

Unrepairable Love / I married a man

Chapter 741

Even if Alexander's company's stock dropped, he wouldn't be this distraught. But if Alexander made Elizabeth unhappy, it would weigh heavily on his mind. Kieran didn't expect Alexander to let go so quickly.

"Always liking someone can indeed cause trouble," Alexander simply said. The elevator doors opened, but Alexander stared outside, lost in thought, not exiting. For a moment, Kieran couldn't tell if Alexander was lost in thought, or if he felt that stepping out would mean truly letting go.

If Alexander really stepped out, does it mean he has truly decided to let Elizabeth go? Kieran didn't call out to Alexander. The elevator doors opened and closed several times. Interestingly, no one else came by. Even if someone had come in and pressed Elizabeth's floor, maybe Alexander would have regretted letting her go. But no one did.

Alexander lowered his head and withdrew his gaze. Maybe this was their ending. Alexander accepted it. Alexander looked up and walked out. Kieran's heart sank a little. Did this mean that Elizabeth and Alexander were completely over? Elizabeth had passionately liked Alexander for seven years. And it ended just like that. And Alexander finally knew what it felt like to like someone, but there was no result.

To be honest, Kieran felt sorry for Alexander. "You wanna drink?" Kieran said to Alexander. Alexander shook his head. "My stomach hurts," he frowned, his expression cold.

Chapter 741

Kieran looked at Alexander, unsure if he was telling the truth. After thinking for a moment, Alexander said, "I'm fine. I'm going to the hospital to see my grandma."

Thank you, Kieran, Alexander said, then walked alone along the hospital road. Kieran couldn't help but worry. "Alexander, let me take you to the hospital..."

“No need, it’s not far,” Alexander’s voice was even colder, without a trace of warmth. Kieran caught up, but Alexander stopped him. “Go mind your own business, leave me alone.” Soon, Alexander disappeared from Kieran’s sight.

Alexander couldn’t understand how, despite everything seeming amicable over the years, his emotional issues had become such a mess. And it was all thanks to one person, Esme.

Elizabeth got home very late. She sat by the window, looking outside, with a bright red rose by her side. The flowers Ivan gave her were like a new sun, impossible to look away from. Elizabeth glanced at the roses several times; her heart couldn’t help but stir. Ivan was quite good. But she wasn’t moved.

If it were her college self, facing Ivan’s passionate pursuit, she would have fallen without hesitation. But now, she couldn’t feel moved. Elizabeth sighed, picked up the flowers, and her phone suddenly rang.

Felix: [Miss, I suddenly found out something.]

Elizabeth wasn’t interested. She didn’t reply to Felix’s message. Soon, Felix sent another message. Elizabeth wasn’t very interested; she casually opened the message, just about to pick up the roses. But when she saw Felix’s message, her hand holding the roses paused, and she slowly stood up. She looked at the message in surprise and even asked: [Really?]

Felix: [Really. Esme is not the Russell Family’s biological daughter.]

Chapter 742

Elizabeth heightened, staring at the message on her phone for a long time, unable to calm down. She felt it was utterly unbelievable. Did the Russell family know that Esme wasn’t their biological daughter? The Russell family treated Esme so well. If they knew about this, could Esme’s mother accept it?

Her phone rang again.

Elizabeth: [How do you know?]

Felix: [A friend casually mentioned the Russell family. He said Henry has been looking for a girl. I asked a few more questions and found out.]

Elizabeth: [It’s hard to imagine what Esme’s reaction would be if she knew about this.]

Felix: [She'd probably go crazy. Alexander, whom she prides herself on, doesn't love her because of her deceit. The family that dotes on her so much doesn't even belong to her. She's just occupying someone else's identity.]

Elizabeth frowned. Just reading this message made her feel suffocated. She couldn't imagine what Esme's emotions would be if she knew about this.

Felix: [Miss, are you just going to let Esme off like this?]

Elizabeth lowered her eyes.

Felix continued to send messages: [You're being too lenient with her.]

Elizabeth knew she was being too lenient with Esme. Esme was still scheming, always trying to harm Elizabeth. The reason Elizabeth hadn't acted against Esme was that she didn't think Esme was worth her time. Elizabeth had more important things to do at the research institute.

Now, Esme didn't even know who her biological parents were. Wouldn't it be easier for Elizabeth to crush her?

Elizabeth: [What do you want to do?]

Felix replied with an emoji of a child spinning in circles. Elizabeth squinted.

Elizabeth: [You can scare her a bit, but don't make a big deal out of it. I'm busy at the research institute and don't have time to clean up your mess.]

Felix: [Miss, what are you talking about? Haven't I been cleaning up your messes for the past two years? When did it become you cleaning up mine?]

Chapter 742

Mabeek WWNED!

Felix: [Okay, okay, it's you cleaning up my messes.]

Elizabeth asked Felix again: [Have you found the person who sneaked into Tally's hospital room?]

Felix: [Callum is investigating. Miss, if you have time, come to Bane 1.]

Elizabeth: [I'll come by after work tomorrow night.]

Turning off her phone, Elizabeth's world quieted down. She looked at the red roses beside her, her gaze darkening. Roses were indeed beautiful, but it depended on who they were given to. The bloom of a rose didn't last long. To keep it, you needed to nurture it well. Elizabeth picked a rose, looked at it, and snapped off the last remaining thorn. It would wither sooner or later.

Elizabeth had just arrived at the research institute when her assistant rushed over, "Miss, the Serenity Leaf extract is ready."

Elizabeth quickened her pace, "How is it?"

"Not bad. Serenity Leaf is indeed a rare herb," the assistant was at a loss for words, "Miss, you'll find out once you have a check!"

Elizabeth quickly changed and entered the lab. In the lab, everyone was analyzing the data of Serenity Leaf. Elizabeth approached the database, waved her hand, and the electronic screen popped up, displaying various data of Serenity Leaf. As long as the extraction purity of Serenity Leaf reached sixty percent, it meant that Serenity Leaf was useful. Elizabeth looked through the various indicators and finally saw the captivating data analysis. It wasn't just sixty percent. It was as high as eighty-eight percent!!

Elizabeth smiled. No wonder Celine insisted on getting Serenity Leaf! She knew Celine would never lead her astray.

Unrepairable Love!

Chapter 7437

Elizabeth could feel Henry's intent gaze as he started staring at her. Thabeth quickened her pace; she hurried into Celine's hospital room. Laughter was coming from the room. Elizabeth squinted and looked sideways, stunned. There was no one else, just Celine and Elara.

Elizabeth pushed open the door to the hospital room. When Elara saw it was Elizabeth, she immediately stood up.

"Elara, what brings you here?" Elizabeth smiled, somewhat surprised.

"I happened to run into Celine coming for a follow-up, so I chatted with her for a bit," she said. Elizabeth responded with an "oh" and didn't ask much more.

“Grandma, have you started the check-up?” Elizabeth asked.

Celine shook her head. “Your grandpa went out to the doctor. We’ll start it in a bit.”

Elizabeth nodded and didn’t forget to ask Elara, “How’s Lily?”

“She’s not doing well. She even fainted last night; she hasn’t woken up yet,” Elara sighed. “We’ll be transferring to a private hospital this afternoon.”

“That’s good. Private hospitals are safer.” After all, Lily was being targeted now. If they didn’t transfer, something would happen sooner or later.

“Will you be able to visit Lily more often after that?” Elara privately hoped Elizabeth could visit the old lady more.

Elizabeth smiled, “I will.”

Elara was relieved. She looked at Celine and said apologetically, “It’s been so many years, and we’ve long been used to having Elizabeth around. Celine, you don’t know how hard, painful, and helpless it was for Lily and me after Elizabeth and Alexander divorced.”

Chapter 743

Elizabeth immediately transferred the data to her iPad. She was about to go home to show Celine the data when she learned that Celine had gone to the hospital for a follow-up appointment today.

So, Elizabeth drove to the hospital. The purity of Serenity Leaf’s extraction reached 88%, and their research project could finally move forward. The success of S112N was getting closer and closer!

Elizabeth was on the phone with Sheldon, sharing the good news, while getting in her car and heading to the hospital. Sheldon was also very excited to hear the news and said he wanted to come to the hospital to see Celine and meet up with Elizabeth. Elizabeth did not refuse.

She entered the elevator and hung up the phone. Just as the elevator doors were about to close, a hand blocked them. “Sorry, hold on a second.”

Elizabeth looked up and saw Henry. Henry was also stunned when he saw Elizabeth at the door. He didn't say anything, just nodded, and then came in, standing next to Elizabeth.

Elizabeth glanced at him and thought of the message Felix had sent her last night. Esme was not the daughter of the Russell family. Henry was looking for the biological daughter of the Russell family.

It was hard for Henry; he knew Esme wasn't his real sister, yet he was still so good to her. Esme was so spoiled, and Henry had contributed a lot to that.

The elevator doors opened, and Elizabeth walked out. Henry looked at Elizabeth's back, his eyes somewhat complicated. He had been looking for his sister's whereabouts recently, and in the end, he even investigated Elizabeth.

He always felt that Elizabeth had an inexplicable connection with the Russell family, but he didn't know what it was. Every time he saw Elizabeth, he couldn't help but want to get closer to her. More importantly, Elizabeth looked so much like his mother. Through Elizabeth, it was as if he was looking at his mother.

Elizabeth quickly walked ahead and glanced back. Someone...

Unrepairable Love

Elizabeth took off her clothes and lay by the bed. She felt Celine's presence, coiled and poised near her. Thara looked at Elizabeth, her eyes filled with an indescribable tenderness. The naturally knew how good firatieth, and Alexander, who once recognized Ellabell's worth, lost her in the process.

Back then, when Elizabeth wanted to marry into the Tudor family, nothing could stop her, which showed just how much she loved them. Unfortunately, Alexander made Elizabeth lose tremendously. Thinking about those days made Celine feel sad for Elizabeth.

How could the cherished treasure of the Percy family seem so unworthy in Alexander's eyes?

"Elara, you need to pay more attention to Lily. If you need my help, I'll give it my all," Elizabeth said to Elara with a smile. Elara nodded, feeling much more at ease with Elizabeth's words. Elara knew Elizabeth had something to discuss with Celine, so she tactfully greeted them and left.

The room quieted down. Elizabeth picked up some fruit and asked Celine, "What did Elara talk to you about?"

Celine smiled. "What else? Of course, it was about the Tudor family's guilt towards you over the years. I don't like hearing it."

Elizabeth looked at Celine with interest and couldn't help but smile. "Grandma, how could you not like hearing that? I suffered so much in the Tudor family, and now they feel guilty in front of you. You should enjoy hearing it. After all, I've finally made a comeback."

Celine snorted. "You know you suffered in the Tudor family! But you still stayed in the Percy family for three years. I really don't know what you were thinking! You should have divorced Alexander long ago."

Elizabeth held the apple in her hand, initially intending to give it to Celine. But feeling guilty and ashamed by Celine's words, she ended up eating it herself. She was a gambler. She always thought she could win.

Elizabeth sighed, biting the apple, and mumbled, "Alright, Grandma, let's not talk about the past. Haven't I come to my senses now?"

"You came to your senses too late. You hurt yourself so much before realizing it! How can a modern woman let herself suffer so much? You should have cut ties immediately!"

Elizabeth nodded emphatically, indicating she understood.

"Grandma, I'm here to talk to you about the Serenity Leaf project," Elizabeth said, opening her iPad.

Celine was surprised. "What do you mean? Is there new progress?"

Elizabeth nodded. When she showed the data to Celine, Celine's eyes welled up with tears.

Celine flipped through the data, her eyes filled with disbelief. The success rate was actually BR%.

“There’s no problem with the Serenity Leaf extraction. The SH28 project will soon have new progress,” Elizabeth said, looking at Celine with admiration in her eyes. “Grandma, I finally understand how hard you’ve worked.”

Celine sighed. “Some things just need to be done. What’s hard or not hard about it? There are many people who have it tougher than us, like firefighters and narcotics officers. Those on the front lines, aren’t they facing more difficulties than us?”

Celine lay on the bed, looking at her immobile arm, feeling ashamed. She had hoped to contribute to the country, but now she couldn’t do anything and had become a burden to her family. Celine wasn’t just sad; she was deeply sorrowful. She appeared nonchalant in front of her family, but she had been suffering from insomnia for a long time. No one saw her secretly wiping her tears, and she wouldn’t allow anyone to see it.

“Grandma, I will definitely complete the SH2N project. I won’t let your years of effort go to waste. Trust me,” Elizabeth said, holding Celine’s hand.

Celine smiled at Elizabeth, feeling for the first time that Elizabeth had truly grown up and matured.

“Elizabeth, you’re growing up,” Celine couldn’t help but sigh.

“Grandma, I used to do a lot of things that worried and troubled you. I won’t do that anymore,” Elizabeth said obediently.

She would become the pride of her grandparents and her parents.

Unrepairable Love Chapter 745

Elizabeth was no longer wiring. She had also been through a lot and should have grown up by now. Compared to other girls, she had matured quite late. As her father grew older, the Perry family needed her support. She had to grow up and could no longer be a carefree, spoiled person.

“Alright, I just came to tell you the good news. Granilina, once your health stabilizes, you’re always welcome to the institute to guide us!”

Celine nodded, very pleased.

As they were talking, there was a knock on the door. Elizabeth looked up, knowing who it was. She got up to open the door and greeted politely, “Sheldon.”

Sheldon was carrying several bags. Although he had already visited right after Celine’s incident, today there was good news to celebrate, so it made sense for him to bring something.

“Sheldon, how do you have the time?” Celine was particularly surprised. Sheldon was usually very busy, traveling between two regions.

“With Serenity Loaf being so successfully refined, I had to make time to come!” Sheldon said cheerfully.

Elizabeth took the things from Sheldon’s hands, slightly exasperated, “You didn’t have to bring so much. It’s really too kind of you.”

“After all, I’m here to see Prof. Percy, it’s only right!” Sheldon had a deep admiration for Celine. How could he come to see Celine empty-handed? Celine had always thought highly of Sheldon; he was a very gentlemanly, elegant, and courteous person. He got along well with people and had many qualities worth learning. If Elizabeth could learn from Sheldon, Celine would be quite pleased.

“Not only did he bring things to see you, but he’s also taking me out to dinner tonight,” Elizabeth told Celine.

Celine clicked her tongue, “How could you trouble him like that?”

Sheldon quickly shook his head, “Prof. Percy, it’s no trouble at all. The SH2N project can move forward again; isn’t that worth celebrating?” He was visibly excited. It was clear that the progress of the SH2N project made him genuinely happy.

Elizabeth looked at Sheldon, a glimmer of understanding in her heart. Sheldon probably wanted the SH2N project to succeed more than anyone else.

“Elizabeth won’t let you down,” Celine said to Sheldon. Sheldon gave Elizabeth a look of trust. Elizabeth could do it, and he believed in her. After all, during Elizabeth’s time at the institute, he often chatted with her. He could sense Elizabeth’s dedication to SH2N. Especially late at night when Elizabeth was still at the Institute, he was even more convinced that he had chosen the right partner.

Chapter 746

Elizabeth saw Sheldon off at the hospital entrance. Sheldon was truly delighted and only left after hugging Elizabeth. After watching Sheldon leave, Elizabeth noticed Alexander standing by a car, smoking in the distance. Alexander's eyes were on Elizabeth, smoke swirling around him. He lowered his head and flicked the ash from his cigarette. He looked much better, not as tired as before.

Today, Alexander was dressed in a black suit with a black overcoat, looking sharp and spirited. Elizabeth turned around and saw Elara coming out from inside. It turned out Alexander was there to pick up Elara.

Elara saw Elizabeth and smiled, "Elizabeth."

"Did you complete the transfer?" Elizabeth asked Elara.

Elara nodded and pointed to Alexander, saying, "Alexander is here to pick me up. We're going to that private hospital."

"Alright, call me if you need anything," Elizabeth said, adjusting her coat. Even though it was winter and she was wearing layers, Elizabeth still looked very thin. From Alexander's perspective, her back appeared especially frail. How had he never noticed before how thin Elizabeth was? She looked so weak; how could she harm Esme time and again? He was truly foolish.

"Thank you, Elizabeth," Elara said, reaching out to hug Elizabeth. Elara lowered her head, feeling a pang of guilt, "We Tudors owe you an apology."

Elizabeth remained silent, feeling a mix of emotions. The Tudors didn't owe her anything. It was her fault for insisting on marrying Alexander. She had brought all this upon herself. Elara and Lily had done their best for her, and she had done her best as well. But her and Alexander's fate was sealed; there was no changing it.

"Go on, take care," Elizabeth said with a gentle smile. Elara felt a pang of sadness but could only nod before walking past Elizabeth to Alexander. Alexander stubbed out his cigarette and opened the car door for Elara.

Chapter 746

As Elizabeth turned around, her heart skipped a beat. She saw Alexander silently get into the car without saying a word. She had to admit, his temper had improved a lot. As the car drove away, Elizabeth composed herself.

Just as she was about to return to the ward, someone bumped into her and then walked into the hospital. Elizabeth frowned, holding her shoulder, and looked inside. The person was wearing a hat and dressed in black, walking quickly and looking very cautious. Elizabeth couldn't help but think of the figure she had seen on the surveillance footage that day. They looked familiar. This person resembled someone, Esme's attendant, Vincent!

The person didn't take the elevator but went straight into the stairwell. Elizabeth's expression was complex as she boldly followed. His steps were quick, and the sound of him going upstairs echoed in the stairwell. Elizabeth wanted to follow, but her footsteps might alert him. But if she slowed down, she would lose him. The stairwell was very narrow, after all.

Elizabeth was about to stop, deciding not to follow. What if she was wrong? Suddenly, the footsteps above stopped. Elizabeth was about to exit on the fifth floor when she heard a deep male voice from above, "Aren't you following anymore?" Elizabeth immediately turned around and saw the man in black standing on the stairs.

Unrepairable Love

He was wrapped up so tightly that not even his eyes were visible. But Elizabeth saw the dagger he slowly pulled out from his side. The emergency exit was dimly lit, but his dagger emitted a bright, harsh light.

Elizabeth squinted. "Who are you?"

"Elizabeth, you'd better not mess with my business," he said.

Elizabeth laughed. "And what business is that? Killing Lily?"

The man stepped down one stair. Elizabeth wasn't afraid of this man at all.

"Killing someone is considered business?" Elizabeth scoffed.

The man stopped in his tracks. "I have no grudge against you; don't force me to hurt you."

“You bumped into me on purpose, didn’t you? Just to lure me here?” Elizabeth tilted her head.

“Did Esme send you?” Elizabeth got straight to the point. Elizabeth couldn’t see his face, so she naturally didn’t notice the flash of surprise in his eyes when he heard this.

“Why would you think that?” he asked.

“Esme is the most twisted person. She can’t have Alexander, so of course, she wants to destroy him. But her methods are always vicious; she wouldn’t destroy Alexander directly. She would target the people around him! She’s such a proud person, loving Alexander for so many years, and in the end, Alexander doesn’t even want to see her.”

At this, Elizabeth laughed lightly. “Making Alexander suffer would make her feel a little better. Tell me, am I right?”

The man gripped the dagger tightly, staring straight at Elizabeth. She had guessed completely correctly. Esme indeed planned to take revenge on Alexander.

“Esme is the one who did wrong; how does she have the nerve to take revenge on Alexander?” Elizabeth laughed, stepping onto the stairs. The man frowned, his eyes instantly filled with caution, and he took a step back.

Elizabeth stepped up again, slowly approaching him. “If Esme really sent you, then let me guess, you’re Vincent, right?”

Vincent’s steps halted, his eyes turning dangerous.

Elizabeth smirked. “Vincent, you really are a loyal dog to Esme!”

Chapter 747

Vincent was willing to do anything for Esme, even kill Lily!

Vincent gritted his teeth and shouted, “Shut up!” This retort confirmed that he was indeed Vincent.

Elizabeth stopped, looking at him with a mocking tone. “Vincent, Esme is such a heartless woman, do you think she’ll be moved by your total devotion to her?”

“If you fail, she’ll clean up your body. But if you succeed, she’ll still clean up your body!” Elizabeth warned him. Esme wouldn’t allow someone with blood on their hands to stay by her side.

“She won’t!” Vincent retorted.

Elizabeth laughed. “You’re too naive.”

“True feelings can’t be exchanged for true feelings, especially with Esme,” Elizabeth hinted for him to wake up.

Elizabeth looked coldly at Vincent, her voice turning dangerous. “Vincent, stop now.”

“Do you think I’ll stop?” Vincent questioned Elizabeth.

Just as Elizabeth was about to speak again, Vincent suddenly stepped down and lunged at Elizabeth with the dagger in his right hand! Elizabeth quickly retreated two steps, and the two of them soon tangled together. Vincent’s dagger attacked Elizabeth several times, and Elizabeth kept dodging, finally kicking Vincent away!

Vincent’s movements were very agile. Elizabeth knew Vincent; he had been practicing martial arts since he was young and had even won the youth Taekwondo championship at fifteen! It was because he was a black belt in Taekwondo that the Russell Family allowed Vincent to stay by Esme’s side!

Elizabeth hadn’t fought in a long time, and without her silver needles, she couldn’t deliver a fatal blow. She had no choice but to try to seize the dagger from Vincent’s hand.

Vincent had the upper hand and threatened, “Elizabeth, you’d better pretend you saw nothing, or I’ll take your life first!”

Unrepairable Love

Chapter 748

Elizabeth’s eyes darkened, and as Vincent spoke, she kicked the dagger out of his hand. With a clatter, it fell to the ground. Vincent was about to grip Elizabeth’s neck and bent down to pick up the dagger, but Elizabeth kicked it far away. She pressed down hard on Vincent’s arms, and his grip on her neck lightened.

“Elizabeth!” he growled through gritted teeth.

Elizabeth’s face grew paler, and her fingers gripping Vincent’s hands began to turn purple.

“Don’t interfere with my plans!” he snarled, his eyes bloodshot.

Elizabeth panted, gritting her teeth. “Vincent, killing for Esme isn’t worth it.”

“In this world, there’s no such thing as worth it or not! You gave years of your life for Alexander, was it worth it?” Vincent’s face grew redder, and his grip tightened even more. Elizabeth could clearly feel her breath becoming labored. She was in pain, suffocating.

“Vincent, let me go! If you dare kill me, the Percy Family won’t spare you!” Elizabeth threatened with all her strength.

Vincent laughed. “I’m going to die anyway; I’d love to go to hell with you, Elizabeth!”

With that, Vincent shoved Elizabeth hard against the wall. Her head hit the wall. She gritted her teeth, and at that moment, the door to the emergency exit was pushed open. Vincent’s hand suddenly loosened, and Elizabeth’s eyes sharpened. She seized the opportunity and kneed Vincent hard in the groin. Then, with a clenched fist, she punched him directly in the eye.

With a thud, Vincent staggered back two steps. His eyes were in pain! Before he could open them, he shook his head, and Elizabeth picked up the nearby dagger. As Vincent fell to the ground, she plunged the dagger into the base of his thigh. Instantly, Vincent’s piercing scream echoed through the emergency exit.

Elizabeth’s eyes were bloodshot, and she breathed heavily, gripping the dagger tightly with both hands.

“Elizabeth!” Vincent roared. Elizabeth was truly someone who had been pushed to the edge. She glared at Vincent, and her hands, holding the dagger, slowly twisted it. Vincent’s screams became even more heart-wrenching.

Elizabeth considered herself a ruthless person. When faced with someone who wanted her dead, she would show no mercy and make sure they died! That would be her only goal.

“Threaten me? Want to kill me?” Elizabeth laughed loudly and yanked the dagger out. With a ripping sound, scarlet blood splattered on both of their faces. The feeling of flesh and bone separating left Vincent speechless. Elizabeth used the dagger to knock off Vincent’s hat and mask, the edge of the dagger grazing his cheek.

Looking at Vincent’s face, Elizabeth’s eyes were full of mockery. “You think you can kill me?”

“Vincent, you’re too weak.” With that, Elizabeth unceremoniously left a scar on Vincent’s face with the dagger. Vincent clutched his face with one hand, the bright red blood filling his nostrils with a metallic scent that was particularly pungent.

“Go back and tell Esme, from today on, she and I are sworn enemies,” Elizabeth said coldly, putting away the dagger and looking at him. Vincent clutched his face, the pain piercing through his entire body. He never knew Elizabeth could be so ruthless! She didn’t even blink when she stabbed the dagger into his leg! She was so ruthless!

Elizabeth looked down at Vincent from above, glanced at the blood on her hands, turned, and opened the emergency exit door, hands in her pockets. Vincent lay in a pool of blood, hearing Elizabeth urgently say to someone, “Get a doctor quickly, someone is injured in the emergency exit!” After saying that, Elizabeth’s voice could no longer be heard. Vincent couldn’t help but laugh.

Elizabeth hadn’t fought in a long time, and without her silver needles, she couldn’t deliver a fatal blow. She had no choice but to try to seize the dagger from Vincent’s hand. Vincent had the upper hand and threatened, “Elizabeth, you’d better pretend you saw nothing, or I’ll take your life first!”

Elizabeth walked into the bathroom and placed the “Cleaning in Progress” sign at the door. She washed the blood off her hands, then took off her clothes and put them back on inside out. The clothes were covered in blood; it wouldn’t be good if someone saw her like this.

Her phone rang.

Felix: [Miss, the Russell Family arranged a job for Esme. It seems like Esme is trying to start a new life.]

Elizabeth squinted. A new life? After all the evil things Esme had done, it was just going to be forgotten? Esme was so vicious, she wouldn't even spare Lily! Lily was over seventy years old; how many more years did she have left? Couldn't Esme go after Alexander instead? Esme was truly despicable!

Elizabeth: [What job?]

Felix: [They arranged for Esme to join Henry's company. Henry is keeping an eye on her.]

Elizabeth: [She's useless.]

Felix: [I made a move. I sent Esme a threatening message last night. She cared so much she blocked my number.]

Elizabeth remained expressionless, finding Felix childish. Only kids played with threatening messages. As for what adults should do, Elizabeth looked at the bright red blood in the sink, her face growing colder. Using a knife was the way to go!

Elizabeth turned off her phone and then turned around, seeing a cleaning staff member standing outside. She asked, "Are you okay?"

Elizabeth lowered her eyes; the blood in the sink had already been washed away. Elizabeth nodded. "I'm fine. I don't know what happened with this sign. It was here when I came out."

Maybe I forgot to take it away. I went to check out the commotion by the emergency exit just now," the cleaning staff member said with an embarrassed smile.

Elizabeth pursed her lips and couldn't help but ask, "What happened at the emergency exit?"

"A young guy, not sure if he offended someone, got stabbed!"

"Did anyone call the police?" Elizabeth asked the cleaning staff member.

The cleaning staff member paused for a moment and said, "I think someone did."

Elizabeth nodded and said nothing more. As she walked out, she sent a message to Oliver, asking him to delete all surveillance footage related to her. At the same time, she headed to Base M.

When Elizabeth entered, she saw Callum. Callum, 20 years old, a core member of Base M, a jack-of-all-trades, was the only one who got into Lisbon University.

“Long time no see,” Callum said as soon as he saw Elizabeth.

Elizabeth said, “No need to investigate that person anymore. I found him.”

“You did?” Callum was stunned. His first task after returning to Base M had just started and was already over! Damn it!

“It was Esme’s follower, Vincent.” As she said this, Felix and Oliver also came out of the nearby lounge.

Felix was surprised. “Is Esme crazy? She actually wants to kill Lily?”

Elizabeth nodded, took a sip of water, and asked Oliver, “Did you clean up all the surveillance?”

“Miss, you can trust me,” Oliver said with a grin, giving Elizabeth a thumbs-up. “Miss, you’re amazing.”

Especially when she came out of the emergency exit, wiping the blood from the corner of her mouth with one hand. She looked both cool and badass.

Now, Alexander really couldn’t measure up to Elizabeth!

Chapter 750

Elizabeth’s phone suddenly rang. She looked down and saw a string of unfamiliar numbers; the call was from Lisbon. She pressed the answer button, and before she could speak, a voice shouted, “Elizabeth, how dare you hurt Vincent!”

Elizabeth looked up. Felix immediately glanced over. That voice—it was Esme. Esme still dared to call Elizabeth? “Why don’t you ask Vincent what he was doing?” Elizabeth’s tone was cold.

Esme gritted her teeth. “Elizabeth, no matter what Vincent did, what you did is unacceptable!”

“You really are protective. What, does your heart ache for him?” Elizabeth looked up, deliberately mocking.

Esme was momentarily speechless. “That’s right, after all, everyone loves their own dog, right?”

Elizabeth remembered that Esme had, more than once, in front of Nolan, called him Alexander’s dog, a loyal dog. Nolan was good-tempered; every time Esme insulted him, he remained silent. Anyone else would have slapped her right away. He was Alexander’s man, but not Esme’s. What right did she have to say that?

“Esme, your dog is not worth mentioning. If you care so much about your dog, keep him hidden, don’t let him show his face. Otherwise, I’ll stab him every time I see him!” Elizabeth’s words were extremely harsh. Even over the phone, Esme could sense Elizabeth’s presence—gentle yet fierce. Elizabeth was not someone who would show kindness to anyone; Esme knew Elizabeth well. Elizabeth’s good temper over the years was only for Alexander’s sake. Back in college, Elizabeth would start a fight with just two sentences. People said Esme was arrogant, but Elizabeth was the truly arrogant one!

“Elizabeth, are you upset because I messed with Lily?” Esme’s tone was sarcastic. “You keep saying you don’t love Alexander anymore, but everything you do is still for the Tudor family.”

“I say, Elizabeth, you are the Tudor family’s loyal dog!” Esme’s tone grew even more arrogant.

Elizabeth gripped her phone tightly, her breathing becoming heavy.

Chapter 750

Felix and Oliver exchanged glances. Callum looked at the data on his computer. Before Elizabeth could say anything else, the call was abruptly ended. Elizabeth looked down; the call had been hung up from Esme’s side. What was going on?

Elizabeth turned her head and saw Callum typing code. This had something to do with Esme’s sudden hang-up. He had hacked into Esme’s phone, ended the call, and infected it with a virus. Now, Esme’s phone should be unusable for at least a year, unless she got a new one. But if Esme dared to call Elizabeth again, he would hack her phone again. If she wanted to challenge his authority, she could continue calling Elizabeth and saying those highly insulting things!

Felix clicked his tongue. No wonder Callum was so ruthless. Callum was always a man of few words, doing things without any warning or explanation.

“Disgusting, how can there be such a person?” Oliver felt sorry for Elizabeth.

Elizabeth remained silent. She looked at the string of numbers on her phone, then put the phone in her pocket. She was the Tudor family’s dog? The Tudor family was more like Elizabeth’s dog now!

Elizabeth admitted that she used to be somewhat worthless. But that Elizabeth would never appear again!

“There are three things I have to say, and then I’ll leave,” Elizabeth announced to the three of them. The three immediately stood obediently.

“Have someone keep an eye on Lily. She’s been transferred to a private hospital; I’ve already sent the address to your phone,” Elizabeth said to Felix.

Felix nodded, “Got it.”
