one of your foreign officials. I suggest you hand over the culprit and leave this place immediately. Otherwise, don’t blame me for what happens next!”

Rex’s voice boomed like a thunderclap, carrying for miles.

Jaime’s lips curled into a cold sneer. His eyes were filled with disdain and mockery as if ridiculing Rex’s arrogance and ignorance.

“Rex, your son lacked skill and ability. His death was his own doing. My foreign official is not to be judged by the likes of you! As for the celestial crystal vein mine, it belongs to those fated to possess it. Do you think I am some kind of pushover to be manipulated at will?”

Jaime showed no fear of Rex.

Rex's face turned livid with rage. His beard bristled, and his eyes bulged with fury, like a lion about to erupt in a violent outburst. The killing intent radiating from him was enough to send chills down anyone's spine.

"Jaime, you're digging your own grave! If you don't give me a satisfactory explanation today, you won't leave this place alive! I'll make you understand the price of offending the Buckley family!"

Rex's aura exploded, instantly enveloping the entire mountain with a terrifying pressure.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4659 – Jaime let out a cold laugh as a long spear appeared in his hand. With a single sweep of the spear, the winds surged, and the surrounding air seemed to freeze. A powerful aura emanated from him, pressing down on everyone like a towering mountain.

Jaime sneered and said, "Let's see if you have the ability to kill me! Today, let's settle this once and for all!"

Upon seeing the situation, both parties retreated, leaving behind a vast, empty battlefield.

Jaime and Rex locked eyes, their gazes burning with intense fighting spirit, as if they sought to devour one another.

"Come on, let's end this today!" Rex roared, his figure leaping forward as he charged straight at Jaime.

His fists clenched tightly, shrouded in a violent energy that crackled like lightning as they tore through the air, aiming directly for Jaime's chest.

Jaime snorted coldly and advanced instead of retreating. His spear moved like a dragon, striking toward Rex's vital points.

Jaime's movements were agile, weaving through the battlefield like a swimming dragon.

The spear in his hands seemed alive, each strike carrying the force to shatter mountains and aiming for Rex's throat, heart, and other fatal areas.

The two clashed in an instant, their weapons and fists interweaving in a deadly dance. Their intense battle caused rocks to scatter and dust to billow around them.

Every strike was imbued with both immense power and refined technique, as if they intended to level the entire mountaintop. Their figures moved across the battlefield with blinding speed, like two streaks of lightning, making it nearly impossible for onlookers to follow.

Boom! A thunderous explosion rang out as the two combatants were forced back several steps. The ground beneath them cracked from the sheer force, and it seemed as though the earth itself was trembling.

The onlookers were all terrified, their hearts pounding. Such a display of power was rarely seen here.

They all backed away, fearful of being caught up in the terrifying battle.

Rex roared furiously, his entire body surging with spiritual energy. His fists, now wrapped in roaring winds and thunderous force, once again charged toward Jaime.

Every punch seemed to carry the energy of heaven and earth, slamming into Jaime's spear with deafening booms.

Jaime was equally unyielding. His spear danced in his hands, the tip gleaming with a cold light as it moved like a silver dragon through the air. Each thrust was precise and deadly.

The battle grew increasingly fierce. Every move aimed to kill, and each exchange was heart-stopping.

Their figures darted across the battlefield, sometimes soaring into the sky, sometimes diving toward the ground. It was as though they were performing a dance between life and death.

The sky darkened with thick clouds. Thunder rumbled above as if even the heavens were shaken by this extraordinary duel.

Suddenly, Jaime let out a shout. His spear traced a dazzling arc through the air, resembling a shooting star streaking across the night sky, aiming directly at Rex's head.

Rex snorted and shifted his body to the side, narrowly evading the attack.

However, Jaime's spear seemed almost sentient. It curved mid-air and thrust toward Rex's waist with deadly precision.

Rex's expression changed drastically. He quickly dodged, but the spear's sharp edge still tore through his robe, leaving a deep wound on his side.

Enraged, Rex roared and lunged with clawed hands. He aimed for Jaime's chest, trying to leverage his close-combat advantage.

Jaime let out a cold snort and leaped backward to evade Rex's assault.

With a flick of his spear, Jaime unleashed a flurry of rapid thrusts. The spear tip rained down like droplets, each strike swift and precise, threatening to turn Rex into a sieve.

Rex refused to back down, his hands moving swiftly to create barriers of energy to block the onslaught.

Yet Jaime's spear pierced through the barriers like the dawn breaking through the night, pressing relentlessly toward Rex's vital points.

The two exchanged blow after blow in an intense and unrelenting battle. The world around them seemed to darken and tremble under the weight of their conflict.

Their figures moved like shadows across the battlefield, sometimes passing each other in a blur, sometimes colliding with explosive force. It was a silent contest of life and death, where neither showed any sign of yielding.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4660 – As time passed, the intensity of the battle between the two escalated. The fluctuations of their spiritual energy surged like tumultuous waves, engulfing the entire mountaintop.

The soldiers around hastily retreated, fearing they might get caught up in this surge of power.

Finally, after a fierce clash, both individuals were simultaneously thrown back, landing heavily on the ground, spitting out blood. They were both seriously injured. Their bodies slid across the ground for some distance before they came to a halt.

Jaime struggled to pull himself up from the ground, then wiped the traces of blood from the corner of his mouth. His gaze remained steadfast as he sneered, "Rex, you were ruthless today, but neither of us won! This battle is just a temporary draw."

Rex also struggled to his feet, his face as pale as paper, with traces of blood on the corner of his mouth. Yet, he still managed a forced smile and said, "Well, it was quite a fight! But this matter is far from over! Our contest has only just begun!"

The two of them locked eyes, each reflecting a deep-seated fury in their gaze.

They knew that even though the battle had come to an end, the real contest had just begun. Their hatred and grudges couldn't be resolved with just one fight.

Upon seeing the situation, the surrounding soldiers rushed forward, each helping their respective generals up. Hundreds of soldiers from both sides eyed each other with hostility, casting a solemn and tense atmosphere over the entire mountaintop.

Jaime and Rex simultaneously retreated, signaling their soldiers to commence the battle.

After all, neither of them could possibly give up this celestial crystal vein mine. Since they had fought to a standstill, it was time to let their subordinates battle it out to determine who was superior.

Just as both sides' soldiers were on the edge of conflict, the atmosphere so tense it was nearly palpable, a cool and resolute voice suddenly broke the silence.

"Hold it right there!"

As everyone followed the sound, they saw that Jared had appeared at some point. His face was calm, but his eyes revealed an undeniable determination.

He walked straight to the frontline where the two armies were confronting each other, and his gaze met Rex's. His tone was calm yet resonated with undeniable authority as he confessed, "Rex, I am the one who killed both your sons."

Those words hit like a thunderbolt out of the blue, stunning everyone present.

Rex's eyes instantly turned crimson as he glared at Jared. It was as if he wanted to tear him to shreds.

"What did you say? You killed my sons?"

Rex's voice was hoarse with anger. His aura of murderous intent surged dramatically as if the very air around him was distorted by his rage.

Jared's expression remained unchanged as he responded, "Indeed, it was me. He attempted to seize the celestial crystal vein mine. He brought this upon himself."

Rex was so angry that he broke out into laughter. He scrutinized Jared, only to find that he was merely an Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator. This realization only served to fuel his anger further.

"You're just an Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator and you dare to spout off in front of me? Today, I will use your blood to pay tribute to my sons!"

As he spoke, his figure swayed, ready to pounce on Jared.

However, at that moment, Jaime bravely stepped forward, positioning himself in front of Jared.

"Rex, if you want to lay a finger on him, you'll have to get through me first!"

In Jaime's voice, there was an undeniable resolve. He gripped the spear in his hand, ready for the impending battle.

However, Jared turned to Jaime with a smile and said, "General Jaime, I appreciate your concern, but I'm confident enough to handle an injured Ultimate Realm Level Eight cultivator."

Jaime was momentarily taken aback. He then gave a slight nod and stepped aside.

He was well aware that Jared was a man of hidden depths. Since Jared was so confident, he naturally didn't need to say much.

Hearing that, Rex was even more consumed by rage.

“All right, all right, all right! I shall see what tricks you, an Ultimate Realm Level One brat, have up your sleeve!”

Like a wild horse that had broken free from its reins, he charged at Jared, fueled by towering rage and murderous intent.