

Unrepairable Love / I married a man

Chapter 751

“Second, create some buzz for me. Let the whole world know that 5ION has made new progress.”

Third, Kennedy is making a comeback. The sample of Tears of Suey will be out any minute. Felix, tell Margaret to... for me.”

The three of them nodded in agreement, Elizabeth quickly left. Felix watched Elizabeth’s back and sighed deeply. Oliver said, “Has Miss lost weight again recently?” Felix replied, “It looks like it.”

Callum said, “She is too tired. We should help share some of the burden.” Oliver said, “We can’t help much. She always likes to do things herself, you know that.” Callum said, “Then let’s just guard Base M well.”

Elizabeth left the base and received a new message on her phone. The Tudor Group and the Russell Group have terminated their deep cooperation. Alexander of the Tudor Group had a falling out with Henry at the meeting!

Elizabeth squinted and opened the news. Alexander should have ended the cooperation with Henry long ago. This day had finally come. But she didn’t expect it to be so dramatic! Even though it was the Russell Group’s home turf, Alexander sat in the president’s seat, sweeping the room with a domineering gaze, and no one dared to refute him. Even Henry remained silent, his face cold. He felt he had wronged Alexander and had nothing to say.

After the meeting, Henry caught up with Alexander, calling out, “Mr. Tudor, I have something to say to you.” Alexander didn’t stop until he reached the elevator. Henry finally managed to walk alongside him. “I’m sorry for the harm Esme caused you. Mr. Tudor, I apologize.” This was the first time Henry had apologized to Alexander.

But this apology from Henry came too late.

“Mr. Russell, I think the goods you have at Horizon Part are quite good,” Alexander said to Henry. Henry’s face immediately turned cold.

What did Alexander mean by this? Could Alexander be so despicable as to target Henry's goods?

"Mr. Tudor, don't joke around. How could you be interested in my small batch of goods?" Henry's face was awkward.

"I'm interested. I'm in urgent need right now," Alexander said coldly, staring at Henry. Henry didn't know how to respond, "What do you...?" "You give it to me or not?" Alexander asked.

"Mr. Tudor, I can't give it to you," Henry said firmly.

"Then I'll have to take it by force," Alexander sneered, issuing his ultimatum. Henry's face grew even colder.

At that moment, the elevator doors opened. The person inside made Alexander's face turn cold as well. The word "Henry" was on her lips but hadn't been spoken when she met Alexander's murderous gaze.

"Alexander," she called softly. She had seen the news and came specifically to Henry; she didn't expect Alexander to still be there. Esme looked quite beautiful today; the combination of her dress and coat was flawless.

Alexander looked at Esme coldly, his voice icy, "Ms. Russell, you seem to be in a good mood." In these chaotic months, everyone had been hurt. It seemed only Esme was unaffected.

"Alexander, I'm not," Esme said, feeling wronged for a moment. She had been having a hard time lately. But Alexander's eyes were filled with coldness and hatred as he looked at Esme. It seemed as if, in the next second, he would strangle Esme and take her life!

Chapter 752

Esme deeply felt the hatred in Alexander's eyes. He most hated her; he despised deceit above all else, and she was the one who had ruined Alexander's life. What saddened Esme was that she thought she would no longer be affected by Alexander. But when she saw Alexander's face and the cold look in his eyes, her heart couldn't help but skip a beat.

Esme was unwilling to end things with Alexander this way and become a villain in his mind. "Alexander, I'm sorry," Esme apologized to him. Although she knew in her heart that Alexander was ruthless, and saying sorry wouldn't help at all, perhaps she just wanted to feel a little better inside.

There wasn't a trace of gentleness in Alexander's eyes. Esme's apology was as cheap as it could get. "You should apologize not to me, but to Elizabeth," he said coldly. Esme bit her lip. Apologize to Elizabeth? She would never apologize to Elizabeth in her lifetime!

The atmosphere suddenly became silent. "Esme, why are you here?" Henry's voice was gentle, and his temper improved immediately upon seeing Esme. "Henry, I saw the news and was worried about you, so I came to check on you," Esme said, her gaze still on Alexander.

Alexander looked at Esme indifferently, with no other emotion besides coldness. Esme knew that the conflict between Alexander and the Russell Family was all because of her. She felt sorry for Henry and her parents. The Russell Group was supposed to keep progressing, but now it seemed that without the Tudor Group, its development would decline. Everyone in Lisbun knew that the Tudor family was the real power. Offending the Tudor family meant that the Russell Family's days in Lisbun would be tough, even if the Russell Family was one of the four major families.

"Wait for me in my office, be good," Henry instructed someone to talk Esme away. Esme looked at Alexander with dim eyes, unwilling to leave. Alexander entered the elevator, his gaze sweeping over Esme, filled with coldness.

Chapter 752

Esme wanted to step forward and talk to Alexander, but Nolan stopped her. Nolan's cold expression was even more frightening than Alexander's. "Ms. Russell, please leave," Nolan said indifferently. Esme laughed. Nolan actually dared to act high and mighty in front of her. Esme decisively left the elevator, looking at Alexander and Nolan as to say, "Are you satisfied now?"

Henry pulled Esme to his side. Esme gritted her teeth, feeling deeply humiliated. Henry entered the elevator. Henry said, "Mr. Tudor, I apologize again for Esme's immaturity." Alexander lowered his head, merely adjusting his sleeves, "Mr. Russell, I don't need an apology." "I'll take your goods," he simply said.

The elevator stopped on the first floor. For the first time, Henry felt the ruthlessness of Alexander. "Tudor, if you take this batch of goods, the Russell Group will have no way out! Although Esme did something wrong to you, you can't just put the Russell Family to death, can you?" Henry tried to negotiate with Alexander. This batch of goods was crucial to the Russell Group! "Although?" Alexander caught the key point in his words. Esme had deceived Alexander for three years, turning his life into a mess. Did Henry think he could cover it up with one sentence?

Chapter 753

Henry didn't find this ridiculous? The elevator doors opened, and Alexander walked out without even glancing at Henry. Alexander's back was resolute, full of indifference. Henry stood there, utterly miserable. This was clearly the Russell Group, his own turf, yet he humbly watched Alexander leave, and he couldn't do anything. These days, power really was everything.

Nolan followed closely behind Alexander and asked, "Mr. Tudor, when do we take action?"

"Now," Alexander replied coldly. From now on, the Tudor Group and the Russell Group would go their separate ways. Henry shouldn't expect Alexander to go easy on him. In the past, Alexander gave him some respect because he thought Esme had saved him. Now, why should Alexander go easy on the Russell family? Daring to toy with Alexander like this, didn't they essentially disregard him? Whenever Alexander thought about being played by Eure, he felt extremely resentful! When had he ever been toyed with like this?

Alexander quickly got into the car, slamming the door. The visible anger on him made Nolan even more cautious in his words and actions. At the entrance of the Tudor Group, numerous media outlets had been waiting for a long time. As soon as Alexander got out of the car, a crowd surrounded him. "Ste. Tudor, is it convenient for an interview now?"

"Mr. Tudor, is the termination of your cooperation with the Russell Group related to Ms. Russell? What exactly happened between you and Esme?"

"Mr. Tudor, everyone knows you were very much in love with Esme before. Even though you are now married to Elizabeth, you always brought Ms. Russell to various events. Why have you been seen with Elizabeth recently, even kneeling to her earlier?"

The reporters' questions were sharp. Alexander kept walking towards the company building. The reporters followed closely, even surrounding him.

“Sorry, Mr. Tudor is not accepting interviews right now. Please step back,” Nolan warned them in a low voice. The security guards outside couldn’t get in.

Chapter 753

The scene was immediately linked. Alexander couldn’t get into the building; he and Nolan were surrounded by the press. Nolan lost his temper, his face turning red. Everyone was focused on getting firsthand news, not caring about Nolan.

Alexander looked at the crowd and the microphones being thrust at him, feeling both annoyed and disgusted.

“Enough,” Alexander said calmly. The crowd instantly quieted down, and Nolan looked at Alexander. Alexander pursed his lips, his gaze indifferent as he looked at the people in front of him. “Ask your questions, one at a time.”

Everyone exchanged glances. What did this mean? Did Alexander agree to an interview?

“Mr. Tudor! What is your current relationship with Ms. Russell?” someone immediately asked.

“Not close,” Alexander said coldly.

“Not close? Did you terminate the cooperation with the Russell Group because you broke up again with Ms. Russell?” the reporter asked.

Alexander’s expression grew colder. “Wasting my time, just to keep asking about Esme?” Alexander’s voice and expression were so cold, combined with an inexplicable sense of pressure emanating from him. Alexander had agreed to the interview, but the reporters were somewhat intimidated.

“In the past three years, I have never been in a romantic relationship with Ms. Russell,” Alexander said calmly and coldly. “The termination of the cooperation between the Tudor Group and the Russell Group is indeed related to Ms. Russell, but more importantly, the Russell Group is not qualified.”

After speaking, Alexander looked at the media again. Any more questions? The reporters were in an uproar. The four major families in Lisbun had never turned against each other, always maintaining mutual respect. But now, it seemed like they could smell the scent of gunpowder.

Unrepairable Love

Chapter 754

This made Bron and Dilen, who were watching, furious. Even though the Tudor Group is incredibly powerful, that doesn't mean our Boroili family is inferior! Who does he think he is to judge us publicly like this? Lenin tavalý lost his temper, but hearing Alexander's words shut him up.

Eilen sat on the couch, his face growing darker. It's simply because Esme deceived him.

Leon cursed, "It's Esme's fault, but does he have to bring the entire Bissell Group down with him? Alexander is an...!"

Leon was so angry that he picked up his phone and called Blake directly. Blake was playing indoor basketball with a few friends. He had long since handed over the major affairs of the Tudor Group to Alexander, so he was quite relaxed. Leon hadn't contacted him for months. So when his assistant brought the phone over and said it was Leon, Blake was quite surprised. He pressed the answer button, and before he could say anything, he heard Leon cursing, "Blake, how are you managing Alexander?"

Blake was unaware of the news and asked in confusion, "Leon, you start cursing as soon as I pick up the phone. At least let me know what I'm being cursed for?"

"Look at the news yourself!" Leon was furious.

Blake frowned, and at that moment, the assistant handed him his phone. Blake saw the content on the phone. So that's what it was.

Leon was beside himself with anger. "All these years, I haven't said anything about Esme being mistreated in your family. But now Alexander is belittling the Russell Group?"

"Terminating the contract is one thing, but now Alexander is saying we're not qualified! We're both part of the four major families, and Alexander saying this about us... what about the dignity of the Russell Family?"

Blake remained expressionless. He had originally thought that the relationship between the two families needed to be maintained, but after seeing Alexander's media interview, he asked, "Isn't Alexander right?"

“Leon, instead of calling me to lecture me, why don’t you educate Esme properly?” Blake’s presence was overwhelming. Blake’s words always carried authority, and Alexander’s authority was inherited from Blake.

Leon laughed angrily, “Blake, do you even know what you’re saying? This is the result of you not educating Alexander properly, the Bont call Family is not qualified!” With that, Blake hung up the phone.

He had turned the Tudor family upside down. But Blake, as an elder and a man, found it hard to intervene. Blake had thought that Lily and Elara could handle the situation and stabilize Alexander’s marriage. But it turned out not to be the case. Without Esme, would Alexander’s love life be so tumultuous? They kept talking about the four major families, but if the Russell Family hadn’t been lucky back then, would they even be considered one of the four major families? Leon dared to challenge him—how ridiculous!

Blake threw the phone to his assistant and snorted, “Don’t answer his calls in the future!” The assistant nodded, knowing that Blake was extremely angry. And Leon wasn’t any better off. The Russell family was in chaos, complete chaos!

At night, Elizabeth was working at the research institute when Lila called her out. Elizabeth kept refusing, but Lila used the pity card. “I’m going to participate in a foreign reality show in a few days, and we’ll be apart for several days again. Don’t you miss me?”

Chapter 755

Lila texted, "I'll be waiting for you at the Rose Restaurant. If you don't come, I won't leave!"

Elizabeth listened, immediately thinking of Alexander. Then another text: "I'll be waiting for you at the Emerald Skyscraper. If you don't come, I won't leave."

Elizabeth remained silent, finally nodded, and hung up the phone.

The Rose Restaurant was located in the center of New York City, on the sixty-sixth floor, very high up. As soon as Elizabeth entered, a waiter approached and took her coat. She saw Lila sitting by the window, taking pictures. Lila, being a superstar, looked stunning even from a distance. This kind of restaurant usually only attracted well-known and influential people, so Lila didn’t bother to disguise herself. When she saw Elizabeth, she quickly waved.

Elizabeth was wearing a white fuzzy sweater, her black hair cascading down her back, and a black short skirt that showed off her beautiful legs. The man sitting nearby glanced several times at Elizabeth and Lila. One was Elizabeth, the other a superstar; it was hard not to look.

“Long time no see, Lila,” Elizabeth teased.

Lila snorted, “You know it’s been a long time, and you still refused me just now?”

“I’ve been busy,” Elizabeth took a sip of water.

“You’re just busy with nonsense,” Lila said discontentedly, “You haven’t messaged me for days. I’m mad!”

“Tell me, who have you been with lately?” Lila’s tone was interrogative.

Elizabeth blinked, “What do you want to hear? That I’ve been with Alexander?”

Lila squinted. Was Elizabeth really with Alexander?

“I’d be crazy to be with him,” Elizabeth snorted coldly, “I’ve been busy with the research institute lately, and the rest of the time I’ve been running around for the elders of both families.”

Lila was puzzled, “Both families’ elders?”

“Lily was harmed and is now lying in the hospital. She has a bad heart, so I thought I could help if I could,” Elizabeth answered truthfully.

Lila sighed and soon started scolding. Elizabeth knew Lila would.

“You still care about the Tudi family’s business! Elizabeth, at times you’re tired,”

“You said you and Alexander have parted ways and owe each other nothing, yet you still care about the Tudor family’s business! Either cut it off cleanly, or just go back to Alexander!” Lila’s words didn’t seem harsh at first, but upon closer inspection, they were quite harsh. Telling Elizabeth to go back to Alexander was basically calling her pathetic.

“I know my limits,” Elizabeth said.

Lila shook her head, looking as if Elizabeth was not clear-headed. If Alexander showed weakness and tried to please her, Elizabeth might get confused and go back to him.

“Elizabeth, I’m your friend. I need to remind you that emotions can drag you down! You and Alexander have been together for so many years, the chances of you getting back together are high. If you don’t want to get hurt again, stay away from him.”

Elizabeth held her cup, looking down without speaking. Lila was a very clear-headed person, and Elizabeth had no secrets from her.

“Alexander is a bad man! He loves you now only because you left him and he’s not used to it! Once he gets you back, he’ll discard you again!”

Lila’s scolding grew harsher, and her voice got louder. The man who had been eyeing them turned his head away, not daring to look anymore. Unbeknownst to them, a pair of eyes behind them grew hotter, deeper, and finally, displeased.

“Alexander, calm down,” Kieran quietly pressed down on Alexander’s hand.

C 756

“I really don’t know what I did to offend Lila. Ever since I met her, she’s been cursing at me!” Alexander’s molars seemed like they were about to shatter.

Kieran cleared his throat and gave a wry smile. “Best friends, you know how they are. They always try to break you up rather than make peace. It’s a wonder Lila even likes you.”

“Besides, I think Lila’s right,” Kieran said quietly.

Alexander immediately looked at Kieran, his eyes narrowing. “Kieran, are you okay? Are you starting to speak for Lila now? Were you the one who used to look down on her?” Alexander sneered.

Kieran replied coldly, “When did I ever look down on Lila? I’ve always admired her. It’s impressive for a young woman to be in that position!”

Alexander squinted. Did Alexander not know what Kieran was thinking?

At that moment, the cursing started again from the other side. “Elizabeth, if you really get back together with Alexander, I’ll lose all respect for you. You’ll end up with no friends!”

“A guy like Alexander, even if he were free, I’d kick him away hard! No, just touching him makes me sick!”

Alexander was speechless. Kieran looked at Alexander with pity. Lila wasn’t as gentle as her online persona suggested. In private, she was indeed this straightforward; Kieran had been cursed by her like this before. If he hadn’t helped her a few times and they hadn’t worked together, it wouldn’t just be Alexander getting cursed right now.

“Including that Kieran around Alexander. Elizabeth, let me tell you, one of them is a good person.”

“Just look at Kieran’s face, you can tell he’s a playboy. Everything he says and does seems brainless!”

Kieran was puzzled. Why was Lila suddenly cursing him too? And saying he was brainless? He hadn’t offended Lila recently!

Now, it was Alexander’s turn to hold Kieran’s arm down. Kieran’s face fell immediately, looking very upset. Getting cursed like this, who could stand it?

Chapter 756

“Alexander, I finally understand why my reputation is so bad with Lila. It’s all because of you,” Kieran said, almost in tears. Back when Kieran wasn’t familiar with Lila, she had cursed him too. Lila’s curses were almost always the same: “Alexander’s friends? Not good people. They’re all scum.”

Kieran clutched his chest, in pain...

Alexander lowered his head, trying to adjust his mindset. It was okay, even though Lila cursed fiercely, Elizabeth hadn’t said anything. Elizabeth had her own thoughts. However, the next moment, Elizabeth’s voice rang out.

“Lila, don’t worry, I’ll stay away from a bad guy like Alexander. I won’t let myself get involved again.”

Alexander was speechless. Kieran looked at Alexander with a deep sigh. Too tragic. Kieran felt like he couldn’t eat another bite.

“Alexander, maybe we should just leave?” Kieran said, heartbroken.

Alexander didn't say anything. He stood up, and as Kieran was about to follow, Alexander said, “I'm not leaving, just going to the restroom.”

With that, Alexander deliberately walked towards Elizabeth's direction. Kieran didn't know how to tell him that the restroom was the other way! Why are you walking in that direction? Do you think you haven't been cursed enough?

Just as Lila was about to continue cursing, she saw Alexander lightly passing by her. Elizabeth also saw Alexander.

Chapter 757

Elizabeth's heart trembled slightly, and she couldn't help but sigh. How did she always run into Alexander at every dining place?

Lila opened her mouth. She suddenly remembered that when she was chatting with Kieran, he casually mentioned that he was going to have dinner with a friend tonight. He only said a friend, not specifying it was Alexander.

So, Lila looked in the direction Alexander had come from and immediately saw Kieran; he was speechless. He quickly turned his head, trying to make Lila ignore his presence. Lila's face showed displeasure.

“Mr. Getty is here too,” Elizabeth said lightly.

Kieran smiled. Since he had been discovered, he felt embarrassed to continue sitting there. He poured a glass of wine and came over to the two of them, smiling awkwardly. “Elizabeth, Ms. Parker, what a coincidence.”

Lila squinted at Kieran. A coincidence? Didn't she mention she would be at the Rose Restaurant tonight? And he came to the Rose Restaurant with Alexander? Was Kieran sure it wasn't intentional?

“I swear I wasn't following you. I had already booked the restaurant before you mentioned coming to the Rose Restaurant. It's really just a coincidence!” Kieran raised his hand and swore it was a coincidence.

Lila couldn't be bothered with this. “Did you hear me cursing you?” Lila asked.

Kieran was embarrassed. Yes, he heard it, and it was harsh. After all, he was Lila's boss, and Lila was endorsing for him, making money for him.

“Serves you right,” Lila smiled, completely looking like she meant every word.

What else could Kieran say?

Elizabeth looked toward the men’s restroom. Kieran wasn’t surprised that he heard Lila’s words.

Chapter 257

(The following text appears to be in a language other than English and is unintelligible.)

Elistet glanced at him, laughing inwardly. Alexander returned instead. “Be warned,” Lila said, expressing that Alexander was truly and secretly dating... (The text trails off incompletely).

Kieran sat down and asked Alexander, “Alexander, do you want to go say hello?”

“No.” Alexander shook his head, then put down his phone and poured himself a drink. Alexander had said he wouldn’t bother Elizabeth anymore, and he meant it.

Kieran sighed, “Alexander, just letting go like this... Isn’t that letting Han take advantage?”

“If she thinks that will make her happy, I have nothing to say.” Alexander poured another drink and drained it in one gulp.

Kieran remained silent. Alexander’s gaze gradually darkened. He couldn’t help but glance over at Elizabeth. She was quietly eating with her head down, occasionally looking up at Lila and sharing a smile with her. Probably aware of their presence, Lila stopped scolding, and their conversation became much quieter. Alexander put down his glass and looked away.

Kieran had something to say but hesitated. He didn’t know how to comfort Alexander. He always felt there was still a chance to salvage things between Alexander and Elizabeth. But if Alexander really let go, there might be no future for them. He could tell that Alexander had truly fallen for Elizabeth. And Elizabeth... was something Alexander couldn’t do.

Kieran considered himself a love expert, but honestly, he couldn't figure Elizabeth out. If he had to make a judgment, he could only think positively. He believed that as long as Alexander persisted, Elizabeth would get back together with him. Elizabeth wasn't heartless. At her core, she was a gentle person, and the Percy Family's upbringing had taught her to always leave a way out.

Elizabeth and Lila soon finished their meal and sat there chatting. Lila said, "There are so many red carpet events at the end of the year. I'll be running back and forth between the U.S. and abroad, so I might not have much time to see you. If you miss me, just send me a message, okay?"

Elizabeth teased, "If I miss you, I'll just look up your news online."

Lila retorted playfully, "I'm alive, you have my Facebook, why look up news? Just give me a video call!"

Elizabeth laughed, "Lila, be honest, is it me who will miss you, or you who will miss me?"

Chapter 759

Lila fell silent. She looked at Elizabeth with longing eyes. Honestly, it was she who would miss Elizabeth. She didn't have many friends; Elizabeth was the only one. In the entertainment industry, where everyone prioritized their own interests, it was hard to make a true friend. Elizabeth wasn't short of friends; she was always well-liked. Lila cherished her friendship with Elizabeth. But Lila was often not around Elizabeth, which made her feel helpless. They said friendship needed constant contact to grow stronger. Lila was afraid that even this last friend would eventually leave her.

"Alright, I'll be honest, it's me who will miss you," Lila said earnestly.

Elizabeth snorted. Lila should have just said so directly instead of beating around the bush.

"If you miss me, just send me a message. My phone is on 24/7 for you, how about that?" Elizabeth said, trying to comfort Lila.

Lila was satisfied. Alexander's gaze drifted over again, and he felt Elizabeth's gentle presence. But that gentleness was no longer for him. The impact of this scene was too much for him. Kieran's phone suddenly rang. He glanced at Alexander, stood up, and said, "I'll go take this call."

Alexander swirled the wine in his glass. Soon, Lila also went out, seemingly to Kieran, and it looked like they were discussing the same matter. Elizabeth's seat wasn't ideal; she could see Alexander whenever she looked up. Although Alexander hadn't greeted her, Elizabeth had noticed him looking at her several times. She lowered her head, thinking to herself that perhaps this high-and-mighty Mr. Tudor couldn't understand either why he loved her, yet she left even more completely. Elizabeth looked out the window, holding her glass and taking a sip of warm water, her gaze gradually becoming...

Alexander lowered his head and couldn't help but let out a sigh. He truly couldn't understand how his marriage had become such a mess. Why did he hurt Elizabeth, who loved him so deeply? Did Elizabeth not have dignity, a heart, or feel pain? He was too harsh.

"Hello, ma'am." Suddenly, a waiter's voice reached Elizabeth's ear, and she turned her head. The waiter was holding a glass of wine and a small bouquet of roses. "The gentleman at table 23 asked me to bring this to you."

Elizabeth looked up. Table 25, to her right and ahead, was occupied by a man who looked quite gentlemanly. However, he seemed to be older, almost forty, perhaps. She wasn't very fond of older men. "Please tell him that he's not my type," Elizabeth smiled gently.

The waiter, momentarily dazzled by her gentleness and beauty—it was the first time he had been this close to Elizabeth—nodded repeatedly and turned to decline the offer. The man's face darkened because he had friends with him. He took the wine and roses from the waiter, straightened his clothes, and walked toward Elizabeth. If the waiter couldn't do it, he would do it himself. How could he pursue a woman without setting aside his pride?

Elizabeth saw the man approaching her. She turned on the "Do Not Disturb" sign, but the man ignored it. He leaned in and greeted her enthusiastically, "Hello Elizabeth, may I get to know you?" He knew who she was. Elizabeth found it amusing.

"Do you see that? My ex-husband is right over there." Elizabeth glanced in Alexander's direction. The man paused. Alexander was here? He really hadn't noticed! He had just arrived, and Alexander hadn't been at his seat when he got there.

“My ex-husband is trying to reconcile with me right now. Tell me, why would I give up such a...” Elizabeth was quite blunt. But to reject someone, you had to be straightforward; otherwise, they might think they had a chance.

The man’s face darkened, and he tightened his grip on the glass. “Elizabeth, I may not be as good as Mr. Tudor, but you don’t have to be so harsh.”

“If you don’t leave, I can be even harsher.” Elizabeth finished the water in her glass and set it down. The atmosphere became tense. The man hadn’t expected Elizabeth to be such a tough woman. He let out a cold laugh and decisively took back his wine and flowers. “Sorry to bother you,” he said, and as he turned, he unexpectedly locked eyes with Alexander’s cold gaze.

Alexander was swirling his wine glass, casually leaning back in his chair, his narrow eyes fixed on the man, his gaze slowly filling with mockery. Alexander’s gaze was so piercing that it made the man uncomfortable. Anyone who could be here was no ordinary person. Alexander and Elizabeth really were a pair who didn’t give people any dignity!

Alexander stopped swirling his glass and turned his gaze to Elizabeth. Elizabeth gave Alexander a slight smile, as if thanking him for driving the man away. Alexander felt the strong aura emanating from Elizabeth.

Chapter 760

Alexander put down his glass and looked at Elizabeth with a complex expression. He watched as she picked up her phone, ignoring him completely as if he were a stranger. He couldn’t suppress his feelings. He wanted to rush over and make her look at him, but he couldn’t. He had promised Elizabeth he wouldn’t pester her anymore. He could only torment himself and endure.

He had learned about Elizabeth’s past hardships. When you truly loved someone, and that person constantly rejected you, you couldn’t move forward. How did Elizabeth manage to persist all these years? Alexander drained the drink in his cup in one gulp. His gaze grew more complex, like an abyss, making people fearful and unable to fathom.

Lila and Kieran returned together, seemingly having had an unpleasant conversation. “What happened?” Elizabeth asked Lila. Lila angrily slammed the table. “I thought big companies would be different, but it turns out they’re just full of useless people!” Elizabeth squinted. Who was Lila cursing? Was Lila cursing her entertainment company? Or was she cursing... Elizabeth’s gaze fell on Kieran, who also didn't look too pleased. "Are you cursing Mr. Getty?" Elizabeth asked Lila.

Lila smiled, "Yes, I am cursing him! A boss who can't manage his subordinates is incompetent!" Elizabeth quickly intervened, "Lila, don't be so hot-tempered. Kieran's still your..." "So what?" "You're a celebrity." Lila had cursed Kieran several times today. Although Kieran didn't mind once or twice, three times was too much. He had his pride too. Although Kieran usually made headlines through scandals, it didn't mean he wasn't ruthless. Kieran could hang out with Alexander; he wasn't simple.

Lila sighed, knowing she was a bit out of line, but she couldn't help it. "His company's people maliciously photoshopped and slandered me. Do you think I'm wronged? Shouldn't I be angry with him?" Slamming the table was already a mild reaction.

Lila's manager called her, asking where she was. They said numerous pages about her suddenly approved on Instagram, detailing her being arrogant and uncooperative during shoots, excessive photoshopping, etc. After investigating, they found out that the rumors were spread by staff from Kieran's company. "It's not that I mind his people slandering me; I'm just sorry..." They will definitely stand up to Kieran, blaming him for not protecting her reputation and her contract with him. She was extremely frustrated.

Elizabeth listened quietly, unable to offer any advice. The entertainment industry was too complicated. Fans were one aspect, the boss was another, and the company was yet another. Lila had to consider everyone except herself. Elizabeth felt sorry for Lila. But there was no choice; at this height, Lila had to endure these things. If she couldn't endure it, she should go home. "Don't be angry. It's not a big problem. Don't they know what you look like?" The company will solve it for you. Besides, you're so popular, so many people have seen you,

Lila was indeed beautiful, with striking features and a good height. Lila usually had many different looks, but Elizabeth liked Lila's curly hair the most. Lila looked at Elizabeth and sighed, "I'll listen to you, I won't be angry..." "So easy to appease?" Elizabeth was incredulous. Lila snorted, "Because it's you comforting me!" Elizabeth smiled and didn't forget to lower her head and open Instagram. Sure enough, the trending topic on Instagram was about Lila being arrogant and uncooperative.
