“An inmate has escaped from the sky prison, a human female cultivator. All soldiers, be on immediate combat alert!”

A distressed voice echoed in the thin air.

“F*ck! They’re trying to work me to death!” The soldiers, who had previously shed their armor, were then hastily donning it once more. They then began to move around the city with an air of tension.

In the midst of the chaos, Jared and his three companions were also darting around the city.

Originally, Jared had planned to visit that small town in the mountains. However, since knew the town was home to the overlord of Celestial Palace’s Eighth Hall, Braxton, decided not to provoke him.

The only option had was to figure out how to leave Winged Tiger City from another direction without alerting Braxton.

“Let’s take this opportunity to find a hideout. Wearing this armor is way too stuffy!” Jared said.

“All right. Let’s find a place to hide first,” Madman agreed.

The four of them found a secluded spot, intending to shed their heavy armor.

Just as they were about to remove their armor, a sudden flash of light came their way.

That sudden thrust of the sword frightened Jared and his three companions.

With a thought from Jared, the Dragonslayer Sword appeared in an instant, effectively blocking the incoming light.

It was then that Jared and his three companions discovered a woman clad in black hiding in their midst. She held a longsword in hand, glaring furiously at the quartet.

The woman's cultivation level was at Wandering Immortal Realm Level One. She was emanating the aura of the human race. It seemed that the prisoner who had just escaped was likely the woman standing before them.

After initial attack was parried by a single strike, the woman launched another assault on Jared and his group.

The woman, however, did not reveal full aura. Instead, kept it extremely restrained, likely out of fear that revealing too much would draw the attention of more people.

Upon noticing the woman's hesitant actions, Jared let out a cold chuckle. He boldly stepped forward, showing no signs of evasion, allowing the woman's sword to strike directly into his armor.

The armor worn by those soldiers was incredibly sturdy. Combined with Jared's robust physical body, had no fear, even if his armor were to be damaged.

Jared stepped forward, swiftly grasping the woman's wrist. With a firm tug, the longsword was holding fell to the ground. He effortlessly subdued the woman.

The woman struggled fiercely, screaming at the top of lungs, "B*stards! You're all b*stards! You won't meet a good end!"

"Stop shouting! If you continue, the four of us will take turns toying with you..." Jared tried to intimidate the woman.

Upon hearing that, the woman indeed seemed somewhat frightened, promptly closing mouth.

Meanwhile, Eason's face flushed as said, "Jared, don't spout nonsense. Given our statuses, we can't just toy with a woman!"

"Father, I was just trying to scare her. Why did you take it seriously?" Jared was at a loss for words for a moment.

It seems like Eason really wants to have some fun!

Seeing this, the woman was left somewhat bewildered.

Father? What? Who are these men?

At that moment, Jared removed his helmet, revealing his face. Subsequently, Infused a surge of human race aura into the woman.

The woman picked up on Jared's human race aura, eyes immediately widening in disbelief.

"You... Y-You..." The woman stared at Jared in shock, momentarily at a loss for words.

"We aren't soldiers from Winged Tiger City. We've snuck in secretly. Right now, we're trying to figure out a way to escape," Jared said to the astonished woman.

Upon hearing that, the woman instantly felt a wave of relief wash over her, and the hostility that had once marked face vanished in an instant.

"Boss, we can barely take care of ourselves. Why should we care about her?" Madman asked Jared.

"Shut up. Who's the boss here, you or me?" Jared said coldly.

"You're the boss. I'll listen to you!" Madman hastily exclaimed.

"Miss, who are you, and how did you end up being captured by Winged Tiger City?" Jared asked the woman.

Given that the woman's cultivation level was Wandering Immortal Realm, it was impossible that had just been guided there by the heaven and earth laws.
