

Vampire 1184

Chapter 1184: [Don't unlock]

Wasn't the constellation 'Light of Primordial One' a guy? What was he doing in a female only channel?

Julien had trouble understanding this.

Though, since he had joined anyway, kicking him out wouldn't be nice as he was a literal god who shouldn't be offended.

Julien let the constellation be and went through the list again.

For now, there was just Uriel, Amaterasu, and Sovereign of Shadows in the channel.

Julien had a faint idea about the Sovereign of Shadows being a lady, but wasn't really sure until now.

This person ruled the Underworld and was a mighty figure that could shake the heavens with a single breath.

They were all naturally very influential, so the first phase of Julien's plans were a success.

'Now the second phase would depend on my adventures.'

With such a thought in mind, Julien focused on climbing the Tower again. He had spent a lot of time dilly-dallying.

Julien met with the Vice Guildmaster of the Crimson Night Guild before departing.

Celeste usually stayed on Floor 25, managing the affairs of the guild. She would go to Floor 37 periodically when quests arose or Leona called.

Right now, Julien wanted to inquire about his elder sister.

Celeste stated that Leona was on Floor 37, trying her best to clear the scenario present. She also gave information on Katherine and his mother.

All of them were on Floor 37 doing quests.

Julien then got vital information of the remaining floors.

Floor 26 to 30 was similar to the previous ones, but starting from 31 onwards, things changed quite a bit.

The NPCs were close to being real people, the side quests would have a meaningful impact on future Tower climbing and the monsters hunted would drop better loot and XP.

There was a lot one could do from Floor 26 onwards, and it was recommended to be at least Level 50+ before reaching Floor 37.

There was a lot of grinding Julien and his party had to do.

After getting more important information, Julien and his party parted ways with Celeste and left for Floor 26.

.....

Floor 26.

Pungent smell of rotting flesh and blood filled the air.

The floor hid beneath a layer of corpses.

The Stairway of Ascendence brought Julien and his party to the middle of a horror setting.

It was a medieval castle half in ruins with multiple vine covered stone passages.

Amelia's stomach turned upside down as she clutched it and puked.

Jackie was used to the stench of blood, but this was beyond her capacity too, making her join Amelia in the puking.

Julien on the other hand had already fainted from the grotesque sight.

The mangled mash of flesh had human corpses within it too, scaring the living daylights out of all.

[The constellation 'Demonic Inquisitor' clutch their blazing sword and prepare for divine intervention.]

[The constellation 'Sovereign of Shadows' spit wine in disgust.]

[The constellation 'Light of Primordial One' has disconnected.]

[The constellation 'Eternal Flame of the Sky' puts a request to the administrators for placing one of their suns on Floor 26.]

[The administrators have rejected the request of the constellation 'Eternal Flame of the Sky'.]

[The administrators have sent a notice to the constellation 'Light of Primordial One' stating they need to be connected to the live stream if their incarnation is in the Tower.]

[The constellation 'Light of Primordial One' has reconnected.]

[The constellation 'Light of Primordial One' makes a petition to cleanse lower floors from unnecessary gore.]

[The constellation 'Demonic Inquisitor' signs the petition.]

[The constellation 'Eternal Flame of the Sky' signs the petition.]

[The constellation 'Sovereign of Shadows' signs the petition.]

[The administrators are considering the petition.]

A lot of things happened on the backend when Julien was unconscious.

Amelia and Jackie stopped puking after a while, and rushed to help their unconscious Master.

The smell of corpses wasn't the least bit pleasant, but Amelia somehow held her disgust and focused on healing her Master.

Such a horrifying sight was beyond Julien's comprehension.

Even when Jackie had killed literal people in the trial, it wasn't as grotesque as this!

Julien woke up after being healed, and began puking when the pungent smell overwhelmed all his senses.

No matter how many adventures he went through, at the end of the day, Julien was still fairly new to his current life and world.

'This is so disgusting! Where the fuck did I enter!?' Julien thought as he continued to empty his stomach's content.

Amelia rubbed his back and applied healing spells, trying to numb his senses.

It took a while, but Julien somehow managed to steel himself and stand tall.

The scene hadn't changed.

The floor was still covered in corpses while the stone walls were painted in dried blood.

"This is Floor 26?" Julien asked.

"Seems like it, Master." Jackie answered as her nose twitched.

"Celeste did say there would be major changes, but this is..." Julien exhaled sharply.

This was a bit too much.

"Even the gods are surprised by it..." Amelia added to the conversation.

Julien heard her and saw the many system notifications. The gods indeed seemed surprised.

Such reactions of theirs made Julien wonder, 'Do they not know what the floors consist of? Is that really possible?'

Julien's curiosity was short-lived as he soon felt a tremor in the area.

"Oh no... the monsters might be coming..." Jackie stated and warned.

Celeste had said that Floor 26's spawn area was in the middle of monster territories. If they felt tremors, then it meant the monsters were walking and could appear before them anytime.

As long as they ran in the opposite direction of the tremors. They would be fine.

Julien and his party did just that.

They ran opposite to the tremors and found themselves moving towards an empty passage.

The passage had no blood stains or marks, but it gave off a really eerie feeling.

Julien took out his sword and asked while moving forward, "Amelia, can you feel