

A warrior undefeatable /

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4661 – Rex’s fists, charged with spiritual energy, seemed capable of shaking the very mountains and rivers with each strike. They aimed unerringly for Jared’s weak points.

Faced with Rex’s fierce onslaught, Jared abruptly retreated. A cold light suddenly lit up from his hand, reminiscent of a meteor tearing through the night sky. The Dragonslayer Sword appeared in his hand. At that moment, a faint sound of a dragon’s roar circulated the sword, exuding pressure.

“Today, you will witness the power of the Dragonslayer Sword!”

Jared sprang into action, moving through the battlefield like a phantom. The Dragonslayer Sword in his hand seemed to come alive, each swing accompanied by a roar. Wherever the sword pointed, the air itself seemed to split in two, leaving visible fissures in its wake.

Rex’s expression subtly shifted. Despite his high level of self-confidence in his skills, he dared not be careless when faced with the Dragonslayer Sword.

He swiftly harnessed all his spiritual energy, focusing it into the palm of his hand, ready to counter the impending strike.

“Homing Sword Shadows!”

Jared abruptly halted. He fiercely swung down his Dragonslayer Sword. At the tip of the blade, a dazzling, eye-catching light gathered, forming a tangible dragon-shaped light. It roared out from the sword like a force capable of annihilating the world, charging directly toward Rex.

Rex clapped his hands together, his spiritual energy transforming into a colossal beastly silhouette, attempting to ward off this earth-shattering blow.

The moment the dragon-shaped light collided with the beastly silhouette, a deafening roar erupted. It was as if the surrounding air had been completely torn apart, causing dust to billow and debris to scatter. The soldiers on the battlefield hastily retreated, fearing they would be caught in the aftermath.

The dragon-shaped light was like an unstoppable force, piercing through the beastly silhouette and relentlessly advancing toward Rex.

Rex was taken aback, his face drained of color. In the rush of the moment, all he could do was use movement technique to narrowly avoid the deadly blow. Despite this, the residual wave of the light still managed to graze his left arm. His skin was torn open as blood gushed out profusely.

This strike made Rex fully realize the terrifying power of the Dragonslayer Sword, and he dared not underestimate it anymore.

However, the battle was far from over. Jared struck the iron while it was hot. His Dragonslayer Sword danced in his hand, leaving no room for a counterattack. Each strike carried such tremendous power that relentlessly pushed Rex back, leaving him utterly defenseless.

He nimbly moved through the battlefield. Every evasion was perfectly timed, causing Rex's punches to repeatedly miss their mark.

As time passed, Rex gradually realized that he was unable to defeat Jared. Jared's attacks became increasingly fierce, leaving him feeling terrified each time.

He was well aware that Jared was no ordinary adversary, and his Dragonslayer Sword was incredibly powerful. He began to adjust his tactics. Instead of relentlessly attacking, he started to look for Jared's weaknesses, attempting to outsmart him and win.

However, Jared seemed to have seen through Rex's intentions. He moved like the wind, his Dragonslayer Sword in hand seemingly alive. Sometimes it transformed into a fierce sword light, other times into a lingering sword shadow, neutralizing each of Rex's attacks while simultaneously seeking opportunities to counterattack.

Finally, in a moment when Rex's offensive slightly eased, Jared seized the opportunity.

His figure abruptly rose, like a cheetah ready to pounce. His Dragonslayer Sword traced a perfect arc in the air, aimed directly at Rex's vital points.

Wherever this sword traveled, it felt as if the air itself was torn apart, leaving a deep fissure in its wake.

Despite Rex's desperate resistance, his defenses seemed feeble and ineffective against the relentless onslaught of the Dragonslayer Sword.

Rex felt as if he had been dealt a severe blow. He was sent flying backward and crashing heavily onto the ground. He struggled to get up, only to find that his spiritual energy was in chaos and his injuries were severe.

"How... How could you possibly be so strong?"

Incredulously, Rex gazed at Jared, a hint of tremor lacing his voice.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4662 – A mere Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator had managed to defeat him, an Ultimate Realm Level Eight cultivator, and he had been seriously injured in the process.

It was simply too astonishing that even Jaime, who was standing aside, was left utterly speechless.

Back when Jared was at Ninth Level Tribulator, it was already shocking enough that he could defeat those at Ultimate Realm Level Four. Now, having just advanced to Ultimate Realm, he could already defeat those at Ultimate Realm Level Eight.

It was just too outrageous. Even the hundreds of soldiers surrounding them were left wide-eyed in disbelief.

They had never met someone who could still emerge victorious in battle despite the huge difference in cultivation level.

Jared gave Rex a cold stare. "Do you concede?"

"F*ck you! If I wasn't injured, there's no way you could have beaten me," Rex roared.

Though he was deeply shocked, he knew he couldn't show any signs of backing down at this moment, otherwise, the hundreds of soldiers would take him lightly.

"Don't say I didn't give you a chance. I can let you go home to recover. Once you're healed, we can have another round. I'll make you kneel before me willingly..."

Jared swiftly retracted the Dragonslayer Sword he held, then turned and walked away.

Rex was stunned. He hadn't expected Jared to let him off the hook, and so readily at that.

Jaime hesitated slightly as he approached Jared. "Mr. Chance..."

Now was the perfect time to get rid of Rex. If they let him go, he would just be a nuisance in the future.

At that moment, Jaime had already wholeheartedly conceded to Jared. Even his manner of address had changed. He no longer viewed Jared as merely a guest.

An Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator was able to defeat an Ultimate Realm Level Eight cultivator. The potential for future accomplishments was immeasurable. Jaime knew that it would be wise to align himself with Jared.

"Are you afraid that I won't be able to defeat him in the future?"

Jared glanced at Jaime and offered him a slight smile.

He knew Jaime was definitely afraid that once Rex recovered from his injuries, he would no longer be a match for him.

However, Jared was well aware of his own situation. Even though he was currently at Ultimate Realm Level One, he had already reached Top Level. Given enough resources, he knew it wouldn't be long before he could advance to Ultimate Realm Level Two.

Once he reached Ultimate Realm Level Two, Rex would be nothing to him. Even if Rex was at his best, he wouldn't stand a chance against him then.

Jared wouldn't engage in a battle he wasn't certain he could win. It was only because he had enough confidence that he let Rex leave.

"Well, it's not that; it's just..."

Jaime didn't quite know how to express himself. He was simply a bit worried.

"Don't worry, even if Rex regains his peak condition, I can easily take him down!"

With a subtle smile, Jared leaped and plunged straight into the vein mine.

Jaime could only sigh. He turned to Rex and said, "Rex, I'm sparing your life today. If you dare to covet this celestial crystal vein mine again, I'll take your life!"

Rex could only watch Jaime's arrogant display, his face flushing red with frustration. However, he dared not say anything further. Leading his men, he turned and left.

Upon seeing Rex depart, Jaime continued to lead his men in guarding the mountaintop, ensuring that no one would dare to exploit the celestial crystal vein mine again.

Jared had assigned Claude to lead the mining efforts, while he himself retreated to a secluded location to cultivate.

With so many celestial crystals, Jared knew he was definitely capable of reaching Ultimate Realm Level Two.

Meanwhile, Rex, severely injured, had returned to Beast City with his men. He was so furious that he had coughed up bowls of blood. If he had been an ordinary man instead of a cultivator, he would have surely died from such blood loss.

At that moment, the butler quietly asked, "General Rex, many soldiers have started to secretly desert us, choosing to join the Giles and Everett families instead. What should we do?"

By now, Rex had lost both of his sons and was himself injured. A dark cloud seemed to hang over the entire Buckley Manor, casting a shadow of dread. Many of his subordinates were filled with fear.

They were profoundly shocked after witnessing Jared defeat Rex, causing him to spit blood.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4663 – "These ungrateful wretches! I'm not even gone yet, and they're already looking for their next opportunity."

Rex fiercely slammed his hand onto the table.

Although he was infuriated, he knew he still needed to find a way to prevent the situation from worsening. If all his subordinates were to flee, the Buckley family would be left powerless.

But at that moment, he simply had no means to reclaim the celestial crystal vein mine.

“General Rex, we could pay the Everett family a visit. After all, we’re talking about a celestial crystal vein mine. I don’t think Cian would just stand by and let Jaime benefit from this. If we combined our forces, no matter how skilled Jaime is, he wouldn’t stand a chance against us!” the butler suggested.

“You’re right. I’ll go have a talk with Cian. You get ready! Gather more gifts, and make sure to include Cassina from my mansion. Cian has desired her for some time, but I’ve been hesitant to let her go!”

The butler nodded, then promptly withdrew.

Rex took some pills, which slightly improved his injuries. Only then did he change into a fresh set of clothes and head straight to Everett Manor.

The mansions of the Three Beast Generals were not far apart. It only took a mere ten minutes or so to reach.

Cian was seated in the living room, leisurely enjoying his fruit.

He was waiting for Rex, knowing that he would surely come looking for him.

After Rex returned from the outskirts, Cian was informed. He also came to know that Rex had been injured by Jared.

“Cian, I’ve come to share a couple of drinks with you...”

At that moment, Rex’s voice echoed. He then strode into the living room.

Trailing behind Rex was a beautiful young lady, her expression tinged with fear.

Cian feigned ignorance as he asked, “Rex, what brings you here? Weren’t you busy collecting celestial crystals?”

“Some time ago, you expressed an interest in a young maid at my mansion, didn’t you? I was too engrossed in my own diversions back then to give her to you. I’m done playing now, so I brought her over to you,” Rex said with a smile, then turned to the young lady behind him. “What are you waiting for? Remember to take good care of him and serve him well.”

“Yes, sir,” the young lady responded before she made her way toward Cian.

Cian let out a cold chuckle, then waved his hand.

A surge of spiritual energy suddenly struck the young lady, sending her flying. She landed harshly on the ground, coughing up blood before she died.

“I’m not interested in the things you’ve discarded.” Cian snorted.

To them, these servants were as insignificant as dust, so they killed them without any psychological burden whatsoever.

Rex merely glanced at her, showing no signs of anger. Instead, he smiled and said, “I’ll find you someone better next time.”

“Rex, you’re unusually reasonable today. Are you perhaps in need of a favor?” Cian asked, a playful undertone in his voice.

“Of course not, I just have a few things I want to discuss with you!”

Rex would never voluntarily ask Cian for a favor.

He knew well, given Cian’s temperament, he would undoubtedly be in for a rough time.

“Oh, what is it?”

“You’re already aware that I’ve been steadily acquiring celestial crystals. Apart from the portion I’ve sent to the city lord mansion, I’ve kept the rest. After all, these celestial crystals aren’t particularly useful for our current cultivation level. However, I have connections that allow me to sell them at a high price. A celestial crystal vein mine has been discovered in the outskirts, and it’s worth a fortune. Jaime has now taken control of the mine, intending to claim it for himself. So, how about our two families join forces to reclaim the celestial crystal vein mine and start mining? When the time comes to sell the celestial crystals, we’ll split the profits fifty-fifty. You won’t have to lift a finger!”

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4664 – Upon hearing Rex’s words, Cian couldn’t help but burst into laughter. His smile was so radiant, it was almost unnerving. The sight of it sent a shiver down Rex’s spine.

“Cian, why are you laughing? Is there something wrong with the method I proposed? If you think a fifty-fifty split isn’t appropriate, we can go sixty-forty. I’ll take forty and you take sixty. How does that sound?” Rex continued.

“Rex, have you ever seen me fight over anything with you all these years? Despite being given the grueling task of guarding the prison, I never complained! But don’t take me for a fool. You led a grand procession out of the city, thinking I wouldn’t notice? You fought with Jaime, and both of you got hurt. Do you think I didn’t know about that? You were beaten by an Ultimate Realm Level One youngster to the point of spitting blood continuously.

Do you think I’m unaware of that? Why discuss cooperation with me? You couldn’t handle Jaime, and now you’re dragging me into this mess. I’m not that naive. While the celestial crystal vein mine is impressive, I know my own limits and don’t want it. If you desire it, fight for it with your own abilities. Rest assured, even if Jaime comes looking for me, I won't help him."

Rex's face instantly turned red in embarrassment.

"Cian, aren't you going to reconsider? I'm willing to increase your share!"

If it were solely based on the power of the Buckley family, it would likely be incredibly difficult to reclaim the celestial crystal vein mine.

"See him out!" Cian commanded.

At that moment, the butler walked in. "General Rex, this way please..."

Rex wanted to continue persuading him. But upon noticing Cian's demeanor, he ultimately closed his mouth, turned around, and walked out.

Cian watched Rex's retreating figure and sneered, "Trying to play mind games with me, do you think I'm a fool?"

Rex stormed out of Everett Manor, seething with anger.

Not only did he fail to enlist Cian's help, but he also ended up causing the death of his favorite woman.

He felt as if he had suffered a double loss.

However, there was nothing he could do. Cian seemed to know everything, which made cooperation with him extremely difficult.

"General Rex, did General Cian refuse?" the butler of the Buckley family asked.

"Yeah, it looks like our only option is to rely on Tavon. Hopefully, he'll be able to make it here sooner this time..."

"General Rex, Mr. Lorthan is an outsider to Beast City. If you secretly collaborate with an outside cultivator and let him reveal himself, won't you risk punishment?"

The butler expressed his concerns with a hint of anxiety.

"I couldn't care less about any of that. With the city lord missing, who is there to punish me? Once I become the city lord, I'll be the one setting the rules for Beast City."

Rex waved his hand dismissively.

All he needed was to secure the celestial crystal vein mine, then he could use the cultivators from the outside world to help him conquer the entire Beast City.

By then, he would be the one setting the rules, so there wouldn't be any talk of punishment.

At that time, Jared was still relentlessly cultivating within the celestial crystal vein mine, striving to break through to Ultimate Realm Level Two as soon as possible.

Jaime was tasked with guarding day and night, ensuring that Rex wouldn't bring his men to cause any havoc.

In the blink of an eye, three days had passed. During these three days, Claude and his team tirelessly mined the celestial crystals, yielding quite a fruitful harvest.

Meanwhile, in Buckley Manor, Rex spent his days in a state of restlessness.

His face was etched with wrinkles, making him appear significantly older.

"Why isn't he here yet?" Rex frowned, glancing out the window.

"Rex, were you waiting for me?"

At that moment, a boisterous voice echoed from outside.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4665 – "Tavon, you've finally arrived..."

Upon hearing that voice, Rex was immediately filled with elation, and he rushed out straight away.

In the courtyard of Buckley Manor, a towering man, robust and burly, was gazing at Rex with a smile on his face.

If Jared were here, he would undoubtedly recognize at a glance that this burly man was none other than Tavon, the same man whom Arthur killed and resurrected.

At that moment, Tavon was radiating with joy, a stark contrast to the disheveled state he was in when he was nearly killed before.

"Rex, did you perhaps prepare too many celestial crystals, and now you're short on funds? I must tell you, this time, I need as many celestial crystals as you can provide," Tavon looked at Rex and asked.

So it turned out that the celestial crystals in Tavon's item pouch were all purchased from Rex. No wonder this guy had a map, marked with the location of Beast City.

This guy managed to traverse through layers of illusion array to reach Beast City. It must be Rex's doing to allow Tavon to come and go freely.

"Tavon, let's take our conversation inside!"

Rex invited Tavon into the room.

After Tavon took a seat in the hall, Rex, displaying a keen sense of propriety, clapped his hands. Subsequently, two young, delicately charming girls came out and sat down next to Tavon.

With an air of familiarity, Tavon casually embraced two young women, his large hands brazenly exploring their bodies, completely disregarding Rex's presence.

It seemed that Rex didn't care, as if he was already used to this.

Although Tavon was an official in Celestial Palace, and Celestial Palace's resources were plentiful, there was one thing that left him speechless-the sheer lack of female cultivators within Celestial Palace.

In addition to Celestial Palace's rules, the celestials were required to pair with the divine race's female cultivators for dual cultivation. This was done to maintain the purity of the celestials' lineage.

Hence, there were not enough female cultivators to go around, resulting in many celestials that were unable to find a dual cultivation partner.

Tavon was no exception to this. Fortunately, he was able to visit Beast City to purchase celestial crystals. Thus, in this place, where no one imposed restrictions or control, Tavon was free to seek companionship with women as he pleased.

Rex was well aware of Tavon's preferences, so every time he visited, he would always bring along two beautiful young women for Tavon.

"Tavon, I-"

"Rex, hold your words for a moment," he pleaded, "I'm feeling all bottled up inside. Let me vent a bit before we continue!"

Tavon was holding two young women in his arms, so he had no interest in listening to what Rex had to say.

Upon hearing this, Rex was momentarily speechless. However, he didn't dare to refuse and could only muster a strained smile, saying, "Alright then, Tavon, you go ahead..."

After he had spoken, Rex walked out. The moment Rex's foot had barely stepped out of the room, he heard a woman's cry coming from behind him.

Rex could only hastily shut the door. Tavon is way too impatient.

Listening to the sounds within the room, Rex could only wait outside. Out of boredom, he lit up a pot of energizing smoke for himself. The emerald pipe emitted a green glow, clearly indicating its high value.

After taking two deep breaths, Rex felt significantly refreshed. Much of the troubles that had been plaguing his mind seemed to have lessened considerably.

Exhaling a slow stream of smoke, Rex was just about to take another puff when he noticed the sound in the room had abruptly ceased.

“Rex, come on in...” Tavon’s voice rang out.

Rex was taken aback, glancing at the half-smoked revitalizing cigarette in his hand. With a sense of helplessness, he had no choice but to put it out.

He’s way too fast. I didn’t even finish my cigarette! It wasn’t even minutes. He only lasted for seconds.

Rex pushed open the door, and two young girls walked out, their expressions suggesting they hadn’t had enough.

Meanwhile, Tavon was beaming, his face flushed and full of smiles, looking utterly content.

“You’re getting more and more impressive, Tavon.”

After Rex entered the room, he spoke against his better judgment.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4666 – “Haha, you flatter me, Rex. I can’t boast about much, but when it comes to the time spent in dual cultivation, I’m quite formidable among celestials,” Tavon bragged.

Upon hearing this, Rex nearly burst out laughing. Is he saying he’s good in bed?

Rex had never personally encountered celestials. However, now he knew what to make of them after hearing what Tavon said.

However, now that Rex needed something from Tavon, he didn’t dare to say anything.

“Tavon, let’s get back to discussing the matter of the celestial crystals. This year, I have not prepared many,” Rex said to Tavon.

“Not many? What’s going on? This time I asked for a lot, don’t tell me all the celestial crystals around your Beast City have been mined out?” With a slight frown, Tavon asked.

“It wasn’t like that at all. Just on the outskirts of our Beast City, we recently discovered a new celestial crystal vein mine,” Rex shook his head and said.

Tavon suddenly stood up. “A celestial crystal vein mine? Then why did you say there aren’t many celestial crystals? Why aren’t you mining it? I can wait for you for a few days!”

Tavon, on the other hand, wished he could stay here longer. After all, this place allowed for casual dual cultivation.

“Tavon, don’t rush. I was about to discuss this with you. The celestial crystal vein mine has been taken over by others. I can’t mine it.”

With a sense of helplessness, Rex explained.

“Taken over by someone else? Aren’t you one of the top three Beast Generals of Beast City? Who dares to compete with you?”

Tavon had been collaborating with Rex for many years, so he was well aware of some matters concerning Beast City.

“The one who contested with me was none other than Jaime from Giles Manor. This guy monopolized the mine, mining the celestial crystals himself. I tried to seize them, but unfortunately, his skills surpassed mine, and I had no choice but to retreat in defeat!”

“Darn it, someone actually dared to compete with you. Take me there now, let’s reclaim that celestial crystal vein mine!”

In a huff, Tavon exclaimed.

Upon hearing this, Rex was immediately overjoyed and nodded, saying, “Tavon, I’ve been waiting for you. As long as we reclaim that celestial vein mine, I’ll definitely give you a discount on those celestial crystals, and even find you a few more women.”

Upon hearing this, Tavon immediately waved his hand and said, “No need for any discounts. After all, it’s not my money. All you need to do is find me a few more women! Hurry up and take me there. This time, I’ll take back more celestial crystals, enough to make up for my past mistakes. Someone stole my celestial crystals, and now I’m the laughingstock of the town!”

Tavon’s celestial crystal had been stolen by Jared. Even though there was no punishment upon his return to Celestial Palace, he was still subjected to the mockery of the others in Celestial Palace.

At that time, Tavon was in dire need of a turnaround. If he could bring back enough celestial crystals this time, he would be able to silence the murmuring critics.

“What?” Rex was taken aback. “How can anyone dare to steal your celestial crystals? Isn’t that a suicide mission?”

Tavon was at Top Level Ultimate Realm Level Nine, just one step away from transcending into Immortal Realm.

In the whole Beast City, aside from the city lord, Tavon boasted the greatest combat prowess.

Unexpectedly, the entity that was considered second in power within Beast City, was actually bested by someone outside of Beast City.

“You’re not fully aware,” he said, “Your Beast City has been isolated for thousands of years. You have no idea how much the Ethereal Realm has changed. Strangely enough, there were a lot of enigmatic cultivators in the Ethereal Realm these days. No one knew where they came from. There were even prodigious cultivators who dared to fight beyond their level! The entire Ethereal Realm was in chaos.

Even Anton, who was at Immortal Realm, was scared off with just one glance...”

The genius Tavon was referring to was none other than Jared. He’d witnessed it with his own eyes. Jared, at Ninth Level Tribulator, had defeated a practitioner at Ultimate Realm Level Four, leaving them crying out for mercy.

The person who had managed to scare off Anton with just a glance was none other than Arthur. This shocking scene was forever etched in Tavon’s heart.

“Was it really that terrifying? Even Anton was scared off with just one glance?”

Rex wore an expression of utter shock. He knew that reaching the Immortal Realm was considered the pinnacle in the entire Ethereal Realm.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4667 – After transcending into the Immortal Realm, one ascended to become an immortal being. Who would linger in the Ethereal Realm when one had ascended into immortals?

They would have ascended to the celestial realm and started their cultivation anew.

What kind of person must one be to scare away an Immortal Realm cultivator with just a glance?

Rex couldn’t quite understand, but he had indeed encountered those prodigies who dared to punch above their weight. He just didn’t realize that Tavon was referring to Jared all along!

“Tavon, we have prodigies in our Beast City who battle beyond their ranks too. However, we certainly lack someone who can intimidate a cultivator from Immortal Realm with just a glance. The outside world is terrifying. Thankfully, we had sealed off our Beast City early on. Otherwise, we would have been prey for others long ago!”

Rex spoke with a lingering fear in his heart.

“Rex, you’re overthinking it,” Tavon said. “With the power of Beast City, we can still hold our own in the Ethereal Realm. After all, those cultivators with abnormal strength are in the minority,” Tavon gave Rex’s shoulder a reassuring pat and said.

As Tavon accompanied Rex, they chatted while on their journey, and before they knew it, they had arrived at the location of the celestial crystal vein mine.

This time, Rex didn’t bring many people, just a dozen or so attendants.

With Tavon by his side, he wasn't afraid at all. Even if Jaime brought hundreds of people, it would be of no use.

Even a multitude of cultivators at the Ultimate Realm Levels Four and Five stood no chance against Tavon, a cultivator at the Top Level Ultimate Realm Level Nine.

"General Jaime, Rex has brought people again..."

As Rex and his group were nearly reaching the celestial crystal vein mine, someone immediately followed Jaime to report it.

Jaime huffed. "I knew this guy wouldn't give up so easily. How many people has he brought with him this time?"

"There were just over ten..." Jaime's subordinate replied.

"More than ten?" Jaime's brows furrowed.

"What is this guy up to? Come with me to check it out."

Jaime led his men out of the temporarily constructed palace.

From a distance, Jaime saw that Rex had indeed brought along a dozen or so people. Standing beside Rex was a towering, burly man.

Although Jaime didn't know Tavon, he didn't pay it any mind. After all, in the whole Beast City, the only person who could possibly be stronger than them was the city lord who hadn't shown himself in years.

Jaime, accompanied by his group of subordinates, stood imposingly in front of the palace, his gaze burning intensely as he watched Rex and his party gradually approach.

As the distance between the two parties closed in, Jaime was the first to strike. A mocking curve tugged at the corner of his mouth as he loudly taunted, "Rex, your lackeys are a disgrace. Last time, they scurried off like frightened rats. Today, you've returned with a few more kittens to meet their doom. Have you lost your mind?"

Rex's face darkened instantly. He clenched his teeth, responding fiercely, "Jaime, don't be arrogant! Last time was merely my momentary oversight, but today, I'll make sure you understand who this celestial crystal vein mine truly belongs to!"

"Hahaha!" Jaime threw his head back and laughed heartily, his laughter filled with contempt. "You? And this oaf by your side? It seems to me like you're desperate, resorting to some unknown fool to play your part."

Tavon was already irritated from listening to the two arguing all the way. When Jaime humiliated him like this, he was instantly furious. His eyes, round as bronze bells, bulged in anger as he roared, "You insolent creature, how dare you humiliate me like this!"

Before his words even fell, Tavon moved swiftly, much like a cannonball being shot from its chamber. Carrying with it the sound of rushing wind, he instantly charged toward Jaime.

Jaime's expression abruptly shifted. Despite his preparedness, Tavon's speed was simply too fast, so fast that he barely had time to react.

At the critical moment, Jaime instinctively summoned his inner spiritual power, hastily forming a spiritual shield in front of him.

"Boom!"

With a force akin to a landslide, Tavon's fist heavily slammed onto the shield, resulting in a deafening boom.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4668 – Jaime felt an irresistible force surging through him. He was sent flying uncontrollably, much like a kite that had its string cut, covering dozens of meters in the air before landing. He skidded across the ground leaving a long trail behind him, and finally crashed heavily into a massive boulder.

"Pfft!"

Jaime spat out a large mouthful of fresh blood, staining the ground in front of him a vivid red.

"General Jaime!"

Upon witnessing the scene, Jaime's subordinates started to panic and shout, wanting to rush over to help. However, they were completely paralyzed by the overwhelming aura emanating from Tavon, unable to make a move.

Struggling, Jaime managed to pull himself up from the ground. With trembling hands, he wiped the trace of blood from the corner of his mouth, his eyes filled with shock and defiance.

He had never imagined that, aside from the city lord, there could be such a formidable presence in Beast City. In front of them, he was astonishingly defenseless.

Upon seeing Jaime wounded by just a single punch from Tavon, Rex was beyond thrilled.

He looked at Jaime with a teasing gaze.

"Jaime, it would be best for you to hand over the celestial crystal vein mine peacefully, and then surrender the person who killed my son. In light of our past camaraderie, I may spare your life. If you continue to be stubborn, I'm afraid I can't help you. Tavon is known for his fiery temper. One punch from him, and you could be wiped out."

At this moment, Rex didn't want Tavon to kill Jaime. After all, Tavon was an outsider from Beast City, and if he were to kill Jaime, it would be troublesome if the city lord were to investigate.

All he needed to do was seize the celestial crystal vein mine and then take out Jared.

Only Jaime's life was something Rex wanted to handle personally. If the city lord truly decided to investigate, it would only be considered internal strife, not a crime punishable by death.

"Rex, stop pretending to be the good guy with me. You've been wanting to kill me for a while now, don't think I'm oblivious to that. I won't hand over the celestial crystal vein mine to you, and I certainly won't surrender Mr. Chance to you. If you have the guts, make your move!"

Jaime, being a man of substance, spoke with a cold huff.

"Hmph, such an overconfident fool!"

Upon seeing the situation, Tavon wore a look of disdain on his face. He steadily advanced toward Jaime, each step causing the ground beneath him to subtly tremble. "Today is the day you meet your end!" he declared.

Having said that, Tavon conjured a ball of black spiritual energy in his hand. The energy was akin to a black sun on the verge of explosion, exuding an aura that sent chills down one's spine.

Jaime watched as the encroaching black energy drew closer, a deep sense of despair welling up within him. But as a high-ranking general, his inherent pride wouldn't allow him to simply accept his fate.

"Thinking of killing me? It won't be that easy!"

With gritted teeth, Jaime mustered his last ounce of strength, once again harnessing the spiritual energy within him, readying himself for a final, desperate struggle.

However, his spiritual energy was nearly depleted at that moment, making his conjured attack appear incredibly weak.

Just as Tavon was gearing up to deal the final blow, prepared to end the life of Jaime, suddenly, the atmosphere shifted dramatically in the sky.

Originally, the sky was a clear, vibrant blue. Suddenly, it was blanketed by dark clouds. These thick clouds roiled and churned like ink, and thick bolts of lightning darted through them, causing a thunderous roar that was almost deafening.

Everyone was taken aback by the sudden turn of events, each one of them instinctively looking up toward the sky.

Tavon halted his actions too, a flicker of confusion and unease passing through his eyes.

"Is... is someone provoking the thunder punishment?" Rex asked in terror, a slight tremor in his voice.

Because he had already witnessed this spectacle a few days ago, it must be someone who had broken through a boundary, triggering a lightning tribulation, but what kind of power could possibly trigger such a massive lightning tribulation?

At that moment, deep within the celestial crystal vein mine, Jared was engrossed in a critical breakthrough.

During these few days of intense training, Jared continuously absorbed the rich spiritual energy from the celestial crystal stone vein. The spiritual power within him surged like a tumultuous tide, constantly battering against the barrier of Ultimate Realm Level Two.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4669 – Just moments ago, Jared finally managed to break through the barrier that had been holding him back, successfully advancing to Ultimate Realm Level Two.

As spiritual energy surged within him, it seemed as if the heavens and earth were responding to an ancient rhythm, leading to the unprecedented arrival of a lightning tribulation.

Deep within the celestial crystal vein mine, a breathtaking tableau was formed by the interplay of light and thunderous rumbling.

Dark clouds loomed overhead, rolling with such intensity that they had transformed into vortexes, seemingly linked to chaotic energy beyond the heavens.

The lightning was no longer the usual streaks of light cracking across the sky but had transformed into a relentless web of thunderbolts. Each one was as thick as a massive column, carrying a devastating force that shattered the entire sky.

The sound of thunder was no longer merely deafening. Instead, it had transformed into a soul-stirring roar. Each boom was like a cry from the heavens, instilling a sense of awe in one's heart.

“I have never seen such a phenomenon during one's tribulation.”

Tavon gazed at the sky, his eyes filled with awe. He was so engrossed that he even forgot to attack Jaime.

Jaime too wore a puzzled expression as he gazed at the sky. He couldn't comprehend who it was that was advancing their cultivation level.

A few days ago, a terrifying lightning tribulation was triggered by Jared as he broke through to Ultimate Realm. But what about this time? Could it possibly be him again?

Jaime couldn't even begin to imagine, how it was possible for Jared, who had already advanced to Ultimate Realm Level One a few days ago, to advance to Ultimate Realm Level Two now.

If that was what's going on, it would be absolutely outrageous!

Under the stunned gaze of the crowd, the power of the lightning tribulation grew increasingly intense. It was as if the sky had been torn apart, with streaks of purple divine lightning striking down from the heavens, as if it was going to annihilate everything in its path.

These thunderbolts were not merely physical attacks, they also embodied the trial of the laws of nature, attempting to eradicate the spiritual energy within Jared, crush his will, and cause him to lose himself in this endless sea of thunder.

However, Jared was not crushed by the lightning tribulation. Instead, he used tapped into the energy of heaven and earth to constantly temper his physical body and soul.

His spiritual energy seemed to have been ignited with infinite potential. Every thunderous strike further refined it, enhanced his physical body, and purified his soul.

Engulfed by the lightning tribulation, it seemed as though Jared was resonating with the universe.

Every flash of lightning was a testament to his unyielding determination, while each resounding echo of thunder proclaimed his resoluteness in advancing his cultivation level.

Finally, after countless onslaughts, the thunderstorm gradually subsided, the dark clouds dispersed, and the sunlight once again bathed the earth. Jared stood proudly within the vein mine, his body emanating a faint golden glow.

That was the divine aura that came only after a breakthrough, signifying that he had successfully weathered the terrifying lightning tribulation, stepping into a cultivation level.

Jared slowly opened his eyes, a spark of brilliance flashing within. He could feel the surging power coursing through his body, a confident smirk gracing his lips.

Subsequently, he vanished in a flash, swiftly heading toward the outskirts of the mine.

When he made his appearance before the crowd, a palpable sense of dread filled the air.

“It’s you!”

The moment Tavon caught sight of Jared, his eyes nearly bulged out of their sockets. The look on his was one of shock and anger. “How on earth did you end up here?”

Jared was also a cultivator from outside Beast City, and one had to remember that outside cultivators were forbidden from entering the city.

Tavon had been able to come and go freely due to the spiritual treasure given by Rex, so he had no idea how Jared had managed to enter.

Jared paid no heed to Tavon’s outburst. Instead, he turned his attention to Jaime, who lay on the ground, and asked with concern, “General Jaime, are you alright?”

Seeing Jared, a spark of hope ignited in Jaime's previously desolate eyes. In a weak voice, he said, "Mr. Chance, your timing couldn't be better... Rex has conspired with others to seize the mine for himself..."

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4670 – Jared gave a slight nod, then turned around, his icy gaze landing on Tavon. His voice was laced with a hint of mockery as he said, "Dumbo, didn't expect we'd meet again, did you? Are you trying to get yourself killed again?"

Upon hearing Jared's remark, Tavon felt a shudder run through his body as he recalled the terrifying image of Arthur.

However, this is Beast City. Even if Jared has powerful connections in Ethereal Realm, there's no way he can make his way here.

With this thought in mind, Tavon sneered, "Kid, you're unlucky to have run into me today. You took something of mine, and I'll make sure you give it back with interest!"

"Do you really have what it takes to get it back? You've already failed once, yet you still have the audacity to talk big," Jared said with a laugh.

The conversation between Jared and Tavon left Jaime and Rex utterly bewildered. They never expected Jared and Tavon to know each other.

"Tavon, do you know this brat?" Rex asked in confusion.

"Of course I know him, he's the one who took my celestial crystal," Tavon replied.

"What?" Rex gasped. "Is he a cultivator from beyond Beast City?"

Jaime turned to look at Jared, his face full of disbelief.

"Indeed, I hail from beyond Beast City. I owe my success in finding this place to this fool's map. Otherwise, I wouldn't have been able to find this place. If I hadn't come here, I wouldn't have discovered this mine and naturally wouldn't have been able to breakthrough to Ultimate Realm Level Two. Come to think of it, I should really be thanking this idiot!" Jared said, a mischievous expression on his face.

Listening to Jared's sarcastic remarks, Tavon, overwhelmed with rage, broke into laughter.

"Hahaha! You ignorant fool, you're nothing more than an Ultimate Realm Level One cultivator, yet you dare to talk big in front of me? Today, I will tear you into a thousand pieces. Only then will my vengeance be satisfied."

With that, Tavon no longer hesitated. He exerted his full strength, and the black spiritual energy sphere in his hand instantly expanded several times, hurtling toward Jared ferociously.

Wherever the black spiritual energy sphere passed, it seemed as if the air itself was being torn apart, creating a piercing noise.

Jared watched as Tavon charged toward him, yet his eyes were devoid of any trace of fear. He took a deep breath, the spiritual energy within him surging like crashing waves.

A surge of immense lightning nascence erupted from within him, coalescing into a massive thunder dragon before him.

“Attack!”

Amidst Jared’s shout, the thunder dragon charged at the black spiritual energy sphere, roaring.

Boom!

The two collided, instantly setting off an earth-shattering explosion.

A powerful energy shockwave, akin to a raging tsunami, spread in all directions.

Everyone hastily retreated, seeking to evade this overwhelming force.

Jaime’s subordinates were completely overpowered by this force, leaving many of them severely injured.

Even Rex was forced to backpedal by this overwhelming force, his face turning as pale as a sheet.

Once the dust had settled, everyone saw Tavon staring at Jared in utter shock.

At that moment, Tavon was left in a terrible state. His clothes were ragged and torn; his hair was a disheveled mess; and a thin trail of fresh blood was lingering at the corner of his mouth.

Meanwhile, Jared stood firmly in place, his breath steady, as if the earlier clash hadn’t affected him in the slightest.

“This... This can’t be possible!” Tavon remarked in disbelief.

He couldn’t fathom how, in just a matter of days, Jared’s capabilities had undergone such astonishing progress.

He is merely at Ultimate Realm Level Two. How on earth did he manage to defeat me when I’m at Top Level Ultimate Realm Level Nine? This doesn’t make any sense!

Looking at the scene before him and recalling the terrifying lightning tribulation from just moments ago, Rex was overwhelmed by an epiphany.

He’s a freak!

Advancing from Ultimate Realm Level One to Level Two isn't a huge step, so how could it have triggered such a terrifying lightning Tribulation?