An Understated Dominance by Marina Vittori Chapter 2294

Chapter 2294

They couldn't hold it back for a long time. If they had the opportunity to teach Dustin a lesson, they would naturally not let it go.

“You br*t! I have to destroy you today!”

“Arrogant br*t! Let's see how I deal with you!”

“...”

Several strong men shouted, and they all attacked with fists or kicks, and at the same time, they attacked Dustin.

Having learned the lessons from Beard before, they did not dare make too much of a big deal. They used all their strength once they took action, intending to resolve the battle as soon as possible.

“A bunch of clowns.”

Dustin snorted coldly and did not dodge. The moment a few people punched and kicked him, his body shook violently, and the mystical pure energy in his body suddenly exploded.

“Boom~!”

Just heard a loud roar.

A violent wave of air spurted out of Dustin's body and slammed into several people with great force.

“Ah~!”

Several people screamed and were thrown several meters away from the spot. Then they fell heavily to the ground, blood spurted from their mouths and noses, and their faces turned pale.

They couldn't stand up for a while.

"How is that possible?!"

The man in white was startled; his eyes were as wide as bells, and his face was full of shock.

The other warriors were also stunned, looking in disbelief.

They believed they underestimated their opponent when they previously defeated their senior brother.

However, the strength of the few people who had just besieged Dustin was not inferior to his. Especially after joining forces, they were able to unleash unexpected power.

But they never dreamed that the joint attack of several people not only missed Dustin's hair but was seriously injured by the shock.

It was simply unbelievable!

How powerful was this kid in front of me?!

"Oh?"

At this moment, even Damien Holmes, a martial arts master, couldn't help but raise his eyebrows, showing an expression of surprise.

To defeat several late divinity warriors with one move, one could only be a half-step master level.

Dustin was only in his twenties when he looked at his age. He had reached the half-step master level at such a young age, and his future prospects were limitless.

No wonder he dared to be so crazy; it turned out he had something to rely on.

"Now, is there anyone who wants to step forward and try?" Dustin said. He glanced around indifferently, showing no anger or authority.

Facing these guys, if they are not suppressed with strength, will only cause more trouble.

Since they wanted to take action, he had to defeat them.

“Mr. Holmes?”

After a brief moment of confusion, the man in white looked at Damien Holmes for help. Dustin’s strength had exceeded his expectations. Even if he took action himself, there was no guarantee that he could win.

Now, only a strong man at the level of a martial arts master could suppress it reliably.
