

Virginity 1061

Chapter 1061: No need to remember you.

He began to have more customers at the restaurant in the middle of the day.

Maybe it had spread too fast on the Internet, a lot of people had come for Manuel. There were also some influencers who had heard that a new restaurant had opened and that there was a nice waiter, so they had wanted to come and take pictures and increase their influence.

Who knew they would see a no-photographing sign hanging in the restaurant after they arrived.

If they had taken photos without their permission, they could have been subjected to privacy violation complaints.

Now many influencers liked to take live videos, plus there were many included all passersby in the video without low limit. Maybe they were just a proforma, but some were able to denigrate passersby, they also used passersby.

For example, like Manuel this time.

If Anna had not stopped them, Manuel's photos would have been put on the Internet. He would not have a quiet life in the future.

That's why everyone had felt desperate when they heard that he was not allowed to take photos. But in the end, they were still convinced by Manuel's good looks and the taste of spaghetti.

At the same time, in a six-star hotel room.

Two men sat opposite, there were only the two of them in the luxurious room, it seemed too empty, but the auras they both wore filled the void.

Marcello poured himself half a glass of alcohol, took it in his hand and shook it lightly. The shadow illuminated by the light on the glass made him a little distracted. He merely looked at it without drinking it.

After a while he said, "That girl's restaurant has opened, aren't you going to see it?"

The person in front of him stopped his chopsticks once and was back to normal in no time.

-Is this what you meant by meeting me today?

Matteo looked up, his indifferent gaze fell on Marcello's face.

A good serious friend, calm and controlled as always, he looked like a saint without feeling or desire. If it were not for the things he had scolded him for earlier, Marcello would have really believed him.

But now, Marcello knew the secret of the bottom of Matthew's heart without meaning to. His life was boring, now he had discovered a little secret from his good friend, plus his friend appreciated that he did not want to admit it.

This point had really renewed Marcello's interest.

-Just to remind you that you owe me a favor.

-He replied jokingly, wearing a smile with many meanings at the corners of his mouth as he brought the glass to his lips, lightly sipping the alcohol.

Matthew frowned.

-Did you come with the driver?

-No.

-Don't say I don't worry about you, you are not allowed to drive after drinking alcohol.

Marcello continued drinking the alcohol slowly, -I haven't lost my memory, no need to remind me.

Hearing this, Matteo frowned further.

-How, you owe me such a big favor, what if I need you as a driver afterwards?

Again, this was a favor.

Matteo's stomach hurt to hear this word. But he still reached out to pinch the center of his eyebrows and lowered his eyes, eating his food.

Marcello was not so boring, if he repeatedly reminded him that he owed him a favor, it was only to joke with him. However, they had been good friends for so many years, it was the first time he asked him for a favor.

Besides, it was for a girl.

Marcello saw him calmly, drank all the alcohol in the glass satisfactorily. He filled another glass slowly, shaking it slightly.

-Speak.

Matthew's action did not change, nor did he respond to him.

Marcello continued, -Why, you don't want to say it? Okay, I'm not forcing you, so why don't you tell me if you like this girl?

Matteo looked up at him unpleasantly.

-Since when did you become so nosy?

-Boredom, you also know I have nothing to do every day now, so I can be a gossip.

When he heard this, Matteo curled his lips, he had known Marcello for a long time, there had been a time when Marcello wanted to die for a woman, he didn't know how he had dissuaded this brother.

Then Marcello had lost his way, he had left the company without management, he had fallen day by day.

Fortunately, his family's background, ability and capital were strong, so even though he had lost his way, he had not damaged the company.

But the company had been bankrupt for a long time.

-Turn back to running the company if you are bored.

-No, running the company is boring, it's more interesting to talk about gossip.

Although Marcello was laughing, the smile did not reach the back of his eyes. Matteo knew that the wounds in his heart would not heal so quickly, he said no more. After that, no matter what Marcello said, Matteo did not listen to him.

Then Marcello drank the alcohol until Matteo held him back.

-That's all for today, I'll ask the driver to take you home.

Having said that, Matteo got up and put on his suit jacket.

Although Marcello drank a lot of alcohol, his conscience was clear. After his wife's death, he had been drinking to the point of being skin and bones for a long time. He anesthetized himself with alcohol every day.

At first, his drinking ability was not good, alcohol could have the function of anesthesia.

But day after day, year after year, alcohol could no longer anesthetize him. Drinking alcohol was like drinking water for Marcello.

Of course, he was only referring to the mental aspect.

Alcohol had done a lot of damage to his body, especially to his stomach.

It was impossible to count the number of times Marcello had gone to the hospital for drinking alcohol.

Each time, he had contributed a lot to the treatment, but he had never been able to stop drinking.

He wanted to keep his dead wife company, but he also appreciated life.

Just because his life had been exchanged for his wife's.

It had always been difficult to look back, Marcello also stood up.

-Ok, let's go. Only if our Lord Matthew serves me as a driver. Well, you can't refuse me where I want to go.

Marcello had planned well in his heart.

Matteo opened the door with a dark face.

The two of them entered the elevator together and then drove the car.

The driver was waiting for Matteo at the bottom of the stairs.

-Sir Matteo.

-Come back first with my car and pick me up later.

-Yes, Mr. Matteo.

The driver left quickly after receiving Matteo's order. Marcello took out the key and gave it to Matteo, and the two got into the car.

-Let's go, take me to the girl's place to see.

Once in the car, Marcello slumped into the passenger seat, looking drunk, but what he had said was super lucid.

Matteo stopped his action for a moment, looked at Marcello from the side of his head.

Marcello looked at him with a laugh.

-What, you don't dare to go?

Matteo half-closed his thin lips, his beard was taut and his face colder.

-You are a mature man and you are still afraid to see a little girl? Matteo, I've known you for so many years, how come I don't know you still have the moments to be such a coward?

Marcello teased him.

Matteo's face appeared cold under the illumination of the car's dim lights.

-The favor I owe you, I will return it, but that is not the reason to joke with me. Marcello, even if you want to make the joke last, you must have a limit.

-Oh, you're angry," Marcello shook his head hopelessly, "I'm really afraid. But I, Marcello, am lucky to be able to see my good friend's appearance like this. What do you think she will think if I tell her it was you who asked me to do this thing?

Chapter 1062: How dare I be quiet.

There was a sudden silence in the car.

It seemed that Marcello wanted to fight Matteo to the end. He had said the serious words on purpose, yet he had forced Matteo.

After a while, Matteo took out his cell phone and began to make a call.

Marcello narrowed his eyes, "What are you doing?"

-I'm calling a driver for you.

Marcello was stunned and lost his smile, -Is this really necessary, it's not just a joke, have you noticed how you act on your sore spots?

Matteo ignored him, the call had already been made. Marcello was left hopeless by what he saw, he reached out his hand to press the screen.

-This is it, okay? I have a headache, let's go home.

Matteo turned his head, looked at him with an indifferent face, his eyes were dark.

-Remember you still owe me a favor, I'll ask you next time. -Marcello picked up his hand after saying this, closed his eyes and leaned back in his seat looking very tired.

Matteo saw that his friend was not feeling very well, did not even continue to argue with him, put his cell phone away and drove.

As dusk came, the sky had also gradually turned black. There were more customers at lunchtime.

Anna did not think the business was so successful for the first day. She had not been able to eat anything because of the all-day commitment, even the two employees were super busy.

Amelia and Giancarlo had also stayed behind to help.

Serena was pregnant, everyone dared not ask her to do anything. She hadn't bothered either, doing nothing didn't mean she didn't make someone else help.

She pushed Cristian who was standing next to her.

-It looks like the place is too full...will you help them serve the dishes?

Cristian, who had been pushed, twisted the corners of his mouth, -Serving dishes?

It seemed he couldn't believe what he had heard, even though Serena had said it, but-let them serve the dishes.

Cristian looked closely at Serena, questions in his eyes.

Unfortunately, Serena didn't quite understand. When they found themselves looking at each other,

Serena blinked innocently: -Go away.

Cristian twisted the corners of his mouth, Giancarlo who was close to see the situation, said laughing hastily, -Hahaha, Mrs. Serena, you made a great joke, the arrival of Mr. Cristian and Mrs. Serena is already an honor for this restaurant, if you do services in the restaurant....

He dared not think about it, also, how was it possible that Mr. Cristian would serve dishes in the restaurant?

He was the president of a group!

He had never done such things in his whole life.

Serena saw that Cristian was not moving, she also heard what Giancarlo said, maybe she understood him too, she nodded her head, -Well, I'm going.

With that said, Serena stood up.

Cristian saw her get up, took her hand with her eyebrows suddenly furrowed.

She was already four months pregnant, her belly was already evident. But the winter clothes were fat, plus Serena was thin, that's why it wasn't showing.

But even that could not cover the fact that she was pregnant, and the embryo was not stable this time, so Cristian was very worried about her.

He saw that she was about to get up to help them at that moment, Cristian grabbed her wrist and pulled her back, then stood up.

-Stay here.

Serena looked at him unhappily.

The dark depths of Cristian's eyes showed a feeling of deep despair, his voice softened a little: -I'll go.

-E?

-I'll bring the dishes, okay?

Giancarlo, who was standing beside him, was stunned with his mouth suddenly open. The round shape of the mouth could almost contain an egg.

-Okay. -Serena nodded with satisfaction, said quietly, "Well, he will do the work for you, we will help here for a while and go home.

-Okay, wait for me here.

Cristian turned around and went inside.

Once he left, Giancarlo also got up following him, he looked like he was going to stop him, but he was stopped by Serena.

-Giancarlo, let him go, he is busy at the restaurant. It doesn't cost much to help out now.

Giancarlo was very nervous: -How can the president do things like that? He can't, Mrs. Serena, you'd better let me do it....

-Giancarlo! -Serena stopped him, -We are Anna's friends, it's normal that we help her for the restaurant. Besides, it's not the company here, Giancarlo, don't be so pushy, otherwise.... She will also find it very embarrassing.

Serena said so, Giancarlo could not say anything else, he could only nod his head.

Cristian entered the kitchen, Luca was washing dishes, he saw Cristian entering, he was a little surprised, -Mr. Cristian, why are you entering, is there something wrong outside?

Anna also raised her head looking at him when she heard the sound.

Cristian frowned, closed his lips, he seemed to be struggling with something, after a moment, a sentence came out of his weakly closed lips.

-Can I be of any help?

Everyone heard it and faces changed a little.

Anna reacted more quickly, shook her head, -No, no, we'll be done here before long, Mr. Cristian, go keep Serena company.

However, Cristian did not move, he knew there was a need in the restaurant. If he left now, Serena would come and help herself.

She saw him not move, Anna was embarrassed, but she did not know what to say either. Luca looked at Anna, who was still washing the bowls with her head down.

Actually it was the first time he was washing the bowls, he had been by Mr. Cristian's side for a long time, he seemed to be omnipotent, but he was not good at cooking the real things.

But his study skills were strong, even if he could not do it at his best, it was not bad either.

If he had not washed the bowls well the first time, he washed them several times.

At least, he had been entrusted with this work; others could do other things.

But Luca, as of this moment, could not think of what Mr. Cristian could do.

On the contrary, it seemed to him that because of Mr. Cristian's aura, if he continued to stay here, he could influence people here, the rest could not continue to work well.

For example, the two girls who were hired.

Because of Mr. Cristian's appearance, they were looking at him all the time, even their faces were red with embarrassment.

Luca, -...

No one dared to make Cristian work, but Amelia was different. She knew what the couple was talking about then, she understood that Cristian coming in now was because of what Serena had said.

So she was not polite, and called Cristian directly.

-Cristian, if you want to help out, help me serve these noodles at table number 3.

Table number 3?

Cristian took one look, took the tray with a nod, and then turned around with an indifferent face.

-Mom, how can you...

-Oh, don't worry. He's already going, it's your fault for not letting him help with something, why do you think he came?

She had heard him, Anna thought again, as best she could understand him.

Cristian had come in, but Serena had not. It must have been Serena who had let him in.

-Since he wants to help, you be quiet.

-Anna bit her lower lip, still not holding back the corners of her mouth twitching, "How can I be quiet....

Chapter 1063: Memory Recovery (1)

The great president of the Ferrari group came to her small restaurant to serve dishes for her. If it were not for Serena, he would never have thought of this in his whole life.

It seemed that after meeting Serena, all things had become different.

Thinking about this, Anna lowered her eyelids without saying anything.

And at that moment, Luca suddenly said, "You really don't have to worry. Now, Mr. Cristian, listen carefully to Mrs. Serena's words, don't be under pressure at all.

Of course Anna knew that Cristian was doing it for Serena, but it was also for Serena, that her burden was heavier.

-Yes.

She nodded her head and spoke no more.

Luke looked at the side of her face, moved his lips, looked like he wanted to say something, but he was silent again.

Amelia, who was beside him, saw everything that happened, seemed to understand everything.

Soon after, Serena saw a figure come out of the kitchen, took a tray in her hands, on it were two bowls of spaghetti.

She saw this scene, Serena was in suspense, she knew Cristian had come in to give her a hand, but she thought Cristian would only help wash the vegetables in the kitchen, she did not expect him...

He would be serving dishes in the dining room.

Serena blinked, it seemed that the restaurant had more and more customers after that.

The couple's visits were matched by air, Serena clearly saw that the bottom of Cristian's eyes carried little frustration, but besides frustration, there was cuddling.

Very quickly, frustration was replaced by mimicry, he moved his thin lips and said two words to Serena.

There were no sounds, but Serena understood them.

-What is he saying? He's not angry, is he? -Although Serena had calmed Giancarlo down, Giancarlo was still nervous.

That's why from the moment Mr. Cristian had left, his eyes had followed him constantly .

Now he was like the courtier of the old days, and Cristiane was like the emperor.

The emperor had given up his dignity to serve dishes to the daughter of the courtier. This thing was very unreal from all sides. It looked like a dream from how astonished he was.

It looked like Cristian was about to go into a rage a second later.

But when he turned to look at Serena with a smile, it seemed that his frightened heart was healed again.

-It's okay, he doesn't get mad.

Of course, Serena did not tell Giancarlo what Cristian had said just before, she just lowered her head and laughed.

He said nothing, only moved his lips, but Serena understood.

He said to wait for me.

Then Serena heard some shouting coming from the restaurant, heard a little and looked toward the source of the sound.

It was some girls, they could not bear to scream in surprise after seeing Cristian's good looks.

But Cristian had left with an indifferent face after serving the dishes.

-My God, are waiters so handsome now? Is it a sin to be a waiter with such a handsome face?

-You think too much, according to what he brings, he's definitely not a waiter.

-He's not a waiter, so what's he doing here?

-See the logo on his suit? That logo belongs to a famous designer in the country, this dress alone is already expensive, how can he be a waiter? Also, according to his aura, he is probably a big person.

-Why is he serving as a waiter here? -She felt sorry for the girl who asked the question suddenly after knowing how strong Cristian is, -With what you say, he seems to be a big person, I think he is a nice waiter, I think if I can seduce him.

-Oh, what dream do you have, sister? Handsome guys almost all have girlfriends, even if he doesn't have a girlfriend.... Well, he might have a boyfriend.

The girls talked and laughed.

Cristian returned to the kitchen, continuing to serve the dishes. Amelia saw that he was doing the task well and gave it to him, still with a smile on his face.

Because she believed that even though Cristian's face was indifferent, he also wore some words on his forehead, "Don't come near me." The person who had sent him to serve the dishes was not rational.

But-he was handsome!

Moreover, Manuel looked a lot like him, the big one and the little one served dishes together, he was a bright spot in the restaurant.

Then the restaurant business would be more successful.

When Cristian turned around, splinters of images suddenly appeared in his mind.

At the same time, sounds rang close to his ears.

"Serena, I warn you, you are only my assistant in front of people. "

"Helping you is only so you don't embarrass the Ferrari family, understand? "

These words... Cristian frowned, he had obviously said them.

Although it had taken him some time to see many times their past brought by Luca these days, he was also only able to know a general situation. The conversations and details of the two's taking had not yet fully come out. That is why Cristian could only associate a few images and rarely depended on these data.

Also-it was very difficult to remember these images.

Sometimes, a flash point would appear in his mind, several memory splinters would move in his head.

But ... he could not remember everything.

But the sentences of that moment made Cristian covertly startle.

The tone seemed very...

How many too many things had he really done to Serena in the past?

Perhaps because of the trifles, Cristian's aura was cooler. But he had not scared the customers away; on the contrary, he had attracted more attention from the customers. They had also held back their faces after not getting a response to the greeting.

-Oops... he is really handsome, super handsome.... I really like this kind of cocky man with a cold face!

I want to throw myself at him.

Cristian's head hurt, he reached out to pinch the center of his eyebrows as he went down the stairs.

Someone chased him from behind.

-Sir, wait.

Cristian stopped his steps, turned his head looking at that disgruntled person.

The person chasing him was a little girl with a red face, biting her lower lip and looking at Cristian nervously.

-It's just that... My friend wants to add beef noodles, could you place the order for me?

Cristian looked up and said in a cold voice, -Yes.

The girl got the answer, joy appeared in her eyes, -Sir, you are very good, so if you can....

Cristian frowned, many splinters of memory passed in front of his eyes again. Moreover, they were thrown at him at the same time, the headache was increasing.

The girl next door kept talking.

-I... she's really my friend... you seem to be nice, she wants to befriend you, I don't know if we can add Facebook....

-Actually, I'm just... Oh! Sir, it's okay, sir!

Serena and Giancarlo were talking, but suddenly they heard the frightened scream of a girl coming from the second floor.

She was frightened, she did not pick up her glass of tea properly, and the tea burned her red and white hands.

Chapter 1064: Memory Recovery (2)

Giancarlo was frightened as well; he stood up quickly.

-You didn't burn yourself, did you?

Serena looked at the center of her red palm, her heart pounding.

She had an ominous feeling.

Her right was the blind spot, she couldn't see things in the staircase on the second floor, so she didn't know what exactly had happened.

-What had happened on the second floor?

Giancarlo's attention had also been drawn to the sound a while ago, only he had not yet had time to check what had happened-Serena had dropped her tea, that's why Giancarlo's attention had been caught by Serena.

The one sitting across from her was Mrs. Serena, if she had been injured in her daughter's restaurant, what could she have done?

Giancarlo shook his head, "I don't know clearly either, I don't think there is anything wrong. I will check later, but your hand? Do you go inside and wash with water? Or I'll tell Anna to buy some medicine for you.

-I'm fine.

Serena's heart seemed to beat suddenly, although Cristian's appearance seemed normal, she was still worried. Giancarlo was sitting here as she was and knew nothing about the situation. Serena was worried, did nothing to her burned hands and stood up directly.

-Giancarlo, I'm going to check the situation, sit here.

Giancarlo saw that she had a bad face, could only stand up and said, -Good, I'll go with you there.

-All right.

Who knew just got up walking toward the stairs, he heard a girl was shouting.

-Help, somebody help me, a gentleman fainted here.

This sentence struck Serena's heart like a stone hammer. She was very frightened and walked with a quick step. After taking a good look at the scene in front of her, she remained suspended in the same place.

-Mr. Cristian, what happened? Giancarlo began to stutter out of nervousness. Even the color of his old face began to turn white.

Just as Anna came out to serve the dishes, she too heard the sound, -What happened?

When she saw the situation clearly, her beautiful face also turned white, she went to take care of Serena quickly as she took out her cell phone.

-Serena, don't worry, I'll call the ambulance right away.

But Serena pressed his hand and looked toward her, -It will take too long to call the ambulance. Get Luca out and let's go to the hospital right away.

-Ok, I'll call Luca now.

And so Serena, after talking to Anna, climbed the ladder with quick steps to immediately lift Cristian.

The girl helping to hold Cristian looked at Serena with a doubtful look in her eyes.

-Thanks for taking care of him, I'll take care of him now. -Serena went to squat down and supported

Cristian . Cristian's face was very pale, there was a lot of sweat all over his body, the center of his eyebrows were furrowed, it was obvious he was in a lot of pain.

She kept silent, wiped the cold sweat off Cristian's forehead and waited in silence.

Even though her heart was very frightened so much that it felt like it was coming out of her chest.

The girl, who wanted to get to know Cristian recently, saw Serena's actions in silence; she had already understood everything in her heart.

After a while, Luca ran up the stairs, "Mrs. Serena, what's wrong with Mr. Cristian?"

Serena raised her head, her voice was calm.

-Help me put him in the car and let's go to the hospital right away.

-Okay.

Then several people helped support Cristian down the stairs.

Manuel also ran out of the kitchen, when he came out, he saw his father being carried to the car by Luca, he ran quickly with his legs.

-Mom!

Serena heard Manuel's voice, turned her head to look at him and said in a low voice, -Manuel, now I have to take Dad to the hospital, you stay at Aunt Anna's restaurant and don't go anywhere. I'll call you later, okay?

Although Manuel was also very worried, he even wanted to say that he would go too. But he knew that if he was there, Mom would be distracted from looking after him.

Finally Manuel could only nod his head, and obediently say, "Okay, take care of dad, I will wait for your call.

There was an unexpected pause in the restaurant for everyone. Amelia also noticed what happened next. When she came out, they left, then Amelia saw her daughter come back despondent.

-Anna, what happened?

Amelia asked dragging her daughter along.

Anna sadly recounted what had just happened : "I wanted to go with them, but Serena did not agree.

She asked me to stay at the restaurant to take care of business. Do you think so? With what happened, how can I be in the mood? Mom, what am I going to do?

Amelia examined the remaining customers in the restaurant, blinked, -If today was not the first day the restaurant was open, it would not matter if you close it now, but will your spaghetti restaurant business continue in the future if you close it now?

Giancarlo made the decision on the spur of the moment: -Why are you worrying about these things now? Mr. Cristian is in the hospital, but he helped us a lot today. It's okay if we close the restaurant now. If the customers really like it, they won't miss a day or two.

Anna nodded approvingly.

-Mom, that's how I feel too. If I continued to stay here, I would feel really uncomfortable.

Amelia said. There are still so many people in the restaurant, should we kick them out? Giancarlo, can you say something with the whole situation in mind, you worry about your Mr. Cristian going to the hospital, but others don't worry? Do you think I have a heart of stone? More importantly, what role will you play if you go to the hospital now? Serena instructed us to look after Manuel, what does that mean?

You don't mind if we go to help at the hospital, leaving little Manuel there.

-Leave it alone, don't even talk about it if you can't help. There are doctors at the hospital, your wife and assistant are by your side. For our part, we take care of Manuel and hang a plaque at the restaurant. Even though we don't take customers now, we can't throw customers out either.

Anna was already in pain; she had found out that her parents were fighting before her. She felt a pain in her head, shushed them, -Let's do this, let's not get any more customers from now on, let's settle the customers well and take Manuel to the hospital.

It was time, she couldn't do anything about it either.

But she had to go, settled everything in the restaurant and then left.

After dismissing all the customers, Anna removed her apron from her body as she said to Manuel: -

Manuel, it's a little late now, would you rather not go to the hospital with me?

Manuel shook his head, -Aunt Anna, I'm not sleepy.

It was true, his father was in the hospital, Manuel was a smart boy, how was it possible that he could sleep at that hour. Finally he took him to the hospital.

Giancarlo wanted to go with them, but he was turned away by Amelia.

-You just left the hospital today, you don't move freely, what can you do by going with them? Your daughter has to look after you if you go to the hospital, won't you be a nuisance?

Chapter 1065: 24-hour observation

Giancarlo had a displeased expression at what Amelia had said.

-Why does my daughter have to look after me if I go to the hospital? Something so serious has happened to Mr. Cristian, how is it possible that I don't visit him?

-Stop, let your daughter go, you will cause her trouble if you go.

Giancarlo waved his hands in discontent, he wanted to fight for himself, but he had no choice with Amelia.

Anna heard him next door and persuaded him in a low voice.

-Dad, mom is right. It is not convenient to go alone so late, I should also find a moment to take you home. It would be a hassle the round trip. If you really worry about Mr. Cristian, wait until tomorrow. Get a good rest tonight and go to the hospital tomorrow to visit him.

Having said that, Anna ignored the two elders, picked up her bag and Manuel.

-Thank you for closing the restaurant for me, I will take Manuel to the hospital now.

Manuel obediently turned his hand over to Giancarlo and Amelia.

Anna finished walking out the door of the restaurant and hailed a cab. She did not expect a familiar figure to appear before her.

-Luca, what are you doing here?

Weren't you in the hospital just now?

Luca heard the sound, turned his head, and a warm smile appeared on the side of his lips.

-I know you're worried, that's why I came to get you as soon as I had time.

She had said Luca, not you, that's why. This sentence didn't give Anna any pressure, plus now she was also in a hurry to go to the hospital, but she didn't know which hospital it was.

It was better for someone to take them, there was no need to make a phone call.

-Entry.

After getting into the car, Anna hugged Manuel to her side. The temperature was cold now, even she was afraid of letting Manuel take a chill, she checked on him several times before getting out.

-If you are sleepy, lie on my lap and get some sleep, I will wake you up when we get there.

Manuel rubbed his eyes, -Aunt Anna, I'm not sleepy.

Anna laughed slightly at him and gently rubbed his head, -Good boy.

Then something seemed to happen to her. Suddenly, she quickly raised her head.

-It's not fair, you came here, isn't that how you left Serena alone in the hospital? She's pregnant, how can she...

-I don't do such rash things, Mrs. Serena has company now.

How else had she dared to leave the hospital?

It was because there was someone to take care of Mrs. Serena if Luca dared to leave.

Did she have company?

-Who?

When they had left, there were only the three of them. Luca had left; who else was keeping Serena company there?

One name flashed through her mind, it had to be just him.

Anyway, he had always been very concerned about Serena's things.

Sure enough, Luca, who was moving on after hearing her question, fell silent for a while and slowly began to say.

-Matteo.

Matteo.

This word struck Anna's heart, almost at the same time, she turned her head looking out the window and spoke no more.

She had decided to avoid him, not expecting him. She was going to meet him soon.

But she was now going to see Serena and Mr. Cristian, she didn't care who was there. She just had to pretend that she didn't care at that moment.

For hearing that name, she was silent in the car for a while. Luca regretted that too; he clearly knew that name had a special meaning for her.

Why had she mentioned it?

But-she had asked, he had to say it.

Was it really that important?

This awkward scene lasted until they arrived at the hospital, he stood up after getting out of the car.

-I'll take you upstairs.

*

-Don't worry too much, since the doctor says he's fine, so just take it easy.

In the hospital corridor, Matteo was still comforting his little sister.

Because she was facing Matteo, Serena lifted the corners of her mouth slightly and nodded her head,

"Yes.

Seeing her appearance, Matteo frowned, -You don't need to pretend to be all smiles and smiles in front of your brother.

-Brother, I'm not pretending anything, just worrying about him.

Although the doctor said Cristian had no serious problems, he still needed a 24-hour observation, plus the most important situation now was that it was not known when he would wake up.

Everyone knew what the 24-hour observation meant.

It meant that within 24 hours Cristian's situation could change again, but they did not know what exactly the change was.

It would be good or bad.

Thinking so, Serena closed her eyes and felt very tired.

-So, I'll take you home, tomorrow morning I'll send Mario to pick you up from the hospital.

-No," Serena shook her head, "I want to stay here with him.

-Serena," Matteo called her by name in the most serious tone, "you are pregnant, the weather is cold and he needs to be watched for 24 hours. Do you want to stay here with him for 24 hours?

-Yes.

Serena nodded her head without hesitation, this made Matthew very angry, he wanted to say something, Serena suddenly stood up, -I'm sorry brother, but I can't go home, you don't convince me, I have to go to the bathroom for a moment.

Having said that, Serena went directly into the women's bathroom without turning her head. Even Matthew could no longer follow her, he could only wait for her return by leaning against the wall.

A sound of rapid, clattering footsteps resounded.

Matthew turned his head to the side, three figures appeared at that moment in the empty hallway.

Luke walked in front, Anna held Manuel and followed him. The three walked together like this.

Anna and Luca's shadows met with light and then overlapped.

Watching this scene, Matteo narrowed his dark eyes.

A violence passed through his eyes quickly.

Anna had planned, she was going to look for Serena right after she arrived. She would not wait for Matteo alone in the empty hallway. He who was tall and handsome leaned against the wall, his figure seemed a bit lonely.

She glanced at him and immediately enjoyed the beautiful view. Then he began to look for Serena.

She did not see her, but she did not ask Matteo either.

Manuel standing next to her had a sharp wink, called Matteo, -Uncle.

-Yes,|| Matteo nodded and explained, -Your mother is in the bathroom.

-Uncle, how is my father?

He is still inside, he needs a 24-hour observation.

His voice and tone were indifferent, no humor could be heard.

Luke's eyes crossed Matthew's for a moment, then each shifted. Matteo half-closed his thin lips, no one knew where he was looking.

Then the awkward silence of the car moved into the hallway.

Manuel looked at the three adults in front of him, feeling tired.

Since the last time he had made Aunt Anna sad, he dared not say or do anything without permission.

He used to think he was very smart, but then he realized he didn't understand anything about adult love relationships.

"Oh, naughty Daddy, why had he gone to the hospital again? And he wasn't even here.... "

Chapter 1066: Bringing in the blankets

Fortunately, it did not take long for Serena to return.

Seeing Serena, Anna and Manuel rushed to her and approached.

-Serena.

-Mom.

Serena had not thought she would see them after calming down in the bathroom, so she was a little surprised.

She had assumed that Anna would come here because she already had this plan to come. But Serena had stopped her.

Finally, Anna arrived unexpectedly.

Serena said, "Today is the first day the noodle shop is open, will it be okay if you came here?"

Anna frowned without saying anything.

-Serena, don't talk to me about the start of the business. All that doesn't matter now.

Serena smiled, -Why doesn't it matter? Normally there would be no problem if I came here, but today is

....

-I can find another one if the store has problems. But now you are alone and how could I not come with what happened. We already know Cristian's situation. I will stay with you. Sit down.

Anna pointed to nearby chairs and Serena had only to nod.

The three sat down.

Perhaps because of the special time, Manuel was very quiet. Apart from comforting Serena by stroking her arm, he said nothing.

Luca and Matteo continued to stand on their sides when the three were in the chair. And very soon they were silent.

They did not know when Cristian would wake up or what to do, but it was completely impossible for them to leave now.

Time passed.

Gradually, the temperature seemed to drop.

Anna felt a little cold, but she didn't dare say so. Now what made her worry most was Serena.

At the thought that Serena was pregnant, Anna said, -Serena, I think you might-||.

-Don't tell me anything, I won't come back.

-You misunderstood me. I didn't want to advise you to go back. We have been good friends for many years, don't I know you? I wanted to tell you to book a ward in the nearby hospital, because Cristian will have to stay in the hospital after the medical examination. There will be beds in the hospital ward and you can put yourselves to sleep.

-Mrs. Serena, that's fine with me. You are weak while we are in the coldest season. When it is night, it will be colder. When Mr. Cristian wakes up, if something happens to you, we won't be able to explain it to you.

It was true that it was very cold in the hallway.

When it was night, it was colder.

Although Serena could stand the cold, the baby in her belly could not. Besides, Serena was with Anna and Manuel. She could not let the three who were with her suffer.

Serena nodded, "Well, let's book one.

Since they had asked for a VIP hospital room, the room was self-contained and well equipped. But everyone had not showered because they had not brought clothes.

When Serena entered the room, she turned to Luca and Matteo.

The two men looked at each other and said, "We will stay here, rest well.

Serena nodded and gave them an appreciative look.

-I will bring you a blanket later.

Anna also entered the room.

After the three left, Luke said, -I think I have to go to work tomorrow, leave them in my care.

-No need.

Luca looked at him without saying anything.

Thus, the two stood and watched.

Inside the hospital room, even though the three were lying down, they could not fall asleep. Even though she closed her eyes, Serena was worried about Cristian and was very upset. She was a little sleepy, but when she was about to fall asleep, she dreamed of Cristian lying down in the emergency room and immediately woke up from fright.

Manuel had slept with Anna. More than anything, he wanted to sleep with Serena. Considering that Serena was pregnant and could hurt her, he had chosen to sleep with Anna.

The light was on and Anna and Manuel looked at each other.

Then Anna stroked Manuel's head and said softly, "Go to sleep.

Manuel blinked and looked at her very innocently.

He said nothing, but kept his eyes open.

Anna looked at Serena, felt worried and exhaled.

Anna herself could not fall asleep, and neither could Manuel. She said, "Now. Don't sleep if you don't want to. But sleep when you are sleepy.

Manuel agreed.

As the two looked at each other in silence, suddenly there was a rustling. Anna turned and found that Serena had gotten up.

-Serena?

Anna immediately got out of bed and asked, -What's wrong?

Seeing Anna's concern, Serena had to explain.

-It just occurred to me that Luke and Matthew will be cold in the hallway, so I will bring them a blanket.

Serena had taken two blankets, but Anna stopped her.

-You're lying on the bed and you're not warm enough, let me get them.

-But.

-You're pregnant and you need to take care of yourself. It's very cold outside, what would happen to the baby if it had a cold? Let me take care of it, I'm stronger.

Anna removed the blankets and said to Manuel, -Manuel, take care of your mother. Don't let her go out.

Serena did not know what to say.

She was pregnant, but why did she seem to be treated like a child?

Manuel rose to the order.

Looking at Serena, he said, "Mom, you can't go out.

Although Serena felt bad, what they were doing now made her want to laugh.

In the hallway, Luca and Matteo stood independently. Since Serena and Anna had left, they had not yet sat down.

Anna was surprised to see them still standing.

Didn't they feel tired?

Apart from that, compared to inside the room, it was very cold outside.

A cold wind was blowing and Anna shivered. Luca saw everything and frowned.

-Why did you go out?

-I came to bring you blankets. It's too cold outside. If you feel cold, cover yourself and don't catch cold.

Chapter 1067: There was nowhere to hide.

The two approached, and Luca held out his hand to receive the blankets.

Because of the proximity, Anna could feel Luca's coldness.

Luca accidentally touched Anna's hand when he took the blankets. Compared to Anna's hand, Luca's was like ice.

But Anna's was warm and inviting.

Anna felt a little embarrassed and immediately withdrew her hand. Luca sighed and took the blankets as if nothing had happened.

Anna had brought two blankets to give to both of them. Since she didn't want to talk to Matthew at all, she gave them both directly to Luca to give one to Matthew.

Anna asked curiously, "Do you need hot water?"

Luca looked at her, the thin girl, and turned her down.

-No need. A blanket will do. It's cold at night. Rest first and don't go out again.

After Luca had explained everything, Anna did not know what to say, nodded and left.

From start to finish, Anna had not looked at Matthew or talked to him.

After Anna left, Luke turned toward Matthew, whose profile and gaze were hidden in the shadows. With his mouth closed, Matteo looked serious and strong.

Not knowing what had happened, Luke sensed Matteo's enmity.

Be that as it may, it had nothing to do with Luca.

It was Matteo who rejected Anna.

Considering this, Luca threw the blanket to Matteo.

Matteo caught it impassively.

After throwing him the blanket, Luca said wryly, "Now it doesn't bother you anymore. You have what you wanted.

Actually, Matteo felt jealous, because Anna's attitude had shown that she had not yet forgotten him.

If she no longer cared about Matteo, she could simply hand him the blanket and leave. But she had not said a word to him, which meant she did care about Matteo.

Lately, she had been saying that she needed to sort out her feelings.

But Luke also knew that it was not easy to let go of the feeling when you were in love with someone.

Hearing his sarcasm, Matteo looked at Luca without replying.

He had no intention of bothering him anymore....

Since the last time they had met, he had been on his best behavior.

Last time he had greeted Matteo very naturally. But now he had not greeted or looked at him.

Matteo had recovered from his bad mood.

This, too, was a good sign.

With the blanket thrown by Luke, Matteo closed his eyes and was very upset.

Anna had already returned to the hospital room. After closing the door, she discovered that Serena and Manuel were still awake. She smiled and approached them.

-Are you still not asleep?

-I'm keeping an eye on Mom so she doesn't go out.

Serena said nothing.

-What an excuse! Well, you're not sleeping to keep an eye on her.

-Anna.

-I know. Just go to sleep. Don't be late. You have to get up tomorrow.

Manuel glanced at Serena, then at Anna, got into bed and covered himself with the sheet.

"Go to sleep," he thought.

Seeing that Manuel had climbed into bed, the two looked at each other.

Anna comforted her, "Go to sleep. You are pregnant and don't think too much. Cristian will be fine tomorrow.

Not wanting Anna to worry about her, Serena rubbed her eyes and said, "Well, I'm sleepy too, I'm going to sleep. You are right, maybe when I wake up tomorrow he will be fine too.

In spite of everything, time passes faster in sleep.

It was already late at night, it was very quiet in the hospital.

Serena was hypnotized, but she was still not sleepy.

It is not known after how long she fell asleep.

When she heard the sound again, it was already the morning of the next day. There was the sound of birds chirping from the trees of the hospital. A group of birds were merrily running wild, which made the hospital ward regain vitality.

Serena opened her eyes and found that it was already daylight. She was surprised that she had fallen asleep like that.

"How is Cristian, did he wake up?" she thought.

Serena uncovered the sheet, got up and dressed.

Perhaps because of the loud noise, she woke Anna who was in the next bed. Rubbing her eyes, Anna sat up on the bed and asked, "Serena?"

Serena turned around and found her asleep looking around as if Anna had already forgotten what had happened yesterday. After looking around for a while, Anna remembered something. She wanted to get up, but was afraid of waking Manuel who was sleeping next to her.

So she got out of bed very carefully and wrapped herself warmly in a sweater and coat.

-What time is it?

After Anna dressed properly, Serena asked her.

Anna took out her cell phone and saw the time.

-It's 6:30. There's no telling how it's going outside.

Anna was mostly worried about them. But because she was very sleepy, she fell asleep. It was so cold outside that there was no telling how Luca and Matteo were coping.

-Serena, get dressed. I'm going outside to see them now.

-Okay.

Anna got up very quickly. Now she just wanted to take turns because she had woken up, but Luca and Matteo had been there all night. Now they both needed to rest and she had to stay.

But of course she was not going to talk to Matteo.

She thought that when she saw Luke, she would explain everything to him so that he could convey her words to Matteo.

However, when she arrived there, she saw only one person.

He was handsome and stable.

It was Matthew.

There was no telling where Luca was. Seeing this, Anna swallowed hard and forgot everything she wanted to say.

Since Luca was not here, she wanted to go back.

But when she was on her way here, she might have heard footsteps. If she went back now, it would hurt her .

Anna paused reflectively.

To her, this body and profile were very familiar.

This face had surprised her.

Earlier, when she had seen Matteo, she had wanted to come closer to talk to him a little. Now she was hiding from him, but there was nowhere to hide.

Chapter 1068: Are you two in love?

How sad to remember!

Hesitating in anguish, Anna stopped. When she decided to turn back, Matthew reacted.

Matthew himself looked at Anna.

Mostly he cast a random glance at her for no reason and looked away.

But then he stopped and looked back as if he wanted to make sure of something.

Although the two were some distance apart, thanks to the good view, Anna could see all of Matteo's behavior well. She also knew that Matteo had claimed to have seen her and no longer had a chance to escape.

"Huf, I should run away without thinking so much," she thought.

Now...

Anna approached him against his will, raised her hand toward Matteo impassively and waved her mouth indifferently.

-Good morning, President Matteo, where is Luca?

Matteo was surprised to see her approaching him, because according to the two previous circumstances, he thought she would run away when she saw him.

He never thought she would approach him.

-Good morning, President Matteo, where is Luca?

Anna had not only called him Matteo president, but earlier she had asked for Luca instead of him.

Matteo began to feel jealous.

He could not help but ask her, "Are you two engaged?"

Anna did not know what to answer him.

At first she had approached him against her will. It had taken her a lot of courage to talk to him. In fact, she had thought about what to call him. The gentlemanly treatment was a bit annoying, so she had decided to call him President Matthew as others did.

She thought he would not want to answer her.

According to Matteo's temperament, he would have simply answered her with a yes and nodded his head in response.

But Matteo had asked her this question unexpectedly.

Engaged?

Anna was surprised.

What did that mean?

Anna was amazed, confused, and finally understood everything.

Matteo was asking if she and Luca were dating, why, why had she first asked about Luca?

When she wanted to deny it, Matteo stood up, handed her the blanket and said in a cold tone, "I'm not asking you seriously and you don't have to answer me. Also, thank you for the blanket last night.

Anna received the blanket.

-Luca is in the bathroom, he will be out soon. I'm leaving now because we have a meeting in the company. Please tell Serena about it.

When she finished her words, she quickly walked away as if nothing had happened.

Looking at his big back, Anna instinctively wanted to explain to him that there was no relationship between Luca and her.

But with her mouth open, her throat was dry and she could say nothing.

Staring at him until she lost sight of him, Anna lowered her hands, which were with the blanket.

She felt sorry for herself.

There was nothing to explain.

Matteo did not care that she and Luca were dating.

If he had cared, the reason was only that Matteo wanted her to have a boyfriend so that he would not be bothered anymore.

No doubt that was the only thing he cared about.

She had only thought about other things, but now she was frightened by his crazy idea.

What a fool she had been!

Matthew had rejected her many times, and she had to understand everything.

When Luke came out of the bathroom, he saw Anna stunned and smiled unconsciously, wanting to greet her.

However, he saw her red eyes.

Luca paused.

Then he saw that Anna was holding a blanket, which was familiar to him but was not Luca's from last night.

Soon Luca realized whose blanket it was. Matteo had already left and only Anna remained in the empty hallway.

Seeing this, Luca stabbed his hands.

No one knows how long later, Anna heard footsteps from behind.

She recovered, blinked hard and calmed down.

Luca asked her, "Did you wake up?"

Hearing the somewhat hoarse voice, Anna turned around and the two saw each other.

Luca smiled warmly and his eyes were full of sweetness. Luca continued to ask her, "Did you sleep well?"

Compared to the cold Matteo, Luca was soft and sympathetic. Feeling that she herself was no longer so sad, Anna nodded her head.

-Pretty much, how about you? Was it very cold in the hallway? You must already be tired from watching all night. Go back and rest, I'll take care of this.

-No need. My job is to watch over Mr. Cristian. Downstairs, there are places that sell breakfast, what do you want to eat?

-Really? Aren't you going to rest?

-Bakery and soy bed, okay? -Okay?

-Actually, there's no need. Just rest, you've been up all night.

-Well, you're right.

Luca went to buy breakfast when he finished his words. Anna got nervous and quickly caught up with him, "You don't have to take care of us. Besides, I am the one who has to buy breakfast for you.

Fearing that Luca would not listen to her, Anna dragged her clothes.

Anna didn't mind this behavior because he only touched her clothes instead of her body.

But to Luca this meant a lot.

Luca stopped, noticed Anna's hand holding her clothes, and remained silent.

Anna also realized what Luca was seeing. She immediately withdrew her hand and said very embarrassed, "I'm sorry. It's just that I'm worried because you've been up all night. But I slept in for so long and couldn't do anything.

-It's just a matter of buying breakfast. It's all right. Wait.

This time Luca left and Anna did not follow him.

He stayed there for a while and sat down again. She discovered that she was still holding the blanket that Matthew had given her.

Seeing it, she was more disappointed.

When Anna was stunned, a voice was heard, "Where are my brother and Luke?"

Anna recovered and found that Serena had gone out.

-Luca went to buy breakfast and your brother returned to the company.

Noticing that she was not well when Anna mentioned Matteo, Serena stopped asking her questions and looked toward the hospital room.

-What about Cristian? Didn't he wake up?

Chapter 1069: He was too selfish.

At Serena's words, Anna woke up suddenly.

What was she doing? Cristian hadn't woken up yet, but she was feeling sad for herself?

She was too selfish!

Immediately, Anna started talking to Serena, "Don't worry, Serena. Mr. Cristian also did not wake up, nor were we informed of anything, which means that Mr. Cristian survived the danger.

After hearing the words of comfort, although Serena was still frowning, she smiled at Anna.

-Yes, one night has passed. Soon it will be twenty-four hours.

Although there was no telling what would happen after these 24 hours, Serena just wanted Cristian to survive the observation period.

Then everyone fell silent and Luca returned with breakfast.

-Mrs. Serena.

Serena nodded toward him. Seeing that Luca was carrying a lot of bags, Anna came when Serena wanted to help him.

Luca had brought breakfast for each of them, but Serena had no appetite and took only a glass of milk.

At Anna's request, she finally ate a sandwich.

Drinking soy milk, Anna took a sandwich and began to eat it, "It's good. How can you gain weight if you don't eat all the time?"

Then Serena looked at Luca and said, "You have been up all night. After breakfast, go back to rest.

Anna, go with Luca.

Anna's eyes widened when she heard her.

-Should I go too? Why? I need to stay to keep you company.

-Don't talk nonsense. Today is the second day of starting your store. If I didn't go, how would the store work?

-It doesn't matter if the store will be closed for a few days. If my noodles are delicious, many customers will come to eat. If they didn't want to, it would be their loss.

-No, you have to go back.

-No. If I went back, what would happen to you? You are pregnant and staying in the hospital alone, I worry about you! No matter what you tell me, I won't leave.

Serena did not know how to answer him. She looked at Luca, wanting him to convince her.

Luca gave a forced smile after receiving her signal.

The two were good friends. Even she could not convince her, how could he? But finally Luca obeyed Serena's will and said, "Mistress Serena said come back. Come back. I think she is right, since you had difficulty opening the store. If you closed it the next day, you would lose many customers.

-It doesn't matter. I lose my customers instead of yours. Just stay out of it.

Luca had to remain silent.

"Well, I'm not going to say anything to upset her," he thought.

She was very angry.

Serena began to feel sympathy for Luca seeing Anna get so angry with him just because of a few words. Serena even thought that if the two of them were engaged in the future, Luca would suffer a lot.

Luca obeyed her in everything.

How interesting!

Serena smiled unconsciously and said, -Anna, don't be so violent.

-I am not violent. You judge me by a different standard.

Serena had been more violent than Anna before, now she was saying Serena was violent.

Was she judging her by a different standard? Serena thought back a little and found that she herself had been violent in the past. It seemed that she had no right to say that Anna was violent.

Serena just had to smile and said in a soft voice, "I called Angelo. Today he and Beatrice will be here with me all day. So you can go back to open the store without worrying.

Anna was reassured to hear that they were coming, "Really? You're not lying to me?"

-I'm not lying to you. Cristian is like this, of course his grandfather and aunt have to come.

Anna thought Serena was right.

-You are right. It is impossible for them not to come. But.

-Now, open the noodle shop again. If you are worried, you can come in the evening. I won't stop you.

But I want to ask you something.

-Tell me.

-When you leave, take Manuel to your noodle shop.

Anna didn't understand her.

-Why? Is it not okay for him to go with you here?

-Manuel is still small. I don't want him to see him, and it's better that he doesn't come here at night either.

Anna did not answer her.

-I'm sad and afraid to influence him, that's why?

-I understand. Don't worry about it. I'll take him to the store and say that help is needed in the store.

-Thank you.

-It's nothing. I'm a good friend of yours. I'm a good friend of yours. I'm glad you trust me.

Later, Anna took Manuel with her when she left. And Luca took responsibility for taking them back.

Above all, Manuel did not want to leave. But when he had learned that Angelo and Beatrice were coming to the hospital, he reluctantly left with Anna.

All became quiet after their departure.

Serena sat alone on the chair in the hallway, cell phone in hand.

Beatrice had already texted her that she would be at the hospital at eight o'clock.

Now it was almost eight o'clock, Serena wanted to sit more here.

But before Beatrice and Angelo arrived, the doctor arrived. Serena asked him about Cristian and was reassured. Seeing that Serena was still very nervous, the doctor smiled at her.

-Mrs. Serena? You should not be too worried. There will be no danger if Mr. Cristian spends the rest of his time. As long as I watched him for a while, he doesn't seem to have any major problems. Have you been up all night?

-No, my friends did that. Now they've gone back to rest.

-I understand. You don't look good. You have to take care of yourself, even if you're worried about your husband.

-Thanks. Could you ask him if after the danger period, Mr. Cristian will wake up, or can he get over the danger period only after waking up?

Knowing that the doctors were very busy and perhaps did not have time to listen to her, Serena kept asking because other than that, she could not do anything else.

She could only calm down after knowing the credible answer.

On the contrary, the doctor was not eager to listen to her, but raised his glasses and said, "Mrs.

Serena, since you said that, I will tell you the truth. This is not the first time we encounter Mr. Cristian's case, but every case is different.

Chapter 1070: Alone, Safe and Sound.

-Different? How? -Serena asked murmuringly and worriedly.

Then, she began to console herself in her heart: -Doctors always exaggerate so that the patient and his relatives are prepared. But the result is always much better than what is supposed."

At this thought, Serena felt better.

-You said Mr. Cristian has lost his memory, yes?

-Yes.

-Maybe the reason he became comatose has to do with his memory. Normally, when the period of danger is over, he wakes up in a day or two. But if the circumstance was more complicated, for him to wake up, it would take 3 or 4 days, even 4 or 5 days, or more...

More time?

Hearing this, Serena was puzzled.

-Ma'am, I know you worry a lot. But there is no remedy for this circumstance.

-I mean, is there any chance that he won't wake up?

The doctor did not know how to answer her. After a while he said, "Don't be so pessimistic. Think about the good things. The chance of not waking up is very small. Although Mr. Cristian's brain was injured, he recovered well afterwards, so the possibility is very small. Don't worry about it.

The possibility was small, it meant that it was still possible.

It wasn't that Serena thought badly, but she was worried. She said, "Thank you. I got it.

-Yes.

After the doctor left, cell phone in hand, Serena sat in the very weak chair.

She hoped Cristian would wake up after the period of danger.

It didn't matter if he would remember what had happened. She just wanted him to be safe and sound.

Only safe and sound.

If he woke up, Serena would check on him and keep him company every day so that he would not think about before and not suffer anymore.

She just wanted him to be safe and sound.

-Serena? -a voice was heard.

Serena recovered and saw Beatrice and Angelo approaching.

-Beatrice.

-Angelo.

Beatrice found Serena very pale and approached to support her.

-Sit down. Why do you look so bad? Are you okay?

After asking her, Beatrice remembered that Serena was pregnant. The fetus was not so sure and now Serena was worried in the hospital. It was clear that she needed to check the fetus later.

Even though she was almost 4 months pregnant, there would be no problem.

-I'm fine.

-I'll go with you for an examination later. There are no more problems.

Serena did not refuse but nodded.

Angelo approached her. He had accepted her as his grandson's wife and had given her a very precious diamond necklace as a welcoming gift. After his return to the country, he had lived in the Atlantic mansion.

As he had always seen Serena, they now got along well after living together, although the relationship between them had been a bit awkward.

Moreover, Manuel had helped a lot in getting Serena accepted.

So Angelo was also a little worried when he saw that Serena was pale.

-Are you all right? Beatrice, you'd better take her for an examination.

-Hey, since when do you know how to worry about your grandson's wife? I thought you were only here for Cristian.

-What are you saying? Can't I worry about both of them? By the way, how is Cristian? What did the doctor say?

At the mention of this question, Serena felt a little tired and said, -The doctor said he still needs to be observed. Let's wait for more.

As for other things, Serena no longer had the energy to speak.

-Well, that's okay, since we can't help much," Beatrice turned and cast a glance at Angelo. Hey, old man, stay here. I'm taking Serena for an exam.

Angelo had gotten used to Beatrice calling him old. And now he agreed with Beatrice as well.

-Well, do it. Tell me if anything happens.

Beatrice's eyes widened and she took Serena's hand: -Let's go.

The two were walking forward and Serena looked at Beatrice calmly.

Beatrice became confused: -Why are you looking at me?

-After you and Angelo made up, I feel you have become more active.

-That's not possible! Do you think I am happy? Don't you know that the old man always bothers me. I shouldn't have stayed at the beginning," Beatrice was annoyed.

Although Beatrice's words were very cold, Serena could see the tenderness hidden in her gaze. As a young girl, Beatrice had left home with her sister, so it was impossible for her not to love her family.

If not, she would not have been angry for so many years.

-In fact, I still haven't forgiven him," Beatrice inhaled and continued. I cannot forgive him for what he did then. But I also know that he is old now and cannot manage the company well. I thought about not recognizing him as my father. But then I also found that you cannot forget the relationship with the family. He is still the father who loves us. Everyone makes mistakes in life, even me, I am not a saint and neither is he. That's why I can't expect him to do everything I want. Even now it bothers me, but I can still get along with him. At least, if something happens in the future, I won't regret it.

Serena understood her when she heard his words.

Beatrice still had not forgiven Angelo for what he had done. But since they were blood relatives, she still wanted the family relationship. Besides, Angelo was older now, she feared that if anything happened, she would regret it very much.

Serena told him, "Beatrice, it's good for you to take advantage of it now.

-You should take advantage of it now, too. Cristian will be fine. Now you just need to take care of yourself and the baby in your belly. Speaking of others, we need to trust the doctors," Beatrice rubbed Serena's head.

-Yes.

Later, the result showed that Serena was weak and the fetus was not so safe. But there were no big problems. They just needed to fix the fetus and not wander all over the place or be too stressed.

Beatrice wanted to take Serena home, but after some thought, she said, "Do you want to stay in the hospital ward for a while? You can wait for Cristian while you secure the fetus.

He did not ask Serena to go home but let her stay, which made Serena very grateful.

-Thank you very much, Beatrice.