Chapter 841: You don't call me grandpa.

Domenico was also surprised because Domenico had thought that Serena accepting Angelo's request by accepting the money would mean that she accepted him, but he did not expect the girl to refuse.

Domenico was a little surprised that things had taken a 180-degree turn. He looked at Serena, who was smiling like a fox, and he couldn't help but smile inwardly as well. He thought to himself, Cristian really likes unusual women.... Domenico chose to trust Cristian.

Serena, a woman who could make Cristian fall in love so deeply, meant that there had to be something extraordinary about her, so she would not take the money and leave Cristian.

-Grandpa, do you want some tea? I'll go get you a cup of tea.

Angelo snapped and growled at her, "You don't call me grandfather!

Serena blinked and made an innocent expression, "Why? Grandpa, you just met me and gave me such a nice red envelope, I should be nice too.

-I gave you the money because?

But before Angelo could finish his sentence, Serena left and the room fell into silence, no one daring to speak.

In this silence, Angelo finally could not resist asking Domenico: -Where did it go?

Domenico thought about the conversation that had just taken place and said uncertainly, "Could she have gone to make you some tea?"

Angelo was confused, -What tea? Would I drink the tea he gave me?

Domenico coughed softly and could not resist explaining to Angelo, "I think she is a very intelligent girl.

Hearing her compliment, Angelo was unhappy because he still wanted Cristian and Maddalena Landi to marry. So he replied;

-She is just a girl with no social experience who has the audacity to make fun of me. Take my money and do not accede to the demands I make of her, and I will show her that the world does not work so well!

Angelo's tone was firm, and Domenico could not help but worry about Serena when he heard these words. After all, Mr. Angelo was a successful businessman who knew many tricks, and Serena was really too naive. But as a housekeeper, she dared not explain herself further for Serena, and could only stand by her master's side and keep quiet.

-She is trying to tease me. Domenico, when she comes later you tell her that I will not drink tea ,that if she knows what she is doing she will leave the company alone or I will throw her out myself.

Domenico did not say anything. Because Domenico did not want to, but he had to obey his master's orders and felt conflicted inside.

After a while, Serena returned with a cup of tea.

The tea was still steaming in her hands, and she brought the cup to Mr. Angelo before carefully placing it on the table.

-Grandfather, this is the tea I just made for you, please try it.

Although Angelo had erased Serena and Cristian's past and prevented Serena and Cristian from being together by getting Cristian engaged to another girl. But Angelo was Cristian's family and he was also Cristian's grandfather. So even though Serena kept track of all the unpleasant things that had happened before, she still wanted Angelo to trust and love her.

In addition, Serena did not want her and Cristian's love to be opposed by their relatives to the point of not being blessed.

She knew that, even in the 21st century, there were still many couples whose love was rejected by their families and not blessed by them, and Serena did not want this to happen to her and Cristian.

Angelo looked disdainfully at the teacup and did nothing. But the tea on the table was so close to him that he could smell the aroma emanating from the cup almost effortlessly. He was fascinated by the aroma of tea.

Tea drinking was a hobby of Angelo's, something many people knew about. But Serena had no free time to prepare it and had to speculate about the ingredients around her.

-Domenico! -Angelo called his butler.

Domenico returned to the room from his thoughts, looked at his master, then at his teacup, reluctantly approached and said,

-Mrs. Serena, since you took the check, I advise you to leave our company.

Only a few people know now, saving your face, and if you insist on not leaving, then....

Serena answered and said to Angelo,

-Grandfather, do you want to tell me to take the day off?

Neither Angelo nor Domenico knew what to say.

But Angelo managed to find an ounce of common sense in the face of such a rhetorical question and said, "Domenico, tell her the truth.

-Domenico, say it straight to the point.

Dominic nodded, stepped forward and said solemnly.

-Mrs. Serena, our gentleman wants you to take the money and leave the company and leave the Calligaris family, there is enough money in that check to live a rich life for the rest of your life. If you are not willing to follow our advice, we in the Calligaris family will resort to violence to make you leave, and if that happens you risk being hurt, perhaps even seriously.

The words were direct, and Angelo gave Domenico a satisfied look.

They had rightly made it clear that Serena, had she been a normal woman with a sense of shame, would have taken the money and left, but instead she remained at the table with a smile on her face and whispered.

-I have the ability to earn money, Mr. Angelo, please don't worry about my future, and I thought this check was a gift from you, and since things are not as I thought, I can't accept it," then put the envelope back on the table.

Everyone present was surprised that she had returned the envelope. It was the equivalent of returning the money to Mr. Angelo, which meant that she would not leave Cristian for this, and because of this gesture, Domenico was a little more impressed with Serena.

But Angelo was not happy, and said fiercely.

-How dare you return a check you have already accepted?

Serena smiled and replied, "I wouldn't have taken the money unless it was a gift you weren't asking for in return.

Angelo narrowed his eyes as he looked at Serena, who had maintained a calm demeanor from the moment they met until now. And there was not the slightest hint of fear. Serena's character came as a surprise to Angelo, because she faced every problem that came her way calmly and always had a solution.

Actually, Angelo admires Serena because she is so much better than those girls who run away or cry when things get tough, but it's a shame!

-When you went to make tea, did you open the envelope? Angelo asked, but before Serena could answer, he added, -Do you think I gave you less money? Tell me how much money you want. I will give you as much money as you want, as long as you are willing to leave Cristian.

Angelo spoke these words generously, as if he could buy the whole world with money.

Serena could not help but ask when she heard these words.

-Mr. Angelo, if I am willing to leave Cristian, will you fulfill all my demands?

Angelo looked at Serena with displeasure and nodded his head. Domenico, on the other hand, felt that things were not that simple, because he felt that Serena was not one of those ordinary girls. And Serena's look and the tone of her voice made it seem like she was not really making a request.

Undoubtedly, the next words he spoke took everyone present by surprise.

-Grandfather, I don't ask for much, but since you are so generous, then please give me the Calligaris family.

Chapter 842: Threats

Everyone present was taken aback by Serena's comment.

Even the bodyguards in the corner of the room, dressed in suits, looked at Serena with incredulous eyes, their faces pale.

This girl was bold and would probably have angered Mr. Angelo with such an absurd request. Then everyone present looked at Mr. Angelo.

Angelo was really furious about his comment, his face was full of anger, and he pointed his finger at

Serena,

-What did you say? Don't you dare say it again.

Serena gave a sweet smile, "Grandpa, a moment ago you said you could fulfill all my requests, isn't Cristian as important to you as the Calligaris family? In that case, I'm not going to break up with him, after all, for me, even if he gave me the family and begged me to leave him, I wouldn't.

Angelo was surprised by Serena's words; he did not expect her not to leave Cristian even if he gave her Calligaris' family in return.

But were Serena's words true?

-In any case, whether you accept this check or not, I will not accept your absurd demand, and if the money I gave you is not enough, I can give you more, but you will leave when you get my money!

Serena stood still; she had been explaining herself to Angelo for so long that she suddenly felt a little tired. Serena wondered how long it would be before Cristian arrived. Since Angelo was Cristian's grandfather, Serena was reluctant to abuse him with abject language, but she was tired of verbal circumlocutions. And it was obvious that Angelo was not joking with her.

Serena inwardly sighed and said in a serious and grave tone.

-Grandpa Angelo, whatever you want in return, I will not leave Cristian.

Hearing what Serena said, Angelo narrowed his eyes and glared at her.

-I didn't think you would do things this way.

At those words, Serena nervously locked her eyes with Angelo's and thought to herself, "Will Angelo show his hands? Doesn't he have fun with her anymore?"

In this case, Serena was also about to say what was really on her mind. But no sooner had Serena had the idea than she heard a man speaking at the door.

-Grandfather, why are you giving her such a hard time?

Hearing this familiar, deep voice, Serena instantly lit up and shook her head back toward the door.

Cristian was standing in the doorway of the secretary's office, dressed in a simple suit from which a quiet hormone emanated. He scanned the secretary's office with icy eyes before approaching Serena, who was about to shout his name when he grabbed her wrist and pulled her back.

-I'm the one who courted her, Grandpa, and if you have to blame someone, then blame me.

Cristian's sudden appearance made Angelo's anger burn even more, and he looked with dismay at Cristian and Serena behind him and said.

-It's not time to go to work yet, did you come for this woman earlier? Did she call you while I was making tea?

Serena, who was standing behind Cristian, felt offended because during that time she had really only gone to tea in earnest and had done nothing else. Because Serena was not the kind of woman who only sought her husband's help when she was in trouble.

After all, the issue was too complicated, and one reason was that she did not want to involve Cristian in it, because what she and Mr. Angelo knew, Cristian might not know.

Another reason was that Mr. Angelo already disliked her, and if she had called Cristian for help, Angelo's impression of her would probably have been even worse. So whatever difficulties Serena had encountered in this office this morning, she would not have called Cristian.

But why had Cristian come so early?

-Grandfather, Serena is not such a fragile girl." Just as Serena wondered, Cristian explained.

-I imagined you would come to the office, I didn't see you this morning and assumed you came to the office, and to my surprise, I was right.

Angelo was a little embarrassed by Cristian's blunt assertion of the truth, but responded angrily nonetheless.

-So what? What did you tell me about what I asked you last night? Have you forgotten? There are things you don't want to do, so I, as your grandfather, have the right to do them for you.

Cristian heard these words and felt nothing but a headache.

-Grandpa, please come home! I will take care of this matter myself.

-How do you want to handle this? -Angelo looked at Serena with an unfriendly face, -Your way of dealing with it is to continue to keep this woman here?

Cristian's face was expressionless,

-She is an employee of the company, of course she stays here.

Angelo did not get the answer he wanted and shouted angrily.

-Do you know what you are doing? Have you forgotten what I told you? You have to fire her immediately.

As soon as Cristian appeared, Angelo's emotions seemed to spiral out of control and Serena became a little worried as she listened to the discussion between the two. After all, Angelo was Cristian's grandfather and had saved his life; Serena was grateful to Angelo and had great respect for him.

Then Serena pulled Cristian's sleeve, and Cristian, sensing her gesture, curbed his anger and looked at Angelo.

-Grandfather, Serena is an employee of the company and I will decide for myself whether to fire her. If you think my decisions are bad for the company, then you can take back the rights I have over the company.

-What are you saying?

Cristian grabbed Serena's wrist.

-Since you don't want to see Serena, I'll take her now.

With that, Cristian grabbed Serena and walked out of the secretary's office.

-Stop right there! -Angelo shouted, but Cristian was gone so quickly that they had disappeared through the door.

Domenico walked to the door, looked at her and said, "Mr. Cristian should have taken the girl to his office.

Angelo was even more shocked to hear the answer.

-How could he do such a thing?

-Because he does not want to see the girl, Mr. Cristian will have to take her away.

-Domenico, I did all these things for him.

But he wouldn't even accept my kindness and did all those disobedient things to me. And what he just said is a threat to me? I don't have an heir besides him.

Dominic nodded sincerely.

-That's right, sir. It is true that you have no heir other than Cristian.

Why else would Angelo have been so eager to keep Cristian by his side?

Before Cristian's arrival, Angelo had managed all the Calligaris Group's affairs on his own, and he trusted no one, not even his own relatives.

Angelo did not know how to respond.

Chapter 843: I'm afraid I'm too late.

But Domenico's thoughts were simple, and he said honestly.

-Christian's character is even more stubborn than his mother's, and if you continue to take coercive measures like this, I'm afraid....

Dominic did not finish the sentence, but he knew his master understood what he meant.

Because the outcome of many things was unpredictable.

-Does Christian think I will back down if he threatens me? The more Angelo thought about it, the angrier he became and the more he hit the table. The loud sound seemed to strike the hearts of everyone present and made them wince.

Domenico did not dare to speak; he remained silent.

Angelo was very angry and had a serious expression on his face, as if he was thinking about what to do with all this to get a perfect result. While Angelo was thinking, he suddenly saw a steaming cup of tea on the table, Angelo smelled the tea and frowned as he reached out his hand toward the cup of tea.

Domenico, who was standing next to Angelo, saw his movement and opened his mouth as if to say something, but in the end he said nothing.

Angelo picked up the teacup and sniffed it, the aroma of the tea in the cup was inviting, and Angelo thought to himself, "Does that woman even know how to make tea?"

Angelo took a careful sip of the hot tea and was surprised to find that it tasted good, so he took another sip. After taking several sips, Angelo felt that the atmosphere in the room was a little strange, and when he finally reacted, he realized that the whole room was watching him.

What had just happened in this room had been seen by everyone in the room. But now Angelo was drinking the tea the girl had prepared for him, and Angelo seemed to really like the tea she made. So everyone looked at Angelo differently.

Angelo thought for two seconds, put the tea cup back on the table and scolded, "This tea is horrible!

Domenico took it all in stride and had nothing to say. But Domenico could not get the scene he had just seen out of his mind.

Even Angelo felt he had done something foolish, stood up and said, "Let's go!

So his subordinates left the office with him. The group stood at attention in the hallway and ran into Silvia, who had come to work and was a little surprised to see her original boss.

-Mr. Angelo, what brings you to the office today?

Angelo's anger had not yet subsided, so he nodded without responding.

Domenico answered for his master, "There is a small matter that Mr. Angelo is here to take care of.

-What is it? -Silvia asked unconsciously, -Do you need my help?

-It is decided, we will go first.

-All right.

Silvia watched them leave, but felt strange inside.

Because Mr. Angelo had not been with the company since Cristian had become its president, and he trusted his nephew's ability. But why did he suddenly come to the office today? Silvia suddenly remembered that Maddalena Landi had been here yesterday.

And at that moment, Angelo, who was about to leave, suddenly stopped and said to Silvia, "Arrange a position for Magdalene, she wants to come to our company to work.

Maddalena. Silvia immediately reacted by saying that the Maddalena that Angelo had just mentioned was Maddalena Landi, the only daughter of the Landi family from yesterday.

-Mr. Angelo, we have no more vacancies in our company right now, and to give you a position, Mr.

Cristian's part?

-Although I am old, I still have the ability to handle things, and all the things in this company, not just Cristian's, also refer to my opinion!

Silvia did not know what to answer.

-You just gave Magdalene a casual position that suits her to be close to Cristian.

Silvia wanted to tell Mr. Angelo that yesterday Cristian had told her not to let other women into his office, and now Mr. Angelo was asking her to give this Magdalene a position. This was all too difficult for her.

-Do you have any comment? - Angelo asked when he saw that she was not moving.

Silvia turned around, smiled awkwardly and said, "No problem, I'll take care of it.

Only then was Angelo satisfied and left.

As he was leaving, Silvia walked into the secretary's office with a hard look on her face, thinking to herself, "Is it possible that Mr. Angelo came to the office today precisely because of the matter of Maddalena Landi? Isn't that a bit much?"

And at that moment, after Cristian had led Serena back into the office, he closed the door behind him and pinned her against the hard door panel.

Serena remained silent, her hands on her chest as she looked at Cristian with distrust.

-What do you want?

Angelo was in the next office and Cristian had brought her in and pinned her to the door, did Cristian want to kiss her now?

Serena assured herself that if Cristian kissed her now, she would not hesitate to punch him to wake him up. Serena's eyes widened and she pushed Cristian harder.

-Are you still thinking about it at that time?

Cristian's movements falter and stop, narrowing his eyes as he asks, "What am I thinking?"

Serena didn't understand what Cristian meant, was he playing dumb? So he said,

-Don't play dumb, didn't you just think of what-? -but Serena was too shy to finish the sentence.

Cristian did not understand what she meant, but seeing Serena blush, he quickly understood.

Cristian could not help but laugh and took Serena's waist and whispered softly in her ear,

- "Who told you that I just thought about kissing you?"

Serena was even more puzzled: -So why are you suddenly leaning so close?

As she spoke, Cristian moved a little closer to her and their two faces were almost pressed together.

Even their breaths intertwined with each other.

Serena held her breath nervously and said in a very low voice: -What do you want?

Cristian said nothing, just stared into her eyes and observed her carefully. Cristian's serious look made

Serena feel a little uncomfortable and she ducked a little, but behind her was the office door and there was no space behind it to hide.

Just as Serena was about to ask Cristian what he wanted, he suddenly said,

-I'm sorry to subject you to this.

Serena froze in place, staring at Cristian, whose eyes were so serious that she did not expect Cristian to apologize.

Cristian reached out and rubbed her head, "I just wanted to see if you were crying. I'm glad you're not.

Serena finally understood why Cristian had come to stare into her eyes; Cristian had thought that Serena would cry when she was in trouble....

Serena did not even think she was in trouble; after all, the atmosphere of her conversation with Angelo was not very serious, so she did not think she was in trouble. But when she heard Cristian's words, Serena felt very moved.

Cristian stroked her head, pulled her into his arms and said eagerly, "I'm afraid I'm late.

Chapter 844: Don't Leave Me

People who have grown up under the rain of love have always become emotional.

A person who liked to cry was not weak, but his heart was full of emotion.

Of course, there were people in this world who did not shed a single tear, even if they encountered great difficulties, but those people had always faced difficulties alone, because they had no one else to rely on.

Similarly, if Cristian had not come today, Serena would have dealt with Mr. Angelo's difficulties on her own. Even if Angelo's anger had led him to do something irrational, Serena would have been able to resolve the situation before it got worse.

But here comes Cristian. He stood by Serena's side, even getting into trouble with his grandfather for her.

This feeling of being protected, combined with Cristian's embrace at that moment, made Serena feel a sour sensation in her nose, and her eyes were warm, as if tears were about to flow.

Serena desperately tried to push the feeling away and said with a smile: -Don't think too much, how could I cry?

Despite Serena's words, there was a small tear at the corner of her eye. She was glad that, with her head buried in Cristian's arms, Cristian could not see the wetness at the corners of her eyes.

Perhaps Serena's voice was a little muffled when she spoke, and Cristian moved a little to push her away.

But Serena feared that he would see the tears in the corners of her eyes, so she clung tightly to Cristian's waist and clung to his jacket, and Cristian seemed to understand her well. So neither of them spoke for the rest of the time , keeping silent.

Some time passed, I don't know how much, but Serena had recovered and left Cristian's embrace.

-Mr. Angelo has just...

-I know.

Without waiting for Serena to finish, Cristian nodded and continued, "I will take care of it, you just have to trust me.

-And what are you going to do about it? -Just now Serena had heard Cristian's conversation with Angelo, so she was worried about Cristian.

Because Serena and Cristian's relationship had just stabilized when something like this happened.

Now that Cristian has lost his memory, Serena doesn't even know who Cristian would choose between her grandfather and her.

But after what happened today, Serena felt there was a strong possibility that Cristian would turn on his grandfather for her.

Although she was touched by Cristian's sincere love, Serena did not want to see Cristian lose another family member. With this in mind, Serena told him.

-You must remain calm and not start a conflict with your grandfather.

Cristian was amused to hear, "Why, don't you think I can beat him in a fight?"

Serena thought about it, weighed his words, and cautiously but sincerely said, "I don't want you to fight with your family over me, maybe he can accept me?

From what had happened today it was clear that Angelo, though stubborn, was not bad. But it was not going to be easy to get him to accept the fact that Cristian and Serena were together, and Serena would first have to find out why Angelo had prevented her from being with Cristian.

Because an older person must have gone through a lot and become reasonable easily. So why would Angelo want to prevent Cristian and Serena from being together?

-Let's take a peaceful approach first, I will try to convince your grandfather and see if he accepts me, if that is not possible....

Serena did not finish her sentence.

Cristian was nervous and took her hand, -And if it doesn't really work, will you leave me?

Cristian's grip was a bit heavy and he was frowning, looking at Serena nervously, and seeing the look on Cristian's face, Serena could not resist the urge to make a joke, -If your grandfather really can't handle it.

-If your grandfather cannot really accept that we are together, then I will have to leave you too.

Serena makes an uncertain joke.

But as soon as he had said it, Cristian's strength increased and he leaned close to Serena, his other arm around her white neck, breathing hard.

-I won't allow it!

The emotion in Cristian's eyes was much deeper than before, like the night before the storm. For the first time Serena knew that Cristian really cared about her and took the joke seriously.

Serena couldn't help but let out a small laugh, -What's wrong? I was just joking with you.

Cristian frowned, -Were you joking with me?

Serena nodded: -Sure.

But when Serena said this, Cristian was not happy, he seemed to be in a worse mood, looking at

Serena with emotion-laden eyes, a cold look that made Serena feel a little scared, so he stammered and asked.

-What's wrong?

Did Serena say something wrong? Even though she had explained, Cristian was still angry.

Cristian looked at her in silence for a moment before slowly saying, "Is it because it was too little?"

Serena did not understand and asked: -What do you mean?

-Because it's been such a short time since we established our relationship that you don't care enough about me to tease me like this.

Only after hearing this did Serena realize that Cristian had taken the joke he had just made seriously.

This is how misunderstandings sometimes happen.

But Serena did not expect Cristian to get carried away so easily, and seeing his attitude now, Serena felt that if he did not change his attitude, Cristian might get angry, and Serena could only explain.

-That's not what I meant, I was joking, I wasn't really talking about it, I wasn't going to do it.

Serena was even more anxious and could only grasp his hand.

-Are you angry? Then I apologize, I was wrong to say it a moment ago, I won't say it again, okay?

Hearing Serena's apology, the discomfort in Cristian's eyes dissolved a little, and he said with uncertainty.

-Now that we have established a relationship, you will always be responsible for me and cannot leave me.

Cristian's look just before had frightened Serena. So now, regardless of what Cristian said, Serena agreed and also promised, "I promise that I will be responsible for you and never leave you.

Only after saying this did Serena realize that those words seemed to be spoken normally by men, so why was she saying them now instead? But now she was no longer in the mood to think about such things, and to reassure Cristian, Serena added

-Look, just now Angelo offered me money to leave you and I didn't even do it.

Show that I really like you, and I definitely won't leave you.

Cristian thought about it and said, "Next time Angelo gives you money, you take it.

Chapter 845: Wasn't that a sexual innuendo on your part?

-What?

Serena thought she heard wrong, but was Cristian really asking her to take money from Angelo?

Cristian said softly, "It is his gift to you, next time he gives you money, take it.

Serena was speechless. Suddenly she heard that Angelo had saved Cristian as Jesus had saved

Judas. The two were talking when suddenly there was a knock on the door behind Serena. She almost jumped for joy and reflexively hid behind Cristian.

Serena reached behind Cristian's back and inevitably scratched some wrinkles out of his suit. For someone as clean and obsessive as Cristian, if someone else had done this to him, he would have been furious.

Not only was Cristian not angry, but he felt a strange sense of satisfaction.

The person who knocked on the door did not get permission to enter, so he knocked again.

Immediately afterwards the two people in the room heard the questioning voice.

-Mr. Cristian?

-It's Silvia! -Serena warned in a whisper, then looked around for a place to hide. Finally, she spotted Cristian's desk and hurried under it.

Cristian stood up and rubbed his forehead painfully, looking helpless.

-Come inside.

The office door did not open until Cristian gave his permission, and Silvia entered with an envelope in her hand, and it was strange to see Cristian standing by the door.

-Mr. Cristian, are you coming out?

Having said this, Silvia, as if sensing something, dropped her gaze to her suit jacket.

Silvia thought again that she had knocked for a long time before Mr. Cristian let her in. But these were not things to worry about, so Silvia handed out what was in her hand.

-Mr. Cristian, Mr. Angelo was just here.

Cristian's expression was calm and he did not seem surprised by her words; it seemed that he had already seen Mr. Angelo.

Then Silvia immediately said, "This is the envelope that Mr. Angelo left, I didn't know what was in it and I brought it to you.

Cristian thought about what Serena had just told him, so he looked at the envelope, picked it up, and opened it. Sure enough, inside the envelope was a check, so he said.

-I see, is there anything else?

Silvia stood still for a moment, hesitating, thinking it would be better to tell Cristian what had happened, and said,

-Mr. Angelo asked me to offer a place in the company to Miss Magdalena de Landi.

Cristian immediately frowned and became very angry, because Magdalene kept trying to get close to him, and Cristian had made it very clear.

Silvia was right when she saw Cristian's frown, Mr. Cristian really did not like women, but Maddalena Landi was a special person and this was not easy to handle.

-Mr. Angelo is very attached to Miss Magdalena, and if we don't accept her requests and go against the grain, Mr. Angelo might get very angry, but if we obey her will....

Then Mr. Cristian's life would certainly be very disturbed.

Although Mr. Angelo's attitude was harsh, the issue worried Cristian, so Silvia decided to talk to him about it. After all, it was an internal family conflict and perhaps they could resolve it on their own. But then Silvia suddenly saw Cristian cast a glance under his desk, and she heard him ask her,

-Silvia, what do you think about Landi?

Silvia froze for a moment at this sudden question, then answered, "Landi is a great company and they are very well ranked.

At these words, Cristian scoffed: -Then why does he have to go far?

Silvia immediately understood what Cristian was thinking and immediately nodded: -I know what needs to be done, Mr. Cristian. If you have no other orders, then I will leave.

-All right.

After Silvia left, Serena was still hiding under the table thinking, Does Maddalena Landi really want to be in the company? It was a pity that Angelo did not like Serena and even helped Maddalena woo Cristian. Thinking about it, Serena inwardly sighed.

-She's gone and you haven't come out yet?

You seem to be enjoying yourself here.

Serena was lost in thought when she heard Cristian's voice.

Serena looked up just in time to meet Cristian's, but instead of getting up immediately, she asked, "Will Angelo be angry again if we don't give Magdalene a place?

Cristian waited a few seconds, saw that Serena was still squatting under the desk and not coming out, so he simply squatted in front of her and asked.

-You expect me to give her a position?

Serena shook her head, not wanting to see Maddalena's disgusted face every day at work. Besides, the way Maddalena Landi was going, she was sure to give Serena trouble every day.

-You get up first," Cristian grabbed her wrist and pulled her into his arms, then stood up with her in his arms.

Once Serena was on her feet, she tried to leave Cristian's embrace. Instead, she found Cristian's hands wrapped around her waist, preventing her from moving.

-I take care of all this, you take care of your business as usual. But you can't live there anymore.

-So where am I going to live? -Serena felt bad because she had just rented the house and paid the rent and deposit.

Cristian remembered how Maddalena Landi had lost her mind that day, and he looked at Serena, whose eyes were as clear as a lake, and decided not to tell her the truth so that Serena would not be frightened. But Cristian needed an excuse to make Serena move, so he said.

-I'm afraid Grandpa will find you in private and find you a new place to live.

Serena blinked and looked at Cristian, who was standing nearby, "Do you want to live with me while you have the chance?"

Cristian was concerned about Serena's well-being, but he had not told her why. Now that Serena had only expressed her suspicions, the atmosphere between the two seemed to become sticky, and Cristian narrowed his eyes slightly as he looked at her.

-Did I say I wanted to live with you?

Serena did not respond.

-Or are you the one who wants to live with me?

Serena's face turned red with shyness and she said slyly, "I didn't think, you were the one who said you would move me.

-Yes, I said I would move you, but I didn't say I would live with you.

Cristian leaned down, his warm breath coming closer and closer to Serena, "It seems that this was your idea and your wish.

-No!" Serena pushed him away angrily; Cristian was literally using traps on her.

-Who hung the panties on my dress last time? Wasn't that a sexual innuendo on your part?

Cristian's lips brushed her ear as he said this.

The two had kissed but had not had sex since they had established their relationship. Even if their bodies had reacted, they would have held back because of the relationship.

But now they were talking about it again?

Chapter 846: Everything was obvious.

The last time was an accident.

But this prank had left this man so irritated that he thought about her every day.

The fact that it was an accident means that she was not hitting on him, plus at the time the two of them were not in a relationship, so how could she have given him that kind of hint?

But Cristian misunderstood, started to lean in, and her lips brushed his neck as if intentionally or unintentionally, the heat between the two of them seemed to have become a bit stifling.

The hand holding her waist suddenly moved upward, and then Serena realized that Cristian was breathing very fast.

Serena blinked nervously and opened her mouth unconsciously.

-No, stop, please ...

However, Cristian's lips continued to move closer to hers.

Bang!

-Mr. Cristian, I forgot to tell you.

Just when Serena was so nervous that her legs were shaking, suddenly the office door opened and Silvia walked in as she spoke, but she saw everything with her mouth open.

She opened her eyes wide in disbelief.

What did you see?

Mr. Cristian, who used to treat women as if they were all bad, was now kissing one who was in his arms?

As soon as Serena heard Silvia's voice, her expression changed dramatically, and she unconsciously gave Cristian a strong shove and staggered back a few steps before steadying herself on her toes.

Cristian, who had been pushed by her, showed intense dissatisfaction in his gaze, so he frowned and looked at the one who broke in with an impassive expression and asked,

-Why don't you knock?

Silvia was speechless.

She was stunned for a few seconds, apologized, and then withdrew.

Serena stepped aside very embarrassed because she did not want others to know, much less Silvia who was catching him in the act. In fact, being a couple, it was normal for them to kiss, but if acquaintances found out, one would be embarrassed.

He bit his lips with clasped hands, how would he deal with Silvia from now on?

When she was entangled, Cristiane told her.

-Let's go.

-What?

Cristian's expression did not change.

-Let's move on.

He said without much thought, "Silvia already knows everything, are you still in the mood?"

Seeing her not move, Cristian approached her with his lips slightly closed, pinched her chin with one hand and was about to kiss her, at that moment a burning fire arose in his heart.

She was so nervous that she blinked and looked at Cristian, who was so close that even she could see his face. Since everything had been exposed, she really had no desire to continue doing it.

Then, just as Cristian was about to let her open her mouth, Serena pushed him away.

-We have work to do.

Cristian was pushed aside with a couple of disgruntled glances.

Serena took two steps back, "You already told me I can't seduce you during working hours, so.... you can't do the same to me, I have to go!

After talking, she did not care how Cristian would react, and she immediately left the room.

Exiting the office, Serena felt a chill go up her face and rushed to the next bathroom.

Then Serena looked in the bathroom mirror and found that he already looked like a tomato. The worst thing was that ... there was a very obvious hickey on her neck.

Serena reached out her hand to rub it, but this mark would not go away.

He was going crazy.

This man knew she was not wearing a turtleneck today and left some marks on her neck.

Now she had no liquid foundation or concealer, and in the end she had no choice but to let her hair fall out and put it over her shoulders to cover this red mark.

Once she was well taken care of, Serena returned to the secretary's room with a guilty conscience.

In the room, Silvia was talking on the phone, she didn't even look at Serena when she came in, she was so cheerful that she ran to her seat and rummaged through her bag for makeup stuff.

As soon as he pulled out a correcting pencil, he found that Silvia had already hung up the phone and then stood up, grabbed a copy of documents and walked toward her.

Seeing this situation, Serena put the concealer in her bag, then straightened her back and looked at Silvia with a very obedient attitude.

- Serena," Silvia called her, Serena did not know if she had heard correctly, but she felt that call was exceptionally abnormal as if it sharpened her tone.

He straightened his back and looked at Silvia with a stiff smile, his ears growing redder and redder.

-Silvia, what is it?

Silvia smiled at her and put the copy on the desk, -Later bring these documents downstairs, and by the way, tell him to give them to me in the afternoon, to hurry up, otherwise I should cancel this month's bonus.

Serena nodded obediently, -I understand.

Silvia smiled slightly and turned to leave after placing the copy on her desk. Seeing this Serena breathed a sigh of relief feeling that she was not a gossip, so she did not want to bother explaining it to her

But she had not yet calmed down, suddenly Silvia turned and stared at her.

-Serena, you and Mr. Cristian ...

Serena straightened her back again and looked at her nervously.

Every move he made made Silvia couldn't help but laugh, -Don't be nervous, you're still a young girl, if you guys do this kind of thing, I understand.

The corners of his mouth twitched, and he did not know how to respond to Silvia.

-I didn't expect you to act so fast,|| Silvia sat down next to her and smiled, -Can I gossip a little bit? Why did Mr. Cristian treat women like they didn't exist before, you came to the company and won him over so easily? and even?

She happened to see what happened in the office, and she could see that it was Cristian who took the initiative to kiss her.

This made Silvia feel very strange because Mr. Cristian was being very active in the office without being afraid of being found out.

On the contrary, Serena was so worried and apprehensive that she seemed to fear being discovered by others.

Suddenly Silvia remembered that Mr. Angelo had come to the company today, so it occurred to her: -

Mr. came to the company today, didn't he?

Since everything had been discovered, Serena didn't want to deny it, so she nodded her head, -Well, yes, Silvia, I don't want others in this company to know, you promise me, yes?

Hearing this, Silvia reached out her hand and touched his forehead.

-Come on, do you think I'm that kind of gossip? Although I want to know all the gossip, but I'm not a gossip, and I'm just curious how you won this man so easily.

Serena smiled, but said nothing.

She and Cristian had met before, and this time they were together through fate.

What could he explain to Silvia?

Chapter 847: How cheeky you are!

Seeing that he did not want to say anything else, Silvia gave up.

-If you don't want to tell me, that's fine, but remember what I told you before?

Serena nodded, "Yes.

-You know the Landi family, do you know what kind of family they are? Actually, Mr. Angelo has already sent me to look for a job in our company for the daughter of the Landi family, and no matter what job, he wants to give her a place where she can have contact with Mr. Cristian.

After talking, Silvia thought for a while and said, "You were in the office when I was talking to Mr.

Cristian, if you want I can tell you everything, but did you understand what is going on?"

Before Serena could respond, Silvia explained again, "Mr. Angelo likes Magdalena very much, so he wants them to be together, don't you?"

At that point, he frowned and sighed, "Love that does not have the support of the old will be short-lived.

What Silvia said was sincere advice, Serena knew, so she took her hand and said softly.

-Thank you very much, Silvia, thank you for telling me, but don't worry, I have already thought about these things, I know what I will do from now on. Although I have been in this company for a short time, the relationship goes so fast with him, instead of thinking that I am an indecent woman, he trusts me a lot, thank you, really.

Because everyone would surely have thought that she was a gold digger who wanted to cheat Mr.

Cristian.

But Silvia did not believe it was, she said many sweet words to him.

-Think about that and I know you are a good girl.

Silvia understood that she worked in this company for Mr. Cristian, but she did not look like a climber, in fact, she looked unhappy, sometimes Silvia felt she was thinking too much.

But there were so many people in the company, only Serena gave her this strange impression.

-All right, since you made the decision on your own, then I have nothing to say, however... I don't want to meddle in your affairs.

Suddenly Silvia stood up, thought of something and touched Serena's cheek, smiling.

-If you can finally be together, remember to invite me to the wedding, and I will also prepare a red envelope for you because I was the one who strongly recommended you to work in this company.

The atmosphere between the two suddenly relaxed, and Serena smiled, "Okay, hopefully.

After the two reached an agreement, they set to work.

Later, Maddalena arrived at the company after receiving a call from Angelo Calligaris, who told her that everything was ready for her, so she could go directly to the company and ask Angelo's secretary, and she would take care of the work.

So Maddalena went straight to the Calligaris group after getting dressed and choosing her favorite lipstick and eye shadow.

Girls always wanted to show their best side to the men they liked, and so did Magdalene.

Once she arrived at the company, the receptionist saw her and let her up.

However, after seeing him enter the elevator, she sighed to the girl next to her, "My God, why do some people have such beautiful and fortunate lives, not only are they well born, but they have beautiful faces, even the people they are with are so beautiful?"

Another girl looked at her and said strangely, "The best people are meant to be together, don't you think? If a particularly good person was with a useless person who knows nothing and is of no use, I think it would be very strange."

When the receptionist heard this, she became envious, but admitted that she was absolutely right.

The best people are meant to be together.

-If you don't accept this truth, then you have to make an effort, instead of having fun every day you can do more meaningful things to perfect yourself, when you become a better person, you will have good friends by your side in the future, won't you?"

This girl told him again, and the girl at the reception desk nodded her head, but she quickly realized that this was all very strange, so she narrowed her eyes and looked at him, -Why do you know so much?

The girl smiled as she put a piece of candy in her mouth, -I saw it on Twitter.

The one at the front desk-.....

"A Twitter nonsense," he scoffs in his mind.

She thought that this girl, just like her, was also a receptionist, went to all kinds of entertainment places after leaving work every day, did nothing but eat and sleep on Saturdays and Sundays, did not put into practice what she said, and did not even know how to organize work and rest time!

What could I expect from her?

After Magdalene went upstairs, she went directly to the secretary's room.

However, Silvia had already left when she went to pick him up, and only Serena was tidying up the papers there.

Magdalene was standing in the doorway staring at this hardworking woman with her head bowed.

Serena wore a blue chiffon shirt on top and jeans underneath, with a ponytail.

Whichever way you look at it, she was a very normal woman.

But why had such a woman made Cristian fall in love? What magic did she have?

He looked at himself and felt that what he was wearing was the best.

From a beauty standpoint, she thought she was more beautiful than Serena, but why didn't Cristian want to look at her?

The more he thought about it, the angrier he became, and the hands hanging at his sides clenched tightly.

At that moment, Serena raised her head and unconsciously looked this way, then lowered her head, but soon realized something and raised it again.

Their gazes met.

"Magdalena?" she felt very surprised.

Seeing Magdalene appear here, Serena was astonished, but reacted quickly and remembered all the words Silvia had said to her earlier.

He did not expect Magdalene to arrive today, and she was also well made up.

Thus, looking at each other in silence for quite a while, Magdalene entered with a mocking tone.

-I really underestimated you before, I didn't expect you to be in this company and stay by his side as his assistant.

He had already forgotten you, but you still didn't want to leave here, how cheeky you are!

Chapter 848: No Morals

What he said made Serena extremely uncomfortable, and her gaze showed more and more dislike, but she soon calmed down, as she lowered her head to sort the papers she said casually, "You are the brazen one.

Magdalene changed color slightly through gritted teeth, -What did you say?

Serena raised her head, looked at her with a mocking tone, -If he forgot about me, he must have forgotten about you too, you use your identity as the daughter of the Landi family to get close to him, but he completely ignores you, who is the most shameless, huh?

With all these words he put his finger on Magdalene's sore spot, which made her very angry.

Magdalene felt that yesterday she might find out what had happened in the office. She was very upset because she did not know how long Serena had been with the company and what relationship she and Cristian had.

"Cristian must have forgotten her, right? Otherwise she wouldn't be sitting here," she felt confused.

Thinking of this, Magdalene said angrily.

-So, you said I approached him with the identity of a daughter of the Landi family, but you did the same with the identity of an employee of the company, aren't you ashamed?

-I joined this company in a personal capacity, didn't you?" smiled Serena.

Magdalena was speechless.

-I don't care how you can work here, but we have the same intention.

Hearing this, Serena laughed and shook her head, "You are wrong, my intention is different from yours.

After speaking, he raised his head with his gaze fixed on Magdalene's face and added, "I am here to recover her memory, but you are stealing it from me.

-No morals," he said again.

-What!

Magdalene was very angry, and she came in ready to fight with Serena, but she saw her very calm with a slight smile on her face, on the contrary she herself was anxious and disappointed.

The contrast between the two was very clear, Magdalene tried to calm down and said coldly, "What do you mean no morals?"

I told you before that your marriage has not been officially celebrated, so you are not a couple, what I am doing is competing with you.

Hearing this, Serena already felt that there would be no use in talking to her.

Magdalene's thoughts were very different, according to Serena, but Serena and Cristian were not married, so she could still steal him from his hands, and this was still a fair competition.

-Ok, we have nothing to talk about, you came to see Silvia, right? She is not in the office right now, so go and come back later.

Serena gave her the ultimatum.

Magdalena looked around and said coldly.

-If he is not here, I will wait here until he comes.

After he finished speaking, he sat down on the sofa as if he were the boss and said, "Pour me a cup of tea."

Serena was speechless.

"Aren't you going to call me to pour you a cup of tea?" she was confused.

Serena did not move and continued to rearrange the cards.

Magdalene waited a long time, but she didn't pour it out to him, so she got up - what's wrong with you?

I send you to pour me a cup of tea, do you hear me?

Serena looked up and scoffed, "Why do I have to serve you tea? Are you a guest of our company? Do you have a booked appointment? If you don't, then it's not my job.

-I'm sorry!

Magdalene stood up, looked at her angrily and said in a sarcastic tone, "Big head, I really underestimated you.

Hearing this, Serena replied

-I also underestimated your level of impertinence.

If they had continued talking, she would have died of anger, but he remembered that he had had contact with her only once, why had he not found her so stubborn before?

Although he had nothing to refute her with, he wanted to smash her face right now.

At that moment Silvia returned, seeing Magdalena was shocked and quickly said.

-Mrs. Magdalena?

When Magdalena saw Silvia, she immediately got up and went toward her because she remembered that Grandpa Angelo had said to look for this woman to get a position, which meant that she had a lot of power in this company, and she was also Cristian's secretary, so she should please him.

-Hello, from now on you can call me little sister Magdalena," smiled Magdalena.

Silvia was stunned.

Her attitude quickly changed, so Silvia thought that if she told the girl the truth later, would this girl be angry?

She looked at Serena next to her and then smiled at Magdalena, -Hello, Miss Magdalena, I heard Mr.

Angelo talking about your business, why don't we go talk somewhere else?

He feared she would throw a tantrum.

Magdalene blinked and said with a smile, "No need, I think we can talk here.

Serena thought that after joining the company, would she have a chance to be close to Cristian? But Magdalena wanted Serena to know that she too would enter the company to be next to Cristian and compete with her.

However, he was right because Cristian did not know anyone now, so he had this good chance, especially knowing that Grandpa Angelo was on his side.

Silvia did not expect that she would be reluctant to change places to talk; she did not know what to do, but she nodded her head.

-Well, then let's get down to business.

Magdalene stepped forward and wanted to take Silvia's hand, "Dear Silvia, what position have I been assigned?"

Silvia stepped back to avoid his touch; the expression on her face was very serious.

-Mrs. Magdalena, I think you also know that Grandpa Angelo is now retired, and everything he says is still very important, but now Mr. Cristian is in charge, so, I have to inform him about these things.

Magdalena was surprised and saw that something was wrong with his expression.

-So what?

-Our company currently has no vacancies, Miss Magdalena, my advice is that if you want to learn, your company is very good, why should you bother coming here?

Magdalena winced.

-What are you talking about?

Silvia said directly, "Miss Magdalena, go back to your company, you can be a secretary and also an executive, do what you want, you don't have to suffer working in our Calligaris Group.

After hearing these words, Magdalene changed her color.

-Anyway, you still won't let me join the company?

Chapter 849: The meeting

Silvia did not want to be too direct.

She smiled slightly, -We don't want you to suffer, if you insist on staying here, no problem.

Magdalene waved her hands, in that instant her flattering and gentle attitude disappeared.

-I'm not afraid of suffering, I just want a job, didn't Grandpa Angelo tell you what to do? I think this is not a big problem for you.

What he said angered Silvia, so she frowned and said with disappointment, -Mrs. Magdalena, if you think it's so easy for me to assign you a job, please go back to your Landi Group and you can have anything you want, I think it's your company and no one will dare to complain.

-What are you saying? -Maddalena looked at Silvia with wide eyes, -Why do you think you have the right to judge me, you are just older than me? I am the daughter of the Landi family, Grandpa Angelo personally asked me to work in this company, how dare you talk to me like that!

Silvia, who was not easy to convince, raised her head and said coldly, -You are right, you are the daughter of the Landi family, but I am not from your Landi group and I am Mr. Cristian's secretary, so I only carry out his orders.

If he has the ability, he can also call Mr. Angelo to see if he can assign a higher position than Mr.

Cristian in the company to check me out.

Magdalena could not say anything.

Serena, who was next to her, was surprised because she had not expected Silvia to be able to talk so much as to leave Magdalene speechless.

However, it was his fault.

This issue was between her and Magdalena, and she believed that it was not right for Silvia to advocate so much for her. Thinking about this, Serena approached them and casually said.

-I think you'd better go back, after all, you are the daughter of the Landi family. If you can't find a job in our company, why don't you try on your own, maybe you still have a chance?

She said these words deliberately because Magdalene gave her the bad impression that she knew she was having the affair with Cristian but wanted them to separate.

Apparently it was a fair competition, but in reality she wanted to enter this relationship.

If he wanted to enter into this relationship, then why did he think everything he did was reasonable?

If she had boldly admitted that she wanted to enter this, then Serena might have thought that this girl was honest.

But he didn't even have the courage to confess to her.

Not only did she not have it, but she was implying that she was doing everything right, which is why she did not want to be polite to her.

In fact, Magdalene at that moment was very angry, and when Serena allied herself, she looked at him with hatred and said bitterly, -Time will tell, Cristian will be mine, even if you stand by his side now, you cannot be with him forever.

As long as he is from the Calligaris family, sooner or later he has to marry me, then you will have nothing. If I were you, I would get out of here.

Serena looked at her and said in a mocking tone: -The same thing I have to say to you, leave now and find a job in your Landi group, if you continue to make trouble, the Landi family's reputation will be destroyed because of you.

-You'll see!

Magdalene turned and gave Serena a murderous look before leaving, which was fierce and terrifying making the danger clear.

Serena felt a small chill in her heart, but quickly calmed down.

As she was leaving, Silvia approached her, "Why did you interrupt me?"

After speaking, Silvia sighed, Serena looked at her: -Silvia, I...

-What? I'm the secretary of this company and I've been with them for many years, even if she's angry, she doesn't dare to do anything to me, and you? She treats you like a love rival, and you really are, uff like she's been in a war?

Silvia shook her head and said, -The look in her eyes was too dangerous when she left, so you have to be careful what you do next in case she wants to take revenge on you.

"Get even with me?" he murmured.

Serena lowered her gaze and did not respond.

-You shouldn't have interrupted me," Silvia said again.

Hearing this, Serena raised her head and shook her head, "Silvia, convincing her to give up her bad ideas is impossible.

It was not easy for her to give up her ideas.

Silvia frowned when she heard him, "So you have these ideas?"

Serena smiled bitterly, "How should I know, I can't guess what he thinks, but I'm sure he hates me.

Silvia reached out a hand and patted him lightly on the shoulder, "In any case, be careful, are you and Mr. Cristian already together? Do you want to tell him? Have him help you?"

"Tell Cristian?"

Serena squinted her lips and rejected it.

-He has to deal with his grandfather, I don't want him to deal with these things, I have other ideas.

Perhaps you could try contacting Tancredi.

Since the last time she had seen him, she had found out that Tancredi did not want his sister to be with Cristian, and that Tancredi was a very sensitive person because he knew that his sister would not be happy marrying someone who did not love him, so he would rather destroy his sister's dream than help her achieve it.

-All right, think of everything for Mr. Cristian, if you have already decided--then be careful.

-Ok, thank you Silvia.

Serena smiled at him and then set to work.

His brow furrowed as he lowered his head and flipped through the documents.

She wanted to talk to Tancredi about it, but-where would she look for him? She did not have his contact number.

Thinking about this, Serena felt a headache, should she have gone to the Landi group?

She would have been kicked out of the Landi group if she had not had an appointment booked.

What surprised her was that she had prepared the plan to look for him in the morning, but Tancredi looked for her at noon.

But he was not the only one because Vittorio was with him.

It was Vittorio who texted her and asked her to go to a café; when Serena arrived, she found out that the person with Vittorio was Tancredi.

When the two were reunited, Serena was shocked.

-again.

Tancredi held his coffee in his hand and smiled at Serena.

Chapter 850: What are your intentions?

There was a cafe on the street corner, outside people came and went, but inside the heating was on and there was soothing music.

Compared to the bitter cold outside, the café was really a place to relax.

At the sight of Tancredi, Serena's furrowed brows finally melted.

Sister-in-law.

As soon as Vittorio saw her, he got up and took a chair from her, motioning her to sit down, then helped her carry her bag and gave her the menu card.

Tancredi squinted slightly at this series of movements.

He had recently sent someone to investigate Vittorio, so he knew Vittorio and Cristian got along well and considered him a good friend, now that Vittorio was obsequious with Serena, was it because Cristian and Serena were already together?

If he lost his memory, wouldn't his past feelings disappear?

Thinking of this, Tancredi arched his eyebrows.

In fact, feelings were an impressive thing because a man with amnesia could still fall in love with the same woman, and his sister? also went crazy because of what happened.

Vittorio's kindness embarrassed Serena, she sat down and said, "Vittorio, sit down.

Vittorio sat in front of her with a smile: -All right!

Earlier Cristian had asked him to take care of his sister-in-law, and Vittorio was very happy because it was an honor that Cristian trusted him.

After everyone was seated, the waiter approached them, Serena ordered a glass of juice and then looked at Tancredi who was sitting across from them.

And Vittorio reacted quickly to this point and growled.

-Did I just hear Tancredi say that you two are meeting again? Did I hear right? Have you two met before?

Serena nodded her head, looking at Tancredi.

-Yes, we have met before.

When Vittorio heard this, he opened his eyes wide and immediately got up from his seat and looked at Tancredi, "What does it mean, why did you meet my sister-in-law in private, what are your intentions?"

Tancredi rolled his eyes and looked at Vittorio helplessly because he acted like a fool.

Serena looked at him and felt the same.

Seeing that she did not speak, Vittorio walked over to him and grabbed Tancredi by the collar: -Talk?

What are you trying to do with my sister-in-law? Would you have the same interest as your sister in separating the others?

Speaking of Magdalena, Tancredi's eyes became a little cold, and Serena noticed that when Vittorio held his neck, Tancredi still held the coffee cup in his hand, although under such a violent shake, that cup had not even moved.

Not only that, but his movements were as graceful as before.

Tancredi spoke with his sly look.

-If you don't let me go, then do I have to wash your face with my coffee?

Vittorio was speechless.

He said still through clenched teeth: -So speak up, because you met my sister-in-law in private, you are just like your sister, aren't you?

Tancredi looked at him indifferently, -Are you crazy or what?

-Crazy? -Vittorio immediately gritted his teeth in anger.

-Have you ever seen someone who wants to get into a relationship and brings in a third person?

They did not know if Vittorio was too stupid or if Tancredi's words were not clear because he did not react well for a long time, so Serena could take it no more and said, "He met him for his sister."

Sister-in-law, really?

Serena did not speak.

-Ok, since you are my sister-in-law, I believe you," Vittorio said coldly. I thought it was your Landi family's specialty to meddle in other people's relationships.

Tancredi fixed the messy collar with his hands and their gazes cooled a little, he looked up and looked at Vittorio with disgust.

-You'd better shut up.

-What, you don't want others to judge you? What kind of family do you come from? You have such an uneducated sister," Vittorio growled.

-Do you have the right to judge my sister?

After all, she was his sister, so Tancredi could not bear these comments.

Vittorio wanted to say something else, but Serena came up and stopped him, so he gestured to her.

Serena smiled slightly and looked at Tancredi.

-I apologize for him, you're right, we don't have the right to judge your sister, but what are you doing here today, it's... is it because of your sister again? about your sister again?

Tancredi had already adjusted his collar, put down his coffee and looked at Serena's face.

-If not, why do you think he came?

-Since it's your sister, then let's get to the point, what do you want?

She had already told him clearly, so Tancredi said bluntly, -What my sister did was wrong, I will take care of her, but ... I also need your help.

Vittorio asked, "What do you want us to help you with?"

Tancredi half-closed his lips and looked seriously at Serena.

-If you can, I hope you can marry him as soon as possible.

Serena and Vittorio did not respond.

Wide-eyed, he thought he had misunderstood.

Did he want his sister-in-law and Cristian to get married as soon as possible?

Serena was also a little surprised, but quickly said, -Mr. Tancredi, I understand what you mean, that I should marry him for you to completely despair, right?

Tancredi did not respond, but his looks and expressions were very obvious.

-You are wrong, Mr. Tancredi, although I am in love with this man, he has lost his memory and she wants us to get married right away, I will not do it at all.

Hearing this, Tancredi frowned and looked at her very confused.

-Have you never liked anyone before? -Serena stared at him and explained, -He's the first person I've ever loved, I don't want to get married when he's in this condition.

Sister-in-law, were you going to marry him before? Why don't you want to do it now? -Victor asked.
