

Unfinished 651

Chapter 651

Hayden had arrived. Since he knew Nicole would come, he kept staring at the entrance, and when he finally saw her, he waved his hand. "Here."

Nicole sat down across from him, smiling.

Hayden looked at her curiously. "You look happy."

Nicole smiled gently. "Really?"

Hayden said, "Yeah. You sounded like you were dead when I called you."

Nicole smiled. "My aunt's sick, but now her son found Skye. That's why."

Hayden was shocked. "He found Skye? Is he sure? This might be a scam."

Nicole said, "No idea. I'll be going tomorrow. If I can see him, I can ask him to treat Eugene's grandfather."

Hayden paused for a moment. "But I thought he's healed. I went to see him, and he's in the pink of health. Not even sick at all."

"He has to be checked. We don't know if Olivia's really skilled. What if it's just temporary?"

Hayden got a bit angry hearing her talk about Eugene so many times. "Olivia is Eugene's girlfriend. She can't have made a mistake. Didn't you see the statement?"

Nicole realized that she might have brought Eugene up too much, so she smiled gently. "I did. I was just saying, that's all. It's not every day you get to see Skye."

Hayden said, "True. He's a genius doctor. He must have some skills."

He called the waiter over. "What do you want?"

"Anything. Just order away."

He ordered the food they usually had and tried to get some booze, but Nicole stopped him. "Hold the alcohol off. I promised Mom I would go back in a bit. I have to see my aunt tomorrow."

Hayden handed the menu to the waiter. "Fine. We'll hold off the alcohol tonight."

The food was served quickly, and Hayden kept filling Nicole's bowl with food. She was used to his service, so she took it for granted.

"Eugene's busy lately, and even Alex is being really secretive. What are they doing?"

"I think he found Jean."

"Jean is back?"

"Yes, but I think she lost her memories. She doesn't even know him anymore."

Nicole popped a piece of meat into her mouth. "They're going through some tough spots."

Hayden answered, "Same goes for Eugene and Olivia. They wasted seven years." He smiled and said on purpose, "Never thought she'd be the woman Eugene was looking for. Fate is a funny thing."

Nicole lost her mood. Yeah. So what if I can get close to him? He already has someone he loves. Unless she disappears, he would never even look at me. But how can I make her disappear? When she wasn't around, Eugene would look at me, even if it was just for a moment. But now he blocks me out entirely. He even stays away from me too. Why can't a man like him be mine? She took a deep breath and put her cutlery down.

Hayden wanted her to wake up and smell the coffee, so he added, "I also heard that Eugene's grandfather gave Olivia ten percent of the company's shares."

Chapter 652

Nicole was shocked. "What? He gave Nolan Group's shares to her?"

Hayden answered, "Yes, and he gave another fifteen percent to North. He also gave her a jade bracelet. It's a family heirloom. I think he wants Olivia to be Eugene's wife."

Nicole never thought Merlin would be so flippant about this. She wasn't mad that he gave North some shares, since he was a part of the Nolan family. But why did he give ten percent to Olivia? And that bracelet! "Is the bracelet dark in color?"

Hayden answered, "I have no idea what it looks like."

Nicole frowned. "Penny told me that her grandmother has a dark bracelet that she loves a lot. It's worth at least tens of millions. She thought she would have it after her grandmother passed away, but she doesn't. Mr. Nolan can't have given her that, can he?"

Hayden said, "No idea, but I did hear that Madam Nolan loved it."

Nicole said, "That's the one then. Mr. Nolan actually gave it to an outsider."

Hayden looked at Nicole. "She'll be a part of the Nolans. She's no outsider. Don't you see? It depends on Eugene. If Eugene didn't like her, he wouldn't have given her the bracelet."

Nicole said enviously, "She's so lucky."

Hayden felt jealous, but he pretended to ask nonchalantly, "Do you still like Eugene?"

Nicole froze. "T-That's fake news!"

Hayden popped a piece of meat into his mouth, and he asked, "So you don't like him?"

Nicole finally calmed down after the initial panic. Nobody knew she liked Eugene. He was hard to get along with, so if he knew she liked him, being friends alone would be impossible, let alone being together with him. She knew he didn't like her, but he didn't like any other woman either, so she stayed by him quietly as a friend. She thought he would notice her eventually, but Olivia's appearance made her feel nervous.

She came up with plans and used Aleena to keep Eugene in touch so he wouldn't get together with Olivia, but she never expected Olivia to be the woman on that very night. Because of that, her plan backfired, and Olivia and Eugene were finally entwined. The twist had happened too fast for her to react, and when she did, they were already inseparable. She sipped some water and acted calm. "No. I don't treat him differently than I do you. You're both my friends."

"You keep staring at him during our gatherings."

Nicole shot him a playful glare. "But I look at you too."

Hayden smiled. "Did you notice that I was looking at you then?"

Nicole stared at him, shocked.

Hayden said, "Nicole, you can't hide your love for someone."

Nicole frowned. "What are you trying to say?"

Hayden looked at her gently, "I'm saying that Eugene already has Olivia. If nothing goes wrong, she will be his wife. Why do you keep going after him? Just look back and you'll see that someone else has been waiting for you for a long time."

Nicole looked at him quietly for a long while. She did feel his affection for her, and that's why she could do anything around him. She knew he would support her no matter what she did.

Chapter 653

Why did he have to say that out loud? "Why did you bring that up?"

Hayden said, "I don't want to force you. I did try to wait, thinking that you would notice my love someday, but it has been seven years. When Eugene was single, you would never look away from him. Now that he's together with Olivia, you must be upset, and I know that, but I think it's not bad because I thought you would finally look at me. Nicole, you don't have to keep chasing him. Come to me. I'll give you the world."

He tried to hold her, but the moment he touched her hand, she pulled it back instinctively. She looked at him with panic in her eyes. "Hayden, I've never thought that far. I've always seen all of you as my friends. You're all the same to me, and you now I don't have any intention of getting into a relationship. Please don't force me. I'll be leaving now." Then she went out.

Hayden looked at his hand and smiled bitterly. I scared her in the end, huh?

...

Sean waited outside Muse Peninsula early the next morning. He came according to the directions North gave him. He was still being suspicious, since he couldn't believe he could see the elusive Skye so easily. I wonder if she's just here temporarily or if she's a Crician in the first place. He sat in his car, waiting nervously. He couldn't leave his job site, but he knew the Will-o'-Wisp Headquarters must have found the right person, so he drove here himself as a token of his appreciation.

Someone knocked on his window, and he looked out, but he was surprised to see who was outside. He got out of the car. "Olivia? Why are you here?"

Olivia tilted her head to the side and smiled at him. "You seem surprised. Let's go." She then opened the car door.

"Hey!" Sean stopped her apologetically. "I'm sorry, Olivia. You're going to the set, aren't you? I'm waiting for someone, so I can't send you. Why don't I get a car for you?"

Olivia was amused, but when she noticed that he was being serious, she said, "Why? I'm going to your place!"

Sean stared at her dumbly. "Why are you g-going to my place?"

Olivia whipped her head around angrily. "I've made it obvious, haven't I? "Do you want me to treat your mother or not?"

Sean's jaw dropped, and his lips moved, but he couldn't say a word. He kept staring at her, looking even dumber than he was earlier.

"Wow, you really think lowly of me, huh? That's why you never expected me?" Olivia said.

Sean finally smiled, and he was excited. "Oh my god. Y-You're Skye Bailey?"

Olivia answered proudly, "Now can I get in?"

Sean opened the car door immediately and apologized, "I'm sorry, yes. Come in, please."

Olivia got in the car.

Sean got back in the car as well, and he looked at her in the rear-view mirror in disbelief. "Wow, you're awesome."

Olivia smiled. "How long has your mother been sick?"

"Quite a long time. Her BP is on the higher side, so she's been having meds to keep it under control, but her condition acted up again, and she's been in a coma ever since. I'm really panicking here. If I wasn't at home, god knew what could have happened to her."

Chapter 654

Olivia nodded. "What's her age?"

"Fifty-six this year."

"Her highest BP?"

"One hundred and eighty to two hundred most of the time. It's scary. She's taking meds, but it's not helping a lot."

Olivia nodded. "That's third degree hypertension. At this rate, she'll suffer from cerebral hemorrhage and stroke. If her BP is higher than two hundred for prolonged periods, it'll put undue stress on her heart, swell her heart muscles, and her heart might fail."

Sean nodded, feeling impressed. "That's what the doctor said. Can you heal her, Olivia?"

Olivia said, "I'll have to check on her."

"Alright." He looked at her in the rear-view mirror, and he felt guilty for some reason. When she offered to help back then, he actually refused her. Who knew she would be Skye? Skye seldom treats anyone, and his fee is at least ten million. Even the Will-o'-Wisp Headquarters can't guarantee she'd take the request. It's all pure luck. Never thought she'd help me out. "Olivia, did you only accept it because I posted the request?"

Olivia sighed. "Duh. I don't have time for any requests now."

Sean laughed silently. Knew it. "Don't mind them. Those who know you don't need any explanation. I heard Summer got sued by Nolan Group, and some trolls got sued as well."

Olivia sneered. "As they should. Everyone should be responsible for their actions. Hurting someone comes with a price."

Sean answered, "Yes. I've always believed in that creed as well. I think most of the posts came from Summer. For example, the one where they said you refused to help me. It's obvious they're trying to make us into enemies. I swear that wasn't me."

Olivia said, "I know. I saw your statement."

Sean felt a bit at ease, and he stole a glance at her. "Olivia, a-are you really Eugene's girlfriend?"

Olivia nodded. "Yes."

Sean smiled, and for some reason, he said, "You guys are a great match."

Olivia smiled. "Thank you."

They chatted along the way and arrived at Sean's house a moment later. Olivia was surprised that the whole yard was filled with cars. There's a lot of people here.

Sean led her into the house, explaining, "My relatives came to see my mother, since she's sick." He then took her into the great hall.

Just like what Olivia had guessed, it was packed. Everyone was squeezing into the patient's room, as if they couldn't show their concern if they weren't around.

They looked at the door when it swung open, and Olivia's appearance surprised them.

Sean introduced, "This is Olivia, and she's also Skye Bailey."

Everyone gasped in shock.

"Olivia is Skye? Are you kidding me?"

"She doesn't look like a genius doctor. All genius doctors must be skilled. I've never seen one this young. Are you sure she can do it?"

"I heard she treated Old Master Nolan before. Is she an imposter?"

Nicole was standing behind the crowd, and she gnashed her teeth. Impossible. Olivia is Skye Bailey?

Chapter 655

The one I wanted to introduce to Eugene is Olivia? Are you kidding me? She can't be impersonating Skye just because she treated Old Master Nolan, right? She came out from the crowd in frustration but remained calm, although her voice was filled with provocation. "And we should believe you're Skye Bailey because you say you are?"

Olivia looked in the direction of the voice and saw Nicole. Nicole might be smiling warmly, but it was a forced smile.

"I've always been Skye." Olivia smiled. "I just seldom use that name."

Nicole still had her smile. "Why didn't you accept Eugene's request when he was looking for you, then?"

"Fate, I guess." Olivia finally broke into a smile. "I didn't see his request."

Sean said smugly, "Olivia only came because we're on the same set. She doesn't accept every request, you know. That would exhaust her."

Nicole covered her mouth and giggled. "You're funny, Sean. Skye charges at least ten million every time he treats a patient. Not everyone can hire him. Only rich guys like you can, and not every family is rich. Not all rich families have sick people either. You're making it sound like she's doing charity here, but she's not."

Olivia frowned. The woman might be saying everything with a smile and making it sound like a joke, but it didn't sit right with Olivia.

She would rather face Aleena since Aleena was straightforward at the very least. She's saying that I'm charging insane fees, isn't she?

To that, Olivia grinned. "And that's why you only know Skye, but not me. Some people are stubborn. They don't care about skills; they care about their reputation. Whether I'm Skye or Olivia depends on what they want to see. It's not a matter of charity or not; it's a matter of conscience. Some people can only rest easy after they pay a price. I can't do charity just like that either. It's fine if someone understands you, but those who don't might think I have an ulterior motive for doing it for free."

Nicole had nothing to say to that, and Sean felt embarrassed as well. He was reminded of that time when Olivia offered to treat his stomach ache back when they were on set, but he refused. In the end, he spent ten million and offered to drive her all the way to his place.

It's not that she doesn't want to be kind. She tried, but people thought she was a liar. "Olivia's right. It's hard doing charity nowadays."

Nicole smiled. "So, you're saying you charge an insane amount of consultation fee so that your patients can rest easy, right? It's also to solidify your name as Skye Bailey, but from what I know, you didn't tell anyone you're Skye when you were treating Old Master Nolan, so why did you charge fifty million then?"

Olivia blinked at her before she twinkled. "I treated Eugene's grandfather, and that's how much Eugene was willing to pay. It's a two-way street. Fifty-million aside, now he's already my boyfriend. Why do you keep attacking me, Miss West?"

It was then everyone realized that Nicole had been attacking Olivia, and they all looked at Nicole.

An awkward Nicole then explained, "I wasn't attacking you. I was just confirming how much you're going to charge. I was helping Sean out."

Chapter 656

Olivia smiled. "You're asking so many questions just because you want to help?"

Nicole shut up for a moment, then she said, "Of course. I'll help when Sean needs it."

Olivia answered, "Don't worry. Sean can still afford fifty million, and I already have a boyfriend, so I won't take him away from you. Calm down." She looked at the crowd in the room. "I thought I was here to treat a patient. At least let me see her."

Sean shot a glare at Nicole, and he agreed, "Yeah, everyone. Please leave. Don't get in Dr. Maxwell's way."

They were interested in Olivia's treatment, but since Sean was looking upset, they left the room. Peace and quiet fell upon them, and the air felt a lot better.

Sean said, "Don't mind her, Olivia. She's not usually like this. Maybe she's the kind of stubborn person you talked about."

Olivia answered vaguely, "It's fine." Stubborn? She only did that because she doesn't like me, and it's probably because of Eugene.

She went over to the patient and did a simple checkup, then she took a look at the CT scan report. After that, she brought her black bag out and whipped out the cloth bag containing her needles.

Sean looked at her nervously. "Can you heal her, Olivia?"

Olivia answered without even looking up, "It's alright. She'll be fine." She took her needles out and poked them on various acupoints. She didn't look away, treating her patient seriously.

Sean believed that she was Skye at this point, or else she wouldn't look so experienced and elegant while she treated her patient.

Half an hour later, Olivia finally stopped, but her face was drenched with sweat.

"Take a break, Olivia." Sean handed her a paper towel.

She took it and wiped the sweat off her face, then she looked at the patient. "How do you feel, madam?"

Sean looked at the woman on the bed, surprised. His mother, who had been in a coma, was starting to open her eyes and looking around her.

"Mom, you're awake!" He knelt beside the bed, looking surprised. "You scared me, Mom! How do you feel?"

Sapphire answered, "I'm dizzy."

Olivia said, "It's normal. That's caused by being in a coma for too long. You just have to eat something and move around."

Sean looked at her gratefully. "You're really great, Olivia. The doctors said she's going to die, but you saved her! You are a genius doctor."

Olivia smiled. "That's an exaggeration." She took a pencil and paper out to write a prescription, then she handed it to Sean. "Buy the herbs listed on this prescription and brew it yourself. It'll help her liver and BP. Make sure she takes it every day for one week. Then stop for two days. Her BP will improve after some time. Have two meals a day, and make sure it's not spicy or cold."

Sean took it from her. "Of course. Thank you, Olivia."

Olivia smiled. "I'll be leaving now if there's nothing else." She packed up and saddled her bag, then she was going to leave.

Chapter 657

Sean stopped her. "A minute, Olivia. I'll pay you." He was going to write a check.

Sean stopped her. "A minute, Olivia. I'll pay you." He was going to write a check.

Olivia said, "It's fine. I wasn't going to charge you. We're on the same set, and it was my fault your stomach acted up that time. Well, I didn't do it, but it had something to do with me, so take this as compensation."

Shocked, Sean quickly said, "That's not right. You had nothing to do with it. Summer was the one who did it, and I wanted to have the boba tea. You came all the way to help me, and I can't let you do it for free."

Olivia said, "It's nothing, really. I didn't do much work here."

"You might think so, but you've saved my mother's life. I can give you all the money I have, let alone ten million. Please, do take it."

Olivia sighed. "Fine. Donate it to Summer City's orphanage."

Sean was surprised. "Donate it to the orphanage?"

"Yes. They need the money more than I do."

Sean smiled. He finally understood her kindness. So what if I give her ten million? She didn't even take a cent. In fact, she's spreading kindness in her own way.

"Alright then." They came out of the bedroom, and Sean told the servants, "My mother has woken up. Make something for her to eat."

Olivia said, "And make it light."

The servants obliged.

The guests in the living room quickly came over. "How's your mother doing, Sean?"

Sean smiled, looking proud. "She's awake. Olivia saved her."

Everyone was shocked, and they went to the bedroom.

Olivia frowned, and she said, "Best you go in small groups. The patient's room must be well ventilated. Crowds won't help in her recovery."

Some of them stopped after hearing that, but most squeezed into the bedroom, as if they wanted to witness a miracle. Sapphire was dying a moment ago, but now she was sitting on her bed and telling them to take a seat. They couldn't believe it, but it did happen.

Olivia took her bag from Sean. "Give it to me. You stay here and take care of your mother. I can get a ride home."

"Alright than." They came out of the bedroom, and Sean told the servants, "My mother has woken up. Make something for her to eat."

Olivia said, "And make it light."

The servants obliged.

The guests in the living room quickly came over. "How's your mother doing, Sean?"

Sean smiled, looking proud. "She's awake. Olivia saved her."

Everyone was shocked, and they went to the bedroom.

Olivia frowned, and she said, "Best you go in small groups. The patient's room must be well ventilated. Crowds won't help in her recovery."

Some of them stopped after hearing that, but most squeezed into the bedroom, as if they wanted to witness a miracle. Sapphire was dying a moment ago, but now she was sitting on her bed and telling them to take a seat. They couldn't believe it, but it did happen.

Olivia took her bag from Sean. "Give it to me. You stay here and take care of your mother. I can get a ride home."

Sean said, "Oh no. I have to make sure you get home safely. Besides, my relatives are here. I can send you home first."

Sean said, "Oh no. I have to make sure you get home safely. Besides, my relatives are here. I can send you home first."

Olivia didn't refuse further, and they left together.

While they were talking, Nicole shrewdly noticed that the bracelet Olivia was wearing was the same one Penny said Mr. Nolan actually gave her that. She looked at Olivia with envy. Why does she get all the good things in the world? Eugene's her boyfriend, she's the genius doctor, and even Sean likes her now.

She gets all the attention without effort, and Eugene protects her at all costs. Why? Can't anybody take her down? Wait, Penny! Yeah! I forgot about Penny! If she finds out that Eugene sent her mother to jail because of Olivia, she'd kill her. An evil smile curled her lips.

...

Eugene had a busy day. He took Brian and invited Nigel and the others out for a meal as thanks, then he went to the police station and handled Lara's case.

Chapter 658

But it was nearing the new year, so the case would have to wait.

The Roberts had hired lawyers to help Lara, but it was only a difference of how long she would be imprisoned. There was no escape because of the sheer amount of evidence. Besides, Eugene's legal team was powerful as well.

As Anna was involved in the case, she only stayed at home for one day after Eugene released her, then she was summoned to the police station the very next day. Henry was fine with that. As long as she was alive, that was alright.

But he couldn't accept what she did to herself. He couldn't understand why she would do that just to get back at Olivia. Why does she hate her so much? She even ruined her own face. He didn't feel reluctant when the police took her away. I spoiled her too much. Maybe jail time isn't a bad thing for her.

Olivia went to the set during her free time and finished her scenes.

It was nearing the new year, and even though it wasn't as merry as the earlier years, the decorations were still up, and the air was filled with the scent of festivity. Nolan Group's year-end festival was delayed because of Eugene's sickness, but the gifts were still generous. There were cash prizes, cars, and even houses.

Eugene, Olivia, and North appeared at six all dressed up, and everyone looked at the happy family with slight envy in their eyes. Those who didn't know who Olivia was now realized that she wasn't to be trifled with, for Eugene was her boyfriend now.

The banquet started at seven, and the opening dance was led by Eugene and Olivia. She was in a red dress that night, and Eugene realized that she loved red clothes, especially when it came to happy occasions. Red was hard to handle, but she looked beautiful in that color. She was elegant and drew a lot of attention.

Most of Eugene's suits were dark in color, but he picked one with red sleeve buttons and paired it with a dark red necktie to match her dress. They were a perfect match.

As the gentle music started to play, a beam of yellow light shone upon them. A loving smile was curling Eugene's lips, and all he saw was the woman before him. Olivia's gaze was gentle, and she looked blissful.

They danced to the tune of the song and moved across the dance floor elegantly. When the song finally came to an end, the guests gave them a thunderous applause.

Eugene held her face and closed in slowly. When he touched her, the air seemed to turn solid, and Olivia's heart started to thump. They had kissed many times, but doing it in public made her stiffen up nervously. She couldn't do anything but let him kiss her. It was then she felt that she was covered in honey. It felt sweet, and also peaceful.

The crowd applauded again, but all they could see was each other.

Just when they were immersed in their happiness, a woman suddenly went up to them with a glass of wine in hand. Eugene noticed her heavy footsteps, and he turned around by reflex, but before he could see who it was, a glass of red wine was splashed their way.

They danced to the tune of the song and moved across the dance floor elegantly. When the song finally came to an end, the guests gave them a thunderous applause.

They danced to the tune of the song and moved across the dance floor elegantly. When the song finally came to an end, the guests gave them a thunderous applause.

Eugene held her face and closed in slowly. When he touched her, the air seemed to turn solid, and Olivia's heart started to thump. They had kissed many times, but doing it in public made her stiffen up nervously. She couldn't do anything but let him kiss her. It was then she felt that she was covered in honey. It felt sweet, and also peaceful.

The crowd applauded again, but all they could see was each other.

Just when they were immersed in their happiness, a woman suddenly went up to them with a glass of wine in hand. Eugene noticed her heavy footsteps, and he turned around by reflex, but before he could see who it was, a big glass of red wine was splashed their way.

Chapter 659

No. To be precise, it was aimed at Olivia. He didn't think about it, nor did he look at who splashed the wine, and he reflexively held Olivia in his embrace. Just like that, the wine that was meant for Olivia drenched his suit and head. Some even flowed down his neck.

"Eugene!" Olivia looked at him, shocked, and she tugged on his suit. "Take that off. Your shirt should still be dry."

Eugene did what she said, but he never took his eyes off the woman who splashed the wine at Olivia.

North quickly trotted over to Olivia and held her hand. "Are you alright, Mommy?"

Olivia patted his head. "I'm fine."

The air fell into an eerie silence, and the guests' jaws dropped. They were waiting for the impending storm to come. Just a moment ago, they said nobody would try to go against Olivia, but now, Penny not only did that, but she also did it in front of Eugene. That was a death wish.

Eugene asked coldly, "What do you want?"

"Why? You're ditching your family for her? My mother's your stepmom, so I can understand if you don't care, but what about Dad? You sent him to the detention center too! Are you even human?" Penny roared angrily.

A storm was brewing in Eugene's eyes. "Your parents tried to kill me. I sent them into the slammer. If you have any problem with that, you come to me, not her. If you do anything to her, I will destroy you."

Penny laughed mirthlessly. "If it weren't for her scandals, you wouldn't have done that to Mom! It's all her fault!" She tried to grab Olivia. "You come here, you troublemaker! You did this, so don't hide behind him! Come out now!"

Olivia's face fell, and she didn't move.

Eugene held Penny's wrist, and he growled, "Do you have a death wish?"

Penny tried to pull her hand back. "She tried to ruin our family. Would you have done that to Dad and Mom if she hadn't shown up?"

Eugene gave her a cruel look. "I would. I would have done the same thing to Lara sooner or later. You had better not walk her path, or I will do the same thing to you."

She couldn't believe he would be this cruel, and she teared up. "You went to get rid of me as well? Just because of the women like her?"

Eugene answered, "They're my wife and children. Of course I will do it for them."

Penny pointed at Olivia furiously. "It's all your fault, Olivia! Just you wait! I won't let you off the hook!"

Eugene got even angrier, and it felt like a hurricane would soon hit them. He said coldly, "You don't get it, do you?" He waved his hand and threw her out.

Penny staggered backward and plopped down to the ground, then she looked at Eugene in disbelief. He was her brother. Even though he was just her half-brother, he could tell right from wrong. He didn't like her mother, but he treated her well. She knew her mother was a mistress who forced Eugene's mother to leave the household without a cent on her. Because of that, she treated him like her own brother to make up for her mother's sin. But now he pushed me out because of Olivia? She couldn't accept it.

She couldn't believe he would be this cruel, and she teared up. "You want to get rid of me as well? Just because of a woman like her?"

She couldn't believe he would be this cruel, and she teared up. "You want to get rid of me as well? Just because of a woman like her?"

Eugene answered, "They're my wife and children. Of course I will do it for them."

Penny pointed at Olivia furiously. "It's all your fault, Olivia! Just you wait! I won't let you off the hook!"

Eugene got even angrier, and it felt like a hurricane would soon hit them. He said coldly, "You don't get it, do you?" He waved his hand and threw her out.

Penny staggered backward and plopped down to the ground, then she looked at Eugene in disbelief. He was her brother. Even though he was just her half-brother, he could tell right from wrong. He didn't like her mother, but he treated her well. She knew her mother was a mistress who forced Eugene's mother to leave the household without a cent on her. Because of that, she treated him like her own brother to make up for her mother's sin. But now he pushed me out because of Olivia? She couldn't accept it.

Chapter 660

"Eugene!" she shouted, and her tears fell. She started to choke up, and she couldn't say a word.

Eugene looked at her and said icily, "I won't go any further, since you just came back and you don't know the truth. But that does not mean you can do as you please. Don't even think you're more important than Olivia is. If you try to hurt her, I will destroy you."

Olivia slowly came out from behind Eugene and looked at Penny haughtily. "You don't have the right to complain. Did you think the only thing she did was get everyone to yell at me? Oh no, she did much worse. She poisoned Eugene and my son, almost killing them in the process. Sending her to the detention center isn't even crossing the line. Don't even think he did it for me. Even if he did nothing, I would have sent her into the detention center myself!"

Penny was angry, but more importantly, she was shocked that her mother would poison Eugene. That's impossible. "You're lying! Why would Mom poison Eugene?"

"Ask her yourself," Olivia said.

Penny pointed at Olivia. "It's all your fault! You made her your scapegoat! I'm going to kill you, b*tch!" She pounced at Olivia again.

Eugene caught her once more. "Don't challenge me, Penny."

"Eugene!" She was crying. "You can't let her fool you!"

Eugene looked impatient, and he called, "Guards."

Curtis came in.

Eugene pushed Penny to him. "Take her away."

Curtis obliged. "Yes, sir." He then dragged her away as she kicked and screamed, and the whole commotion came to an end.

Eugene looked at Olivia apologetically. "Are you fine?"

Olivia smiled. "I'm alright. You got all the wine on your clothes. Let me see if you got some on your shirt." She went around him. "Good. Not a drop."

Eugene smiled and held her hand. "Let's go over there and leave the floor to them."

"Okay." The episode didn't affect her, so she took North and went to get some food at the buffet area.

With Eugene and Olivia gone, the employees went wild. In the end, they stopped dancing and put on a talent show instead. Singing, dancing, slapstick, magic shows, talk shows, and more happened during the banquet. Even Eugene and Olivia laughed out loud. The lucky draw was held at the end, and some got a lot of prizes, while some only got consolation prizes, though they were happy too.

The banquet ran for nearly four hours, but it finally came to an end. The company would be on break starting the next day, and everyone had a blast.

After they came home, Eugene asked, "So where do you want to celebrate New Year?"

Olivia said nothing. When she first came home, she only wanted to go back to the Maxwell Residence and have her first reunion dinner in seven years. She'd let bygones be bygones, but then all the mess happened, and she found out she wasn't part of the Maxwells. She didn't know which family she belonged to, and just like that, she had no home.

Eugene noticed her feeling sad, and he suggested, "Why don't you come with me to the Nolen Residence? If you like the warmer place, then Promise Island is great. If you don't like crowded places, we can stay here at Muse Peninsula. We can make a feast for the festival. Just you, me, and North."

The banquet ran for nearly four hours, but it finally came to an end. The company would be on break starting the next day, and everyone had a blast.

The banquet ran for nearly four hours, but it finally came to an end. The company would be on break starting the next day, and everyone had a blast.

After they came home, Eugene asked, "So where do you want to celebrate New Year?"

Olivia said nothing. When she first came home, she only wanted to go back to the Maxwell Residence and have her first reunion dinner in seven years. She'd let bygones be bygones, but then all the mess happened, and she found out she wasn't part of the Maxwells. She didn't know which family she belonged to, and just like that, she had no home.

Eugene noticed her feeling sad, and he suggested, "Why don't you come with me to the Nolan Residence? If you like a warmer place, then Promise Island is great. If you don't like crowded places, we can stay here at Muse Peninsula. We can make a feast for the festival. Just you, me, and North."