Chapter 241: Intentionally

After speaking, Luca directly ended the call.

Serena could only hear the busy line and there was no time to say anything else.

After being on the phone for a while, Serena put the phone down and then sighed.

Something was fishy.

Something had to be wrong.

That day when Luca had brought her back, he had wanted to talk to her but stopped suddenly. He was obviously hiding something from her, but he didn't dare tell her.

But what exactly it was, Serena couldn't figure out.

She let it go. Cristian had suddenly withdrawn from the meeting and left for the day. What could this have meant?

There could have been many things that engaged him, but she did not know what they were.

But curiosity drives people to seek.

Especially after Serena had decided to follow her heart, she hoped to get into Cristian's life and slowly into his heart as well, so she definitely wanted to know his business.

But...she had no clues and no way to look for him.

He let it go, went back and waited for him.

Soon Luca would find him, so Serena went back to her room.

Lying on the soft sofa, Serena looked up at the snow-white ceiling, reached out her hand to her belly and murmured, "Baby, if I want to be with him, will he...accept you? "

Serena knew that the baby in her belly had not yet fully formed and, therefore, she could not hear what he was saying but she still hoped that Cristian could accept him.

Thinking about this, Serena smiled slightly.

Leonardo's sweet eyebrows suddenly appeared before her eyes and Serena was surprised by his presence in her head. How could she think of him at this moment, she suddenly shook her head.

She remembered the dream she had had the night before.

"Is a woman like you worthy of my deep love?"

The indifferent voice rang in her ears mercilessly, in the dream Cristian's gaze was icy during the day, it could be said that he was as cold as ice.

Suddenly Serena felt that she was delirious: she was pregnant by another man, but did she expect that Cristian could accept him? How was that possible?

Everything was a delirium.

Serena's mood sank, she got up and went back to her bed and lay down without sleeping.

It was only when the sky was clear that Serena fell asleep sleepily.

When she woke up again, it was almost noon. Serena turned around and the sun's rays hit her violently outside the window. She got up and looked at the phone. It was ten o'clock and the phone lay quietly without any notification.

Luca...had not yet called her back.

Serena looked around again and there was still silence, Cristian...had he still not returned?

After thinking about it, Serena called Luca again.

After reaching her caller, Luca's voice sounded tired.

"Miss Gallo."

"Luca, Cristian, he...how is he? Have you found him?"

"Mr. Ferrari is in the company now."

Hearing that he was in the company, Serena who was all tense let go. She breathed a sigh of relief and said, "All right."

Luca asked hesitantly, "Miss Gallo...You haven't been waiting for Mr. Ferrari all night, have you? "

Serena was a little surprised by such a question, then smiled slightly and said, "Why? I just asked, but since he's fine, I'll hang up now. "

After speaking, Serena hung up the phone directly before Luca could even respond.

After hanging up the phone, Serena stared at the surprised phone and then lay down on the bed.

What was she thinking? He could go wherever he wanted and she did not even have the power to control him.

Serena, surprised, lay on the bed, staring at the ceiling.

Cristian had refused to let her go to the company and stayed in the room without going anywhere.

She had waited all night and resented it; at that moment she did not want to see Cristian.

After a long time the phone rang.

Serena became alarmed, and quickly pulled out her cell phone. She thought it was Cristian's call.

When she saw Alice's name on the screen, she was not disappointed, but excited.

"Alice?"

She would have liked to contact her, but she did not know how to talk to her, as soon as Alice came to the door, she could talk to her about her feelings.

"Serena."

After many days of absence, Alice's voice was tired, hoarse, as if she had been crying.

Serena was surprised for a moment, then asked, "Your voice, is something wrong?"

"No, nothing." Alice seemed to be flustered, and then laughed softly, "Serena, it seems our friendship has stopped recently, you and that Anna..."

Talking about this, Serena had a feeling in her heart, it seemed that after their little quarrel, the relationship between the two of them was colder and was not as warm as before.

"The relationship between me and her does not prevent us from being friends." Serena explained softly.

"But it seems to me to be very hostile. If it affects our friendship, will you continue to be her friend?"

"I..." Serena paused, not expecting Alice to actually be able to tell her. Was that the purpose of her call?

Just when Serena was so confused that she could not answer, Serena continued.

"Forget it, I didn't come to you today to blame you but I want to ask you out to talk about the past times, and....I'm not a stingy person, I know I'm not the only person in your circle of friends, there will be others, I don't blame you."

Hearing this, Serena smiled again.

"That's great Alice, you don't mind, we are still united."

"Let's meet at the bakery where we met a while ago, okay?"

Alice really liked pastries, and although Serena didn't like them she didn't think there was a problem, so she nodded, "If you like them, I'll get ready and go out."

"Yes."

After hanging up the phone, Serena quickly got up to change and went out to meet Alice.

After arriving at the bakery as agreed, Serena entered the store saw Alice sitting by the window. She was wearing a pink gauze dress that day, her hair was beautifully curled, and she looked as if she had dyed her hair.

"Alice, you're here."

Alice nodded to her, Serena walked over to her and sat down, and asked, "Alice, have you combed your hair?"

As soon as they sat down, the waiter came over and handed them the menu. Serena was still smiling, but when she saw Alice approaching to take the menu, she froze in place.

For when Alice had approached, she revealed that pair of earrings.

Alice loved to dress up a lot, and Serena was not surprised by the kind of earrings she wore.

But today, but those earrings of hers looked like...the same ones she had seen in Cristian's box. Pink earrings.

Chapter 242: The Hidden Truth.

For a moment, Serena thought she had made a mistake.

For she had actually seen the pair of earrings Cristian had bought at Alice's ears.

"What do you want?" The waiter's voice drawing Serena's attention toward him, she finally recovered and awkwardly tightened her lips, "Give me a cup of coffee."

"All right." After the waiter left, Alice looked at Serena with a sweet smile and shook her hand intimately, "Serena, thank you, you are so kind. Although you obviously don't like sweets, but you still always want to eat them with me. We will always be best friends."

Serena's gaze could not help but fall on Alice's ears.

That pair of pink earrings was lovely on which flowed a line of light. Serena had fallen in love with them at that moment, too, but later.

She could not help but ask, "Your earrings..."

Hearing this, Alice seemed to recover, reached out a hand and touched the pair of earrings on her ears, and then curled her lips, "Aren't they pretty?"

Serena did not know how to respond, so she nodded without showing any expression.

"They are pretty." She smiled slightly, but that was a bitter smile that came from the bottom of her heart and only she knew it.

After speaking, Serena saw Alice reach out and hold her face, fiddling with her own earrings with a shy expression, "I also think they look good on you."

Serena felt terrible, clenching her hands under the table sinking her nails into her flesh. Then she loosened her grip and looked at the pair of earrings, asking, "Is that you...did you buy those? "

Alice seemed to be taken aback, then shook her head, "Of course not...it was a gift!"

Saying this, Alice blushed even more, her face fully showing her shyness.

Serena knew what she was, she seemed to be falling in love.

It was just that...was Serena thinking at that moment that that pair of could not have been given by Cristian? Even if Cristian had thought about it, wouldn't Alice have been that kind of person? But after learning that Cristian was her husband, she how could she have received this gift from him and still be so shy, she was not that kind of person.

Thinking about this, Serena gave a sigh of relief and let go.

"Congratulations." Serena congratulated her sincerely, thinking in her heart that this must be just a coincidence.

Hearing her congratulations, there was no expression on Alice's face, then she blinked and suddenly looked at Serena calmly.

Serena noticed this strangeness of hers and could not help but ask, "Is something wrong?"

Alice asked loudly, then shook her head and denied it. Then the waiter brought dessert. Alice took the spoon and took some of the cream, "Very good."

Serena was brought her coffee and bitterly took a sip.

Although she consoled herself, she still cared, that pair of earrings...Was it really just a coincidence?

When the two were about to part, Alice suddenly took Serena's hand and asked in a low voice,

"Serena, I want to tell you something, but...I don't know how to start."

Hearing this, Serena saw the space between her eyebrows and the slight tremor in her voice.

"What problem?"

Alice stared at her for a while, her expression not as kind as before, but rather a little sadder. From the look on her face it seemed that he had done something unpleasant to her. Serena was surprised by this look.

"Forget it, let's not talk about it anymore." Alice sighed and lowered her eyes to swallow the words she wanted to say.

Serena:" ...Tell me, in our relationship we can tell each other everything. "

Alice shook her head, "The time is not ripe yet, I will tell you when the time comes, Serena...No matter when, you have to remember that we are good friends and you have to...believe me! "

He said holding Serena's arm tightly and looking at her seriously.

Serena had consoled herself, but at that moment the desire to talk to Alice had suspended her heartbeat, biting her lower lip and looking at Alice embarrassedly she said, "Alice, we are like sisters, surely I will believe you...when will the time be right? What are you hiding from me?

"Nothing, don't think about it, Serena, I will tell you in the future, however you have to believe me, we will always be sisters."

In the end, Alice had still not told her anything, Serena could do nothing, and after parting from her, she returned home in despair.

Halfway there, Serena suddenly remembered that store, so she hastily said to the driver, "Driver, please turn around!"

After Serena told the driver her new address, he took her to her new destination.

After getting out of the car, Serena went directly to the jewelry store she had already been to.

As soon as she entered, she ran into the purchasing clerk who had last time let her try on earrings. The clerk recognized her and smiled immediately when he saw her.

"Good morning."

Because of the incident that day, Serena was still embarrassed and smiled at him.

The attendant spoke first, "Hello young lady, did you come to see the earrings from last time?"

With surprise he had remembered her, Serena could only nod, "Yes."

"Do you want to buy them again?"

Serena shook her head, "I just wanted to ask you something, that pair of earrings..."

"Hello, miss, that gentleman bought the earrings the next day. They must have been bought for you, you will be very happy. Your friend has been here, but I didn't expect you to be here too..."

Serena tightened her lips, feeling strangely embarrassed.

"Actually, I just wanted to ask you, that pair of earrings...are there any others?" She was very curious if that pair of earring had the same style, she just hoped it was a coincidence.

"The same style?" The attendant was stunned at first, but only after a moment did he realize what she meant: "Miss, don't worry. Each pair has its own unique design. There is only one pair on the market at the moment."

There is only one pair on the market for the time being?

"For the time being?"

"Yes, our family only produces one product at a time, only after we sell it we might consider making another."

Hearing this, Serena understood this and asked, "So if I want a second pair, how long will it take to get it?"

The attendant thought about it for a while and answered her.

"It takes more than a month from the time of submission and arrival of the product."

More than a month...

Serena did not give up, "Would it have the same style?"

"This is the only pink one for now."

And the only hope left in her heart was dashed.

So...Was Alice's hesitation only about that pair of earrings?

Had the pair of earrings actually been given to Alice by Cristian?

Thinking about this, Serena bit her lower lip and the sky began to turn before her eyes.

For a moment, she felt like she was going to fall, but fortunately the attendant next to her saw that there was something wrong with her look and supported her.

"Miss, are you okay?"

Chapter 243: Leave it!

Serena came to her senses and leaned vacantly against the locker next to her, trying to calm herself.

"It's nothing."

"But you don't have a good complexion, do you need me to call someone for you?"

Serena did not answer and took a deep breath to calm her mood. After a while she raised her head and turned it toward the purchasing officer with an unlikely smile, "Thank you for worrying about me, I'm fine, I'm leaving now."

Subsequently, Serena left the jewelry store before the concerned eyes of the clerk.

Along the way, Serena walked aimlessly, not knowing where she was.

Before coming to this jewelry store, she had tried to console herself and convince herself that that pair of earrings had the same style, otherwise they would not be on Alice's ears.

She had not even dared to come and verify it, but she had come later: after getting the results, she realized that those results were not what she could bear.

Because of the meeting, Cristian, who could console Luke to take her back to the Ferrari house, left the meeting and left and then stayed out all night. That day, Alice had appeared before her again wearing that pair of earrings.

What was all this telling her?

Serena stood motionless...

It meant that the two of them had been together the day before, all day and all night.

Ah.

Serena, Serena, you waited for him all night, how could you be so silly?

She was worried that something had happened to Cristian, so she called Luca.

Thinking back at that moment, was this what Luca wanted to tell her without succeeding? No wonder he was looking at her with those pitiful eyes.

So...only she had been kept in the dark.

"Liars." Imprecated Serena in a low voice, staggering forward.

A loud noise was heard.

Accidentally it hit someone's arms.

"Don't you watch where you walk? Believe it or not, am I going to hurt you? Roll away."

Someone had scolded her and rolled away from her, Serena had not even seen who the other person was and had no time to apologize.

She kept stumbling forward and, after taking a few steps, accidentally bumped into another passerby, but this time she was unlucky; she fell to the ground with her butt on the cold, hard floor.

"Ah, what's your problem? Do you bump into others when you walk? What are you doing sitting there?"

You don't want to steal my money?" The man left quickly, fearing that she might blackmail him.

She sat on the floor for a long time, trying to get up, only to find that she did not have the strength.

Serena was so angry, but it was only for a futile reason. Was it worth it?

Serena, when you divorced Francis, you stood up even when your parents cruelly kicked you out, and now you can...

She leaned against the floor to get up, but a pair of warm hands suddenly supported her, helping her to stand up.

In eyes clouded with tears, a tall, thin figure appeared before Serena's eyes.

The man reached out his hand and wiped the side of her eyes, then the tears came out and the blurred vision gradually cleared and Serena clearly saw the person wiping her tears.

Leonardo looked at her sympathetically, wiping her tears very gently while sighing helplessly.

"You are a fool, if you cry like that he won't be able to see it."

Serena's tears fell all at once.

Those tears did not look like all the others, they came down one after another. At first, Leonardo helped her dry herself, but later, the pain in her eyes grew deeper and deeper and he reached out to pull her into his arms.

"Let go." He silently pressed the nape of her neck and her cheeks into his arms.

The hot tears that streamed down wet his shirt.

"If you were with me, I certainly wouldn't let you cry so sad alone, Serena, give me a chance, just one."

Serena was pulled into his arms. The strange aura on her body made her a little resistant, but the feeling of warmth made her very greedy. She felt very tired and had no strength left, and suddenly she was welcomed into an embrace so warm that she could not resist it.

On the street people came and went, Leonardo embraced Serena in this way, not caring about the strange looks of other people.

After a while, the person in his arms suddenly stopped responding. Leonardo pushed her away, only to find that she had closed her eyes, as if she had fainted.

Leonardo's expression changed, and he stretched out his hand, taking it horizontally and walking away from it quickly.

Bang!

A thunderstorm came and the sky filled with many black clouds, it finally began to rain hard, all accompanied by lightning rushing down from the sky.

The thunder resounded continuously and Serena suddenly woke up from her bed, after another look, she found that she was lying in a warm hospital room and was no longer on the street.

"Are you awake?" She heard a gentle voice and Serena, following that voice, saw Leonardo sitting in front of her bed, he looked at her kindly, "Are you sick?"

Then he walked over and touched her forehead, as if he wanted to take her temperature.

After feeling for a while, he seemed to have failed to measure it, so he bent his head, pointing his forehead at her to feel the warmth of her forehead.

His warm breath hit her face without warning, and Serena saw that Leonardo's slender figure was very close to her. Her pupils shrank.

By the time she realized she wanted to reach out and push him away, Leonardo had already withdrawn. Curling his lips, he said, "Fortunately, the fever is gone, or I would have worried."

Hearing, Serena's lips moved, "Do I have a fever?"

As soon as she spoke, she realized that her voice was too low and hoarse.

Leonardo smiled weakly, did not speak, but got up and poured her a glass of water, then helped her sit up, "Drink a glass of water to hydrate yourself, after drinking speak."

Her throat was very dry, Serena of course did not refuse, she got up and took the glass and then drank.

"Don't worry, drink slowly, don't choke."

After drinking the water, Leonardo took the glass naturally and reached out his other hand directly to her lips to wipe the water droplets at the corners of her lips.

The extremely intimate movement caused Serena's eyebrows to frown; without meaning to, she withdrew to avoid his touch.

Leonardo's movements were very fast that he touched her and picked her up, she had no time to hide and could not even push him away.

"You have a fever, it is very serious. The doctor said you caught a cold. Serena, you are too weak, you will have to stay in the hospital for a few days. "

The expression on Serena's face changed when she heard that she would be hospitalized, "I don't want to be hospitalized."

She did not like the hospital, so she did not feel like staying there for no reason.

When Leonardo heard her refusal, he stared at her seriously, "You need to be hospitalized, you are still very weak, and...I heard the doctor say you are pregnant. "

Hearing this, Serena stared at him in astonishment.

In an instant, the mixed feelings in her heart reached his face, almost suffocating her.

Chapter 244: I will not force you

Did he...know that she was pregnant?

Would he have doubted whether the child would be related to him? Or would this incident remind him of that rainy night?

Seeing her face pale in an instant, Leonardo frowned slightly, his voice lowered a little, "Didn't you know?"

Serena shook her head and unconsciously took a step back.

Leonardo had brought her hand up but withdrew it in midair, after a while she tightened her lips and said, "Is it Cristian's?"

Before he could answer, Leonardo said again, "No, Cristian is in a wheelchair, I'm afraid he can't do this kind of thing. Then...." His gaze grew a little sharper and fell on her face.

"No one!" Serena answered aloud before speaking.

Leonardo became more puzzled, "Serena?"

Serena retreated to a corner and cowered, staring at Leonardo with watchful eyes, "This has nothing to do with you!"

Her eyes were wary as if she was protecting herself from a thief, which made Leonardo's heart freeze, and he frowned and looked at her, "Do you hate me that much?"

Hearing this, Serena's heart trembled and before she could react, Leonardo stepped forward and grabbed her wrist forcefully, "Why? What have I done to hurt you? Do you want to hate me like this?

Ever since you came into our family, I have always treated you well, even..."

Serena wanted to withdraw her hand, but Leonardo's skin remained, as white as jade, he did not use so much force, he clutched her wrist and no matter how much she struggled, she could not break free, she could only hiss, "This too? Leonardo, let go of my hand! "

"I gave you my heart." Leonardo looked at her with heavy eyes, his expression was pained, "But you avoid me all the time, you hate me, Serena, what have I done wrong?"

Leonardo's pain-filled look made Serena feel guilty, in fact, he always helped her all the time she was at the Ferrari house, including the time she had been humiliated by her mother, when Francis was there, he had solved quite a few problems for her.

But...The relationship between her and him was too complicated and she did not want to admit it at that time.

Thinking about this, Serena lowered her eyes and bit her lower lip hard, "Let me go."

Leonardo squeezed her hand tightly, showing no intention to let her go.

"Leonardo!" Serena paled with anger and scolded him.

Hearing his name coming from Serena's mouth, the movements of his arms became slower. After a while, he smiled contentedly and let her go, "If you want to call me again in the future, I won't hold you back like that, I don't want to hear you say 'big brother' ever again."

Serena:"..."

After a long silence, Serena got up from the bed in the corner.

"I've been out for a long time, I should go back."

"It's been a night, do you want to go back?"

Serena raised her head in amazement, had it been a night?

"When I brought you back to my private home, you kept having a fever. Later, I had no choice but to send you to the hospital. The doctor said you had a cold, had a high fever and remained unconscious, so at the moment you can only stay here."

At the thought of not going home in the evening, Serena paled. She did not know what Cristian would think of her. Thinking about this, she immediately wanted to use her cell phone, but after searching for it, she could not find it.

"Looking for this?" Leonardo handed his cell phone and Serena who quickly took it and quickly called Cristian.

"If you are looking for Cristian, then I can tell you in no uncertain terms that you did not have a single call last night."

Serena stopped and she looked at him incredulously.

"Disappointed? Or distressed? You didn't come back all night and you didn't get a single phone call. "

Serena:" ..."

She lowered her head and looked at the phone, and it turned out that the phone was on silent mode, with no call.

Leonardo approached for a few minutes and his voice also lowered, "Your marriage is actually a marriage of convenience...Have you ever felt anything in this marriage? "

"No!" Serena quickly raised her head and directly denied Leonardo's statement.

She didn't feel anything, Cristian didn't care about her, wouldn't it have been funny if he had felt something?

"You deny so quickly, and you deny so fiercely. If you say no, who will believe you?" Leonardo smiled weakly, but the smile concealed his bitterness, "You are deeply into Cristian."

This statement was categorical and did not give Serena a chance to deny it.

"You never thought that between you ... there could be nothing." This time Leonardo grabbed her shoulders directly and stared at her seriously, "It will never be possible for you to be with him!"

"Let me go!" Said Serena in a low voice.

Leonardo did not let her go, and Serena shouted directly at him in a loud voice, "Let me go!"

Leonardo gently let go of her hand and Serena jumped out of bed directly with her cell phone.

But because of her high fever, when she jumped out of bed, her head turned and she fell forward.

A loud noise was heard.

Serena fell to the floor, Leonardo's expression changed and he rushed to help her, "Serena, are you okay?"

"Let me go." Serena vigorously pushed his hand away, "Don't meddle in my business, you're just my big brother, even if Cristian doesn't like me, it has nothing to do with you!"

After she finished speaking, Serena pushed Leonardo away.

Leonardo was pushed by her and hit his back against the cold wall, he looked at Serena with pain, "But I don't want to be just your big brother at all."

Serena did not want to talk to him anymore, turned and walked out. Although she walked staggeringly, she went out step by step.

Leonardo stared at her for a long time, and finally he could not help but chase after her, and sighed.

"I'll take you back."

"No need." Serena shook her hand, "It has nothing to do with you."

"If you hate me for saying that, then I won't say it again." After she finished speaking, Leonardo stretched out his hand directly and took it horizontally, ignoring her movements to free herself, he calmly said, "You are too weak now, you should stay in the hospital, but if you don't want to, I'll take you right back home, I won't do anything to force you!"

This last sentence calmed Serena, she looked up at Leonardo's face and suddenly did not speak anymore.

"Calm down!" He sighed helplessly, and then left the hospital with Serena in his arms. He went to the parking lot and opened the door to let her in. All his movements were cautious, and then he bent down to fasten her seat belt, looking up at her.

"Serena, you remember. I will never force you to do anything, no matter when it happens, if you need it,

I will do everything for you."

Chapter 245: Do you know who that is?

After fastening his seat belt, Leonardo closed the car door and went to the other side to get in. After that, he took off his jacket and put it on Serena: "Cover up, don't get cold."

Serena looked at the jacket, then at him and did not refuse it.

Leonardo treated her...very well.

If...she didn't like Cristian, maybe she could stay with him.

But at that moment she was busy thinking about Cristian; she did not want to deceive herself anymore.

Thinking about this, Serena closed her eyes and stopped talking to Leonardo.

The car proceeded and it took a long time before it finally reached the parking lot of the Ferrari house.

Serena feared that what had happened would be misunderstood by Cristian, so she quickly got out of the car and left her jacket in the car. Seeing all this, Leonardo could not help but smile, "You don't have to worry so much. I asked one of the servants and Cristian has not returned."

Hearing this, Serena stopped and looked at Leonardo again, and he was also looking at her.

"Of course, you don't want to know where he went." He smiled weakly, his eyebrows still outlining his goodness of heart but his gaze became sharp. Serena saw him clearly and lowered her head.

Actually, she did not need to think about it. After all, Alice had worn the earrings in front of her the night before. Even though she had gone to the jewelry store to ask, however...she still could not give up.

Maybe she thought the purchasing clerk had tricked her or maybe he had been mistaken. The pair of earrings Alice was wearing was not the pair Cristian had bought. How could she have a relationship with him?

So she wanted to find him to see if the pair of earrings were still with him, she wanted confirmation.

"So don't worry, go slow, or I'll send you back to your room."

"No, thank you." Before he came forward, Serena coldly dismissed Leonardo's kindness by going on alone. After taking a few steps, she suddenly stopped again and looked at Leonardo.

Seeing her turn back, Leonardo's expression changed and he unconsciously called her name,

"Serena..."

"Big brother, I know you are good to me and I am very grateful to you for being honest with me, but feelings cannot be forced. If you want, you can always be my big brother no matter what happens between Cristian and me."

Hearing, the brightness in Leonardo's eyes suddenly disappeared, and after a while he pulled back his lips and laughed bitterly, "Is that all you want to say?"

"Yes, I won't say it again in the future, brother, thank you for what happened yesterday. I'm leaving now."

"After speaking, Serena turned and left."

Watching her go back, Leonardo suddenly lifted the corners of his lips and stared at his palm: his hand had already touched her and Serena's scent seemed to be imprinted on Leonardo's skin.

He stood there for a long time before leaving again.

*

Serena returned to the room and found that the room was deserted and that Cristian had not returned at all.

For two nights, for two days, suddenly...he had not returned?

Serena had been in the hospital all night. Not feeling comfortable, she took a hot bath. When she finished washing, Serena remembered that she was not supposed to get her wound wet. However, days had passed, and it was all gone; if she did not wash, germs would accumulate all over her body and she did not care so much. After washing herself hastily, Serena changed and left the bathroom.

Cristian had arrived home, so Serena put on a nightgown and left her room.

As soon as she came out of the bathroom, Serena felt an icy breeze spread and stood there shocked, staring at the person who suddenly appeared in the room.

"Where did you go last night?"

The cold voice mercilessly hit Serena's head like a blizzard.

It was not someone else who had appeared in the room, but Cristian, who was sitting in his wheelchair.

His expression was as cold as an ice prison, and his eyes were as sharp as a knife when he asked her.

"You....." Serena stared at him blankly, "Why did you come back?"

Hadn't he come back two nights in a row? Why had he appeared there suddenly and knowing that she had not come home the night before?

"How?" Cristian sneered and said, "This is all under my control, when I come here do I have to ask permission from others?"

Having said that, Serena could no longer feel her head and could only explain quietly, "I didn't mean that, I just..."

Before she could finish speaking, Cristian pushed her wheelchair out of the way, then grabbed her wrist and forced her into his arms.

"Huh?" exclaimed Serena as she leaned against his body.

She had just showered, was still a little damp, and was not wearing any tight clothing. When she lay in Cristian's arms, she felt that a part of her had been hurt. She blushed immediately and wanted to get away from him.

The expression on Cristian's face was very somber and his body released a very dark aura!

"If that's not what you meant? Then what did you mean? Or do you think I suddenly appeared here to interfere with your good deeds?"

"What?" Serena looked at him in amazement, reaching out to push him away, but his wrist was squeezed so tightly that she paled in pain, "You're hurting my hand."

"You know it hurts?" Cristian stared at her coldly and sneered, "Why didn't you think of that when you didn't come home last night? Yes? Do you know that you are married? Do you know what you have to do? "

Hearing this, Serena finally understood the reason for Cristian's anger, she stared at him with wide eyes, "You, how do you know I wasn't home last night?"

"Do you think you would have been able to hide it from me?" Cristian sneered, "It seems that since you have been in this house you have the courage to do anything, you decided not to go home at night. Tell me, what did you do last night?"

At first he seemed to scold her but then his tone became more indifferent.

At first, Serena felt a little guilty and was a little scared: he knew that she had not returned the previous night, so how did he know?

Questioning herself, Serena reacted suddenly, how could he ask her?

So she slowly raised her head, her eyes met Cristian's, and her voice was calm.

"What have I done, do you care?"

Hearing this, Cristian's pupils contracted and he narrowed his eyes dangerously to look at her, "What did you say?"

Serena was not afraid of him at all; she pressed her lips together to meet his gaze and lowered her voice.

"You know what I said? Cristian, so how come if you don't come home at night, then I can't? You didn't come back for two days and two nights, instead I was only gone one night, so why are you yelling at me?"

Chapter 246: What qualifications do you have to ask me this?

"....."

He probably did not expect her to say this, and Cristian did not respond.

After she realized what she had said, Cristian's thin lips bent coldly, and his big hand gripped her chin tightly, "Do you know who you're talking to? What are you talking about?"

Forcefully he immediately pinched Serena's chin and left a red mark on it; it hurt Serena and she wanted to open his hand.

She couldn't, but could only bite her lower lip and stare at him bitterly, "Yes, only so what? Did I say wrong? How dare you not come home last night?"

After she finished speaking, Serena tried to push Cristian away, but the difference in strength between the two of them was too great. After trying to push him away for a long time, Serena could not push him away and finally stopped panting.

Because of the effort she had just made, her white cheeks turned red and, because of anger, her cold eyes became as bright as stars reflected on a lake at night.

Cristian should have been angry, but after she asked him what he said, he suddenly thought of something, then squinted his eyes and approached her in a deep voice.

"Are you...jealous?"

Serena was surprised, was she jealous?

"Yes? You were worried that I hadn't come home that night, I heard you also called Luca, were you worried that something had happened to me? "

Serena did not speak, she was persistent, she opened her eyes and stared at him. Cristian lifted her chin with his hand and leaned down, his thin lips almost touching her.

"Answer me."

The tone was authoritative.

Looking closely at his face, Serena could feel Cristian's cold breath between her breath; it was as cold as ice, and smelled like a blanket used all winter.

Serena shrank back and finally said slowly, "You have discovered me."

Cristian was surprised by that sentence.

At first he thought she would deny or avoid answering.

He did not think that...she would admit it.

Serena smiled slightly in front of him, and her pink lips curved, "I'm jealous, so do you want to stay out at night?"

Cristian narrowed his eyes dangerously and leaned forward for a few minutes. The tip of his nose and forehead touched her, and his cold breath had enveloped her. Serena looked at his mountain-like eyebrows and suddenly her heart began to beat wildly again.

He really...had managed to make her fall in love.

She was caught up in him; she could not control herself.

In front of him was his strong chest, and she had just taken a shower, and he held her gently in front of his chest without reservation. Because of this approach, Serena suddenly licked her lips nervously.

This small, involuntary movement made Cristian's pupils shrink, and then something in him exploded.

"Woman, did you do that on purpose?" He asked angrily, and then when Serena spoke, he bowed his head and fiercely grabbed her red lips.

"Oh..."

The moment he grabbed the red lips, Serena could not restrain herself and emitted a loud cry.

This little hum seemed to touch a certain point in Cristian. His fingers pinching her chin, they spread and squeezed the nape of her neck toward him hard, the kiss became deeper and deeper.

Their lips met and Serena took his breath away. At first she could still resist him, but after a while she became like hot spring water, lying in his arms.

Cristian did not let go of her; on the contrary, he kissed her for a long time and then brought his thin lips down to her neck.

Serena was stunned until her nightgown was pulled up, and then her body turned cold. Suddenly she woke up and pushed Cristian away.

"... "Cristian was immersed in his own world when he was suddenly interrupted by frowning.

"Are you looking for death?" He scolded her in a rough voice; he was excited.

Serena quickly adjusted his clothes, and then pushed him, "Save it, Cristian, do you think this will make me forget that you were gone last night?"

"How?" Cristian stared at her thoughtfully, "Since I didn't come back last night, did you retaliate by doing the same thing yourself?"

"So what if I did?" Serena bit her lower lip. Her red lips, which had just been kissed, were swollen and were bitten by her white teeth, which was especially endearing, "If you can do it, so can I."

".....Tu!" Cristian was so angry, "Listen to me, you can't do what I can do, I no longer allow you to talk to other men outside of me, do you hear me?"

Serena did not answer, looking at him amused.

"What about you? If I'm not allowed to talk to other men, you won't do the same with other women?"

After this question, Serena felt her heart beating wildly, and she was almost ready to answer.

Talking about this, Cristian's eyes turned dark for a while, then the expression in his eyes became more complicated. Then Serena heard him ask, "I deal with other women, what do you care?"

Serena:"..."

She had almost spit him out, Serena said anxiously, "What are you saying?"

After speaking, Serena realized what she had just admitted. Her expression changed She wanted to jump at Cristian, but he grabbed her by the wrist.

"You really seem to care."

"I said something stupid!" Serena anxiously explained.

Cristian's lips curled, "What you say is smoke in the wind, and besides, it's up to me to decide. There is no chance for you to take back your words!"

Serena stared at him blankly. After a while, her lips moved, and then she asked, "Okay, I don't take anything back, do you? Are you going to be away at night from now on? Will you talk to other women behind my back? "

Hearing this, Cristian frowned, as if displeased with her words.

"Then will you?" Serena asked reluctantly.

Even now, she still could not believe that Cristian was having an affair with Alice, she still desperately believed that it was just a coincidence!

Cristian's thin lips twitched slightly and suddenly he reached out to caress her forehead, "Who said I didn't come home at night because I was with other women? Did you see it with your own eyes? "

Serena: "...No, but what is so important that you couldn't come back for two days and nights? Tell me? "

Cristian narrowed his eyes and stared at her dangerously.

"It's my business, you'd better play it cool."

Hearing this, Serena could not help but laugh but her smile was very bitter.

"It seems you just want me to take care of you."

After speaking, she let go of his hand, then let go of his thigh and moved away from him.

"In that case, what qualifications do you have to request this from me?"

Chapter 247: Completed!

Cristian frowned, staring displeasely at the woman standing not far from him.

"Can you repeat that?"

Serena smiled bitterly, "What will happen if I say it again? Can you change my mind? Cristian, since you don't care about me, then leave my business alone! "

"Leave you alone?" Cristian huffed deeply and a dangerous light flashed in his dark eyes, "So you want to be with Leonardo? Am I interfering with your relationship? "

"Yes!" Serena didn't know where her courage came from, she loudly countered him, "So what?"

At that moment, Cristian's pupils suddenly dilated and shrank again. After listening to his confession, something went up in his heart that then pinched him making him angry.

This damn woman!

Had she admitted in front of him that she wanted to be with her older brother?

Before her emotions could fade, Serena turned around.

"I like my older brother. My older brother is kind, caring, humble and courteous. He is much better than you who are so arrogant and just want to control other people all the time. Cristian, you always thought I liked you, but actually you were wrong, I didn't like you at all. For people like you, even if there were no other men on earth, I still wouldn't like you."

After she finished speaking, Serena stepped forward and left without caring about Cristian's reaction.

Cristian was sitting in the wheelchair, and his heart suddenly ached as if it had been pierced by a needle. This inexplicable sensation made him frown and reached out his hand to press it on his chest.

Who...Was his heart aching?

Because of that woman? It was so ridiculous!

Cristian looked over his shoulder at her and, after a while, his thin lips curved into a grin.

She was just a woman, and there was nothing to take care of him. Cristian had never needed the presence of a woman in his life.

Although she had said those words to her, when Serena lay down on her bed, she could not help but cry.

Those words she had said were truly unbelievable, but she knew that all that hurt herself, maybe Cristian didn't care at all what she said.

After hearing Cristian go to the bathroom, Serena sat down and thought of something, wiped the tears from her face, then stood up and walked over to the dress she had put on the shelf.

That dress was the one she wore before, if she had given it away, it would not be inside the box.

Serena moved carefully, like a thief, rummaged through both pockets, after a while she touched a small hard box.

Unexpectedly...was it still there?

Serena stayed there for a while and pulled out the box.

Surely it was the small box she had seen that day, how could it still be there?

Was it possible that she had misunderstood it?

For a moment, Serena felt extremely guilty. If she had indeed misunderstood him, then the things she had just said to hurt him....

Thinking about this, Serena reached out her hand to open the box, and then froze.

After a while, she closed the box with a bitter smile and put the box back into her dress pocket.

Serena stumbled forward.

When she lay down, she closed her eyes, tears flowing in despair.

That box...was empty.

Inside it were no longer the pink earrings.

They were worn by Alice.

When Alice had mentioned that pair of earrings, her expression turned shy, she stopped talking to make her believe in what she was saying.

What was she to believe? At that moment she could not figure it out.

Serena closed her eyes, all the words Cristian and Alice had told her running through her mind. Slowly Serena fell asleep.

In the middle of the night, Serena woke up to touch herself to find that the pillows were wet.

Desperate, she had to turn the pillow over to sleep. The room was silent. She lay on her side looking at the moonlight outside the window, and after a while slowly closed her eyes.

That was just the way it was.

The beauty of people was something else.

After all, she was his second wife and she was pregnant.

She was not at all worthy of happiness.

The next day she would ask to speak with Alice.

After thinking about it, Serena calmed down and slept well that night. When she woke up the next day, she calmly got up and changed her clothes to wash herself, sat on the toilet and looked at herself in the mirror from time to time put on makeup.

Cristian could not help but frown when he saw this scene.

Had this woman changed overnight? In all this time, it had been the first time he had seen her sitting in front of a mirror doing her makeup.

Actually, Serena rarely wore makeup, but that did not mean she did not. When she was a girl they loved her beauty. However, she was not allowed to do it and did not even have time to think about it.

She carefully passed the pencil over her eye. The line she was drawing was thin and accentuated her beauty. After that she curled her eyebrows and to put on mascara.

Then she came to lipstick; when she put it on, she pressed both lips in front of the mirror. Her lips were bright red.

She put the lipstick down and Serena realized that she had no shadow behind her, and when she was about to tidy herself up, a figure appeared behind her.

It was Cristian...

Through the mirror, Serena saw Cristian staring darkly at her.

"It's the first time you've put on makeup." He said in a low voice with a grimace.

Serena had already figured it out, so she lifted her lips to him in the mirror and smiled, "Okay? When I become beautiful, I'll save your reputation, but...You probably won't need it anymore. "

She said this last sentence very softly, Cristian could not hear the whole sentence but only a little, arched his eyebrows and said, "What are you descending?"

Serena came back to herself and smiled at him in the mirror, "Did I say something? No? I just said, don't you want your reputation? Do I dress well, or don't you care about your reputation?"

After she finished speaking, Serena got up and went to the closet to get a blue dress to wear. When she came out, she let her hair down; that light blue looked good on her,

Seeing Serena like this, Cristian felt very uncomfortable.

He tightened his thin lips and asked in a cold voice, "Do you want to go out?"

Hearing, Serena nodded, "Yes, I plan to...Today I'm going out with Alice, we...It's been a long time since we went shopping together. "

Hearing Alice's name, the expression on Cristian's face changed, his eyes seemed to lack the same naturalness.

"Are you looking for her?"

Chapter 248: That person is wrong!

Serena nodded, "Is there a problem?"

When she asked him, Serena continued to stare at Cristian, trying to find out what his true emotions were.

But for the first time, Cristian did not look directly into her eyes, but looked away and said coldly, "No."

"Oh, then I'm on vacation today too, I'm going out."

After speaking, Serena directly grabbed her bag and went out.

"Stop!" Cristian suddenly stopped her.

After Serena was about to leave, Cristian did not notice that there was no smile on Serena's face and her back was to him, and she was totally different from when she rejected him the night before.

"Are you sure you are only looking for her? No one else? "

Hearing this, Serena turned her head and smiled deeply at Cristian.

"Do you think I'm going to go and date other men behind your back?"

Cristian frowned unhappily, staring at her sharply like a hawk.

"Don't worry, I don't have that kind of interest. Besides, even if I really date a man, I won't be so swaggering in front of you."

After saying this, Serena left the room directly.

Looking over her shoulder, Cristian did not understand why he had the feeling that he was losing something.

This feeling caught him off guard.

Walking downstairs, Serena ran into Leonardo who was about to leave.

When the two of them met, there was a flash of surprise in Leonardo's eyes and then doubt: why had she suddenly dressed so well when she was usually dressed plain?

Before she could react, his steps had already moved toward her.

"Serena, do you want to go out?"

He asked.

Serena nodded, "Yes, good morning."

The statement made Leonardo's eyes darken, and after a while he laughed as if he was thinking about something: "Good morning, are you meeting someone important today that you are dressed so well?"

"No, I'm going shopping with a friend."

"Do you need me to give you a ride?" Leonardo lifted the key in his hand, "I'm going out too."

Serena initially wanted to refuse, when she raised her head, she saw a familiar figure. Serena paused, then nodded, "Okay."

Leonardo did not notice her reaction, raised his lips, "Let's go then."

"Yes." Serena advanced and Leonardo suddenly raised his head, his gaze falling on the person upstairs from a distance, only to face those sharp eyes.

At that moment, he had always been kind, pulled out a smile, and then turned to walk next to Serena,

"Have you had breakfast? Shall we go eat something together? "

Serena blinked, then nodded, "Okay."

Leonardo did not know what had happened between her and Cristian. How was it possible that the situation could change dramatically, but this did not impress him. As long as Serena was willing to give him a chance to get closer, he would have time to prove his feelings to her.

And that was more than enough.

After getting into the car, Serena pulled out her cell phone to send Alice a message asking her to meet that day at the bar.

Hearing her mention the bar, Alice was surprised.

He answered her, "Why are we meeting at the bar?"

Serena calmly replied, "I want to drink milk tea there. Do you want to accompany me?"

There was some silence and then she resumed talking, Serena told her the time and then put the phone aside.

"Do you have an appointment with a friend?" Leonardo asked inadvertently upon seeing her put the phone down.

Serena leaned back in the car seat and nodded as she watched the trees and buildings receding outside the window.

Although the sun was in the sky at that moment, there were many people in town, and her clothes were very thick, Serena still felt very cold, and...lonely, very lonely.

Leonardo who was driving the car and cast a glance at her, found that her mood was different today, and that she felt very bad.

He frowned and asked worriedly, "What happened?"

Hearing this, Serena paused, then shook her head, "Nothing happened."

"There's something wrong with you today."

"Is that so?" Serena smiled faintly and lifted her lips, "It's the way I'm dressed today."

She said it quietly, it was as if she was not taking herself seriously.

Unable to understand her completely, Leonardo could not say anything to her and finally had to give up, "What do you want for breakfast?"

"Any is fine, I have no preference." Serena answered, then closed her eyes and rested.

Leonardo saw her tired, so he did not speak to her anymore, but sped up.

After a while the car stopped. Serena had fallen asleep. She woke up after being called by Leonardo several times, felt helpless when Leonardo looked at her with wistful eyes and stared at her fondly,

"We're here, get ready to get off."

Serena stared at him blankly for a moment then came back to herself.

"Yes."

She unbuckled her seat belt, crinkled her eyes, Leonardo grabbed her hand, she raised her head and looked at him in astonishment.

"Big brother?"

Leonardo gave a giggle, reached out his finger and touched her forehead, "What do you think? You put on makeup, but if you rub your eyes, the makeup will disappear. "

His voice was so gentle that it was caught in Serena's cotton-soft heart.

Hearing what he had said, Serena realized that she had rubbed her eyes and would waste makeup if she rubbed her eyes.

Thinking about this, she nodded, "I know."

Then she pulled her hand back, blinked, and then got out of the car, following Leonardo.

When they had breakfast, Serena was still distracted: countless kinds of food with various fragrances passed in front of her, but the expression on her face was always weak and impassive.

Leonardo took a dumpling and put it in her bowl, "You don't seem very interested in what you're eating."

He said, but she was deep in thought.

"Oh, that's okay." She smiled awkwardly, and then ate the dumpling.

It looked like she was eating something tasteless. After seeing this scene, Leonardo could not help but frown and put down his chopsticks.

"Serena, tell me, what happened?"

Serena stared at him blankly.

"Between you and Cristian, last night...what happened? Don't try to lie to me, you look completely different today. "

After thinking for a while, Serena smiled calmly, "Big brother, you think too much. I was just thinking about where to go shopping with a friend of mine. That's why my mind is somewhere else. Nothing happened between Cristian and me."

Having said that, she paused, and then stared at Leonardo, "Have you forgotten what I said last night?"

"I won't do anything you don't want, right? "

Said Leonardo choking, "Are you accusing me of being nosy?"

Chapter 249: Rivals in love?

"Forget it, since you don't want to say it, I won't force you." Leonardo took another dumpling and put it in his bowl, "It's just that you're too skinny. You need to eat more."

"Well, thank you brother." Serena thanked him and then ate another one.

So Serena got distracted and finished her breakfast, and when Leonardo said goodbye to her, he was still worried about her, and it took him a long time to let her go alone.

Finally, Serena got on the bus by herself, and when she was in the bus, she fell into deep thoughts again.

How on earth was she going to tell Alice this?

Serena was so confused the whole way, she didn't know if she had caught the bus, until she realized she had missed her stop, stopped suddenly, and got off the bus.

After getting off, Serena was depressed and reached out and wrinkled her irritated eyebrows.

The phone vibrated, Serena looked down and saw that Alice had sent a message on Facebook, asking her why she had not yet arrived.

Serena had to text back, "I missed my stop, I'll be right there!"

Then, when she was about to go the other way to catch the bus, a car stopped in front of her, and then the window rolled down.

"Get in." Leonardo looked at her helplessly with gentle eyebrows.

Seeing Leonardo, Serena was a little surprised, staring at him in astonishment, "Why are you here?

Shouldn't you..."

be gone already? She had obviously missed several stops, so he should have been there.

"How naive of me, I thought you were so upset this morning, how could I make sure you could catch the bus by yourself? But you didn't want me to accompany you, and all I could do was follow you. "

After speaking, Leonardo smiled again and said warmly, "Get in the car."

Alice was already waiting for her. It would take about ten minutes to get to that stop. Serena was embarrassed for making her wait again, so she had to get into the car quickly.

After she got into the car, Leonardo reminded her to fasten her seatbelt, and then accompanied her.

"Go ahead and be careful."

Leonardo scratched his head and told her to go ahead, Serena looked at him uncomprehendingly, then nodded and drove off.

It was still a two-minute walk to the agreed location and Serena hurried on.

Although it had not been long since she had left school, this bar still had many customers, and most of them were students in the vicinity. Serena's dress was particularly eye-catching. A boy whistled at her from behind.

Serena walked without seeing him; she had already seen Alice sitting in a corner.

That day, Alice was wearing a pink skirt, it was long and plentiful, she looked like a little princess.

Alice was slipping a pearl into the cup and was getting bored. The expression on her face showed her impatience. A boy wanted to ask her for her number, but she sneered and then scolded him, "Go away, you're ugly and don't look at me like that, aren't you worthy?"

The boy blushed at her rebuke, "You, if you don't want to give it to me, don't give it to me, but why do you insult me?"

Alice stared at him with a proud face, "Do you know who I am? How dare you ask me for my number?

And if you continue, I will find other ways to insult you! "

The boy felt helpless and shyly turned and walked away, he also ran into Serena who was approaching. Serena collided with him, took two steps back and almost fell.

"I'm sorry!" The boy realized he had collided with someone and immediately apologized. When he raised his head, he saw Serena's appearance, his eyes widened as he stood there, his eyes saw beautiful colors.

Unexpectedly, he had been so lucky that day, when he had been rejected by a beautiful woman, and unexpectedly, he had run into another beautiful woman.

"Hello beauty, my name is..." The boy wanted to come forward to talk to Serena, but Alice stood up and pushed him away, in an impatient tone, "Go away, Serena, why are you here now, you know I've been waiting for you...

With that said, Alice paused.

She stared at Serena, who was wearing a long skirt in front of her, "You, how are you..."

Serena smiled at her, and then whispered to the man next to her, "I'm fine, go away."

After speaking, he went around and sat down in front of Alice, she was still amazed, but the man was fascinated by Serena's smile, being there was like being in heaven.

In heaven, she was a goddess!

She was so kind and had the sweetest smile.

It took a while for Alice to react. She looked at Serena with a complicated look. She didn't know if she had dressed so well in the past, but at that moment Serena was dressed like that, her personality had emerged and she was dazzling.

Even though she had light makeup on.

The smile on her face was kind, as was her personality revealed by her cool eyes, really...She was exactly the woman in that picture.

Her gestures...was that her power?

Thinking about this, Serena was shocked, absolutely not! Serena was too similar to Mrs. Giordano. If Matteo had seen Serena, something would have happened.

But at that moment it wouldn't have happened, Alice could only calm down and smile annoyed at Serena, "Serena, you...why did you think of wearing makeup today? And you are also dressed so well?"

Hearing this, Serena looked at her strangely, "Haven't you always told me that to dress well? Now I get it, women should really love themselves. "

After speaking, Serena smiled at her, "Alice, don't you think it's good for me to be like this?"

The expression on Alice's face was stiff, and she nodded forcibly, "Very good, really good."

It was just that she had become beautiful, and it had become a threat to her.

Suddenly, Alice felt that the little demon in her heart was starting to move frantically again.

Serena didn't know what she was thinking, but she could still see something in his expression, so she pretended to ask, "Don't you look happy?"

Hearing that, Alice's expression changed and she quickly defended herself, "What? How is that possible? How can I be angry? I'm happy that you are beautiful."

"Is that so? What do you say.....After I become beautiful, will Cristian like me? "

The expression on Alice's face showed her impatience as she stared at Serena dumbfounded,

"Serena, do you...do you really like him? "

Serena smiled weakly, "Yes, I like him."

"But..."

"What?"

"... "Alice wanted to speak again but hesitated, the scene in front of her did not allow her to utter any words.

Serena saw that she could not speak and that the smile on her face gradually faded. After a while, she went on, "But you like him too, so we are rivals in love, aren't we? "

Chapter 250: Who let you touch my things?

"Serena?" Alice was shocked.

Compared to her, Serena was particularly calm.

"If you don't say anything, I'll say it for you."

Alice's face became extremely pale, staring at her as if she were a ghost.

Serena chuckled slightly and reached out her hand to squeeze her cold cheek, "Why do you look so surprised?"

"You, don't talk nonsense." Alice lowered her hand and shook her head desperately, "I have nothing with Cristian, and I don't even like him! We are not rivals, we are sisters. "

"Thick as thieves..." Serena muttered these four words, lowered her head, and her voice became lower and lower: "We really are like sisters, but I didn't expect that we would want the same person and that you would lie to me."

"I'm not lying to you!" Alice was really anxious, stood in front of her to pull her hand and anxiously explained, "Serena, who did you hear this nonsense from? Was it Anna? Is she still provoking you?"

You have to believe me, I really wouldn't be with Cristian..."

When she looked up, Serena saw the pair of pink earrings on her ears shining under the sun, as if it was all a tease from Alice.

"Alice, do you know?" Serena took her hand and looked at her calmly, "I saw the pair of pink earrings on your ears."

After that sentence, Alice completely stopped all her movements.

She opened her lips, as if she wanted to say something to Serena, but could not say a word.

Serena smiled quietly and said calmly, "We don't decide what to feel and for whom, I don't blame you, but...I still won't forgive you. "

After speaking, Serena stood up, without looking at Alice, her eyes looking away from the door.

"From now on, we will no longer be like sisters."

After Serena left, Alice stood there for a long time before she remembered to reach out and explain, but when she reached the door, Serena had disappeared.

For a while, Alice was so nervous that she did not know how to act. She did not expect Serena to find out about this matter so quickly. She wanted to keep her in the dark for a while; Serena should not have asked her.

No one would have imagined that she would be so direct.

Alice grabbed her cell phone and called Serena, but her cell phone was turned off. There was nothing she could do. Alice was anxious and looked around quickly.

After searching for most of the day, she could no longer find her. In utter despair, Alice had to turn back, but halfway there she received a call from Luke, saying that Cristian wanted to see her.

After hearing the news that Cristian wanted to see her, Alice swallowed her emotions about Serena and after enthusiastically asking for the location, she hurried there.

When she arrived at her destination, she found Cristian looking at her coldly, but Alice still approached with a sweet smile, "Cristian, you were looking for me."

Seeing Alice, Luca stepped aside, trying to stay as far away from her as possible.

Even though he knew the whole story, he did not like this woman. She was annoying to look at. She actually digs her good sister's corner, and she digs it so naturally. Seeing Cristian, her eyes stick to Him. Her gaze on him.

Cristian did not respond to her words; he merely glanced at her and saw the pink earrings on her ears.

His eyes were sharp as a hawk, and he slammed her wrist and pulled her to him.

"Who allowed you to wear that pair of earrings?"

His voice was as cold as ice and as sharp as a knife.

"Ah, you're hurting me!" Alice's wrist was crushed by him and her face turned pale with pain, but Cristian still had no intention of letting go. He looked at her angrily, "Who gave you permission to touch my things? Say it!"

Alice's tears flowed in pain, "They fell out of your dress pocket that night. I looked at them and liked them, so..."

"Taking without asking is stealing! Is Miss Giordano missing these button earrings? "

Seeing the pair of earrings worn on her ears, no one knew how, but Cristian perceived them as being dirty.

When Serena had worn them, he had thought they looked good on her, but who knew she would never buy them. So he went back and bought them later, looking for an opportunity to give them to her.

Who would have imagined that this woman would take the first step!

"Sorry!" Alice felt that her hand was about to be chopped off. The pain made her tears fall. She could only apologize deeply to Cristian, "I'm really sorry, I really like these earrings, so I wore them. I only wore them once, if you are angry, I will give them back."

After speaking, he reached out his other hand to remove the pair of earrings.

Cristian shook his hand and said coldly, "No, even if you take them off, these earrings are useless."

Hearing this, Alice stopped in place, looked at Cristian in amazement, "What do you mean by that?"

Luca was listening and could not help but rage, "It means that you have defiled these earrings. Really, you are really the daughter of the Jordans, how can you be such a bad person? Do you take away other people's things without asking? Are you Giordano's daughter, or do you pretend to be? "

This little sentence pierced Alice's heart, her eyes suddenly became fierce and stared at Luke saying,

"What are you talking about?"

Luca was startled by her fierce gaze, "What eyes?"

Cristian cast a glance and Alice immediately resumed her previous posture, she pitied, "Cristian, I'm really sorry...I didn't mean to wear that pair of earrings. I had just woken up and saw them. Then I thought they were very beautiful. I thought you gave them to me, so I...I put them on, I really didn't mean, if you don't like it, I won't touch your things in the future. "

After speaking, Alice quickly removed the earrings and put them back in Cristian's palm.

"I return them to you, and I promise that until you let me touch them, I will never touch them again."

The pair of pink earrings returned to Cristian's hands, but he looked irritated and sneered, "They all wore them, do you think I will want them again?"

Alice's face paled, and even the blood on her lips was gone. She bit her lower lip and said shakily, "I see, you bought the pair of button earrings for Serena?" I'm really sorry, if I had known you were going to give them to Serena, I would never have touched them! "

Having said that, Alice raised her hand and slapped her face, "I didn't behave well. I shouldn't show up in front of you. I will go find Serena and admit my mistake in front of her!"
