An Understated Dominance by Marina Vittori Chapter 2268

“Dear friends, the third round of competition will start soon. Please prepare in advance.”

At this time, Huang Yinyin’s voice suddenly rang.

After the second round of gambling, more warriors were attracted.

Many people have the heart to watch the excitement. If they find it interesting, they will participate.

Many gamblers have just won spiritual stones, which makes people who have never participated before very jealous.

There are really few ways to obtain spiritual stones.

Now that the opportunity is before us, most people simply can’t wait.

As a result, more and more gamblers joined this gambling game.

It can be said that Huang Yinyin has harvested more and more rare treasures, and at the same time, the spiritual stones in her box have become less and less.

Of course, she doesn’t care about this, as long as someone is willing to bet.

“The contestants have already taken the stage, and the third round will start soon. Please hurry up and place your bets before it’s too late!” Huang Yinyin continued to shout.

In order to avoid missing the opportunity, nearly half of the people chose to trust their intuition and judgment and bet on players who they thought had a high winning rate.

Among the remaining half, some were watching and hesitating, while others set their sights on the man in gray.

“Brother, the game is about to begin. Who should we bet on to win?”

Everyone surrounded the man in gray, with expectations on their faces.

For them, every game is a big gamble. They feel pain when they lose, but gain blood when they win.

“I’m very optimistic about player No. 33, so I’ll keep an eye on him!”

The man in gray swept his eyes across the stages one by one, and finally fixed his gaze on player No. 33 in the second stage.

Contestant No. 33 is a man wearing white clothes and holding a long whip.

The man was thin and unremarkable, without any great features.

To be honest, the long whip in his hand looks a bit special.

“No. 33?”

Everyone looked over and looked at it carefully, seeming hesitant.

Because they don’t know player No. 33 at all.

How strong is the opponent? Any tricks? They have no idea.

It would be too risky for them to bet on an unknown warrior without reservation.

“Brother, what is so special about contestant No. 33? Can you tell us about it?” someone asked tentatively.

“What? You don’t believe in my judgment?”

The man in gray raised his eyebrows and said coldly: “If you don’t believe it, forget it. Just pretend I didn’t say anything and just watch and take care of it yourself. Anyway, I’m taking No. 33.”

After saying this, the man in gray clothes directly pressed down all the spirit stones in his hand without any hesitation.

Seeing this scene, everyone couldn’t help but look at each other, a little embarrassed.

The man in gray was so decisive, so he must be very confident, but the problem was that the other party didn’t say anything, which made them feel unsure.

“Everyone! There are only ten seconds left, the purchase is gone, no waiting after the expiration date!” At this time, Huang Yinyin’s voice sounded again.

Seeing that the time was up, everyone finally couldn’t bear it anymore and chose to place their bets.

Some people just took the plunge and bet all of it; some were cautious and only bet half; and some people simply continued to wait and see, waiting for the results.

Ten seconds later, the bet was closed and the third round officially began!
