

Virginity 32

Chapter 32

She was kissed.

She remained without reaction for a long time. She was kissed by Cristian!

How come?

He kissed her angrily and acted coarsely.

Ever since she came out of Emma's store with that peach-colored lipstick, she bite on her lower lip, that thought was born in Cristian's mind. With her small movements after getting into the car and the moment she was close to Enrico, Cristian was provoked.

He wanted to get angry, but she was stunned, looking at him innocently.

Cristian's anger became even stronger as she felt nothing from his kiss.

Cristian took her to his lap. Her small body was lying uncontrollably in Cristian's arms, and she hugged his neck without realizing it.

The driver and Luca clearly saw this scene, and they sensed that the temperature in the car rose greatly.

Luca did not expect to see Cristian in this way at all.

At first Serena was surprised, but immediately she was attracted to Cristian, unconsciously wrapping her hands around his neck. However, she did not know how to take a breath, so eventually she was out of breath as her weak body fell completely into Cristian's arms.

When Cristian noticed this, his gaze grew darker.

He pushed her away, taking her by the chin.

"Don't do what? Aren't you enjoying yourself?"

His kiss was warm, but the tone remained cold. Serena slowly calmed down, and saw Cristian with cold stares. Serena noticed his reaction and was surprised, "I..."

"Do you want it?"

Cristian asked her, suddenly approaching her ear.

He seemed to be seducing her, but his light tone clearly showed that he was teasing her.

Remembering the words he said before kissing her, Serena turned slightly pale and bit her lower lip without speaking.

"Woman, your reaction tells me that you are satisfied." Cristian's hand rested on her waist and began to move upward, but Serena suddenly became angry, "Let me go!"

Cristian's actions stopped and his eyes squinted dangerously.

"Why? Were you happy when Enrico hugged you?"

Serena bit her lower lip, "When did you see that I was happy? He forced me, didn't you see? Cristian Ferrari, do you have to be so cruel that you don't respect anyone. Are you happy with that?"

Cristian's expression turned cold as he looked at her coldly.

"Remember, even if I don't feel like touching you, you are not allowed to be touched by other men, because now you have my label on you."

Serena was speechless.

"Next time, if I see you with other men, it will no longer be just your dignity that will be trampled on."

After saying this, Cristian left her and his thin lips moved slightly, "Go away."

Serena was still sitting on his lap, and when she heard the words, her face suddenly turned pale and her lips trembled.

"Don't forget who you are." Cristian warned again.

Finally Serena lowered her gaze without saying anything, and calmly returned to her seat.

Back in her seat, Serena was especially quiet, looking out the window, not even glancing at Cristian, but her mood evidently became much sadder than before.

When they arrived home, Luca pushed Cristian out of the car, and Serena followed them, always with her head lowered.

Cristian did not return to the room but went to the studio, so Serena returned alone. She took off her makeup and showered. She finished doing everything but Cristian still did not return, so Serena decided to sleep and not wait for him.

Shortly after lying down, the phone vibrated.

Serena looked at it and discovered that it was a message from Francesco.

-Serena, have you rested yet?

Seeing this message, Serena unconsciously frowned. Since the divorce, he never said a word to her so far. It was the first time they met after the divorce at the mall.

Thinking about what he did in the store, Serena closed her eyes and put down her cell phone without replyinging it.

After a while the phone vibrated again.

-Serena, I didn't want to leave you without helping you in the store. Geneva will give birth soon. I could only listen to her idea, otherwise it will hurt the baby. Could you understand me?

Understand what? Serena considered him a good person, but now she thought the man was quite a freak. He asked if she could understand him after he was with another woman and divorced with her?

-Can we meet tomorrow?

Serena did not respond to the message even now, put his name on the blacklist and turned off her cell phone to sleep.

By the time Cristian returned, Serena was already asleep. She clutched the quilt wrapping her whole body probably because of the cold. Her head sunk into the pillow, and her eyes tightly closed with a rosy face.

"Mr. Cristian, I help you to get changed."

Luca, who was not a very gentle person, entered and walked in with a loud noise.

Cristian arched his eyebrows and said in a low voice, "Walk quietly."

"What?" Luca looked at him and could not figure it out. He replied in a particularly loud voice.