Chapter 511 A Place To Visit

After chatting with Lucifer for a bit more, it was now time to part ways.

But before Lucifer left, she said, "get stronger quick, okay? I'll come visit you again to see how much you've improved."

To get a proper clarification, Lith asked, "improved where? In physical strength or bed?"

"Both, obviously." Lucifer chuckled and left.

Lith chuckled as he got a confirmation. "My cultivation is a bit low, otherwise technique wouldn't have been an issue."

"Anyway, time to go meet the boys."

Lith was about to leave the border area after saying so, when his phone rang and checking who had called, he saw it was his mother.

Picking it up, he chuckled and asked, "hello? Missing me already, my dearest mom?"

"Yes, yes, I do, come back in my embrace." Lilith chuckled from the other side and said.

"You know I can't do that right now, right? I am busy with a few things." Lith said with a smile.

Lilith chuckled again and said, "Yes, I know. And you spent many weeks with me before leaving home... but oh well, I am your mama, I can be selfish with you."

Lith nodded and said on the phone, "Yes, you can. So do you want me to?"

"I do, but I also don't want to hinder your growth. In any case, I called you to let you know about a few things. Since you are in the Elven Continent, there's a place you must visit." Lilith finally came to the main topic and said.

"Okay. What place is it?" Lith asked.

"I have no idea. You have to see it for yourself. I'll give you the coordinates, go explore it." Lilith said.

"Okay, I'll go. But do I have to do it now or can I do it later?"

"Now. You can't waste time and delay it." Lilith answered.

"Alright. Share me the coordinates."

Lilith did as Lith asked and after taking a look at the coordinates, Lith asked,

"Why are there two coordinates? Do you want me to visit two places?"

"No. One coordinate is of the Elven Continent where you are supposed to head to right now. After reaching there, you'll need to enter the Astral World and from there on, head to the second coordinate."

"The Astral World? Are you sure you want to let me go there, mom?" Lith was a bit surprised.

The last event that happened in the Astral World, Lith was sure his mother probably wouldn't let him enter there until and unless he was really strong. But it hadn't even been a few weeks and she already was asking him to do something like this.

Lilith, hearing that, sighed and said, "trust me, I wouldn't have sent you if I could. But mama has her reasons."

Lilith couldn't just say that her future self had asked her to give Lith these coordinates. She thus gave him only a little bit of information. But, just like Lith, she also had no idea what thing was present at that place. She was just told by her future self that no harm shall come to Lith and thus is important for his growth.

Lith talked a bit more on this topic with Lilith and after the call ended, he dialed Dennis and Ralph's number.

As they picked up, he explained that some urgent work just came up and he had to leave for a while. In case there was anything that would require Lith's assistance, he would provide it once he was back. Until then, they could either continue with this thing or wait till Lith was back.

After his call with them was over, Lith left for the place his mother gave coordinates to.

It took a day to reach that place even after using long jump repeatedly.

Looking around the place, Lith just found it to be a jungle and there wasn't anything notable present.

Lith sat down near a tree and was about to meditate and enter the Astral World when he realized that his body would be unguarded and he may be at a risk.

Thus, he called home for help and within a minute, Noman, Ruben, and Arbour arrived at the scene.

Looking at not one, but three people arrive, Lith was slightly surprised. He thought to himself, 'they sure overdo it if things if the talk is about safety.'

Lith knew Noman was an Emperor Rank and he also knew about Ruben. Though he had no idea about the rank of the other guy with them and just assumed he may be of the same rank or lower.

Lith went near a tree and sitting down in a lotus position at the base of it, he said to the three, "Please look after me. Thank you in advance."

Ruben shook his hand and said, "Your Highness you mustn't say such words, they are too polite and we aren't deserving of it."

Noman nodded in response while Arbour had no idea what to do.

"Alright, alright. Let's save ourselves from these talks, I'll be out then. Bye." Lith started meditating and didn't speak further.

Noman and Ruben waved their hands to say bye to Lith, not realising that he couldn't see them.

While Arbour followed what the other two were doing and also waves his hands like an idiot.

After noticing Lith was in deep meditation, Ruben turned to look at Noman and did a vigorous handshake with him.

"This is the first time we have been called for actual duty. Let's do our best."

Noman nodded. He shook hands with Ruben and replied, "let's do our best."

Arbour didn't feel included when the two did a handshake together and left him alone.

He wouldn't lie, it was a bit sad to feel left out.

But then...

Noman and Ruben both turned to look at him and extended their hands out, saying,

"Let's do our best."

Arbour felt warm in his heart and like an idiot, he extended both his hands out to hold their hands and said shaking them,

"Yes, yes."

Chapter 512 Trial In The Astral World

Astral World.

Opening his eyes, Lith saw himself back in the world of gray. He was in a forest and it looked as lifeless as always.

Having the coordinates as a guide, Lith started walking and after what felt like half a day, he finally arrived at his destination.

There was a small cave in front of Lith that appeared as ordinary as it could. Nothing about it seemed special and if Lith hadn't known that the coordinates led to this place, he wouldn't even have noticed it.

Lith entered the dimly lit cave and walked for a while. As he did so, he noticed some strange patterns, they were really faint, but they were present.

One such thing he noticed was that there were exactly three pebbles on the ground at an interval of a hundred metres. Many such similar patterns appeared at various intervals and they didn't go unnoticed as well.

There appeared a fork in front of Lith once he moved in for a while, but due to the hints he got previously, choosing a direction wasn't difficult.

A day worth's of walking later and going through many forks, Lith finally arrived at what seemed like a giant pillar with a demon statue resting on top of it.

It appeared really ancient and below the pillar, there was an engraving on it, written in a strange language that Lith didn't know of.

It was to take into account that Lith was familiar with all the languages in the world he lived in, no matter how ancient or new it may be. The reason for that was Lucy, who ensured he knew at least a little of everything.

After the engravings were over, below them was a small cavity that made it seem like something was needed to be filled in there.

Looking around him, Lith found nothing noticeable and he assumed that he might need to bring something that was needed to fill the cavity with.

What would happen after filling the cavity? Probably some reaction that would cause the pillar to move or do something. Lith came to a conclusion.

This place seemed like a trial of some sort and it wasn't too difficult to come to such conclusions.

After thinking on what he should put there and not getting any answer, Lith checked his space ring and saw there to be many liquids present.

But before he put anything from his ring into the cavity, he first decided to use his own blood. Maybe it might cause a reaction to occur? Lith thought.

He had his reasons to think of such things and without wasting time, Lith bit his index finger and dropped some blood into the cavity.

Without any surprise, Lith saw a reaction with the pillar slightly shaking and making slight rumbling noise.

A few instances later, the demon statue on the top of the pillar shook as well and finally, the demon's head turned towards Lith and his eyes glowed red.

The demon looked at Lith from head to toe and screeched,

"#@#$&"

Although Lith did not know what language it was, he understood the meaning of it somehow.

The demon basically said, 'A visitor.' He then asked who it was that awakened him from his slumber.

Lith answered looking at statue, "I am Lith Evure. A vampire."

The demon looked at Lith and screeched again, saying, "#####"

The demon was asking Lith his cultivation now.

Lith refused to answer it.

The demon then asked if Lith was an immortal.

Lith said yes since it wouldn't really hurt to hand out this information.

The demon then said,

'A person with a ***** bloodline. How amazing is it for someone with such high potential to stumble here.'

Lith had trouble understanding the bloodline name since it wasn't very clear to him but being called someone with high potential, he could tell that his bloodline may really be very strong.

The demon statue then stated, 'A good seed. You're eligible to enter the trial. I hope you aren't a disappointment like the guy who visited a hundred thousand years ago.'

Lith raised an eyebrow as he heard that. He then asked, "what trial is it?"

The demon made a creepy smile and screeched, "#&@$ $!!!"

'Its an inheritance trial. Once you enter, you'll know everything about it.'

'And assuming from the strange language you're speaking, you don't understand my language as well, right? Let me fix this language barrier first.'

The demon's eyes shot out a bright red beam of light that covered Lith and in just a matter of a few seconds, a lot of information poured into Lith's mind.

A few seconds later, Lith digested the information and said softly, "strange. I haven't heard of this language before anywhere."

"It's a very ancient language, it's no surprise you do not know." The demon statue screeched again, but this time Lith was able to understand it clearly.

Lith shrugged. Could be.

The demon continued, "Although your potential makes you eligible to enter, you'll still need to pass the first test."

"Read the engraving and do as it had asked."

Lith looked at the engravings again and this time, noticed that he could indeed read it properly.

Reading the engravings, he realized that he cannot enter alone in the inheritance trial. He must have a partner that is stronger than him. And this partner must be a female, the race didn't matter. The engravings also stated what the cavity was supposed to be filled with and reading that, Lith looked at the statue and said,

"Yang essence? Are you serious?"

The demon, with utmost seriousness and a deep voice, replied, "Yes."

Lith rubbed his temples as he heard that. He then asked the statue, "but I poured my blood in it and it still worked. Why does it need that?"

The statue replied, "Anything that gets poured into that, I must check. Your blood awakened me from my slumber. Now, your quality of Yang essence is what will be tested first to make you eligible to enter."

Lith clicked his tongue. This definitely was some pervert's inheritance. He was now having second thoughts about entering.

He looked at the demon statue and stated, "I'll leave and be back after a while. Afterall, I do need a partner, don't I?"

The demon screeched, "Do as you wish."

Lith left the place and went out of the cave. He had a map of how to get in and before entering some suspicious place like that, he wanted to have an opinion about it first.

Risking his life unnecessarily was a stupid thing. He wanted to go check what his mother said about this place.

Lith went out of the Astral World after thinking so and coming to the original world, Lith asked Noman to take him to Nightingale.

After he was back home, Lith went straight to his mother who was sitting on the rooftop of the castle to talk with her about this thing.

Chapter 513 Not Allowed

"It hasn't even been three days and you're back already?" Lilith couldn't help but ask.

Lith was sitting on a table with his mother and joined her for tea. They were now conversing and this was the first thing she asked.

Lith took a sip of tea and said, "Yeah, the place you asked me to explore, it's an inheritance trial. I have no idea what the trial is about, but I find it highly suspicious."

"Oh? Tell me about it." Lilith was now interested.

Lith started explaining the things he found strange and Lilith chuckled as she heard what the trial had asked him.

"For the first time I heard someone asking for Yang essence."

Lith nodded. "Yeah, it was really strange. But bringing a partner was strange as well."

Lilith nodded. "So, what have you decided to do?"

"I don't know, that's why I came here. What should I do? Go in and see what's in for me? Or what?" Lith asked.

Lilith thought about it and said with a smile, "You can enter it. I think it's pretty safe."

Future Lilith had said so, so the current Lilith believed in her and said to Lith.

"Alright, if you say so. Let's go and enter that trial then." Lith gulped down the tea and said while getting up.

Lilith nodded and walked close to Lith. She held his hand and the two teleported out of Nightingale, back in the Elven Continent.

Lilith and Lith then went to the cave and now that Lilith was with him, it didn't take Lith long to reach the inheritance trial.

Arriving at the place, the demon statue scanned Lith and Lilith and just as it had a mere look at Lilith, it screeched loudly,

"Gods and Demigods are not allowed!"

"Hmm?" Lith looked at the statue with a strange expression. The statue in front was definitely screeching but he wasn't able to hear him. It felt strange.

Lith looked at his mother, only to see her look at him with a smile and say,

"It seems Supreme Ranks aren't allowed."

"You were able to hear him?" Lith asked.

Lilith nodded. "There was a warning and since it was for me, only I heard it."

"Warning? Is there something dangerous inside?" Lith couldn't help but ask.

"Nope. It's just that powerful beings aren't allowed inside, so I can't enter." Lilith answered.

"I see."

Lilith then said with a smirk, "Anyway, since I can't enter, I'll go send someone else. But before going, you do need to put in the Yang essence in there, right? Do you want me to help you?"

Lith shook his head. "No, I definitely don't want to do anything here when something like that is watching."

"It's a mere statue, embedded with a trace of a will. It's not a living thing anyway."

"Yeah, still no. When I came to the castle, before meeting you, I prepared a vial of it just in case."
Lith answered.

Lilith chuckled hearing that. "Alright then, stay here, I'll bring someone."

Lith nodded and Lilith left after saying.

After she was gone and a few minutes passed, having nothing to do, Litu decided to put his Yang essence into the cavity as the demon statue had asked.

He took the vial out of his space ring and poured the sticky white Yang essence from inside the vial into the cavity.

Soon, the demon statue's blood glowed red again and in just a few seconds, it screeched with an ear-piercing noise,

"@##$¥€!!!!!"

'AMAZING! THE QUALITY IS AMAZING!'

That was what the demon statue had screeched. The statue then turned to look at Lith and said laughing,

"Boy, I didn't expect you to be sleeping with powerful people. Simply amazing. You're eligible to enter the trial now. All you need to have is a partner stronger than you."

"..."

Lith was speechless and also a bit dumbfounded. He really didn't like whatever was happening and felt a bit uncomfortable. But since his mother said it was safe, he let things be.

Lith stood silently in his place and didn't bother to talk to the demon statue.

A while later, he heard footsteps and turning around, he saw a beautiful blonde-haired lady in blue daoist robes walk towards him.

Lith smiled as he watched her. "Now that's surprising."

Emilia, reaching close to Lith, asked, "what is?"

With the same smile as before, he shook his head and said, "Nothing."

With how suspicious this trial looked and what it asked for at the start, anyone could guess that it may probably be related to some perverted trial.

Lith expected his mother to send Lucy when she went back, but didn't expect she would end up sending Emilia.

From what she said before, she was too powerful and thus couldn't enter. Since she was a Supreme Rank, Lith guessed that Arya would probably be ineligible as well and the only option would be Lucy since she could handle something pervy better than Emilia.

'But welp, can't help it now.' Lith could only hope that Emilia doesn't get too tainted by the trial.

If the start itself asked for the Yang essence, Lith had no idea what would be the case if they went further into the trial.

Lith held Emilia's hand and asked gently, "Emmy, did mom tell you about this situation?"

He wanted to make sure she knew what she was getting into and didn't want to taint her in any way whatsoever.

Emilia shook her head. Her mother-in-law just arrived in her office and asked her that Lith needed some help and if she was free to go or not.

Since Emilia was now married, she prioritised her husband over other things and leaving the work to Sel, she came here as fast as she could.

She forgot to ask her mother-in-law what help Lith needed.

"I see." Lith nodded. "Well... you see, this a trial and..."

Lith began explaining things to Emilia while she listened intently.

After he was done, Emilia, with visible surprise on her face, couldn't help but ask,

"This..."

Chapter 514 Entering The Trial

"This... this thing asked you for that!?" She couldn't help but facepalm as she heard that and looked at the cavity in the pillar.

What in the heavens wanted such a thing? She had never heard of any trial that would ever ask of such things and this was her first time coming across one.

"Well, that's the gist of it and I think it'll be really perverted the more we go deeper into the trial. So..." Lith took a pause.

He held Emilia's hands and looking at her, asked in a gentle expression, "...If you don't want to get into any of such situations, we'll not do it."

Lith cared about the well being of his wife more than anything. He knew she disliked derogatory things and was a pure being. He cared about her choices and if need arose, he wouldn't take her in and would let go of this inheritance.

Health of his wife, be it mental or physical, mattered more than any resources or inheritance. Lith could therefore let go of things if he so wanted if it meant it'll cause problems to his wife.

Emilia, as she heard Lith's gentle remarks, felt warm in her heart. If she was a teenage angel girl now, she definitely would've cried out in happiness knowing how much her husband cared about her. But thankfully, she was a mature woman and also a top tier angel and saved herself from this situation.

'He really cares a lot about me...' Emilia had a thought as she looked at Lith's gentle expression on his handsome face.

But she cleared her throat and instead of answering Lith, asked him back, "why do you think I am not ready to do such things?"

"Hmm?" Lith didn't understand what Emilia meant.

Emilia flashed a small smile and holding Lith's face in her palms, said,

"My dear husband, why do you think I won't do things such as those with you?"

So what if she disliked perverted things? Emilia could even give her life if needed for the sake of her husband. She had accepted him with all her heart and could even traverse through the nine floors of hell and the 666 floors of the abyss if the need arose.

These things were nothing in comparison to that.

If Emilia could support Lith, she would do so without hesitation even if it meant she would need to go through some problematic situation.

"Well... I know you won't back away if I ask you, but I don't want to sully your mind with anything derogatory. I saw in the marriage ceremonies that you were slightly uncomfortable with things. So I don't want to force you into any situation you don't want to be in or dislike."

Emilia chuckled and pinching Lith's nose, said, "you really think too much."

She then continued, "If I as your wife don't support you, who else will? That's literally my role and job to do."

"Now enough chit-chat, come let's go inside the trial. If I let you be, you'll probably overthink things about me and get sentimental for no reason."

Emilia held Lith's hand and happily dragged him inside the inheritance.

Lith was still surprised with what his wife had just said and before he could process it, he got dragged inside.

The pillar shifted to the side and an entrance was revealed. The two had moved in and after crossing a long corridor, they were inside a stone made hall.

Even though the hall was made of stones, it had lots and lots of fine engravings on it. There were also many sculptures and paintings present.

There was a small raised platform in the middle of the hall. Although everything was made from stone and was slightly dusty all around, this platform was apparently really clean.

As Lith looked around and thought of what he must do, he heard a voice saying,

"To pass this trial, you must do things present in the engravings. The raised platform is where you'll do the things and if there's even a slight mistake, you'll be kicked out. There's no room for error so choose your moves wisely."

Lith knitted his brows as he heard that. 'What is this stupid trial...'

He went to see the engravings and as he had expected from this perverted trial, there were the things he didn't want to see. What the engravings had were...

Sex positions!

That's right, there were a lot of different positions and poses for a couple. It was very vividly present and there were also steps given that one must follow to do those things.

Lith sighed as he saw that and he knew things were going to be tough.

He turned to look at his wife, only to see her cheeks being flushed red. He could very well tell that she was embarrassed but was trying her best to not show it on her face and was holding it in.

'So cute!' Lith's worries vanished as he saw her. If he could, he wanted to just go near her and poke her cheeks and watch get flustered further.

'Oh wait, what am I afraid of? I could very well act on my thoughts!' Lith suddenly had enlightenment.

He laughed evilly inside and silently closed his way towards his wife.

Emilia was absorbed in looking at the engravings and was too shocked to see that there were so many positions!

She didn't notice Lith, who finally closed in and poked her red cheeks with his index finger and said,

"Someone is embarrassed?"

Emilia jumped slightly in surprise and let out a shout.

Lith chuckled hearing it and was really proud of what he did.

Emilia, looking at Lith do such weird things, said with visible embarrassment, "what are you doing..."

"Sorry, I couldn't help it. My wife seemed too cute." Lith chuckled proudly after saying so.

Emilia's face flushed further. She then said, trying to appear serious,

"Stop teasing me. Let's get this done first."

Chapter 515 Passing The First Trial

Lith chuckled as he saw his wife's flushed face. But he stopped teasing her and carefully started observing the various positions present on the walls.

Lith and Emilia both looked at them and the more they did, the more was Emilia's face becoming red while Lith only just whistled in utter surprise.

"Damn, I didn't even know one could bend in such a way..."

Emilia facepalmed to hide her red face and without looking at Lith, she held his hand and said softly, "stop commenting..."

The two were looking at an engraving where the lady was lying on her back, having her hips raised up and her ankles at the side of her head. Her partner was squatting down and doing her in such a way that his jewels touched the lady's face.

It was really very embarrassing to watch for Emilia and she knew she had to do it with Lith now.

Lith, looking at Emilia's worried as well as embarrassed face, couldn't help but ask, "you know... there's still time. We can get out of here..."

"No. We'll do it." Emilia wasn't going to falter no matter what. For Lith's sake, she would let go of her shame and do it.

Lith placed his hand on Emilia's and said gently, "please don't force yourself."

Lith was more worried about Emilia than he was about himself. He really didn't want to see her health get ruined in any way whatsoever.

Emilia nodded her head and agreed that she wouldn't force herself. Although she didn't make any such promises.

The two observed the engravings and after they were done, Emilia asked Lith that she would need to practice it first before jumping into it.

Emilia didn't want to leave any chances and cause Lith to fail this trial. Although she had the power with her, she knew this trial didn't check strength in any way and rather how better their bonding together was.

Lith nodded and the two tried to practice the positions together. They had their clothes on and they didn't do any insertions or anything, just got in positions.

They tried various positions and this was such a wide variety that Lith lost count after fifty as he was too absorbed in teaching Emilia and also guiding her into things.

Although Emilia was more experienced than Lith, her intelligence when it came to the topic of sex wasn't any different than a teen and she hardly knew anything as well.

Finally after a day's hard work, the two finished practicing and Emilia felt confident that she wouldn't mess things up.

The two went to the platform and taking a deep breath, said goodluck to each other and started performing the positions. They still had their clothes on and it wasn't mentioned anywhere that they needed to be nude to perform these poses.

No detail would go unnoticed by Lith. He was trained in this art by his mother herself.

The two performed the various poses and the one where they had slight difficulty was the pose that had first shocked Lith and Emilia both. The one where the guy's balls must touch the lady's face.

Lith did have some difficulty doing it but eventually he succeeded.

Then after a few more poses, they had difficulty doing their final pose, which was apparently called the 'Pretzel lock'.

Just like how there were folds in a pretzel, the two had to clamp their legs in such a way while ensuring they could grind onto each other properly.

It was difficult to lock their legs like that, but finally after some hard work, the two succeeded, eventually finishing the trial and making the voice appear again.

"You passed. Onto your next trial now."

The raised platform lifted itself further up and a door to another place opened up.

Lith and Emilia went in and after reaching there, they saw a table to be present in a room with many jars present around it.

The voice appeared again and said, "Collect as much of your female partner's juices as you can within two incense stick's worth of time."

As soon as it said that, there appeared the smell of fresh incense burning and turning towards the source, Lith saw one and clicked his tongue, knowing he had to be urgent.

Although he knew what to do, he didn't want to expose his or Emilia's body to some random pervert who may probably be watching in the name of inheritance.

But the chances of such a thing happening was nil since in almost all cases, there wouldn't be anyone present on the inheritance grounds.

People would either die and hand their inheritance out or they would simply leave a part of it somewhere and get on with their life, without looking back at it.

Plus, although Lith was skeptical about it, his mother did tell him that he won't have any harm from this place. Having full faith in her, he could only steel himself and do the things the trial was asking for.

Lith turned to look at Emilia standing beside him and could only smile awkwardly.

"Well... I told you—"

"Don't. I said I'll do anything needed. Don't question things now and make me falter." Emilia shook her head and said.

"Alright, alright. I'll not bring this matter up. But then, don't bully me at home later for doing things to you without asking." Lith said and chuckled.

Emilia's blush returned to her face but she pinched Lith's stomach lightly and said, "when did I ever bully you?"

Lith chuckled again and closing in on her, he held her waist and raised her up, having her lock her legs around his own waist.

Lith then took her to the table and placed her down. He slightly loosened her robes, not too much, just enough so that he could have easy access while also keeping her clothes on.

After the arrangement was done, Lith looked her in the eyes and asked gently,

"Can I start?"

Chapter 516 Final Trial

After getting Emilia's approval, Lith started stimulating her.

Being a pure being, even slight touch from her husband was enough to arouse her and in no time, Emilia was turned on.

Had it been someone else other than her here, except for Alexandra, it would've taken a bit of time to arouse them.

But with Emilia present, things were much easier.

Lith looked Emilia in the eyes as he rubbed her soft folds and stimulated her clit.

Emilia was too embarrassed to look him in the eyes and could only shy away and hide her face.

Lith could only smile and do his thing.

Soon, with great stimulation, embarrassment turned into great arousal for Emilia and she had an orgasm, causing her love juices to drip out.

Lith collected them in the jar and after that was done, he let Emilia rest for a few seconds and started doing things again.

Lith didn't rush her or push her. If she had an orgasm, he waited for her to recover. Emilia's betterment mattered to him more than the inheritance and Lith was just taking everything here lightly.

Lith had everything and he could make do without working hard to get resources.

In the treasury of his clan, there were many levels. Each level had resources and things fit for a certain Magic Rank. There were things from Rank 1 to all the way till Supreme Rank.

Although Lith hadn't been to the Supreme Rank level or any level higher than his own inside the treasury, he was told by his mother that even if he didn't work, he could make his way up with these resources.

Lith didn't know how rich he was or how much the net worth of the clan was, but he sure knew that there were enough resources to get him and his sister all the way up to the Supreme Rank.

Thus, being relaxed, Lith took his sweet time to do things.

When the two incense sticks finished burning, Lith had one-fourth of a jar filled and was holding it in his hand.

As Lith took the jar away from Emilia's private areas after collecting the last drop, Emilia, who looked at it, became as red as a tomato.

She couldn't believe herself what her husband was holding in his hand and just looking at that thing in his hand, she wanted to throw it away so that such an embarrassing moment didn't occur.

It felt too shameful to look at what had just come out of her.

Emilia didn't speak to Lith and she only sat on the table quietly, not wanting to look Lith directly in the eyes.

Soon, the voice appeared again, stating, "You passed the trial. Only three out of ten people were able to make their partner release the Yin essence in such a small time frame. Others who tried to cheat by releasing some other fluids were straight away kicked out of the trial grounds."

"But now that you have passed, your next trial is to absorb that Yin essence. Here's the manual explaining the ways, after you're done reading, throw it down on the ground and the time will start."

The voice disappeared after saying so.

An ancient manuscript appeared in Lith's hand and even though he didn't know the scripture in which it was written, he somehow understood it.

It didn't take long for Lith to understand the technique as he had previously read many dual cultivation manuals in search of finding a solution to the Ying Yan Vīrya Sutra.

Lith dropped the book down on the ground and put the jar down on as well. He sat in front of it in a lotus position and opening the lid, he focused on the juices and started feeling the energy around him.

Yin essence could be absorbed in the same way as elemental energies. Although instead of having it nourish your whole body, you have to channel it appropriately in the right places of the body which act as gates and have it pass into the Magic Core.

After passing in the Magic Core, it'll get absorbed by it, eventually helping in cultivation.

The time needed to brew tea wasn't a lot and in just the first try of absorbing the Yin, Lith felt great pressure on him.

Emilia's Yin essence was that of an Emperor Rank. She was many realms above him and it was really difficult to absorb it.

Any mistake on Lith's part and his body may get blown by the energy. Thus, Lith had to be really careful.

Except for elemental energies, other sorts of energies could only be absorbed through gates present on the body.

These gates were imaginary and were simply specific areas where there was an opening that could let energies get absorbed.

Lith was a highly trained individual and was trained by nothing but the best people. He thus didn't immediately get blown into a thousand pieces.

The tea brewed and Lith struggled a lot but managed to absorb a strand of Yin energy.

Finally, when the teapot made a whistling noise, the tea finished brewing and the time was up.

The jar that was filled one-fourth with Emilia's juices, it was only slightly lowered as Lith didn't manage to absorb a lot of it.

But whatever he managed to absorb, it made Lith feel rejuvenated.

Lith felt a cool sensation all over his body.

Lith got up and put the jar in his ring. His wife's precious Yin essence was not something he was going to waste.

'I'll absorb it later. That manual was good.' Lith thought to himself.

He then went close to Emilia and stood beside her, expecting the voice to appear again and give further instructions.

But...

A few while later, he didn't hear the voice but light claps.

Looking towards the source, Lith saw a shadowy figure walk close towards him.

"Congratulations on passing." It was a shrill demonic voice and when the figure opened his mouth to speak, his insides of the mouth appeared bloody red.

Emilia became really alerted as she saw that figure. She stood in front of Lith and guarding him, said to that figure,

"Who are you?"

The figure laughed demonically and said in a deep voice, "little girl... your courage is admirable."

Emilia knitted her brows as she looked at him.

As for Lith, he walked beside Emilia and looked at the figure.

Emilia, noticing Lith not staying behind her, was about to tell him to be back, when she saw he gestured her to stop what she was doing.

Emilia wanted to say this was a dangerous situation but noticed that Lith had something to say to the figure and stopped.

Lith, looking at the figure, asked calmly, "You are... the remnant will?"

As the figure heard it, he started laughing, sending chills in Lith and Emilia's body.

Though both controlled themselves and didn't falter.

"A smart one, aren't you? Good, good. I like such people." The figure said.

The figure then walked towards Lith and as it neared him, he saw that it was around three meters tall.

The figure then bent down to see Lith in the eyes and smiled, showing his sharp black teeth and his bloody mouth.

"Welcome to the final trial."

"It's a really simple trial. All you need to do is just one thing and you'll get the entire inheritance."

Lith felt suspicious of this guy. Dealing with demons meant there being consequences for every little thing.

Although he didn't know whether the person in front was a demon or not, it was better to be on guard.

Lith didn't flinch when the figure came so close and said that. Instead, he asked calmly,

"...and that is?"

The figure smiled widely and pointing towards Emilia and turning his head to look at her, said,

"Kill her."

Chapter 517 In A Cliche Situation

"Kill her."

Hearing that brought out no reaction from Lith and he didn't budge even in the slightest.

The reason being, he expected some bullshit like this to happen in some or the other trial. He had read many stories about such things happening in inheritance trials in his world.

His world had the internet, there were many blogs and many people shared their experiences and opinions.

Usually if a trial has more than a single person attempting it, there would be situations where a person could die.

Feeling that this situation was just a cliché one, Lith felt it was better to stop here.

'At the end, it was all for naught. Welp, at least I got to spend some quality time with Emmy.'

Lith turned towards Emilia and walked close to her calmly.

The shadow had a big evil smile on his face as he anticipated Lith's response.

Usually at this point, the ones who didn't want to kill their partners would falter and the ones who could kill their partner, they would do it calmly without thinking much.

Lith appeared to be from a group of the latter half and he was excited to see some bloodshed.

As Lith neared her so calmly, Emilia closed her eyes and clenched her fists. She was ready for it.

She was ready to do anything for her husband's betterment, even if it meant getting killed.

So what if they hadn't been together for too long? She was now married and she loved Lith to death! Getting killed by his hands may probably be the sweetest death she could have.

Emilia's body shivered as she realised she may not really get to spend any more time with her husband. But she controlled herself and steeled herself from breaking down.

She was ready to get killed by Lith.

'Lith... I hope I find you again in the afterlife, if there is any...' Emilia thought to herself and shivered further.

What hurt her the most wasn't the fact that she would die. It was the fact that everything was now coming to an end and she wouldn't be with her beloved again.

A drop of tear fell down her eyes and as she felt Lith's approaching footsteps, the memories of her with Lith started flashing in her mind.

She was almost about to break down and was hoping everything ended soon so that she wouldn't need to suffer more.

Her body shook, her hands trembled, her nails dug in so deep in her palms that blood was oozing out of it and Emilia just stood there, awaiting her death.

She was the Angel of War, it wasn't a surprise that she had such courage in her to even get sacrificed.

A few seconds passed and the trembling Emilia was done having a flashback of her life with Lith.

But even then, she didn't feel that she had died.

Not understanding what was happening, she opened her eyes to look at the front, only to see Lith slightly bending down and staring at her face with a surprised expression.

Lith was 195 cm tall and Emilia was 185 cm. He had to bend down a bit to look her in the eyes.

Noticing Lith's expression, Emilia was greatly confused.

"I didn't die? Or did I die and this is the after life?" She couldn't help but blurt out.

"What are you even saying?" Lith couldn't help but ask. What was going on in Emilia's mind, he wondered.

"Huh?" Emilia was genuinely confused and looked around, to see if she was in heaven or something after her death, only to see herself being in the trial.

"Did I get reincarnated in this place again?" The confused Emilia let out even more confusing statements, confusing not only herself but Lith standing in front of her as well.

Lith flicked Emilia's forehead, letting her yelp in surprise and holding her face, he said,

"Look at me... why do you think you're dead?"

Emilia blinked in confusion and after staring at Lith for a good few seconds, asked,

"You didn't kill me?"

"Why would I do that? What the fuck!?" Lith was genuinely surprised to hear that.

"What..." Now Emilia was surprised. Why didn't he kill her?

Lith knitted his brows pulling both of Emilia's cheeks, he said, "what's going on in that brain of yours?"

He then shook her face while continuing to pinch her cheeks and continued, "are you perhaps low on sugar that's causing your brain to not function and you becoming stupid?"

"Owf, leff go!" Emilia tried to swat Lith's hand away from her face.

After letting go of her, Lith pulled her in his embrace and raising her face to look at him, he said seriously,

"I don't know what you thought, but I'll only say this:"

"Don't ever have those thoughts again."

Emilia continued to stare at Lith, genuinely being stupefied by the current situation.

Lith, looking at her confused face and then her red cheeks, smiled. He was proud of making that innocent face of hers red due to his pinching.

He kissed Emilia's forehead and said, "This isn't a dream nor is this the afterlife and neither have you reincarnated."

"It's the present. I simply walked towards you to say we should leave this place, but I saw you tremble and get sentimental for no reason."

"Sigh... why would you think I'll kill you for something so stupid as this trial?"

"You dare call this trial stupid, mere immortal!?" The shadowy figure screeched from the side, his voice deep, his aura scary, and him appearing really demonic.

Lith turned to look at him as he heard that, his eyes changing shades from purple to deep crimson, and with a cold glint in them, he said,

"Quiet."

He then turned back to look at Emilia, his face being the jolly Lith again, his eyes returning back to his purple color and him looking at her face with a smile.

"Yeah so as I was saying—"

Before Lith could have his moment with Emilia, the shadow let out a loud demonic screech and interrupted him.

It was so loud that Lith felt his ears bleed and he felt some suffocation due to it.

Lith turned to look at the shadow again, only to see it raise its head up and continue screeching.

The shadow then looked at Lith and yelled while showing its bloody mouth,

"YOU DARE ORDER ME!?"

Chapter 518 Not Faltering

The shadow's yell caused the entire room to shake and it brought such great pressure that Lith felt his knees tremble and he was about to kneel down at any moment.

But Lith didn't falter and calmly looked at the guy, despite feeling great pain all over his body.

The shadow then walked towards Lith with great strides, increasing the pressure on Lith with each step.

Lith's legs finally gave in as he couldn't handle the pressure and was about to kneel when Emilia rushed to support him and didn't let him fall.

"Are you okay?" She asked with visible worry on her face.

Before Lith could reply, the shadow distanced Emilia from Lith and sealed her movements in one place. She couldn't even speak now and stood still like a statue.

Being in great pain, Lith still managed to look up towards the shadow coming towards him. His corner of the mouth was bleeding, his ears were bleeding and his eyes seemed like such a situation would happen with them as well pretty soon. On top of the pain, Lith felt highly suffocated.

The pressure on Lith was equivalent to a mortal being under a kiloton rock.

The shadow soon reached in front of Lith and looking down in his eyes, he said with a big bloody smile,

"Did you think I couldn't do anything to you?"

Lith was calm even in such a helpless situation and even if the being in front appeared really terrifying.

Lith replied flatly, even under immense pressure, "No."

The shadow's smile changed into a frown and he said with surprise, "what?"

He lowered the pressure on Lith a bit to let him speak more properly.

Feeling that he could speak a bit, Lith continued, "trials are dangerous. Do you think I am a fool to jump in without taking precautions?"

The shadow was confused now. "You think you, a mere immortal, can prepare measures against a God?"

"You're a God?" Lith asked, catching something interesting in this conversation.

"I am." The shadow replied without hesitation. "So do you think I don't have the ability to see past your tricks?"

The shadow bent down and plucked out one of Lith's fangs and showed it to him.

"Poison to kill yourself? You wanted to get killed by your own hands and not mine?"

"None of your business." Lith answered.

The shadow crushed the fang and said, "a cocky one, aren't you?"

Lith didn't reply.

The shadow made a creepy smile again and squatting down and getting to Lith's eye level, said in his deep voice while holding his hair,

"I can kill you and your partner there with just a snap of my finger. Even if I am a remnant will, I am far stronger than you can imagine."

"How does it feel? Still cocky now knowing your death can occur at any moment?"

Lith once again didn't answer and looked at the shadow calmly, without showing any emotion.

The shadow was surprised by Lith's calmness and to make him unable to stay in such a position for long, he unleashed his terrifying black aura all around Lith and the atmosphere became pitch black.

In front of Lith were two demonic red eyes and a creepy smile.

Despite feeling afraid in his heart for some reason and having his whole body tremble, Lith still didn't falter and stayed calm.

A few moments passed and the shadow was now genuinely surprised.

In front of a genuine God's aura, even the most powerful beings would get scared and prostrate. How was a mere Saint Rank not even showing any signs of fear? The shadow couldn't understand.

The shadow kept putting pressure on Lith and caused Lith to fully lay flat on the ground and bleed from his seven orifices.

But Lith was as calm as a still lake even in such a predicament.

Soon, the shadow slightly lowered the pressure and picking up Lith via his hair, he asked looking him in the eyes,

"Do you not fear death?"

Lith looked at him with his blood covered face, "No."

His eyes were calm, his demeanour was serious, and he appeared neutral in his expression, not showing any hate or fear towards the shadow.

"If you don't fear yourself dying, how about I kill your partner?" The shadow asked.

Lith didn't answer this question and kept his calm.

The shadow then said, "what would you do if I seal you in this place and torture your partner in front of your very own eyes for eternity?"

Lith looked straight at the shadow in his eyes and said calmly, "Repay the favour a million fold times."

The shadow's smile widened. "Do you think you have the power to?"

"No. I am currently powerless and have no control of this situation. But if I survive this, I'll do as I said. If I don't, then I'll blame myself for being powerless and coming here." Lith said without a trace of emotions.

"So you're giving up?" The shadow asked.

"I am not. If I get even a small opportunity, I'll ensure to give you a torture of your lifetime."

"..."

The shadow really had no idea what to say to such statements. It was its first time coming across such a mad person.

Even after so many threats, so much pressure, and even after letting out its entire godly aura, Lith showed no signs of struggle. He didn't beg to be saved, he didn't show anger, he didn't cry, he wasn't afraid, and he apparently didn't even care!

Lith simply...

Accepted.

The shadow could tell Lith accepted his situation. He saw him not giving up, but he also saw him not make any pointless struggle and stay calm.

If Lith hadn't accepted his situation, and like other people, had he tried his very best to shout, scream, and break free of his shackle, he would've gone insane due to a spell that was cast in this room and would eventually explode apart and die.

But nothing of such sort happened.

There was not a single person who showed a behaviour like Lith and no one had ever been this calm throughout.

Not to mention, the godly aura the shadow released, it would cause the people to become unconscious but Lith wasn't affected even in the slightest by it.

This felt really interesting to him and the shadow was impressed.

He took away all the pressure from Lith and the surrounding and made Lith get up.

He also ensured to give a clean up to Lith, to not make him appear all bloody and after restoring Lith's fang, he appeared in front of him and placing his index finger on Lith's forehead, he said in a deep voice,

"An interesting fellow."

Chapter 519 Grand Lust Sovereign

Lith, noticing he was free and had no pressure, turned to look behind him to check up on Emilia, only to see her stand and look at him with a smiley face.

'Why is she smiling?' Lith wondered.

Before Lith could ask her that, the shadow said, "this was a test, stop being so surprised. She wasn't affected in the latter half, just you were."

Lith turned to look at the shadow and said, "I see."

The shadow bent down to match Lith's eye level and peered deep into his amethyst purple eyes.

"Why were you not afraid?"

Before answering, Lith asked, "the trial is over and I passed, right?"

"Yes, you did. Now answer me." The shadow was straight to the point.

Lith shrugged and replied, "Could be because I am a genius."

His mother told him that nothing bad would happen to him even if arrived at this place and explored.

Lith had full trust in her and even though the shadow gave so many threats and made him struggle so much, Lith knew what the outcome would be and he was a hundred percent sure no harm would come to him or Emilia.

Thus, even in the worst of situations, he wasn't afraid.

It took great courage to be like that. If the shadow knew about it, he would scream in utter surprise.

Being able to fend off against a god's aura, not being terrified by a godly demon, that really required some balls of steel and almost no one had the ability to do that.

Lith however became an exception to it and it was really surprising.

But of course, neither the shadow knew about it nor did Lith.

"As cocky as before." The shadow shook its head. "Anyway, congratulations, you have completed the whole trial. Come with me."

The shadow started walking towards a certain place after saying so.

Emilia closed in on Lith and reaching him, she kissed his cheek and said happily,

"You were really courageous there. I am really very impressed."

Lith smiled and said, "it's nothing. Anyway, are you okay? Did he do something to you?"

Emilia shook her head. "After I was pulled away from you, I momentarily had my movement sealed. But after that, when you lay flat on the ground, I was freed and told that this is a test and to not worry, shout, or rush towards you and disturb you."

"Ah, I see." Lith nodded. Thankfully nothing happened to Emilia.

"Anyway, let's go get the inheritance now." Emilia held Lith's hand and pulled it.

"Wait. Before that, tell me, what had happened to you to shake so much and ask about death?" Lith asked the important question.

Emilia froze hearing that. No way in heavens was she going to say why that had happened. It was too embarrassing!

"Let's go, we shouldn't waste time!" Emilia pulled Lith, using a bit of her Emperor Rank power, and dragged him to get him his reward.

Looking at his wife suck at properly changing topics, Lith could only smile and shake his head.

He went to the other room with her and finally when he reached, he saw the shadow sit on a mighty throne and look down at Lith.

Lith was in a grand hall with there being two rows of pillar at his each side. The pillars seemed endless to Lith and above them were crowns.

The shadow held a giant longsword in his hand and was sitting domineeringly on the throne, looking at Lith.

The shadow, noticing Lith arrive, said in a deep and manly voice,

"Welcome to the throne room."

The shadow then continued, "though this is not the actual throne room but just a glimpse of it. The real one is far more grandiose."

"You must be wondering who I am and whose inheritance this is, right?"

Lith shrugged and said, "I mean... I don't really care. I only just came here because my mother asked me to."

"..."

The shadow didn't know what to say.

"Brat, are you trying to offend a God? If yes, I can very well kill you here."

Lith smiled and didn't speak further.

Emilia at the side pinched his abdomen and whispered in his ear, "why must you say something like that..."

Lith chuckled and didn't answer.

The shadow continued, "Anyway, let me introduce myself. I am a remnant will. The one and only will of..."

"The Grand Lust Sovereign."

The shadow took a pause to wait and see the shocked faces of Lith and Emilia, only to see them appear uninterested and confused.

"..."

"The Grand Lust Sovereign!" The shadow exclaimed again.

Still he saw the same reaction from both.

He got up from his throne and said pointing his sword towards them, "You two, what is wrong with you? Why aren't you surprised?"

"Why would we?" Lith questioned without feeling afraid.

"Do you not know who the sovereign is!?" The shadow was now surprised.

"No." Lith said flatly.

The shadow was shocked and he wondered what sort of backwaters did these people come from.

"You seriously do not know who the infamous dual cultivator is?"

"Yeah we don't, what of it? Get to the point." Lith clicked his tongue and urged the guy to not waste time.

The shadow, instead of feeling more shocked, now felt pity.

To him, it seemed as if he had encountered some country bumpkins and also he felt pity for the sovereign who must've thought that some person who highly revered him would take his inheritance.

Not only that, he also could tell that the sovereign was expecting the person who took the inheritance to be really grateful to him.

The shadow thought to himself, 'Tsk, my real self would be so disappointed like me right now if he got to know the truth. It's such a pity that such a difficult trial was designed and no person who actually knew me cleared it.'

'But whatever, the two bumpkins down there cleared the trials and I have to do what I must do.'

The shadow jumped down from the throne and reaching in front of Lith, he said,

"Before I kick you out of here by giving you your reward, I am going to explain to you two bumpkins who the sovereign, aka my original self, is."

"I am the universe's most feared handsome man. People aren't scared because I might kill them, but they are scared to have their wives come in front of me."

"I am the number one dual cultivator, Grand Lust Sovereign. I have achieved many things in life but currently I might probably be in seclusion somewhere and dozing off for a hundred thousand years or something."

"Anyway, a glimpse of my achievements can be seen on the pillars. You see those crowns? Do you know what they are?"

Lith didn't answer but Emilia shook her, slightly interested in knowing this story.

The shadow made a big smile and answered, "they're all the kings who I put a green hat on. Amazing isn't it?"

"Green hat?" Emilia didn't understand and asked.

"Huh?" The shadow was confused.

As for Lith, he showed no emotion on the surface but internally thought to himself, 'Holy shit! That's fucking impressive!'

But his thoughts were soon interrupted when Emilia asked again, "what's a green hat?"

The shadow, listening to that, frowned hard and couldn't help but say,

"Seriously, from what backwaters did you two bumpkins come from!?"

So many achievements and such a massive feat, but these two didn't even show a slight amused expression.

If the real person was here, the will could only wonder what he would have felt.

Lith looked at Emilia and holding her hand, he rubbed the back of it and said,

"Do you want to get corrupted with bad words, my love? Last time I told you that many people use toys to pleasure themselves and also showed you the pictures, you almost ended up puking when you saw a lady insert it in her. You want something to happen again?"

Emilia knitted her brows as she heard that. Her body shivered as she recalled that video and said, "I am good, thanks. I don't want to know."

Lith chuckled. He then turned to the shadow and said, "can you just give the rewards now and let us go?"

The shadow sighed. 'I think it's due to the accumulation of the curses my original self got from all those husbands that he has such bad luck.'

Giving the inheritance to Lith and Emilia, the shadow felt great pity. But whatever, his job would end now and he could get assimilated once again with the original body.

The shadow placed his index finger on Lith's glabella and said,

"It might knock you out, so brace yourself, bumpkin."

Saying so, he pushed Lith slightly, making his vision darken and get unconscious, eventually having his body fall downwards.

But Emilia caught him in her arms and looked at the shadow.

The shadow looked back and said, "Don't worry, in no way would I derive pleasure or have interest in killing two idiots like you. He'll be awake in a while and probably jump in joy knowing how good the reward is."

"Anyway, shouldn't you give him a lap pillow now that he's unconscious? Aren't you his wife?"

Emilia blushed slightly as she heard that. She didn't like being asked such questions by a stranger but the idea of having her husband in her lap wasn't so bad.

Emilia did as she was asked and having Lith rest on her lap, she played with his hair and waited for him to wake up.

The shadow went back to its throne and got back to cursing his main body for having such dogshit luck.

"Mhfm." Lith's body jerked and he let out a groan.

Emilia was surprised to see Lith suddenly jerk like this. She carefully checked him to see if he wasn't hurt somewhere.

Emilia did feel a sudden Lightning energy fluctuation in Lith's body and wondered if something happened to him internally.

She placed her hand on his forehead to check if he was okay and after a bit of analysis, he was fine in her opinion.

"Did he wake up?" The deep voice of the shadow resonated in the hall as he asked Emilia that.

Emilia looked at him and shook her head.

"Tsk. What's taking so long? He better hurry up, I have things to do and need to leave."

Emilia continued to watch over Lith and ignored the shadow, who was blabbering who knows what on his throne.

Lith's consciousness was now awake and he was in a lucid dream-like state.

In front of his eyes was a blue screen with white words on it and he also could hear a mechanical voice saying out loud the same things on the screen.

"System?" Lith wondered as he looked at the screen.

He tried to touch the screen with his hand and realised he could do it.

Just as he did...

Lith looked at the screen curiously and it appeared a lot like a computer.

Lith selected status and the screen in front of him changed and a lot of words immediately appeared on it, surprising him. There was also the mechanical voice reading it.

Looking at all those things surprised Lith greatly.

As he went through it, he could see how much he has progressed in elemental energies and noticing the 0.001% in Light, Lith felt slightly embarrassed.

If Emilia knew he sucked so bad at it, Lith couldn't imagine what would happen.

As he went further down the list, he became more and more surprised until he finally became shocked when he saw the problems in his body.

'This thing detected that I can't cultivate. Amazing.' He thought to himself.

The more he looked at the screen, the more it felt that this system was basically there acting as a progress tracker. Other than that, he didn't see much use of it.

'Or maybe this just feels like a progress tracker at first glance but has some usefulness in it? I mean... I did see a shop option though.'

Lith started fiddling around with the system as he thought of that to explore more of it, completely forgetting the place he was in.

*

A few minutes passed and noticing Lith had still not woken up, the shadow became really annoyed and got up from its throne to walk towards him.

Lith was lying on Emilia's lap and getting close to her, he asked,

"What's wrong with him? Why hasn't he woken up?"

Emilia looked at him and shrugged. She didn't know it herself.

The shadow clicked his tongue and said, "I for sure know he must've gotten lost in his reward. Tsk, that's what happens when a bumpkin comes across something remotely new."

He then grabbed Lith by his collar and forcefully took him away from Emilia, surprising her and also angering her.

But before Emilia could react or do anything, he slapped Lith and jolted him awake.

When Lith was awake, he let go of his collar and dropped him down on the ground.

Lith felt a sting on his cheeks but having a high tolerance to pain, this was nothing.

He looked at the shadow, only to see him making an annoyed smile.

"You sure took your time, brat." The shadow cursed.

Lith shrugged. "I was just curious."

"What use is being curious? It's not like you'll know anything about it without my explanation." The shadow said with a haughty expression.

Although he was acting a bit arrogant, that was the truth at the end of the day and Lith didn't feel annoyed by it. Instead, he asked the guy,

"So...?"

"What?" The shadow questioned.

"Aren't you going to explain?" Lith asked again.

"Ah... right." The shadow then sighed after knowing he had to give a big explanation.

'Seriously... what sort of idiots with little to no information fell in my hands today. Even the ones in the most backwards of place should know what it means to have a system.'

'Whatever... I'll quickly explain and leave, lest I get corrupted by their stupidity.'

The shadow then looked at Lith and Emilia and said,

"That thing you have right now, it's mine. It just randomly came to me one day when my main body was probably almost on the brink of death somewhere."

"And no. Before you bumpkins decide to get in such a near death state, it doesn't occur like that. How it actually comes to you is..."

The shadow began with his explanation and Lith and Emilia both listened intently.

So apparently when a world is on the brink of destruction, the world spirit in it would set up everything into a system and send it to the star master of the world, if there is any, and ensure their proper reincarnation.

Each world spirit have their own reasons to do such a thing and in case they don't prefer the star master, they would give it to the strongest person in their own world or to someone they see fit in their own world.

But, if someone doesn't see this fit as well, they would find the best candidate elsewhere. But there's a time constraint and there's also many such restrictions and reasons due to which it couldn't be given to any person.

One of the many restrictions was that it could only be given to a person who's on the verge of death.

Grand Lust Sovereign, for obvious reasons, was being hunted and was on the verge of death somewhere. The world spirit came to him and finding that the Sovereign apparently wouldn't die or reincarnate and having no choice left, decided to simply ask for help in return of partially healing him.

The sovereign was healed and the system asked him to find an inheritor for itself.

When asked why, the world spirit simply said that it had attachments to the people of that world and if possible, he wanted to see their reincarnations and meet them again.

The Grand Lust Sovereign didn't ask further about it and decided to do as asked by the system.

To find an inheritor wasn't easy and he also wasn't going to make things easy for people.

Getting a system was a big deal since one would have access to endless resources.

How was it endless? It was of course because of the world spirit.

There were a lot of worlds getting destroyed and a lot of systems coming into existence. Each system would have their world's world spirit's will inside it that, although wouldn't be alive, could communicate well with others and do a lot of things such as trade and what not.

For this sole reason, finding anything in a system wasn't difficult and it was also in high demand.

If the sovereign was a newbie cultivator, he would've never let go of such an opportunity but he was in the God realm and having a system wasn't something that mattered to him since he had basically everything he wanted or could get it from anywhere as well on his own.

But still, people would kill to have a system and due to this, if someone was found to have one, a lot of bloodshed would occur until it is fully extracted from that person.

The world spirit's were also smart and they wouldn't reveal the location of the other systems. Every communication was done with great precaution and the spirits would also limit themselves from doing trades, lest they get caught by some vile person.

Understanding this explanation made Lith and Emilia both have an endless amount of questions in their head.

After everything was explained, Lith couldn't help but ask the shadow, "What's a world spirit?"
