Chapter 301 Weren't you looking forward to it?

Or, she wanted to take care of her feelings after what had happened with Alice.

Serena tightened her red lips and did not speak again.

Moreover, she forgot to read those papers.

Leonardo looked at her from the rearview mirror and asked her gently as he drove, "Do you have a good relationship with Anna?"

Hearing this, Serena came back to herself and nodded, "Of course."

"No wonder that girl does so much for you. She is indeed a person worthy of deep friendship."

Serena could not help but smile. "Yes, she is more loyal than I thought, I didn't expect her to be so kind to me."

"We are about to arrive at the party, you have already prepared the dress, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"I haven't yet, later I'll go pick out my dress, you can do your makeup in the meantime, so we'll leave on time. I have calculated the time. Don't worry, we won't be late."

Serena had no particular reaction except to nod.

In her hands she held the box with the dress and documents about the investigation of Alice.

She should have opened the envelope as soon as she got into the car, but she didn't know why, not then it didn't really occur to her to open that envelope.

After driving in silence for a long time, Leonardo noticed it and asked, "Aren't you going to open it?"

Hearing this, Serena was stunned, and then smiled slightly, "Don't worry."

Leonardo smiled, "Earlier when we were eating I thought you were in a hurry. So... Wasn't that the thing you were interested in?"

How could she not be interested?

Serena took the documents. At first she was worried about those papers, but when she pulled them out, she began to think about the look of Cristian outside the door that had haunted her up to that moment....

She almost seemed to have the feeling that the two things were there in front of her, and at a glance choose which one was the more important.

If it were true that Alice had become pregnant with Cristian, then.... She would have chosen the former.

Anna always said she was not brave, because she had been hurt before, she was terrified of being betrayed, like a shadow on her marriage, if she had believed Cristian, such a thing would not have happened.

So she was there still time to believe him if she wanted to?

Thinking about this, Serena quickly grabbed her cell phone and sent a message to Anna.

If Anna had gotten into the car with them, they could have communicated more quickly.

Reading the contents of the message, Serena wrinkled her nose and almost cried.

She had to reach out and cover her mouth. There were faint cold tears in her eyes, but at the same time they were also smiling.

"Follow your heart. If you choose to believe him, it means you have bravely faced your feelings. I am very happy for you. And Serena, no matter what choice you make, I will be on your side, be brave!"

That's right, she should face her feelings and be braver.

To risk such a high gamble, there are two possibilities. At worst she would be back to square one, she had nothing to lose.

Serena smiled and wiped the tears at the corners of her eyes, then put those important documents in her bag; she would wait until she got home to destroy them.

Leonardo noticed her movements. At that moment, he felt a little disappointed and drained. A moment later, he smiled bitterly and said, "It would seem that you really like it."

Hearing those words, Serena paused. A moment later, she nodded, "Yes, I do."

There was nothing particular to admit.

Leonardo said nothing. A strange silence fell in the car until they reached their destination. Leonardo accompanied her to do her makeup, then went to choose clothes.

Serena told the makeup artist that she was in a hurry, so she asked her to be quick. The makeup artist sent her to get dressed first so that she would not ruin her makeup by getting dressed.

As she was being made up, she noticed that the makeup artist was skillful and quick, but she thought it still took a long time.

The moment they heard Leonardo's voice outside, the makeup artist withdrew her hand.

"Very good, young lady, you look really beautiful."

Serena came to her senses and looked at herself in the mirror. She saw that the work was already finished.

But she did not look very closely. After thanking her, she got up and left.

Leonardo waited for her outside; when she came out, a touch of astonishment appeared in his eyes.

The dress Cristian had prepared for her was silver, completely different from the way she usually dressed. The silver light highlighted her white skin. Between her makeup and dress, she looked like a princess out of a painting.

When the light hit Serena, Leonardo had a strange impression.

She was a true princess, she should have been born into royalty, loved and flattered by all.

But her family did not expect her to have such a temperament, it is a very rare thing.

After taking two steps, Serena stumbled and almost fell forward.

Leonardo changed his expression. He quickly stepped forward to pick her up, "Are you okay?"

Serena was so startled that she shook her head, "I'm fine."

Several people standing to the side also paled in fear, but were relieved to see her saved, fortunately.

"Just as well." Leonardo let go of her hand and made her stand, "Since you are ready, we can go."

"Yes."

Serena walked out with Leonardo and got back into the car.

Walking to the car, Leonardo unbuttoned her dress and took it off, "Put it on. It's very windy at night.

Your dress is not heavy enough."

Seeing the dress, Serena declined, "Thank you, but it won't be cold when we get into the car."

With that, she opened the door herself and leaned over to sit down.

Leonardo's hand holding the dress remained suspended in midair. A moment later, she put the dress back on without saying a word.

She gave a bitter smile. Leonardo. She likes Cristian. What are you still thinking about?

*

The time was approaching, the party was about to start.

At that moment, the banquet hall was very lively. The employees were preparing for the banquet.

However, on the second floor there was a wheelchair on which Cristian was sitting, gazing coldly at the front door.

That woman... She had not yet arrived and had not even called him.

How cruel.

Luca, who was next to him, probably felt Cristian's sadness and could not help but say, "Cristian, are you waiting for Serena? She will come. I sent her the address."

Hearing those words, Cristian came to his senses, sneered with his thin lips and said, "What should I care if she comes or not?"

Luca: "Weren't you looking forward to her?"

Chapter 302 Incident

Cristian: "What makes you look like I'm looking forward to her coming?"

Luca: "You keep looking at the entrance, isn't it because you are waiting for Serena?"

"If I look at the entrance then am I waiting for her? Luca, since when can you see inside people?"

Luca: "... All right, never mind."

In fact, he was waiting for Serena, but he didn't want to admit it.

He didn't understand what was wrong between these two people.

But... Thinking about what he had investigated, Luca felt worried.

Serena, you have to come, if you don't come.... I'm afraid...

Luca thought no more about it.

After all, on such an important day as today, Cristian wanted to invite her to the party so that everyone would know that Serena was his wife.

Cristian asked her to come, but she refused.

Woman, you'd better come before the party starts....

Otherwise I will not forgive you.

Cristian repeated this sentence silently in his mind, then huffed coldly and left in his wheelchair.

As they were on Via San Marco, Serena looked at the time and saw that it was ten minutes to eight, but they were still on their way.

"Leonardo, are we there yet?"

Leonardo nodded, "Yes, after crossing the bridge in front of us, it will only be two hundred meters."

Perfect!

Serena smiled. The bridge was close. Very soon she would be able to see Cristian!

She had not broken her promise and managed to arrive on time.

Leonardo saw her worried and sped up; he did not expect that thing would cause him to have an accident.

When they were about to get on the bridge, a van came out at high speed.

Serena felt that something was wrong. When she looked up, the van was very close to them. She screamed so loudly that she almost lost her voice, watching the van hit them.

When Leonardo realized what had happened, he quickly turned the steering wheel. He was also very agitated. He had not expected something like this to happen. When he turned the steering wheel,

Leonardo turned back and shouted to Serena behind him, "Serena, get out now!"

The party began on time. The start was signaled by the opening music and fireworks. Guests began to enter, but Cristian saw no familiar faces at the door.

At that moment Luca looked at him, "It's just the beginning. It will take more than ten minutes for all the guests to have finished entering."

Hearing this, Cristian frowned, "Did you give her the official invitation?"

Luca was stunned for a moment and shook his head, "I guess not."

"Damn, how does she get in?"

Luca replied abruptly, "I see. I'll go down and get Serena." After saying that, Luca turned quickly and went down to the lobby where they were letting guests in with the official invitation. Of course...

Without

an official invitation, Serena could not enter.

Many people knew Luca, so they greeted him.

"Luca, you came to help."

Luca smiled and replied, "Yes, I have to pick someone up."

"If even you bother to pick someone up, it must be someone really important, it is possible to know who it is, hehe..."

"Hurry in. The party has already started." Luca did not tell him. After all, Cristian wanted to personally introduce Serena, he had just told him.

Luca's eyes scanned the crowd. Today, many people wear jewelry and expensive clothes. However, he could not see Serena. Luca was worried, he did not know whether Serena would come or not.

Was it possible that she would not come?

As soon as he thought about it, Luca quickly grabbed his cell phone and called Serena.

So Luca immediately called Serena.

"The number you have dialed is currently unreachable."

The cold pre-recorded voice mail kept repeating that phrase, and Luca's expression quickly changed.

Was Serena really not coming tonight?

He was really anxious! At the thought of Cristian's cold stare, Luca felt desperate. If Serena did not come, Cristian's mood tonight.... And later! It's too much!

Luca was anxious, he would look for her himself, and take her there even if it meant dragging her there against her will.

Thinking of this, Luca put his cell phone away and left, but was stopped, "Luca, are you going out? This is not a good time to go out."

Luca felt annoyed and could not help but frown, "What do you mean?"

"There was an accident on the bridge. The driver of a van was drunk and broke the guardrail of the bridge. This is a real crime, who would drive drunk? Now the cars that are there can no longer pass.

The police have blocked the road. "

"Really?" Luca frowned. With the guardrail broken, the police stood there blocking the road, no one would be able to pass. What if Serena was stuck there?

Thinking about this, he returned to the second floor. Just as she arrived at Cristian's and Luca was ready to report to Cristian, she heard his cold voice, "She didn't come right?"

"Cristian, something has happened..."

"If she doesn't come, forget it."

When he finished speaking, Cristian turned and left the second floor. Luca changed his expression and rushed to him, "Cristian, maybe Serena is coming. Before she left the villa, she told me she was coming. She doesn't seem to be the kind of person to break her promise."

"Really? And where is she now? If she is not the kind of person to break her promises, why is she not here now?"

Luke: "This..."

He could not say a word. In fact he could understand Cristian's feelings. After all, after knowing all those things, he still gave her a choice. But Serena had chosen to take a different path.

The party had started more than ten minutes before, and Serena still had not shown up.

There was no other way, now he was busy, Luca had to follow Cristian, and as for Serena.... If she's really coming, he'll bring her here when she shows up!

"The guardrail of the bridge is broken. The van hit several cars and injured several people. Now we are still carrying out the investigation."

When Leonardo was rescued, he was in a semi-comatose state, he had been cut by shards of glass all over his body, and his brain had probably been damaged as well, at the time he was bleeding.

After being pulled to safety and lying on the ground, he grabbed the hand of the man who had rescued him, "Behind... Help her!"

The man was stunned, "You mean there are people in the back seat?"

"Yes!"

"All right, we'll get her out now."

Chapter 303 You are really good

Serena was not seriously hurt, because when the truck hit the car, Leonardo swerved, but could not slow down much. The truck hit the front of the car, then slammed into the car on its side, and then smashed into the guardrail, falling into the lake. A search had been launched to rescue the people inside, but it was not known whether they were alive or dead.

Serena acted cautiously after hearing Leonardo's words, but the impact at that moment was extremely violent. She could not sustain that impact. Suddenly she fainted and some shards of glass scratched her, but she was not injured n particularly seriously.

When she was pulled out, she stood beside Leonardo and lay there pale.

Leonardo was badly injured, but he was very lucid. When he saw her lying beside him, he immediately got up to see how she was. The person next to him shouted, "Sir, for safety's sake, you'd better not move. This woman seems to have no particular problems. She only suffered a minor injury."

"How can you be sure the injury is minor? She can't even speak or move? If she is not injured, why is she unconscious?"

"This..." The man was speechless, feeling choked up by Leonardo's words. He looked at Serena. True, she had not suffered any particular trauma, only superficial wounds. She seemed to be fine, but why had she remained unconscious?

"Serena?" As her body was in pain, Leonardo called out Serena's name.

But Serena lay without moving.

He was so worried that he asked the man beside him, "Excuse me, could you call an ambulance for me?"

The man was stunned for a moment and after a while nodded, "Sir, the ambulance is already on its way. It will be here soon. Don't worry."

Was it already on its way? Leonardo breathed a sigh of relief.

Serena, hang in there!

If anything happened to you, I would feel guilty for the rest of my life!

The scene was very chaotic. Beside the accident area, there was a huge crowd watching the scene in curiosity. The police had no choice but to evacuate all those people. After the evacuation, the ambulance immediately arrived at the scene.

Leonardo held Serena in his arms until she was loaded onto a stretcher to be loaded into the ambulance. When he arrived, he asked the doctor while still holding her in his arms, "Doctor, how is she? Is she in danger?"

The doctor immediately checked Serena, and then said to Leonardo, "There seems to be no problem at the moment. Your injuries are more serious."

Saying this, he said to the two nurses beside him, "Rescue him first."

Hearing that Serena was in no danger, Leonardo was relieved. The worry dissipated, and gradually ...

Leonardo let go and fell asleep.

"Doctor, he has fainted."

"Don't worry, continue with the treatments, disinfect all his wounds."

"All right."

The doctor looked at Serena and thought the two were a couple, otherwise he would not have been so worried about her. Despite being injured like that, he continued to keep himself from fainting. Now that he knew the girl's life was not in danger, he could let go and pass out.

Meanwhile, the party had begun in full swing.

"She still hasn't arrived?" Although Cristian had told Luke he didn't care, in his heart he couldn't wait for that woman to appear from the doorway, or from around the corner, or in front of him and tell him she had arrived.

But no matter how long he waited, she would not come.

When Luke heard that question, he was so surprised that he hesitated to say, "I sent someone to wait for her. If Serena arrives, we will be notified immediately."

"What time is it?" Cristian asked in a cold voice.

Luca looked at the time, his expression suddenly changed, and said in a low voice, "It's almost nine o'clock."

"I see." Cristian sneered, "Very well indeed."

"Cristian, there is one thing I don't know is good to tell you."

"If you know it's better not to tell me, then don't ask me." I scolded Cristian coldly. Luca trembled with fear, and when the air reached his lips he froze.

It was better not to say.

What was there to say? Besides, it was not the first time Cristian had been so arrogant and embarrassed him!

For him to return to a good mood, did he have to wait for Serena to appear before him? There was no need to worry about that.

Knowing Cristian's arrogant and proud nature, only when Serena spoke to him would he calm down.

But Luca did not expect that this time things would be so different from previous times.

Hospital.

The people who had been injured in the accident were all taken to the hospital. Leonardo was taken to intensive care because he was seriously injured. Serena seemed to be fine, so she was taken to the general medicine ward. When the doctor noted that she was pregnant, she immediately changed her expression: "Did you say she was pregnant?"

"Yes."

The doctor glanced at Serena, "She hasn't woken up yet. She may have suffered internal injuries. Take her immediately to the ICU to check her better."

The nurse nodded. As she was transporting Serena, Serena suddenly cried out and then woke up.

"Are you awake?" The nurse exclaimed, leaning forward, "How are you feeling? Do you hurt anywhere?"

Serena felt only that her head was very heavy and ached a little, but it took her a while to regain her clarity. Then she clearly saw the scene in front of her. The doctor and the nurse stood beside her with worried looks on their faces.

"You..."

"Don't talk, take a deep breath, and then tell me if you feel pain anywhere." Said the doctor in a low voice as she approached her and stopped beside the nurse.

Her voice was calm and steady. Serena unconsciously obeyed what he said and took a deep breath.

After a while, she shook her head, "I don't feel pain anywhere, only..."

"Only what?"

The doctor asked nervously.

"Just a little dizzy..."

"So do you hurt or not?"

"Just...slightly aching in the back of my head."

With that said, Serena thought back to that moment. Leonardo had told her to duck. She obeyed his words and lowered herself as fast as she could. However, because of the momentum, her body was pushed backward, and then her head probably slammed against the door. At that moment, she felt dazed, and then she remembered nothing more.

"It must have been the impact so hard that it knocked you unconscious, now we will do a checkup and then deal with the skin lesions. If you are okay, you can already leave the hospital."

"All right, thank you doctor. By the way, the man who was with me..."

Chapter 304 Hard Support

"Don't worry, he's in intensive care, he's being treated now."

Hearing the words "intensive care," Serena's already pale face suddenly became even paler: "What, intensive care? So he..."

"He has suffered a severe trauma, he needs to be treated as soon as possible."

Severe trauma? Serena remembered when the van hit the front of the car, the shards of broken glass must have fallen on Leonardo. Serena's face turned pale at the thought of this scene.

"Is he okay? Is his life in danger? Can I go see him?" Saying this Serena suddenly got out of bed, removed the blanket, and got out of bed barefoot.

The nurse immediately stopped her, "How are you feeling? You got out of bed so early. You'd better lie down for further checks. You know you are pregnant. You passed out for so long, it's very dangerous."

Serena shook her head, "I'm fine."

The nurse still wanted to persuade her, but Serena was already on her feet. She was still wearing that dress. Her hair was messy. She had small cuts on her face and arms, but it didn't look like anything serious. She had only scratched the corners of his mouth a little, leaving a bloody red wound on his white lips.

"I'll take care of the wound."

The nurse took care of the wound, but Serena insisted, "I'm fine really. Can I go check on her?"

After all, the two had gone out together, and he was seriously injured. If he had not pulled her out in time, who knows what the severity of the injury would have been.

The doctor looked at her and said to the nurse, "Take her to him."

"All right, come with me."

The nurse led Serena out of the ward and turned left. Serena walked quietly behind her. Suddenly she thought and asked, "Where did my bag go anyway? Where are my things?"

"The police were at the scene. Everything should be there. Don't worry about it. When you feel better you can go to the police station and get your things back."

Hearing this, Serena felt relieved and nodded.

"Thank you."

They soon arrived at the place where Leonardo was hospitalized. Serena saw him lying on the hospital bed through the glass window. Because he was badly injured, he lay there lying in the middle of a pool of blood, the sight was shocking.

Serena was startled and breathless.

"There is no need to stand here and watch, there is nothing good about watching a person being treated after a serious accident. Besides, you're pregnant, you shouldn't be watching things like that."

The nurse probably heard her shortness of breath, stood in front of her, blocking her view, and then explained, "At the moment, her situation should be stable. When we arrived, she was still conscious and always told us to check you first. Are you two in love? He was really worried about you. He was seriously injured and kept breathing through clenched teeth. When the doctor told him you were fine, he fainted."

After hearing that speech, Serena was shocked from the bottom of her heart. Her pink lips opened weakly, but she could not say a word.

What had she done...

Serena suddenly regretted... If she had not been so anxious, Leonardo would not have driven so fast.

Actually, she still had time, but because she was afraid of not arriving on time, she wanted to drive faster.... And so he asked him to drive faster.

If Leonardo had not been distracted, he could have seen the van early. If he had seen it early, that tragedy would not have happened.

"He..."

"It's okay, don't worry." The nurse probably felt her sadness and comforted her in a soft voice.

Serena sighed through her nose and whispered, "Can I wait here for him to wake up?"

"Sure, but... They're still treating him, you can come in when they're done."

"Okay." Serena nodded, and then sat down in the chair outside with the nurse's help. Now in her mind was just the image of that van hitting them. At that moment... He only saw Cristian's face.

He thought that when people are about to die, do they see the thing that is most important to them?

Unfortunately... He lost the party.

Thinking about this, Serena lowered her eyes and closed them in silence.

Cristian probably hated her now; she had promised to go to the party, but she had not shown up.

She had no idea how long she had been waiting, the nurse ran out and told her, "Miss, your boyfriend woke up and said he wants to see you."

Hearing this, Serena suddenly raised her head, ignoring the nurse's words about "boyfriend." After all, the situation was very peculiar. She stood up and said, "Did he wake up?"

"Yes, come with me."

Serena followed the nurse into the ward, and saw that Leonardo was awake.

"Leonardo!" Serena approached him, shouting his name.

Leonardo smiled, "If you're okay, then I'm okay, too."

Serena bit her lower lip until it almost bled. He was hurt so badly, but still he thought of her.

For a moment Serena felt even more guilty.

"I'm fine, but you..."

"Come here." Leonardo beckoned her to sit next to him. His eyes fell on the corner of Serena's lips. He saw a red wound there, and he noticed that there was a wound on her arm as well. He was distressed,

"I'm sorry, I didn't protect you."

Serena shook her head, "No, you protected me very well. It was me who caused this. If you had not accompanied me in the car, something like this would not have happened!"

"No, it was meant to be. I do things of my own will. I don't follow other people's orders. But you are different. You still have a chance."

"What?" Serena was taken aback by that sentence; she looked at him bewildered.

She did not understand what he meant when he said he still had a chance.

Leonardo's face was pale, especially in the light. But he told her again, "Serena, the party is not over yet. You still have time. I will clean up and take you there."

After that, the cold night made to get out of bed. Serena was so frightened that she almost fainted again. She quickly got up and said, "No! Leonardo, you are badly hurt. You can't move anymore."

The nurse on the side also intervened, "Yes, sir, you are seriously injured. You cannot get out of bed.

You will have to stay here at least two days!"

"I'm fine." Leonardo stubbornly stood up and wiped the blood on Serena's lips, "It's a superficial wound,

I can take it."

Chapter 305 I'll take you to him

Serena: "... No! No way! Your wounds are so serious, I'm not going anywhere."

If she left him alone now, or let him take her to the party with Leonardo, it would be on her conscience all her life!

She didn't want to misbehave!

"Silly." Whispered Leonardo smilingly, "You didn't like him very much? I'm just helping you."

"No!" Serena shook her head vigorously. The bitter smile with which Leonardo mocked her almost hurt her. Then, as she shook her head, tears suddenly began to fall, "You don't need to do this for me. The only thing you need is to stay in the hospital and recover!"

"What did I just tell you? I'm fine, they are superficial wounds, a bandage is enough, let's go, if we don't leave now, you might not make it back."

"No, no!" Serena bit her lips as she continued to cry, "No need, do you understand? If I want to go, I'll go alone. I won't let you take me! I won't bother you..."

After speaking, Serena could no longer even cry.

She had always suspected that Leonardo had ulterior motives, but now.... She realized that she was the obnoxious one. He treated her so well, but she had always suspected him thinking he was a bad person.

And now... He was badly hurt but insisted on accompanying her.

The nurse stepped aside watching the scene. Because she was young, she was moved and cried. She thought the two were a couple, she did not expect that they were not a couple....

Even if they were not, he was clearly helping her.

How much courage does it take to help a woman who loves another man?

"Don't cry." Her sobs made Leonardo frown. He had really considered that for her; he did not expect her to refuse.

"If you keep crying, there will be no more time. Let's go. I'll take you to the party and then go back to the hospital to recover. What do you say?"

Serena shook her head vigorously. Leonardo firmly grabbed her wrist and dragged her away. Serena paled and replied, "Leonardo, I don't want to go. Leave me. I can go by myself. Let me go!"

The little nurse could not help but cry.

Despite his severe injuries, Leonardo still had a lot of strength. Serena did not resist because he was injured and did not want to move him, so she allowed herself to be dragged forward.

Even though he had dragged her with crazy ease, Serena felt that there was something strange about the way he was walking. He must have been more seriously injured than she thought, and she remembered the nurse earlier telling her about the time he managed to stop himself from passing out by pretending to be fine.

If she doesn't stop him, how can he still restrain himself? Even if she could hold back, her body would give out.

"Leonardo, stop! I have something to tell you, Leonardo... Leonardo!!!"

Serena shouted his name angrily!

Leonardo's breathing was unsteady. He stopped and looked back sadly at Serena.

Serena gasped, tears in her eyes, "Listen to me, I know you are doing this for my sake. I can go by myself. You can stay in the hospital to recover. Or, I won't go, okay?"

Saying that, Serena smiled and added, "It doesn't matter even if I don't go to Cristian. We are husband and wife. I will explain the situation to him later! I'm not going anywhere, I'm going to stay here in the hospital until you recover."

She wanted to drag Leonardo back, but no matter how much she pulled, Leonardo was immobile.

Finally, Serena could not help crying.

"Leonardo, really, I don't need you to do all this for me, please, no need, I'll take you back to your hospital bed, if you hurt yourself again, I'll have you on my conscience for life."

Leonardo fixed her with a deep look, and smiled bitterly, "Why should you have me on your conscience? I am not doing this to upset you. I just want you to be happy and satisfied."

"Come on, before the party is over, let me take you to the party and to him."

"..."

"Come on, there's no time to waste or else. I'll stay here with you wasting time, and you won't see Cristian."

Serena stood still, did not move for half a minute, she did not feel like doing such a cruel thing.

"Serena, this thing I am doing of my own free will. I can't give you happiness, but will I be able to do anything else for you? Right now, the only thing I can do for you is to take you to him instead of letting you stay here with me. If you don't go, I'm afraid I won't be able to get well..." Having said this,

Leonardo began to cough, his slender body suddenly seemed weak.

Serena was so startled that her face whitened, so she nodded to him and promised, "All right, I promise."

"Finally you agree, come on let's go."

He had no choice, Serena could not drag him away, so he decided to go with him.

"Let's take a cab. You are not able to drive, and your car.... Now you can't drive it. It is in the police station."

Leonardo smiled, "All right, whatever."

The two stopped a cab on the side of the road. When Leonardo bent down to get into the car, he seemed to squirm. He was in so much pain that he was sweating, and Serena blanched in fear, "Are you okay? If not..."

"No need." Leonardo sat down in the cab in pain. Serena had no choice but to follow him.

"Are you really okay?"

Leonardo smiled, "I said I would take you to him, so I will. Driver, go to this address."

After Leonardo said the address, the driver replied, "There has been an accident on the bridge and you cannot cross it. Take a detour and try to be fast, but safety first."

"Okay."

The driver nodded, pressed the accelerator, and the car drove off.

In the car Serena was still very nervous, she kept biting her lower lip.

Inside her she felt a great unrest. Leonardo was hurt, but he still wanted to accompany her to the party, but he was still so very late. Would Cristian still be waiting for her?

Chapter 306 She has arrived

No one had any idea what would happen when she arrived at the party.

But now, there was still hope.

As she thought about it, Leonardo said in a soft voice, "When we get there, you go alone, I won't go in with you, to avoid misunderstanding."

Hearing this, Serena felt a knot in her throat and could no longer speak, so she just nodded her head.

After that, she heard Leonardo snort weakly again.

He looked out the window while and bit his lower lip, and he happened to see Leonardo's face reflected in the window. At that moment he looked really weak. And her tear-filled red eyes were also reflected on the window. Serena did not have the courage to keep looking. She quickly lowered her head and tears fell on her skirt.

The skirt was made of gauze, and the tears were quickly absorbed.

The driver drove with steady speed, at that hour there was no more traffic. They soon reached their destination.

"You said this is the place? There are too many people, I can't drive any further. Is it okay if I stop here?" The driver asked, turning toward Leonardo.

Leonardo smiled and nodded, "Sure, we will get off here."

As soon as he finished speaking, he looked at Serena, "Can you make it on your own?"

Serena nodded, of course she could make it. Leonardo had been able to accompany her here despite the severe injuries she had just suffered. How could she not make it?

"Of course, but you..."

Leonardo smiled gently at her, and reached out his hand to touch Serena's head. Serena unconsciously wanted to avoid his hand, but a second later she stopped, without backing away with her body.

Leonardo stopped his hand in midair for a moment, then touched her head and gently rubbed, "Don't worry, follow your heart, don't worry about me, I'll go back to the hospital to recover, okay?"

"Okay." Serena nodded and her eyes were all red, "When it's over, I'll come to the hospital to see you."

"Okay, I will wait for you at the hospital." Finally, Leonardo smiled at her. Seeing that the dress was in a mess, he reached out his hand to fix it for her, "Although the dress, hair and makeup are a bit messy, now there is no time to fix, go find Cristian, okay?"

"I'll go now."

"Be careful."

After opening the door, Serena put her high-heeled shoes on the floor and quickly got out. After closing the door and taking two steps, she turned back to look at Leonardo. Leonardo, who was sitting by the window, stared at her from a distance.

She had the impression that moment lasted an eternity.

Serena bit her lower lip and let it go, she was there now, she could not look back.

It didn't matter now, now she had to find Cristian.

After Serena made up her mind, her gaze turned serious and she walked quickly toward the crowd in front of her.

By that time the party had almost come to an end. Cristian's face was somber, and his breath was cold.

No one dared to provoke him; he looked like a demon, even the aura he exuded was frightening.

Luca tried to hide as far away as possible to avoid trouble.

The more time passed, the more worried Luca felt, then he thought, what could have happened to Serena?

She had made it clear that she was coming, had taken the dress, had sent her the address, and had answered all the messages. Why is she still not showing up? The strangest thing is that the phone doesn't get reception.

Luca suddenly had a feeling. What if something had happened to her? Serena seemed to have a weak feeling for Cristian, even though she had been seeing Leonardo tonight, shouldn't she?

Thinking about this, Luca's expression suddenly changed.

At that moment Serena came to the door. Although Leonardo had fixed her hair a little, she still looked very distressed.

She had almost died, then gone to the hospital, and now she was back from the hospital in a hurry.

Could she not feel that she was in a difficult situation?

Serena was stunned for a moment and then said, "I'm here to attend the party."

The receptionists said, "Attend the party? Please show me the invitation."

"Invitation?"

Serena's expression changed, she ... Didn't she have the invitation? Cristian only gave her the dress.

She did not think much about it; she simply wanted to go and participate. She did not expect to have to have an invitation as well.

But thinking about it more, it is normal that Cristian had not given her an invitation. If she had gone in with him, she would not have needed any invitation.

"You don't have an invitation? Then we can't let you in."

After all, that night's party was a special event, such a high-class party was not open to everyone.

What if some ill-intentioned person had accidentally snuck in?

"Excuse me, I forgot to bring the invitation, I had a little accident on my way here, now I came from the hospital, all my things are at the police station. Can you let me in?"

Hearing that speech, they looked at her and saw that she was all messy and had a suspicious look.

The party was coming to an end; no one with any brains would go in now. And even if someone had decided to go in at that time, they would not have dressed like that, besides, the wounds on her body looked real.

"We are very sorry, miss, we understand your situation, but we cannot let you in without an invitation, please forgive us."

Serena's face suddenly whitened.

If he could not enter, did that mean he would not be able to see Cristian?

Thinking about this, she said hastily, "I understand. Then I won't go in, but.... Could you say one thing to Cristian for me?"

Hearing Cristian mentioned, those present changed their expressions.

"Why do you want to talk to Cristian? Who are you?"

"I..." Seeing a light of ferocity in their eyes, Serena lowered her neck in fear and said, "Then if I cannot contact Cristian, can you help me contact Luca?"

Even hearing the name of Cristian's assistant, the various people present looked at each other.

"Please tell Luca I'm late, I'm sorry, but I didn't do it on purpose, something serious happened, and I want to explain it to him."

She spoke sincerely, and the way she showed her true feelings made the people in front of her no longer doubt her. One of them said, "Wait here, I'll go find Assistant Russo."

Chapter 307 You have to do things right from beginning to end

One of several guests at the door went to find Luca. Serena still could not go in. She could only wait outside.

Since she could not go inside and was wearing a light dress, being outside she was particularly cold.

Although she felt that she had many things to say to Cristian, she could not resist that night chill.

She unconsciously crossed her arms. Several guests saw her, and one of the girls turned and said, "It's windy and cold there. Why don't you come and stay near me?"

Hearing this, Serena showed a grateful expression. When she stepped forward, a shorter girl beside the girl who had spoken to her said, "Why did you let her come here? How do we know if she's a malingerer or not?"

Hearing this sentence, Serena froze, unable to take a single more step.

"Don't talk nonsense, she doesn't look like that kind of person. Besides, the party is about to end now.

If she had other purposes, she would have come earlier. Besides, look at her, she's hurt."

"So what?" The short girl answered angrily, "How many women want to look for Cristian? Maybe those wounds on the body are fake. There are extremely skilled makeup artists nowadays, who can tell if they are fake or not?"

"Is it possible they are fake?"

Serena felt embarrassed by what they said. She bit her lower lip and whispered, "Anyway, someone has already gone to ask. Couldn't you wait a while before saying whether I am telling falsehoods or not? I don't want to do anything wrong and I don't want to intrude. Is there any need for you to say such words?"

"Yes, Mia, you have crossed the line. Let's wait a little longer!"

The little one immediately became angry and said aloud, "I crossed the line? You didn't bring an invitation. My colleagues believe you. They think you are in good faith. And this is how you answer me?

Maybe you are just a social climber?"

"All right, that's enough talk."

"I had to say it."

Serena lowered her gaze, better to let it go, she didn't care so much, just walk in.

Seeing that she didn't speak, the little one glared, "You have a guilty conscience and you don't have the courage to speak? If you are a liar, I'll give you some advice. There is still time for you to leave. Don't wait for Assistant Russo to arrive. At that point you won't have a chance to leave."

Serena ignored her, standing still as she was.

She just thought, was the party coming to an end? Once Luca arrived, would she have to look for him?

"Stop talking."

Seeing her stop talking, the little girl stopped talking, turned around and ignored her.

After waiting for no one knows how long, the person who had gone to warn of his arrival returned a little late.

From a distance, she saw him arrive in a hurry, but there were no other people with him. For a moment, her heart turned cold. So she would not be able to find Cristian tonight?

Without waiting for him to arrive, Serena quickly stepped forward. The short girl reached out her hand to stop her, "Where are you going? Wait here."

Unable to do otherwise, Serena bit her lower lip and had to wait there.

The boy she had warned of her arrival soon stood before her.

"Well? Did you ask him? Did he tell a lie?"

Serena looked at the man nervously.

The expression on the man's face was a little embarrassed. She scratched her head forcefully, "I'm sorry... I looked everywhere but couldn't find Assistant Russo! I'm really sorry, could you... Wait again while I look for him?"

Serena: "... How long will the party be over?"

"About ten minutes."

"There might not be time. Could you make an exception and let me in?"

"This..."

"Of course not. Who do you think you are? Do you want to take this opportunity to take advantage of us? I warn you, as long as I'm here, it will never happen! Don't even think about going in tonight. I think you are a liar. Did you think you could deliberately enter at this time? Let's just ignore her and make her leave. If she doesn't leave, we will immediately call the police who will arrest her and take her to the station. We'll show her what happens to crooks."

Serena bit her lower lip and could no longer contain herself, "Go ahead and call the police to magnify a problem that doesn't exist. Anyway, I don't care. I will stay here. I told you that I know him."

For a moment, his temper astonished everyone. One girl whispered, "I think he didn't perjure himself, and he seems to have a good relationship with Cristian. At this point... Let's let her in."

"Eva Quaranta, you're too good, she yells a little to scare us, and you believe her?"

"I..."

"Leonardo is here!" Someone said in a low voice, the various people there turned to look at Serena with shocked expressions on their faces, "It's really Leonardo, but what? He looks seriously injured, what happened to him?"

Hearing this, Serena suddenly changed her expression and turned around.

Leonardo's face and thin lips were pale. He was very thin, and his forehead was sweaty. He looked very weak.

"How strange, why did Leonardo come here only now? E... He looks so bad, what happened to him?"

The guest receptionists were still arguing, but they saw Serena, who was in front of them motionless, suddenly turn to Leonardo, and then asked, "Why are you here? Didn't I tell you to go back to the hospital for treatment? How..."

Serena was very angry and worried. She had clearly told him to go back to the hospital after bringing her here, she never imagined that after so long he was still here!

Leonardo saw her approaching anxiously. She said reluctantly with her thin, pale lips, "I remember you didn't have an invitation, so I turned the driver back. You have to do things right from start to finish. I told you I'd make you go to him, I'll watch you until you come in."

"You..."

Seeing that scene, the receptionists understood everything immediately.

What Serena had just told them was all true!

She was not a liar! And the wounds on her body were real!

The short woman whose name was Mia suddenly turned pale with fear. What could she do? Apparently she had offended the wrong person, but that moment.... She really thought the woman was faking it.

How could she really know him?

Leonardo cast her a glance, then walked past her toward that group of people.

"We had an accident on the way here. Now we can't find the invitation, if I put in a good word, can you let her in?"

Chapter 308 Cristian is my husband.

"Of course Mr. Leonardo, since you are here, I have no reason to prevent you from entering. Miss I'm so sorry, we didn't know your identity, if we had known earlier we will definitely let you in, please come this way."

Serena stood, looked worriedly at Leonardo and did not move.

Leonardo turned around, looked at her with a very pale face and smiled, "What are you waiting for? If you still stay here the party will be over soon."

"And you..." Serena was still worried about Leonardo.

"I will leave after you come in."

"I promise!" Serena gritted her teeth and walked to go inside, when she approached the door, she looked at Leonardo.

He still had a kind expression on his face, his eyes looked at her softly, when he saw her turn around again he said, "Go, don't look back."

Serena felt terribly sad, but finally turned her head and went in.

Leonardo stared at her until Serena disappeared from his sight, only then he could no longer stand, coughed heavily and fell forward.

The others when they saw him fall rushed to catch him, "Mr. Leonardo, are you okay? Heavens, how did you hurt yourself like this?"

"It's okay." Leonardo coughed slightly and gently moved away from the contact of those people.

He did not like close contact with them.

"It seems that you are seriously injured. I'm looking for someone to take you to the hospital."

"No need." Leonardo gently shook his head, thought of Serena who might still encounter difficulties once she went in there-how could she leave? Leonardo would not calm down until he saw Serena and Cristian leave there together.

After Serena entered the club, she realized that there were too many people and she had to go down a large flight of stairs as well. Her dress was a little long, so she held it up a little and went down slowly.

However, the place was too crowded and there were tables everywhere, Serena just couldn't find Cristian.

Where could she find him?

Thinking about it, Serena suddenly had an idea.

With Cristian's notoriety in the North City, if he were there, he would be the center of everyone's attention, so just go to the most crowded places to find him.

Thinking about it, Serena felt so happy that she almost cried, took a look around and quickly went to the most crowded place.

She did not look good, many people when they saw her, shifted in disgust and stared at her strangely.

"Who is that? What does she look like? How did she get in?"

"I've never seen her, she has an unfamiliar face, who knows what family she belongs to, however, her face is very pretty."

"Ahah, let's go and see."

Serena who was walking, was suddenly stopped by two men holding drinks in their hands, one of them with a mischievous smile said, "Bella, will you treat us to a dance?"

"Excuse me, I'm looking for someone." Serena nodded and left, but the two did not stop following her,

"Who are you looking for? We can help you if you tell us."

"Yeah, if you don't have time to dance that's okay, we can add each other on Facebook and make friends."

Serena: "Excuse me, I'm really in a hurry."

One of the men pulled out his cell phone, "Okay okay, come on enter your Facebook ID and then you can go."

"I don't have it." Serena stared at him coldly, "Sir, please let me go."

As soon as the man heard her, his face turned dark.

"What are you talking about? We are all here to join the party, do you think we are not up to it? What's wrong with making friends?"

"There's nothing wrong, but I already said I'm in a hurry and I'm looking for someone, can you let me go?"

"Are you looking for someone? Then tell me who are you looking for? Are you really looking for someone or are you looking for an excuse to reject us?"

"Cristian Ferrari."

Serena immediately said that name.

The two were caught off guard; after a while they recovered, "What did you say? Who are you looking for?"

"I'm looking for my husband Cristian, do you know him? Can you pot me to him?" Serena looked directly at the man, she knew that if she did not say that way, they would not let her go.

She didn't have much time to waste with them.

"Ah, did you just say Cristian is your husband? No, you're not kidding?"

Although they did not believe it, the expression on their faces instantly changed. They all knew Cristian, although people behind his back said he was just a disabled man, but in business no one could beat him.

Like that Henry who used to be a powerful businessman, he was so strong that no one dared to provoke him, but then no one knew for what reason he had offended Cristian and was directly emasculated. After that, the Romano Family Group also disappeared completely.

Therefore, in the business circle it was said that provoking Cristian was like going to pluck the hair of the tiger, no one would do such a thing, otherwise they would risk their future!

"If you want to see if I'm kidding you can follow me and we'll see."

After that, Serena left, those two men really didn't dare to follow her, they knew that no one would dare to joke about such a thing, after all it was Cristian's wedding, what woman would dare to say such nonsense? Moreover, Serena's tone was so convincing that they believed her.

"Could it be that she is the daughter of the Gallo family to whom Cristian was married?"

"Well but it was only an arranged marriage, besides a disabled person getting married is just a joke, what will he be able to do with a wife? Too bad she was really pretty..."

"A disabled man will have his fortune as a disabled man, even if he is an invalid but he still marries a woman of splendid beauty."

Serena walked for a short distance, then turned to take a look and saw that they were no longer following her, fortunately she had told them about Cristian.

She breathed a sigh of relief and walked quickly forward, when she finally managed to get ahead, she saw a familiar figure.

It was Luca! !

"Luca!"

Serena could hold herself back no longer and shouted Luca's name.

Luca who was standing on the stage was puzzled for a few seconds, he seemed to have heard a familiar voice calling his name, he turned to look.

As soon as he saw it he was startled.

Luca's expression suddenly changed, he was losing his composure, then he remembered that he was still on the stage, so he calmed down, went to the side, went to Serena and took her away.

Serena as she let him pull her away, turned back to look for Cristian.

"Where is Cristian?"

Chapter 309: Mr. Cristian is already gone!

But looking around, Serena could not find him, she felt more and more agitated inside.

Luca was there, but Cristian was not, what did that mean?

Or was Luca taking her to Cristian?

"Luca, where are you taking me? Where is Cristian?"

Luca did not answer, he took her directly to a place where there was no one.

"Miss Serena, how come you are so late?"

Serena opened her mouth to explain but finally could only say, "Things happened, that's why I arrived a little late, he..."

"Miss Serena, you were not a little late, Mr. Cristian had been waiting for you all evening!"

He...had waited all evening? Serena's face turned pale, she felt very guilty, "I'm sorry, I didn't know..."

Serena was very saddened, Luca told her, "Although she is here now, but...it is already late."

"Late? What does that mean?" Serena did not understand the meaning of those words.

Luca explained, "Mr. Cristian five minutes ago just left."

What? She had come but he had left? Serena was getting sadder and sadder: "Five minutes ago I was stopped at the door, I didn't have an invitation and they wouldn't let me in..."

"Just because he had thought that you didn't have the invitation then I was outside waiting for you, but the party was almost over and you hadn't arrived yet, so I thought you weren't coming anymore and I didn't wait for you at the door, now...Mr. Cristian has already left."

Serena didn't know what to say anymore, after all it was her fault, they had agreed before but she hadn't arrived in time, she couldn't blame anyone.

"Even if he's gone but maybe he hasn't left this place yet, can you take me to see him?"

Luca thought little about it and nodded, "Come with me."

Luca took her and they walked through the hallway, Serena tried to bear her discomfort and followed Luca's steps, she was looking forward to seeing Cristian.

They went around the corner and then Luca opened the door to a room, there was no one in the room.

"It seems that Mr. Cristian has already left!"

Serena looked at the empty room and bit her lip, "Will he have gone to the parking lot? Will you take me to the parking lot?"

"Alright, let's go!"

Luca led Serena back to the parking lot, while there was still a chance, he will try to take Serena to Cristian. Cristian's expression and air in that evening were too abnormal, if Serena did not find Cristian, Luca felt a bad feeling.

When they arrived in the parking lot they saw a car driving away, even before Luca realized, he saw Serena behind him suddenly running after that car.

"Miss Serena, what's going on?"

Luca after asking the question realized that the car that was driving away was Cristian's, so he immediately ran after it and shouted out loud, "Mr. Cristian!"

But the car was going too fast and was already far away, anyway they could not stop it.

Serena seemed to feel a tingling inside her chest, she ran hard, she hoped to reach to Cristian's car or that the car would stop.

But nothing, the car was getting further and further away, it was so far away she could barely see it.

Finally.

"Ah!"

Serena stumbled and fell heavily to the ground.

"Miss Serena!" Luke was running fast but after all, he will never be as fast as the car, then he heard Serena's scream, so he turned and ran to Serena, "Miss Serena, are you okay?"

"Ah..." Serena who was on the ground looked very distressed, before she fell down she thought of her pregnancy and quickly protected her belly.

Her knees and arms were bleeding and the pain was terrible.

Serena's face, which was already a little pale before, had practically whitened at that moment.

From the pain she turned over and lay on the ground, covering her stomach.

Many times, she thought that she was lucky that she had not been pregnant for a long time, otherwise after all the messes and troubles it was really a miracle that her baby in her womb was still well.

She did not know whether to feel lucky that all the times the injuries were not life-threatening or that the baby in her womb had a strong survival instinct.

"Miss Serena?" Luke lowered himself, saw her pale face and suddenly realized that she had many wounds on her, not only caused by the fall earlier, but also other wounds on her arms, legs, neck and near her mouth.

Although they were not many, but the red color of blood on her fair skin was very impressive to see.

"Miss what happened to you? When you had said that things happened it means..."

Serena took a deep breath and held out her hand toward Luca, "Give me a hand."

Luca helped her up, after sitting down, Serena took a few deep breaths and felt that besides the pain of her wounds, her belly had nothing, so she felt relieved.

When she raised her head to see, the car was already gone.

"Mr. Cristian is probably back at the villa."

"Yeah, we can't follow him anymore now, let's go back too."

Serena looked at Luca, "Could you please give me a ride?"

Luca nodded, "Sure, I'll take you now."

Luca helped her get up, hesitated for a moment and then said, "But Miss Serena, with these injuries you have...isn't it better to go to the hospital first to get treated? Then let's go back to the Atlantic villa."

"No!" Serena shook her head and bit her lip, "Don't worry about that, let's go back to Atlantic villa, I will clear things up with him first and then think about my injuries."

"All right."

After Serena got into the car, she saw that her knees were bleeding and her silver dress was stained with blood, the blood was like a plum blossom blooming on the snow. She looked at her wound and was silent for a while, then wiped the wound with her hand.

Luke quickly took out the handkerchief he always carried with him and handed it to her.

"Miss Serena, don't use your hands, you might get an infection, use the handkerchief first to clean it, I will find a doctor for you later."

"Thank you."

Serena took the handkerchief and wiped off the bloodstains.

Luca had many questions to ask Serena, he wanted to ask her what happened, why did she have all those wounds? How was she in such bad shape, what must have happened?

However, he could not open his mouth.

If he asked, it was like hurting her again.

She only hoped that Cristian could forgive her after he saw those wounds.

Chapter 310: He doesn't want to see her

Twenty minutes later, Luca's car arrived at the Atlantic mansion, but he was stopped in front of the gate.

Luca furrowed his brow and nodded to the guard, but the latter would not let him in anyway.

Luca was puzzled, so he turned around and said to Serena, "Miss Serena wait for me in the car for a moment, I'm going to see what's going on."

"Okay." Serena nodded and watched Luca get out of the car.

Inside the car Serena could not hear what they were saying outside, she could only see Luca going to talk to the guards outside, then all of a sudden she saw that he turned to her and looked at her with a complicated look, then turned around and seemed to be arguing with the guards.

After a while of arguing Luca had still not returned.

Serena felt increasingly nervous and had a bad feeling.

She was silent for a moment and finally got out of the car.

"Luca, what's the matter?"

As soon as Luca heard Serena's voice he straightened up and quickly went to her, "Miss Serena, it's okay, I was just talking to them a bit."

Serena's gaze fell on Luca then looked at the guards behind him.

The guards knew her, but at that moment they were trying to avoid her gaze and did not dare to look at her. Serena was more and more convinced of her assumption, she tried to ask in a calm voice, "He doesn't let me in right?"

Luca had a frowning expression, looked at Serena and explained, "It's not what you think Miss Serena, it's just that Mr. Cristian has been waiting for you all night, now he's definitely angry, so..."

"So... you don't want me to come in, is that it?"

Serena lowered her eyes and stared at her bleeding toes, "You won't even listen to my explanation?"

"Miss Serena..."

"Luca, if they won't let me in then you go."

"But Miss Serena..."

"Please tell him I am here waiting for him, I would like to see him, I have many things to tell him."

"All right, then wait for me here, I'll go right away and tell Mr. Cristian."

"Okay."

Before going, Luca cast a warning glance at the guards outside, then drove in.

Outside the gate of the Atlantic mansion only the few guards and Serena remained.

Serena was quite far away from them, there was an icy wind, she stood with only a dress on, she was so weak that it looked like the wind might blow her away.

One of them could no longer see her in that condition and said, "Miss Serena, come here and wait, the wind at night is strong, if it gets cold Mr. Cristian will blame us."

Serena moved her lips and looked at them.

Would he blame them? But if he didn't even want to see her anymore, he certainly won't worry about her health.

Thinking about that, Serena lowered her eyes again and said no more.

She did not move; the guards could not do anything about it.

In fact even the guards knew that Cristian was only momentarily angry with Serena, he was still in love with her anyway, after all she was the first woman Cristian had brought to the Atlantic mansion.

Perhaps it was precisely because he was too much in love that he became so angry.

However, no one can know what will happen in the future.

If it were not for Cristian's order forbidding Serena to enter through that door, because if she entered all of them will suffer terrifying consequences, otherwise they would turn a blind eye and let her in.

After all, all of them could feel the change in Cristian's character that had improved since Serena came to Villa Atlantic, plus Cristian came home every day, which never happened before.

That was enough to show how special Serena is to him.

It was not known how long Serena stayed in the cold wind, when Serena almost could not feel her arms, suddenly she heard the sound of hurried footsteps.

She raised her head and saw Luca running quickly toward her direction.

"Luca..." Serena's lips moved calling Luca's name, but her voice was so low that she herself could barely hear it; it was a voice that trembled.

It was too cold.

Serena had stood too long in the cold air in only a thin dress.

Luke went in front of her, his expression was always frowning, in his hand he also had in extra document.

"Miss Serena..." Luca looked at her with a complicated look as if hesitating to speak.

Serena looked at him and asked in a low voice, "Don't you want to see me?"

Luca tried to avoid Serena's gaze and nodded, "Mr. Cristian at the moment is still too angry, now he doesn't want to see you, Miss Serena...maybe it's better to come back on another day?"

Serena remained silent.

She certainly would not return another day.

"Did you tell him what I said?"

Luca remembered the scene earlier with Cristian, it was really scary. After Luca reported Serena's words, Cristian sneered.

"What will she have to say? I waited for her all night and she didn't show up, now she comes to put on a pitiful face with me? Go tell her that this time I will not believe her lies."

"But Mr. Cristian...Miss Serena!"

Luca wanted to tell about Serena's injuries, but was interrupted by Cristian: "Miss Serena? She is not worthy."

Saying this Cristian threw Luca a copy of documents.

"She had always wanted this, give it to her and make her go."

Luca said nothing, stepped forward to pick up the document and as soon as he saw it he was shocked.

"Mr. Cristian, this is-are you sure you want to give this to Miss Serena?"

"Remember, in the future she will have nothing more to do with the Ferrari family."

"Mr. Cristian!"

"Go away!" Cristian scolded him coldly.

Luca stood still, Cristian became furious and suddenly reached out his arm and dropped all the stuff from the desk.

Luca felt Cristian's anger and knew he could no longer stand there, so he grabbed the document and left.

"What about this, did he ask you to give it to me?" Serena looked at that document and asked, then reached out her hand to take it.

Luca took a step back and said worriedly, "Miss Serena!"

Although Cristian had asked Luca to give that document to Serena, but Luca had not yet decided whether to give it to her after all... Cristian was really angry at that moment, when people are angry, they always tend to make irrational decisions.

Such as at that moment, Luca did not know whether Cristian would regret it later and blame him. In fact regardless of whether Cristian regrets it or not, the unluckiest in the end will always be Luca.

Therefore, Luca wanted to think twice before giving that document.

"Give it to me." Serena smiled at him, "Since he asked you to give it to me, you should not hesitate."
