

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE /

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4716 – “Mr. Chance, now that we’re your underlings, is there any kind of welcome gift?”

Upon noticing that Jared remained silent, the bearded man took it upon himself to initiate the conversation.

“Oh, yes, yes...”

Jared began to rummage through his Storage Ring. He then drew out some mystical herbs and pills, distributing them among the Ultimate Realm Level Nine cultivators.

“Is that it?”

The bearded man had a clear look of disdain on his face.

The others also seemed rather unhappy.

Jared nodded. “Yeah. These mystical herbs and pills are all worth a fortune too, you know!”

“Mr. Chance, isn’t it true that by following you, one can obtain ten thousand celestial crystals?” the bearded man asked bluntly.

Jared was taken aback, then promptly retorted, “Where on earth would I get that many celestial crystals!”

“D*mn it, you should’ve mentioned earlier that you don’t have any more celestial crystals!

You’ve wasted our time for nothing, and we even humbled ourselves for you in vain!”

The bearded man grumbled in dissatisfaction, even tossing aside the mystical herbs and pills he held in his hand!

The other cultivators also grumbled under their breath, then turned around and walked away. In no time, they were out of sight.

Orion, Bernard, and the others were all utterly dumbfounded.

Jared was also stunned. Once he had processed the situation, he suddenly roared, "What the hell! You-"

But the group of cultivators had already vanished without a trace.

"Hahaha!"

At that moment, Vermilion Demon Lord burst into hearty laughter.

It was only at this moment that Jared understood what Vermilion Demon Lord had meant earlier.

Orion turned to Jared and said, "Mr. Chance, don't get too upset. Those guys were clearly after the celestial crystals, not genuinely pledging their loyalty to you. We know quite a few people, all of them being at the Ultimate Realm Level Nine. We could introduce them to you. It's just... How many celestial crystals do you still have in your possession?"

"What? Do you think ten thousand celestial crystals are too few?" Jared asked, sounding somewhat displeased.

"No, no, no, Mr. Chance, you've misunderstood. Ten thousand celestial crystals is indeed quite a lot for us. I simply wish to gather more followers for you. As you're well aware, for cultivators in the Ultimate Realm Level Nine, celestial crystals are the best resource for cultivation. They crave celestial crystals more intensely than those in the Immortal Realm. After all, possessing these stones significantly reduced the difficulty of ascending to the Immortal Realm. If you still have celestial crystals and are willing to part with some, I'm certain I can rally some people for you!" Orion hastily explained.

"To be honest, I own a celestial crystal mine, so I have access to as many celestial crystals as I could possibly want. If only those dumb*sses just now had been a bit more sincere, they would have had access to endless celestial crystals!" Jared stated with a cold snort.

While it was true that Jared owned a celestial crystal mine, to say that it had an inexhaustible supply of celestial crystals was a bit of an exaggeration!

"What? You actually have a celestial crystal mine, Mr. Chance?"

Orion and Cassian both widened their eyes in surprise.

Jared nodded. "Of course! Where else would I have gotten these celestial crystals from?"

Orion and Cassian gulped, their eyes gleaming with intense anticipation.

"Mr. Chance, we'll immediately assist you in making connections. With the celestial crystal mine you possess, those cultivators would practically worship you!"

After Orion finished speaking, he left with Cassian.

“Mr. Chance, do you really possess a celestial crystal mine?” asked Bernard.

If Jared didn't have a celestial crystal mine, then the many cultivators Orion had gathered would definitely run away when they realized Jared had no celestial crystals.

After all, in the Ethereal Realm, it was personal gain that weighed the most!

“Do you not believe me?” Jared responded with a subtle smile.

Upon seeing Jared's expression, Bernard quickly nodded, saying, “I do believe you... But what if those two guys take off with the celestial crystals and never come back?”

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4717 – “No, they will definitely return,” Jared declared with a face full of confidence.

He wasn't placing his faith in Orion or Cassian's character. Instead, his belief was firmly rooted in the celestial crystals he had.

After that, Jared followed Bernard back to the imperial city.

Meanwhile, Orion and Cassian had halted their journey a thousand miles away from Allardland.

“Orion, do you think that celestial crystal mine is real?” Cassian asked Orion.

“I don't know!” Orion shook his head.

Cassian's brow furrowed slightly. “If it isn't real, then even if we gathered followers for him, I'm afraid they wouldn't stay.”

“Whether they stay or not, that's out of our hands. Our job is to find people.” With that, Orion moved, heading toward the void.

Following closely behind, Cassian spoke with a hint of seriousness. “Orion, is it worth it to make enemies with the Tenth Hall and Twilight Imperial City for Jared's sake?”

Just moments ago, Cassian was kneeling before Jared, referring to himself as a dog. But now, he was having second thoughts!

They had already acquired ten thousand celestial crystals anyway, enough to sustain their cultivation for a while.

Perhaps these ten thousand celestial crystals could even let them achieve the Immortal Realm!

As Orion walked, he began to analyze, "Don't worry, Twilight Imperial City will never become Jared's enemy. Didn't you notice? Dorian left the city on his own accord to deal with Jared. Prince Fraser, who caught up from behind, was clearly here to drag him back. It proves that Twilight Imperial City doesn't want to get involved in the matter of the Decree of Execution! As for Dorian's injury, he'll recover after taking some time to heal. It's not like it's life-threatening!"

Listening from the side, Cassian's admiration for Orion grew more and more.

Dorian returned to Twilight Imperial City with Fraser's help.

Corrado sat on his throne, his face seething with anger, appearing as if he could devour someone whole.

Furious, Corrado bellowed at Dorian, "You've got quite the nerve, daring to leave the city without my command! Do you think being the crown prince exempts you from punishment?"

Dorian suddenly fell to his knees, a look of grievance etched on his face. "Father, the resources you've given me are simply not enough for my cultivation. At this rate, when will I be able to transcend the Ultimate Realm and reach the Immortal Realm?"

"Even though the Tenth Hall lack credibility, they provided me with twenty thousand celestial crystals as a deposit. These twenty thousand celestial crystals couldn't possibly be fake!"

Then, Dorian had the audacity to bring out the twenty thousand celestial crystals right in front of Corrado.

Upon hearing this, Corrado's anger escalated even further. He breathed heavily and snapped, "You f*cking idiot, why did the Tenth Hall only give you a deposit and not anyone else? They're obviously using you! Do you have nothing but cr*p in your head?"

After Corrado had finished roaring, he then turned to Ravenna. "Ravenna, why do you think I had you stay by Dorian's side?"

"Your Majesty, I... I tried to persuade Prince Dorian, but I couldn't convince him!" Ravenna hastily knelt on the ground.

"Father, Dorian is injured. Let him seek treatment first. We can discuss it further once he's recovered!" Fraser tried to persuade Corrado.

"Fraser, you said Jared was merely at the Ultimate Realm Level Two?" Corrado asked.

"Yes!" Fraser nodded..

Corrado then asked, "He's but at the Ultimate Realm Level Two, yet he actually managed to beat your brother, who's at the Top Level Ultimate Realm, into this state? Seems like this kid is somewhat interesting. Fraser, if you were to confront him, what are your chances of winning?"

Fraser pondered for a moment, then extended a single finger.

"What? Only ten percent?" Corrado was taken aback.

"Father, it's not even ten percent!" Fraser uttered with great seriousness.

With an appreciative expression on his face, Corrado said, "Interesting, this Jared is really interesting! It seems I really need to meet him."

Upon witnessing this scene, Dorian was livid. He had been beaten up by Jared, and instead of seeking revenge for him, his own father was actually praising Jared?
