

Virginitv 30

Chapter 30

"Well, it's more exciting in the open air, but I'm afraid Mr. Cristian won't understand."

Enrico's gaze fell on Cristian's legs.

Luca frowned and was about to get angry.

Cristian remained calm and replied coldly, "In fact, I don't understand, because I wouldn't play with a second-hand woman."

Serena remained speechless hiding behind the tree.

Holy crap, but did he know she was here? Was he saying that on purpose so that she would listen to him?

Enrico was infuriated by Cristian's words and smiled, "I, on the other hand, would like to know whether or not Mr. Cristian is capable of it. Not to mention second-hand."

Luca gritted his teeth and said, "Psychopath. Are you asking such a question to be screw up by any chance? Then be careful."

What? Enrico was very confused. He just wanted to tease Cristian who was disabled and helpless. When did he say he wanted to be screwed up? This assistant was really annoying!

Serena herself was speechless. She did not expect Luca's thought to be so strange!

"Your assistant's words are really interesting!" Enrico reacted and began to counter.

The conversations between them were really deadly, and Luca froze.

Enrico dropped his gaze to Cristian, "If I had known that Mr. Cristian was present at the dinner, I should have paid you a visit earlier."

Cristian's gaze remained indifferent and he said, "It is not necessary."

Serena listened to them in the distance, but it was night and she was wearing a dress, so she became a valuable meal for the mosquitoes. But she dared not scratch herself for bending over she would make noise and be caught.

But the itching was really unbearable. Gradually, she can not resist it any longer. She made a noise touching the leaves as she bent down to scratch herself.

Enrico's smile disappeared and he approached in her direction, "Who's there?"

Serena was startled and had the slightest courage to move.

Cristian spoke indifferently, "It's just the wind. Wouldn't you be too sensitive?"

Enrico paused at his words, "Is it the wind or the person you want to protect?"

Cristian did not speak, but became even more furious.

"I am very interested in the person you want to protect."

The two faced each other in silence, but it was Cristian who overcame him. Finally Enrico laughed, "I heard you are not simple and I had the honor of verifying it. Well, I'm going to my girls. I have to leave you."

"Go ahead."

Serena went as far as to maintain the same posture until Enrico left and waited for Cristian to leave as well. But time passed and Cristian did not seem to have the intention of leaving.

When she could not take it no longer, she finally heard Cristian's voice.

"Until when do you plan to hide?"

Hearing this, Serena was startled and fell to the ground.

"Who is it?" Luca was surprised and saw that it was Serena, "Why are you here?"

Serena could resist no longer, sat down leaning against the tree and placed her glass on the ground. She rubbed her leg that was full of mosquito bites, and looked at Luca all helplessly.

Luca suddenly realized, "Ah, Enrico was saying about you."

Cristian pushed the wheelchair and looked at her, "Get up."

Serena was not very comfortable with all these stings, but still she stood up.

"I sent you to look for Enrico, and you came to see live porn?"

What? Serena's cheeks blushed, so did that mean he was watching it too?

Thinking of this, Serena unconsciously asked, "You ... did you see him too?"

Cristian narrowed his eyes, "So you admit it?"

Serena hastened to shake her head, "No, I didn't want to see him on purpose, but when I found him they were already... I was afraid of being discovered and hid behind the tree, but I didn't imagine they would be so..."

Bold!

They did it right outside the hall.

"Didn't you think about it or did you do it on purpose? You didn't research him in advance? Or..." Cristian's gaze suddenly intensified and his voice grew colder, "Did you consider Enrico as your next target?"

Hearing this, Serena finally understood what Cristian's words meant.

Did he think she was an unfaithful woman and wanted to seduce every man she met? Enrico was an exceptional person in many areas, so Cristian believed he was her new target.

She realized everything, her face turned white and her lips suddenly turned pale.

"I know you despise me, but you can't insult me like that. I have dignity too!"

"Oh yeah? How much is your dignity?"

Cristian insulted her mercilessly, and Serena remained wide-eyed.

It was hard to believe that, in front of her, the man was mocking her badly, but in front of others he was helping her with affection.

What kind of person he was?

Thinking about the above, Serena decided to put up with it, biting her lower lip and not speaking.

"Luca, let's go." Cristian ordered coldly, and Luca nodded, pushing him away.

Serena saw them go and followed.

"Don't follow me."