An Understated Dominance by Marina Vittori Chapter 2263

Chapter 2263

“Uncle, having fun alone is not as good as having fun together. I am doing this to provide entertainment for everyone. As the saying goes, small gambling is fun. Besides watching the game, wouldn’t it be nice to bet on a few games?”

Huang Yinyin explained while explaining , while counting the treasures sent by the surrounding warriors.

Although the words were spoken beautifully, the money-obsessed look could not be concealed at all.

She is a banker, not a charity, it is a useless thing, how can she be so active?

“I’m afraid you’ll be unlucky and lose all the boxes of spirit stones you brought.” Dustin reminded.

Generally, casinos will use rules to gain certain advantages, such as the banker and the player.

Although this advantage is very small, as long as the number of bets is enough and accumulated over a long period of time, the banker will definitely win.

So the casino is not afraid that you will win money, but it is afraid that you will not come.

But the bet that Huang Yinyin offered now did not give her any advantage.

If someone has good vision and good luck, a winning streak is likely to occur.

At that time, if the surrounding warriors follow the bets in large numbers, Huang Yinyin will have to lose all the spiritual stones in just one or two victories.

All in all, this is a very risky move.

It is possible to make a lot of money, but it is also possible to lose everything.

“Uncle, don’t worry. I have a secret weapon and I will never lose money.”

Huang Yinyin turned around and blinked, and then said something in Dustin’s ear through sound transmission.

Since she dares to open this market, she is sure to win. It is simply nonsense for her to make money based on luck.

She doesn’t fight an uncertain battle.

Dustin smiled, stopped talking, and began to help greet the warriors who were betting.

Ten minutes later, the arena was cleared and the second game officially began.

There are also eight arenas where different players compete.

After everything was ready, the warriors began to place bets one after another, betting on the player they were optimistic about to win.

“Brother! Listen to me, player No. 10 is very powerful. Just bet on No. 10!” ”

No. 10 is just a gou. Don’t listen to his nonsense. In my opinion, player No. 14 is awesome!”

“Stop arguing. Bet on player No. 36. That is my senior brother. His strength has reached the Innate Perfection. He is a rare opponent among his peers. He will definitely win!” ”

...”

Everyone pointed, talked and expressed different opinions.

Some people think No. 10 is awesome, some think No. 14 is better, and still others think No. 36 is the real master.

In short, everyone has their own opinions, and no one can convince anyone.

In the end, most people choose to believe in themselves, while a small number of people are in a wait-and-see state.

There is no rush to place a bet, but to wait and see the situation first.

“Junior sister, listen to me. This time I bet on No. 68. I’m sure that person will win!”

At this time, Xu Yang pointed to a man on the No. 8 ring.

The man was tall and tall, holding a mountain axe, and looked very imposing.

“Really?”

Liu Hongxue squinted her eyes and observed carefully, looking a little hesitant.

She doesn’t have many treasures on her, and it would be very uncomfortable if she loses another round.

“To be honest, player No. 68 is so famous in the world that he is nicknamed Iron Mountain King!”
