Novel Chapter 301

Chapter 301: 301

Leon decided to fight while biting his lips to make sure he wouldn't open his mouth. Thanks to that, he started to wonder why the guards weren't bothering him again. It was probably because the warriors living under the city were attacking en masse.

'Fortunately, their actions don't seem to be affecting Lion's Pride... maybe it is because I don't care about their goals, or perhaps it is because they are just using my rampage...'

Although that was fine, their actions would only make things difficult for Leon later . It was hard to be sure if Donan gave the order to some soldiers to retreat to deal with Leon, but thanks to the warriors' actions, something like that became apparent . So, Leon decided to increase the pace of the battle a little more .

After using Transfer, instead of attacking, Leon just touched Donan's shoulder and cast Slow on him. The spell worked, but Donan didn't get slower as much as Leon had expected... he lost around ten percent of this speed. It looked like mentality also affected the effectiveness of the skill. Regardless, Leon made sure to take advantage of the momentum and attacked Donan just like that, using one-two and using Transfer when his strikes made him fly a few meters backward.

The notifications excited Leon, but soon he lost his excitement when he heard that high pitching sound again... Leon used Transfer to escape but noticed that he barely avoided the arrow that had been aimed toward his head . Being attacked like that by someone he considered to be his friend... was heartbreaking.

'What are you looking at, invader?' Darya asked .

'Nothing...' Leon looked away . 'Did your grandfather tell you how you lost your memories?'

'Yes, it is all thanks to you!' Darya shouted . 'Your other attack almost killed me . I only escaped alive thanks to him! You monster!'

'I see... that is a very touching story, Donan,' Leon said .'It looks like you didn't lose only someone you loved... you also lost your dignity . Well, I already knew that .'

'Shut up... just shut up!' Donan shouted . 'What the hell do you know?'

To Leon's words, Donan couldn't say anything. In fact, he could have saved his planet and its inhabitants from a painful present, but he knew that he had might as well doomed them to a dark future. Once one looks at Leon, that became crystal clear. When Leon came to this planet, he barely escaped the guards, and now he could defeat them while going easy on them... the world was at peace, but its people were almost stagnated on time and space. There was no sense of urgency because they sealed the problem of the dungeons, as for the harvesters, they had the barrier and soldiers that could fend-off them . However, that was just a temporary solution .

'This is a waste of time...' Leon sighed . 'I guess it is time to take a few risks... sorry about this, Darya, but you will see one hell of a bloody scene . '

Leon wondered why he was so afraid of making Donan angry. It was stupid to be so cautious at that moment. It was crazy to think that he would invade the city rampage for quite a while and then leave without suffering a single wound. As of late, Leon had been thinking about this and that, deciding certain things and then changing his mind... quite frequently. That was weird since Leon didn't recall himself being that indecisive back on that island. Well, maybe it was because he didn't have many options there and now that he obtained some power, he could think of different ways to solve his problems... Regardless, it was time to finish off his business with Donan.

After opening his arms a little bit and giving up on the peek-A-Boo style, Leon let out a long sigh while he recalled something he heard in the past from a wise woman . 'If your opponent uses his legs to attack, attack his legs . If your opponent uses his fists to attack, attack his fists . If your opponent uses his head to attack, attack his head . 'Leon decided that he would follow that advice . It would be a bit painful, but in the end... no pain, no gain .

Leon focused his senses on the opponent, the moment Donan became a blur, Leon also moved his right hand and punched. A significant impact happened, and the air around the research center trembled like never before. Leon succeeded in hitting Donan's right hand, both of them suffered some damage, but Leon's fist was bleeding more.

'You are interesting, invader,' Donan smirked.'To think that you would not only challenge me to a fistfight but also would try to test our strengths like this...'

'This is nothing, dog,' Leon showed a small smile. 'Let's see what is the most powerful between your hatred and my remorse.'

Darya couldn't help, but what in shock at the scene in front of her, two crazy men, were bleeding through their fists and didn't even flinch while using the same fists over and over again to hit each other's fists. What was even more shocking was the fact that one of the crazy men, was her grandfather—a man who only showed her smiles over the course of the last four months.

'Grandfather...' Darya murmured while she felt shivers .

Although Darya had never seen her grandfather fighting in those four months, everyone treated him as if he was by the most powerful person in the world. While everyone decided to use mana to attack from a safe distance, he decided to use mana to attack from a close distance. That alone made him become respected by many, and the fact that he repelled alone the attack of a harvester almost automatically turned him into their leader. However, that person was now fighting while his face was pale due to the pain, and the cause of that was a single invader who was supposed to be a magician but was fighting with his fists. Meanwhile, the invader was looking at her grandfather as if he was bored... that situation has been like that for the last five hours.

'I can use Heal in you if you want,' Leon said . 'I didn't have time to teach that skill to Darya . She only learned Regeneration because 'it was a pain to stop attacking monsters to use a healing spell . 'Well, that was what she said...'

'Shut up...' Donan murmured in pain .

'The level of Regeneration is also low since she barely received any scratches,' Leon explained .'Adding that to the fact I'm using bracers made of mithril and you are bare-handed, this result isn't that unexpected .'

After several hours of fighting, it looked like Donan finally reached the peak of his strength. Every single of his punches were powerful enough to break the bones of Leon's hands, even though the mithril bracers were protecting them, and those didn't suffer a single scratch...

For some reason, even though the people of Miebos could learn things like Geomancy and Pyromancy without the help of spirits, they didn't learn how to heal wounds. Maybe it was because most of them were long-ranged fighters or perhaps because they relied too much on recovery... it was hard to be sure.

'I can feel already my body becoming lighter... even though I'm using mana to heal the wounds, it looks like I can't recover my blood with mana, only recovery can do that... to some extent .'

Despite everything, Leon had the upper hand. His skills were growing stronger since the opponent was supposed to be stronger than him. Meanwhile, the same thing wasn't happening to Donan, since Leon was supposed to be weaker than him.

Regardless, even though the pain was decreasing, and Leon could shorten a lot the moments he could feel the pain, he was already tired of that . Donan was the leader of that world for many reasons, and his tenacity was one of them .

It was time to finish that battle, but it looked like Leon would have to face a few more problems before that . In the distance, Leon saw several figures approaching, they were faster than the regular guards, so it was evident that they were soldiers who came from the frontline . Some soldiers stopped to deal with commotion the warriors of the lower world were causing, but the majority came toward Leon . After creating massive lances made of fire, ice, and earth, they prepared to shot at Leon, but soon they stopped .

'STOP!' Donan shouted and made his subordinates tremble . 'Don't interfere... this is my fight . '

Leon frowned, it looked like Donan was also very prideful... it would be troublesome if he learns Lion's Pride in the middle of the battle, so Leon got a little agitated. Meanwhile, it looked like Dona calmed down... even though his status didn't decrease.

"...You have done enough, Darya," Donan said . "Thank you... but from here on out, I will fight alone ."

Leon couldn't help but keep frowning since Donan just said what a shonen protagonist would say before the starts to fight seriously. That was obviously a bluff. There was no way Donan would hold back while his fists were being destroyed. At least that was Leon thought but soon changed his mind when a lot of mana started to concentrate around Donan. The air around him began to vibrate, and then, slowly but surely, Leon saw a shadow appearing around Donan.

'That certainly is the power he obtained from that shadowy figure...'

Leon begun to feel shivers while looking at Donan covered in shadows, and then he immediately felt that he was in danger when he saw the bloodshot eyes within that shadow. Without thinking twice, Leon activated Mana Armor. However, he still got hit by something he didn't even see when Donan disappeared... the next moment, Leon saw himself at the bottom of the lower world.

In mere seconds, Leon learned a new skill and also leveled up the same skill up to level thirty. Leon didn't know how, but he managed to block the attack. However, that had a price. Leon's arms were bent in the wrong direction, and both bracers had some scratches... Now Donan had the power to damage an extremely rare and powerful material... instead of thinking that, Leon used Heal to recover from his wounds, but then noticed he had almost zero mana. A single attack from Donan made him fall to the ground of the lower world and even consumed all his mana... despite that, how did Leon manage to block such an attack?

'Shit... that was dark magic... that was definitely teleportation . I didn't even see his body blurring...'

If it were teleportation, then it would explain how Leon managed to block the attack. If Donan had increased his speed, Leon wouldn't have the chance to react and block. Still, it was weird... if he now could teleport, why didn't he teleport to attack Leon again? Certainly, Donan knew that Leon was more resilient than that...

A few seconds later, Leon recovered enough of his mana to use Heal, and at the same time, he saw a shadow coming over from the city... It was Donan, but despite his speed, he was descending quite slowly.

'I see now... that kind of power-up came with a cost... Donan probably is suffering some serious drawbacks to maintaining that form. Not only that, since he obtained power far beyond his current body can handle, he probably can't fight like before, or for long.'

As much as fun analyze his opponent's skills was, Leon didn't have time for this. Donan's attacks could make Leon spend all his mana just to keep himself alive, so he had no choice but to retreat a little and use Mana-Eater in one of his mithril spears in order to restore his mana.

That was very annoying considering that Leon started that fight, but it couldn't be helped. That was a strategic retreat. He wasn't running away... at least that was what he was telling himself, while Leon created a hole in the ground and hid in there... Then Leon had an idea. If that power upgrade, made Donan stronger but it was physically taxing, then, possibly...

Instead of covering the hole, Leon made the entrance much larger, in order to let Donan notice. While Leon was recovering his mana using Mana-Eater, he enlarged the hole and made it much more profound, to the point where even he couldn't see the end of it.

'Clever little insect...' Donan murmured .

Still, Donan was tired of dealing with Leon . Not even the harvesters could endure the power of his attacks on that form, but unless he returns to the surface with Leon's corpse, he will lose the respect of many . And a leader who wasn't respected by all his subordinates was no leader... at least that was what Donan was thinking .

After descending for several seconds, Donan finally reached the bottom of the hole, and he couldn't see anything. He also couldn't sense anything either since that layer of mana covering his body had a single purpose, boost his power beyond the limits his current body can endure. Still, even if he couldn't see, Donan could react in time to counter-attack. It was clear that Leon wouldn't use magic to attack him directly, so that much was fine.

Just like Donan predicted, Leon attacked. Leon tried to punch Donan's left cheek two times, but only the first one landed and barely scratched Donan. Before Leon could attack again, Donan kicked his stomach but felt the hardness of mithril blocking his path.

A few moments later, the hole trembled when Leon's body hit against the walls of the hole. Leon imagined that Donan would attack again, but he didn't, probably because he knew Leon would transfer himself to another location.

'Ugh... He is saving his mana... it looks like every attack consumes a lot of his mana... Anyway, I guess I can't attack twice . '

Donan's second attack didn't cause as much damage because he didn't see

Leon, so he was more or less fine after that . Still, even though it was risky, Leon would have to deactivate Stone Skin . Recovering his mana with a single punch, he wouldn't be able to keep all those buffs active. Still, as long

Novel Chapter 304

Chapter 304: 304

Donan used that strategy to try to counter-attack Leon's attacks for a few minutes, but soon gave up on the idea and started to move around like a madman punching the walls and empty space while he tried to hit Leon by chance. However, he failed miserably. Donan was using the sounds to find Leon, and whenever he heard anything, he moved to somewhere and attacked...

'I knew it... his body is slowly getting destroyed by that dark aura...'

Leon couldn't use Appraisal without seeing the target with his own eyes, even though he could feel it, that wasn't enough. However, something like that became evident after Leon punched Donan's a few times... that dark aura also had the smell of blood, probably because Donan was bleeding inside of it, but the blood couldn't leave the aura.

It was hard to be sure, but Leon concluded that dark aura consumed a few hundreds of mana points per second . So, it was more than obvious that Donan was receiving mana from something . Despite that, his wounds weren't healing as fast as his body was getting destroyed .

'This is so stupid... his wrath could make him three times stronger, while the dark aura probably increased his power ten times. Despite all that, I don't even have to attack to defeat him.'

Still, the hole Leon created was slowly falling apart, and it would become more difficult to hide if he let Donan rampage like that . Solving the problem with magic would be easy, and even though that wouldn't be much satisfying, Leon decided to attack using a combination of magic and physical powers . There was no room for mistake because Leon intended to concentrate all his mana and stamina in a single attack .

The effects of Rage, Haste, and Lion's Pride were already there. So, Leon just finished everything by flying toward the rampaging Donan. At the last moment, Leon increased his weight using Gravity, and that increased the potential of his punch even more. Congratulations! The skill Pain Resistance has leveled up.

It wasn't a skill that Leon could use, not with the body and status of a mage. Every single bone of Leon's right arm broke, not only that, Leon had several spots where he could see bones and muscles... Somehow, the pain was much worse than the time he woke up on the island . So, most likely, Leon destroyed his muscles, arteries, and tendons . Instead of using just Heal, Leon used Full-Recover when he ate some blue angel leaves and had enough mana .

'Although Rage, Mana Reinforcement, and Lion's Pride increased my physical status, to the core, I'm a mage... my body already adapted to become a long-range fighter . So, I guess it makes sense that punching a stronger person will destroy my fists...'

Regardless, Mega-Punch would be one of the skills Leon would rarely train and use only to surprise his opponents. Putting that aside, Leon walked toward the tunnel he created using Donan's body, there he saw the unconscious Donan covered in blood. The Dark Aura disappeared, so Leon didn't have to worry about anything.

'Mmm... I punched him a lot of times, but only a special skill made me achieve my goal here . '

Leon's punch broke most of Donan's teeth, so he was satisfied... to some extent. He achieved his goal, but in the end, that didn't change anything. Darya was alive and was being fed by Donan's lies. Considering everything, it was most likely impossible to restore her memories, Donan wasn't a fool to leave a blind spot like that, after all.

'Hey, dog... wake up,' Leon kicked Donan's head.

Leon didn't hold back, but even after a strong kick on Donan's head didn't wake him up. Although he was bleeding, he won't die. However, his body reached a peak of exhaustion, so it wouldn't be weird if Donan sleeps for a week or two. It was annoying, but Leon used Heal on Donan's head a few times until he woke up. However, he was so exhausted that he barely could keep his eyes open.

'Now, we are even,' Leon said . 'Still, I can't forgive you for what you did to your own granddaughter . However, I know that spell you used probably deleted her memories instead of sealing them . The Darya I knew doesn't exist anymore, you can keep acting as if you care about her, but if you delete her memories again, or let her die, I will return to kill you . And don't think you will die fast, I will cut your limbs one by one and feed you with them... is that clear?

Donan could only move his head a single time before losing consciousness again, Leon wondered if he would remember that after he wakes up. However, he already gave his warning and wouldn't say the same thing twice. After that, Leon grabbed Donan's by the neck and flew toward the hole Donan created when he attacked Leon... it was time to say goodbye.

Donan used that strategy to try to counter-attack Leons attacks for a few minutes, but soon gave up on the idea and started to move around like a madman punching the walls and empty space while he tried to hit Leon by chance. However, he failed miserably. Donan was using the sounds to find Leon, and whenever he heard anything, he moved to somewhere and attacked...

I knew it... his body is slowly getting destroyed by that dark aura...

Leon couldnt use Appraisal without seeing the target with his own eyes, even though he could feel it, that wasnt enough. However, something like that became evident after Leon punched Donans a few times... that dark aura also had the smell of blood, probably because Donan was bleeding inside of it, but the blood couldnt leave the aura.

It was hard to be sure, but Leon concluded that dark aura consumed a few hundreds of mana points per second. So, it was more than obvious that Donan was receiving mana from something. Despite that, his wounds werent healing as fast as his body was getting destroyed.

This is so stupid... his wrath could make him three times stronger, while the dark aura probably increased his power ten times. Despite all that, I dont even have to attack to defeat him.

Still, the hole Leon created was slowly falling apart, and it would become more difficult to hide if he let Donan rampage like that. Solving the problem

Chapter 305: 305

When Leon returned to the now destroyed plaza, he saw that some soldiers were freeing the guards Leon buried . Some warriors of the lower world had been confined, while others died, since both sides had several losses, the soldiers of the frontlines were waiting for Donan's orders about how to deal with them. However, they became shocked when they saw the half-dead

Donan and the completely fine Leon... even though he was feeling like crap.

'You!'Darya shouted angrily when she saw Leon grabbing Donan by the neck as if he was a piece of trash.

'He is alive, and for the time being, he will stay alive,' Leon said. 'Unless some of you guys try to mess with me. '

Darya and the soldiers hesitated, the soldiers knew how powerful Donan was using Dark Aura. Although he only had shown that a few times, his strength was unparalleled. His speed, power, and endurance reached unbelievable levels... yet a single man defeated him, and that was something that even the invaders failed time and time again.

"... It looks like both sides suffered some casualties," Leon said after he looked around. "I guess both sides should also be satisfied with this outcome... Still, this is enough. Release them."

'What?! They destroyed our city, and you want us to release them?' Darya shouted . 'You won't give any order to us!'

'My, my... Donan educated you well...' Leon frowned . 'Still, I didn't finish talking... I will say a few things to you guys . First, release them . After that, you guys should create a path that will connect the lower world to this city . And then you guys won't stop the people down there from coming to live here in this city... if you guys don't do that, then come to see me on the southern coast of the continent . I will show you something interesting . Bring the leaders of every village to that place, don't forget . I will wait for you there in a month . '

After saying, Leon tossed Donan's body to Darya, before she could catch him, Leon returned to the lower world using Transfer while everyone was looking at their wounded leader that had been thrown like a piece of shit.

'What a massive waste of time...'

Leon let out a long sigh, he thought that by punching Donan's face would make him feel better, but it didn't. Meeting Darya again only made things even more complicated because there wasn't a single sign of doubt in her eyes. She was sure that Leon was her enemy, and nothing would change that. Regardless... Leon gave his ultimatum. If Donan deletes her memories again, he would beg for death, and Leon wouldn't grant it to him. Next time he wouldn't try to satisfy his ego, he would arrive shooting dozens of Magma Spears toward Donan's head.

'Let's just hope that bastard learned his lesson...'

Things didn't go well as Leon had imagined, but he certainly wounded Donan's ego. Besides, there was a chance in the last months while he was training Darya he recalled the memories of the times he wasn't an asshole. One could only wait for the best and prepare for the worst...googletag.cmd.push(function() { googletag.display('div-gpt-ad-InStory-1'); });

One day later, Leon returned to the harvesters' tower. He also started to wonder if that was the correct way to refer to them... in any case, he frowned when he saw them carrying the bodies of several monsters while others were transferring their own mana to the Soul Eater.

'Hey... did you finish your business?' Alurelle asked .

'Yes... do you guys plan to attack Miebos?' Leon asked . 'If the answer is yes, I would like that you don't do that and focus on gathering mana . Also, I want you guys to do something for me in one month . '

'Sure... although we can't drain mana from that barrier, so we didn't intend to attack that world anyway . 'Alurelle explained . 'The monsters here have more mana, so we won't leave this place . '

Now that Leon thought about it, he didn't see the type of monsters of that world. However, since some of Alurelle's friends were transporting their bodies. Leon didn't have to look for them .googletag.cmd.push(function() { googletag.display('div-gpt-ad-InStory-3'); });

The monsters of that world were slimes that had the sizes of megalodons, they were pretty scary since they could absorb water to regenerate their parts and because their attacks were insanely powerful. However, the harvesters could easily defeat them using their massive weapons after taking them out of the ocean.

Regardless, those creatures could reproduce themselves at a fearsome pace, and they also could grow stronger just by absorbing mana from the environment. Adding that to the fact that they were the mob monsters of that world, it was indeed the perfect place to use Soul Eater.

'Here, I guess with this, you can create something,' Alurelle passed Soul Eater to Leon.

Soul Eater

It drains and stores all the mana of enemy foes.

Leon frowned when he analyzed the weapon, with that much mana, he would be able to create a weapon which was much lighter than the harvesters currently could wield in their giant form... Still, light and big weapons would be convenient, for many reasons. So, Leon began to work because it would take more than a few weeks to create weapons and equipment for everyone.

It was pretty good for a day's work . . . that being said, it was too big, and Alurelle couldn't even dream of using that around on her ordinary form . Since she couldn't stay in that form all day, Leon decided to create an earth platform near their base to store their massive weapons . He had to spend some mana to create something like that, but with Soul Eater at his disposal, that wasn't a problem .

'Unbelievable . . . to be this strong even without any enchantments . . . 'Alurelle said in shock . 'You can enchant items, right?'

'Do you mean sealing the souls of monsters inside a weapon?' Leon asked. 'Yes, I can. But you should only think about that once you return to your world. The angels are strong, right? Then, using them as catalysts is obviously the best option.

'Yes . . . you are right . . . ' Alurelle said while staring at her new weapons and imagining how strong she would be once Leon enchants those swords .

According to Alurelle and friends, their weapons were fifty percent weaker than the twin swords. They were big and had some enchantments, but weren't that impressive. In fact, their only special power was the power to become much bigger.

Regardless, Leon thought that creating bigger weapons would increase their power, but he didn't have enough mana or time to test that theory. Although Leon wanted those twin-swords for himself, he couldn't use them due to its size . . . but that wasn't a problem . The more Leon level up Craft and Blacksmith, the stronger the weapons he creates will be .

'The swords are powerful enough . . . 'Jorhorn said, visibly displeased even though that weapon belonged to his sister . 'But, you used too much mana . '

'If you think you can do better, then be my guest,' Leon said while he was allocating the status points he received.

'My weapon will be next!' Ismenria declared . 'Can you make a bow that can only increase my dexterity and speed?'

'Yes, but you will have to create the string,' Leon answered.

Ismenria tried to act cool before, but she obviously was the most childish one of the group. Even though she was fighting to recover her world one day, she looked at Alurelle swords as if that was a new toy, and she wanted one.

Regardless, it wasn't his job to collect the mana from forging the weapons. So, Leon returned Soul Eater to Ismenria, and then he began his own training. While Ismenria was making everyone help her to look for monsters, Alurelle became bigger to practice with her new swords.

'Now then . . . what should I train now?'

Since Leon would need mana more than anything, he started to plant the blue angel leaves . In the last battle, Leon managed to avoid certain attacks thanks to Haste, so keep training that skill was a must . Besides, it was too much fun to keep that spell active since Leon could become a lot faster . That being said, Leon would have to build a colossal telescope hoping to find Earth, and after that . . . the only way choice he had was to use transfer .

'I also have other option . . . face that shadowy figure and discover how to teleport . '

Donan could teleport while he keeps Dark Aura active, but it wasn't a spell per se. It was one of the effects of other skills. Dark Aura also was physically taxing, so Leon would have to endure some painful after-effects.

'Let's see . . . there is a small chance of me finding something that will help me return home on the harvesters' worlds . There is also a small chance that I will find Earth in the middle of the vastness of the universe . . . even if I find it . I will have to have a stupidly, large mana pool . . . Last but not least, I can also try to defeat a monster that has the title of 'god of death' in order to obtain the knowledge of how to bend space . . . three great plans with 'high' chances of success . '

Leon could only sigh while thinking about those options, in the end, it couldn't be helped since Donan probably didn't know to explain that power . . . he only could use it . The people of Miebos had some magic knowledge, but it wasn't enough for Leon . Alurelle and friends probably came from a world that developed perhaps even more in terms of magic research . Still, the survivors were magic warriors, and the only magic they could use was offensive magic .

As always, the chances of Leon succeeding in any of his plans were quite dim . Still, he had no intention of giving up . Six years ago, he laughed at the idea of flying while flapping his arms, but now that was probably possible since he was fast and strong enough . . . that being said, he had no intention of doing that . Anything was possible . . .

It looked like Alurelle and her friends were slacking off when they managed to store that much mana for two weeks because, after three days, they obtained the same amount, and now Ismenria was bothering Leon to create her bow.

'It looks like they don't know how much mithril I can produce with my own mana . . . they were quite skeptical of my skills, but now they are working hard to receive their own weapons.

Ismenria could produce her own arrows since she could use Earth

Transformation, so Leon didn't try to make a few more tests and add special skills or effects to the weapons he created, he decided to do that later, for himself . . .

' . . . I want to kiss you, 'Ismenria said after she analyzed the bow .

'Usually, I wouldn't refuse,' Leon said . 'But if your affection can be bought with something like this, then, I will have to refuse . Instead of that, I would like to borrow the Soul Eater . I need to create a few things that may help me return home, and the best material is mithril . If you guys don't trust me, I don't mind if two or three of you follow me while I collect mana . '

'That is fine, right, brother?' Alurelle asked.

'...Only if two of us are watching you while you collect the mana you want,' Jorhorn said . 'In order to speed up this, you will only have the chance to do that for a single day every three days, after you complete a new piece of equipment . '

'Sure,' Leon said .

After collecting that amount of mana, Leon wanted to produce the things he wanted alone. However, every single moment when Soul Eater was on his hands, at least two other people were watching him. To make matters worse, Alurelle and friends also had the habit of sleeping only once every three or four days. So, it couldn't be helped that Leon would have to create his new items in front of them.

'Let's see if I can add some skills to the items I create without even using monsters' spirits . . . '

Honestly, Leon wasn't expecting much. The power to create magic weapons was already great sealing spirits of monsters . . . creating a powerful material using mana alone was also very impressive . If Leon also could add special abilities to the items just using mana, things would be way too weird .googletag.cmd.push(function()

In the end, nothing happened, Leon created a mithril ring that only increased his intelligence and mentality, even though he only wished for a ring that could grant him the power to shoot Mana Bullets. It was a relatively simple skill, so it became obvious that something like that wasn't possible.

'Well, a variation of that should be possible . . . '

Instead of creating a ring that would grant him a skill, Leon focused his mind solely on creating a ring that would only increase his recovery . . . the result had been much better than expected .

'I wonder why I didn't learn those before . . . is it because I didn't think of customizing the items completely?'

That certainly was a possibility, and Leon confirmed that after creating eight more of those rings and leveling up both skills several times. The complete set would help Leon to recover his mana even faster in the middle of battles, using the bracers of the devourer was useful, but against a mage or monsters that focused their attacks on using magic, getting close to attack sometimes was suicide.

Things got really interesting when Magic Craftsmanship and Magic Blacksmith reached level ten. Not only Leon got a little faster, creating items, but the effectiveness of the items also improved . . .

Now Leon couldn't help but frown, it looks like the effectiveness of items decreased by half, but it still was weird to create a ring that could increase his health so much. That being said, Leon didn't hesitate to create eight more of those . . . he could use nine of those sets of rings because the tenth would always be the ring that granted him the skill Zen .

It looked like Alurelle and her friends were slacking off when they managed to store that much mana for two weeks because, after three days, they obtained the same amount, and now Ismenria was bothering Leon to create her bow.

It looks like they dont know how much mithril I can produce with my own mana . . . they were quite skeptical of my skills, but now they are working hard to receive their own weapons .

Ismenria could produce her own arrows since she could use Earth Transformation, so Leon didnt try to make a few more tests and add special skills or effects to the weapons he created, he decided to do that later, for himself . . .

Ismenria also had a magic box, but hers could store those massive arrows. It probably had been customized with their technology... and that gave Leon another idea. However, before testing his idea, Leon created Ismenrias bow.

In the end, Leon created more rings that could increase his intelligence, stamina, endurance, and mentality. However, after testing them, he noticed one thing . . . even if he tried to equip ten rings that could increase his recovery, the bonus never surpassed the total recovery he actually had. The same applied to the other attributes... those would be useful in the future, but Leon felt like he wasted time creating several rings that could increase his health and stamina.

Since Leon spent almost a day collecting mana, he would have to create some bigger things in order to use that mana. Pretty soon, Alurelle and friends would look for monsters in order to obtain mana for their own equipment. Considering that he would go to a world where the monsters decimated the dominant race, and the monsters only appeared in worlds that were only on the third stage of assimilation. Leon decided to focus a bit on defense after creating a set of five mithril spears.

After thinking for a while, Leon concluded that controlling a shield with Telekinesis would have been far more effective to stop Donan . As long as Leon doesn't use magic directly to attack him, it would be fine . . . at least that was Leon thought now that his head had cooled down . Regardless, Leon would use those four shields to protect himself from everything . He decided that after recalling a game of the past which he played with Betty, a certain female warrior had two shields floating around her that could almost automatically protect her . Leon's shields wouldn't automatically protect him, but it was better than nothing .

'My status won't grow with them all that much either, but as long as they stop the enemies and projectiles, I won't complain.'

Anyway, three days later. Leon created another weapon, this time. The user was Jertien, and Leon created a hammer that increased his intelligence and strength. However, everyone frowned when the status of the weapon was slightly better than the others.

'Don't look at me like that,' Leon shrugged . 'I obtained new skills that will affect the power of the weapons I create using mithril . The more those skills level up, the stronger the weapons will become . Before you guys say something, it should be faster to collect mana in your worlds, right? So, don't ask me to create new weapons just because a few have slightly better weapons . Once we arrive there, I will create better ones .'

'That is probably for the best,' Alurelle nodded.

There was no point in hiding about those skills since Alurelle and friends could use Appraisal. Besides, by saying things like that, Leon would make them even eager to fulfill their side of the bargain. If they keep their word, better weapons are waiting for them . . . it was the perfect bait to make sure that Leon wouldn't be betrayed . Well . . . almost .

'Mmm . . . since I'm at it, what kind of items from videogames and any other medium I can create, and that can help me at the moment?'

The first that came to Leon's mind was Magneto's helmet . . . it was the simplest thing he could think of that possibly could counter Appraisal, but it would be too suspicious to create one at the moment . Alurelle and friends might think that he is planning to backstab them .

Since Leon focused only on strengthening himself over the course of the last six years, his memories were kind of foggy. With the exception of a few things, he couldn't recall many useful items . . . most of them were overpowered swords that could banish evil or something, and that wasn't something Leon needed at the moment .

'Now that I think about it . . . I won't be able to store my shields inside the magic box . I guess my next goal should be to replicate a bigger version of my magic box . . . something that can be used or controlled would be preferable . I don't want to waste time stopping in the middle of a fight to take items out of the improved magic box . . . '

Still, creating something like that would be troublesome. The magic of the magic box certainly was space magic, but Leon didn't recall seeing any monster using anything like it. The closest to that was the devourers... those creatures could destroy matter to absorb mana, after all.

^{&#}x27;I guess it is worth a shot . '

Leon decided to make a backpack and try to enchant the weapon later. Soul Eater was on his hands, so the harvesters would probably oppose that idea. Anyway, after creating a few more spare mithril shields and spears, Leon headed to the goblins' world, hoping that he would create a better version of his magic box.

Novel Chapter 309

Chapter 309: 309

In the end, Leon returned empty-handed. Even though it was made of mithril, the backpack didn't even accept a devourer's spirit . . . it was an utter and total failure. Leon also tried to create a bigger magic box, but it didn't work either.

'Maybe once I learn some space or perhaps dark magic, I will discover some clues as to how to create items that can store many things . . . '

It was a pity, but Leon was already used to that kind of failure. Anyway, Leon was out of ideas on how to solve the problems of the storage of the shields . So, he would have to do the only thing he could . . . use telekinesis to move them.

'Well, at least I will be able to level up my telekinesis while I'm at it . '

In any case, Leon started to build his telescope. First, he created a magnifying glass. Although he had some difficulties adapting the lenses, he eventually gave them the effects he wanted. And just as Leon had expected, the mithril increased its effectiveness many times. Even using his prototype was enough to help Leon see grains of sand with great detail. It could be improved, but it had a lot of potentials.

'The problem is... I can't store something too big inside my magic box . '

Alurelle and friends wanted to bring that tower back to their planet, so perhaps Leon could install his telescope at the top of the tower. However, it probably wasn't a good idea to expose one thing that could help Leon to return to Earth. They would go to a world where the monsters were too dangerous, after all. As if building a telescope when Leon did not know about it wasn't enough, he had to miniaturize it . . .

'Why . . . why things can't be simple at least once?'

Still, even if Leon fails time and time again, eventually, he would succeed, and when he succeeds, the effects of the items he will create will be outstanding because even while he fails, Leon's skills would level up.

Regardless, Leon was starting to wonder if his magic skills would get dull. He trained for one month his physical skills just to beat the crap out of Donan, and now he would have to craft equipment made of mithril for probably at least two months . Still, it couldn't be helped . Even though Leon was itching to emulate the magic projectiles that could spin, he couldn't . Well, he could but not without slowing down the progress of Haste and his tests with his mini-telescope . Although Leon could use the items that had Mana Absorption, he had to use those up close, and against the aqua slimes, that wasn't a good idea .

'Instead of learning new spells of the four basic elements, I should try to learn dark magic . It certainly will be effective against the angels, but I didn't understand the logic behind it, even after watching Donan using it .'

'... It is much lighter than I expected,' Jorhorn said while he was frowning and looking at his new weapon.

'Mithril is basically the physical form of mana,' Leon said . 'It is energy in a physical shape . . . it doesn't have to be dense or heavy like other materials . .

Jorhorn was a very annoying guy, but Leon decided to answer that question because, for specific reasons, that was necessary. After Jorhorn tested his spear for a while, Leon and the harvesters headed to Miebos. Fortunately, the dungeon that connected both worlds was quite large since the aqua slimes were quite big. Leon imagined that the most troublesome ones like Jorhorn and Ivolaer would refuse to help him in something so useless, but it looked they were smart enough to stay on Leon's good side.

Chapter 310: 310

Much to Leon's surprise, Donan was there and even Darya. He also recognized Gurr, Eadmund, and Anton. By the look of things, they were being treated like prisoners, but there were no signs of wounds on them, and judging by their expressions, they had been treated reasonably well.

'Hello there,' Leon said a few dozens of meters away from the fortress.

"... What do you want?" Darya glared at Leon

'Nothing, I just came to confirm a few things,' Leon answered. 'How are you guys? Did they obey my orders?'

'Yes,' Eadmond answered . 'Thanks to you, our people can now live in the city... the other inhabitants look at us as if we pieces of shit, but since we look at them the same way, that isn't a problem . '

'I see... ' Leon nodded .

'What are your intentions with this?' Eadmond asked while looking at the harvesters.

'I'm just experimenting,' Leon explained . 'As you can see, I will help them for a while . I'm necessary for them to reach their goals, so I asked them to stop attacking . I can also ask them to attack even more or worse . I can make them suddenly appear inside the barrier... but that is not necessary, right,

Donan?'

Donan was clearly mad, but he didn't intend to act crazily in front of his men. Not when the harvesters gained a power upgrade thanks to the man who defeated him. Fighting against them now would be catastrophic, besides, if it could be avoided, the best choice would be not to fight the harvesters.

'Did he say something?' Leon asked.

"... No," Donan answered . "He doesn't care, as long as he gets what he wants . "

'I see . . . 'Leon rubbed his chin . 'Well, then . Let's become allies . Surely you can understand we won't obtain anything by opposing each other . Besides, since the barrier is useless against me, you don't have much of a choice . Not only that . . . you can now understand that you solved a problem but created others . '

Donan looked away, annoyed; he became a bad person after losing his wife, but not an unreasonable maniac. He knew about how he was limiting the growth of his people while offering a false sense of security by creating the barrier using their mana and segregating those who didn't agree with them in the past.

'As long as you understand that, everything else doesn't matter,' Leon said . 'What is done is done . As long you change your ways a little bit and don't make the same mistakes of the past, we won't become enemies . Maybe we can become even allies . I'm sure you can have some use for weapons made of mithril . '

'Anyway, I will come to play eventually,' Leon said . 'So, play together nicely... because I will come to visit without giving any warnings . '

After that, Leon used Transfer and reappeared at the harvesters' side. With that alone, his warnings became much clear. That skill was still at low-level, but eventually... it wouldn't be weird if Leon obtains the power to travel half of the world in a second... but before that, he would have to improve his sight many times.

Just as Leon promised, he visited Miebos many times while he kept his identity hidden. Finding the warriors that once lived in the lower world was quite easy since they big and easily stand out from the other short inhabitants of Miebos. As expected, most people looked at them with annoyed eyes, but soon most of them would also forget about that kind of prejudice. Without the harvesters to torment them and now that no one was living on the lower world, both warriors and the mages of Miebos would have to work together to defeat the monsters down below and on the oceans. Fighting together and helping each other would probably solve that problem.

As much as Leon wanted to obtain knowledge of the research center, he refrained from appearing in front of Donan and Darya . It would be suspicious if he appears before then now and then suddenly stops visiting since soon he would go to the harvesters' worlds . So, it was better to make them stay on guard for a long time .

Regardless, while the people of Miebos that treated each other as mortal enemies for decades were trying to find a way to work together, Leon resumed his job of producing the harvesters' equipment. Although Leon wasn't used to creating armor or many types of protective gear, it actually went much easier than the time he created the weapons. The harvesters weren't that fast, so they didn't want anything that could hinder their movements all that much. So, Leon only created helms, knee pads, elbow pads, and breastplates by combining mithril with monsters' skin. Alurelle and her friends went to search for the other materials, and that saved Leon a lot of time. After one month, Leon finished their gear.

Much to Leons surprise, Donan was there and even Darya. He also recognized Gurr, Eadmund, and Anton. By the look of things, they were being treated like prisoners, but there were no signs of wounds on them, and judging by their expressions, they had been treated reasonably well.

Hello there, Leon said a few dozens of meters away from the fortress.

... What do you want? Darya glared at Leon

Nothing, I just came to confirm a few things, Leon answered . How are you guys? Did they obey my orders?

Yes, Eadmond answered. Thanks to you, our people can now live in the city... the other inhabitants look at us as if we pieces of shit, but since we look at them the same way, that isnt a problem.

I see... Leon nodded.

What are your intentions with this? Eadmond asked while looking at the harvesters.

Im just experimenting, Leon explained . As you can see, I will help them for a while . Im necessary for them to reach their goals, so I asked them to stop attacking . I can also ask them to attack even more or worse . I can make them suddenly appear inside the barrier... but that is not necessary, right, Donan?
