

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 4 - 241 Confrontation

In just an instant, three creatures popped up a few meters away from the previous group of gigantic monsters.

The first one was a one-meter frog. However, shockingly, it was no ordinary-looking frog as it had the wings of a bat attached to its back.

The second and the third ones were both two-meters humanoid rabbits with two legs and two arms. They looked extremely savage.

Nevertheless, what made them greatly different from the first group of horrifying beasts was none of these strange qualities to them. It was the fact that a kind of flame-like fogs was being exuded from different parts of their bodies.

The eyes and a small part of the wings of the one-meter frog were burning in red flames, while the eyes of the two humanoid rabbits were also burning in flame-like fogs of red color. Moreover, a part of their feet was also burning in those flames of the exact color.

After these three new creatures were discharged from the crack, the space itself began to mend and restore itself as the rift closed up entirely.

Meanwhile, the soldiers were completely stunned by the abrupt changes that had taken place in front of them.

There were many helicopters in the sky right now, many of which had a lot of reporters on them, reporters who had come from a variety of countries in the world.

Anyhow, the moment these changes and shifts started to take place in the rift, they promptly picked up their cameras as they began their recording. They also called the headquarters of their television channel as they told them to instantly start a live program of their recording.

By the time the monsters had popped up, almost all of those channels were already broadcasting a live video of everything that was happening down below.

Immediately, the viewership of all of them started to skyrocket as different people began notifying everyone they knew to watch a particular channel at once!

Anyway, as the soldiers were staring in the direction of those monsters in a completely flabbergast and dumbfounded manner, the first group of huge beasts charged toward the nearby soldiers as they were all ripped apart or eaten the very next moment.

Those three six-horned rhinoceroses were the first to charge in a direction as they pierced through the bodies of many of the soldiers who died a few seconds later.

The three-meters lion-headed spider also started to move in an extremely quick manner which was absolutely hard to follow. It instantly arrived before a few soldiers and slashed at them with its legs.

Cacha~

Cacha~

Cacha~

With a single slash of its three legs, three soldiers were cut up into two detached body parts! Now, each soldier had been split up into two pieces as blood began to gush out from both of their severed body parts. Nonetheless, they were already dead.

The six white tigers also rushed towards the closest soldiers to them as they each bit off a head.

The four squirrel-like beasts also moved in extremely fast speed as they clawed at whatever human being that popped up in their path, they were literally unstoppable.

At this point, the other three creatures which were different from the rest of the beast-like monsters also began to move, however, instead of attacking the human beings, all three of them leaped once as they jumped above a rather high building at nearby.

One of them was a frog with bat wings while the other two were humanoid rabbits, so for them, jumping to this height seemed to be no problem at all.

Even though it seemed like all these had taken a long time to happen, in truth, it's been only a moment since they all had popped out from the rift only to start attacking the human beings. It's been only a few seconds.

"Ahhhhhhh-" At this time, another soldier who's body had been divided into two parts from his torso started to scream in both pain and horror as he died.

"Ahhh, attack! Attack!!!" Finally, a soldier shouted as he started shooting at one of the white tigers

"Don't allow any of them to escape! That would be a disaster to the common citizens! Attack!" Another soldier who seemed to have a rather high rank yelled toward the soldiers. His face was truly pale.

Bratatatat~

Bomb~

Bang~

Bam~

Bratatatat~

Fshhh~ Bang~

Finally, it was at this point when the soldiers came to themselves with the screams as the field transformed into a true war zone!

Different soldiers were shooting in the direction of those horrifying monsters which had just killed many of their comrades.

Tanks were also aiming in the direction of those lonely beasts before taking a shot.

Utilizing the machine guns which had been equipped beside some of the military helicopters, the soldiers were also barraging the monsters.

There were also many other war helicopters equipped with rockets that were targeting those monsters before they pressed the launch button.

In a single moment, four of those white tigers exploded into many pieces just like that. However, unfortunately, the bombs and the rockets had also killed many of their own soldiers. So, a lot of friendly fires had also finished off the soldiers.

To be more precise, the number of soldiers who died by those rockets and bombs were greater than the number of those casualties that had been caused by the monsters to this very point.

Other than four white tigers, all four of the squirrel-like beasts had also been slaughtered.

However, the spider had been very quick to produce a long web which instantly attached itself to a corner of a random building as it had fled from the bombardment, while the three rhinoceroses seemed to be at least as hard as tanks, because, only a few wounds had shown up on their bodies after facing so many grenades and even rockets.

Now, only two white tigers, three rhinoceroses, and one spider with the head of a lion remained.

Nevertheless, the two remaining white tigers were just lucky enough to escape with their lives. Still, although they were alive, they had been already gravely injured, so it was highly unlikely for them to live for much longer. Thus like this, even if they were left alone, they were doomed to die in a short period of time.

At this time, directly facing many bullets and even some grenades, the three shallowly wounded rhinoceroses each charged toward a random tank.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

Next, they each clashed head-on into the tanks. And, as a result of that violent confrontation, a loud noise was made. Afterward, a mindboggling scene occurred as those three tanks were overturned upside-down!

Without stopping though, the rhinoceroses charged toward their next target. Soon, another three tanks were turned upside-down. During the process of their charge toward the tanks, a lot of soldiers were also ripped into many pieces by them.

In the meantime, the spider was also moving around at a very fast speed. Everywhere it went, slaughter took place as many gory body parts fell on the ground. And just like that, without a single exception, all of its targets were horribly butchered. It was as if the god of death was moving around on the battlefield together with its scythe.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 4 - 242 A New Revelation

Bang~

The two white tigers were charging in a direction in order to eat the head of a few unlucky soldiers when a military helicopter launched two rockets toward them, instantly ripping them apart into many pieces as a result of the explosion.

So, the remaining white tigers died just like that.

Now, from the first group, only the lion-headed spider and three of the six-horned rhinoceroses had remained as they charged into the battlefield as they wrecked everything in their path.

The spider continued to butcher whoever that popped up in its way, while the rhinoceroses charged in a direction and as a result of that, even the buildings weren't spared as every wall was promptly broken through by them.

The rockets, bombs, grenades, bullets, etc. had already turned almost the whole block into a demolished and ruined zone, a theater of war.

However, the more the four terrible beasts slaughtered and caused destruction, the more soldiers replaced them. This was the advantage of humanity. They were like ants, almost without any ends. You kill one, two replace that. You butcher two, four replace them.

Still, no one was able to finish these four off and send them away to the afterlife. The spider was very quick in dodging everything that could possibly pose it a threat, while the rhinoceroses were as hard as the hardest iron or even beyond that. They were literally harder than tanks, so their durability could only be imagined.

After that, the war proceeded along for a long time. By now, almost seventy percent of the citizens in each country was watching this live war at their homes while shaking in fear and horror. This meant that almost seventy percent of the population on the whole Earth was seeing this battle or terror.

Many of them were continuously praying to God to let humanity win and for these monsters to be the very last of them to spawn on this Earth.

Many of them were only trembling in their seats as they saw everything with their eyes wide-open while mumbling, "What's happening to this world?"

Some were even shedding tears of sorrow as they believed this was all the work of God, the foretold apocalypse.

.
. .
.

Meanwhile, a soldier was kneeling on the ground with hopelessness shrouding his eyes. His whole body was covered in both dust and the blood of his comrades as he wondered to himself, 'Am I going to die now?'

Another was pondering, 'Stopping these four are impossible! We're all going to die...'

However, the battle continued without stop as more and more rockets were dropped on the head of the rhinoceroses only to slightly worsen their injuries.

At this point, the spider had just noticed the kneeling soldier before starting to rush in its direction.

"Sigh... after a day of hard work, instead of going home to rest... it seems I have to come here for more work! Damn it! I hate my boss!" At this time, to the shock and speechlessness of every soldier and everyone else watching this scene alive, a normal-looking citizen wearing a suit showed up on the scene as he got off from the truck he had just arrived with. Next, he took off his jacket as he threw it off on the ground.

"That's a normal citizen!" A man yelled sitting in his home looking at this newcomer.

"Run! Run! Fast! This is no place for people like you! You'll lose your life!" A soldier shouted in his direction, clearly extremely worried about him. He was a true soldier who never forgot about innocent lives, even in his current situation where he was facing death itself.

Nevertheless, the man didn't move at all as he remained motionless in his previous spot.

Seeing almost everyone staring in the direction of this newcomer who was wearing different clothes than the rest of the soldiers, the spider also looked over and the next moment, it changed its path as it began charging toward him. The spider had altered his path and locked on a new target probably because after seeing everyone gazing at him, it misunderstood that this man in front of it was a very important person while its instincts kept screaming at it to end him as soon as possible.

In a few seconds, the spider was already very close to him. In case the situation continued to progress like this, in a dozen more seconds, the man would be most likely... dead.

"Aiii, I'm here by the direct orders of the President himself, so why would I leave at this time?" As he mumbled this sentence, while one of his hands remained inside his pocket, the other was raised beside his shoulders as the very next moment, from behind the truck... tens of small objects began to rise into the air itself before they flew over to remain motionless all around him.

Now, these unknown objects were surrounding him all over the place.

Seeing this scene, everyone instantly became dumbfounded to the extreme. If the existence of these terrifying monsters were truly an unbelievable matter to them before today, then the unbelievability of what this man was doing was a grade higher than that to them!

This man was literally controlling those objects without touching them! He only raised one hand before they just flew over as they continued to remain in the air beside him in a stagnant manner!

"This..." The soldiers were instantly in a state of beyond disbelief, they could neither believe nor comprehend what was happening before them.

"What the fuck!" Everyone who was watching this scene alive was also immediately flabbergasted!

"Maybe it's a fraud channel, let's watch it from another one from a different angle." This was such an impossible matter to many of them that they instantly started changing their channels to another one.

However, what they saw next made their eyeballs pop out of their sockets! Because even from another angle, the same thing was happening! Just... from a different angle!

"Whaaat! Am I seeing things? Maybe this is a hallucination? Tell me I'm hallucinating!" Someone said while massaging his eyes, however, the person beside him shook his head before muttering, "Fuck, I'm seeing the same thing, this is not an illusion bro!"

.
. .
.

"So... superpowers are real?!?" In another place, a rather fat young man who wanted to enter the rift screamed with stars shining in his eyes before starting to daydream about acquiring one of these powers and ultimately ascending to the top of this Earth to be the strongest one among everyone!

.
. .
It took some time for everyone to enter into this state of absolute shock and astonishment before they started processing everything before finally collecting their wits together again!

However, after they were at last able to process this whole situation, the eyes of many people began to shine as they murmured, "This is hope!"

Meanwhile, a lot of people started recalling those short videos of queer people using impossible abilities. This instantly sent shivers down to their spines as a single line flashed through their brains, 'So they were all real!'

This was the day mankind sunk into the depth of despair and darkness...

This was the day mankind also found a bright light of hope shining within that absolute darkness...

This was also the day... mankind became aware of the existence of extraordinary people living among them.

Moreover, they were... one of their own!

Afterward, everyone stared at the man with much more focus in their eyes as they began studying him as hard as they could.

'What are those things around him?' This was the question that had just popped up into the head of numerous soldiers and individuals who were staring at their televisions almost to the point of their eyeballs bulging out.

It took them a few seconds to look at those unknown objects around the man when finally, the same startling thought popped into the mind of a horde of them, 'Are those... grenades?!?!'

These were really... grenades!

"Now..." In the meantime, not caring at all about how others were reacting to all of this or that everyone was watching him, the man uttered this single word before finally taking out his other hand from inside his pocket as he aimed it toward the spider who was charging in his direction.

The next moment, a startling scene took place in front of everyone as the spider was... stopped!

And at this point, the man finally finished the rest of his sentence, "... die!"

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 4 - 243 The Trio Creatures

Instantly, the pins of all of the grenades were taken off before they darted toward the frozen spider.

BANG~ ...

Promptly, the continuous deafening noise of explosion reverberated around the area as everywhere was covered in dust.

It took some time for the scene to be cleared once again as everyone was finally able to see the spider's current situation.

However, they were left a bit speechless seeing the scenery there, because the spider was nowhere to be seen. What had remained were only small bits of flesh and blood spreading everywhere.

Also, there was a bead buried among those pieces and bits of flesh just like the one South Korea had discovered inside the strongest beast that had appeared on Jeju island.

Seeing this sight in front of him, the man scratched his head in some helplessness before voicing, "May... maybe I went a bit overboard?"

Simultaneously, as the spider was no more, the three rhinoceroses' attention was finally drawn toward this man who had just made their fellow monster join the majority.

So, as some flashes of rage coursed through their eyes, they promptly stopped the process of annihilating whatever they were trying to crush as they stormed in his direction.

Seeing this, a smirk popped into the man's face as he said, "Well, well, will you look at these enraged animals... haha... but not so fast." Afterward, to the astonishment of everyone seeing the scene, he started floating in the air until he rose to a height where the three rhinoceroses wouldn't be able to reach him anymore.

Then, his fingers were flicked once again as six special types of rockets flew into the air. He only had ten of these rare rockets. And he was supposed to end all of the monsters with them.

In the meantime, the soldiers, the remaining tanks, and even the military helicopters were attacking those three beasts non-stop, gradually increasing the wounds on their bodies which enlarged by every second.

"Get away from the monsters!" While the attacks proceeded, shouting toward the soldiers, his fingers slightly went in motion which in return caused three of the rockets to bolt toward the rhinoceroses.

Bang~

Bam~

Bang!

Since the rhinoceroses didn't have the agility of that spider, they could only watch as the rockets hit them. Then, an even fiercer explosion sparkled, producing a thunderous sound in the war field.

Huff~

Huff~

Huff~

The abnormal man was just about to celebrate their certain doom when three gravely injured beasts lunged out of the explosion area as they tried to retreat and flee the scene.

"You want to run? Hah... in your dreams!" After his initial surprise, articulating these words, a smirk crept upon his face as the remaining floating rockets were also launched toward the trio.

Bang~

Baang~

Bomb~

.
. .
.

"He defeated all the villains! He's a hero!" A young kid uttered in excitement while looking at the big screen in front of him. His eyes had many shining stars in them as a deep yearning was sparked within them, 'I want to be like him when I grow up! A hero! I want to be a hero!'

.
. .
.

"Yes!!! He killed them all! All of them were annihilated, haha! That's a win for humanity..." An old man screamed in excitement.

However, the people who were the most impressed weren't those of male gender, but females who were looking toward the man on the screen with fondness and even some traces of blush covering their expression.

Currently, to them, the man on the screen was truly a charming hero who seemed to be the protagonist of the whole world, so how could someone not desire to be with a person like that?

"He's so powerful..."

"So charming..."

"So handsome..." This statement was a bit too much though.

"I... I'm his fan from now on! Who is he? Oppa!" This was clearly a Korean girl.

Anyway, a lot of feminine eyes were shining like the brightest star at night as their instincts to fall in love with strong men was instantly activated.

Now, the three rhinoceroses had fallen on the ground as they stayed there unmoving. Although they had died already, amazingly, their bodies were still left almost intact even after going through so many bombardments and bullets!

"Phew... finally, it's over-" Just as he was about to finish his words, he remembered the other three creatures which were acting very strange.

All three of them were still standing atop a building while watching the whole battle without making any kind of movements whatsoever.

They just watched the whole battle without any kind of expression showing on their animal faces. It was as if none of the matters regarding that battle had to do with them.

All of the soldiers, reporters, and people who were watching the scene suddenly recalled those odd creatures which had red flame-like fogs covering some parts of their bodies.

It wasn't that they had forgotten about those creatures, it was just that because they hadn't made any move and more importantly since another intense battle was happening before, everyone had just put them at the back of their mind temporarily.

But now that the battle with the first group was over, those odd creatures became the center of everyone's attention as they looked at them with nervousness clear in their eyes.

"They're not attacking... what should I do?" At this point, the abnormal man whispered. He was obviously talking to someone.

"Wait for a moment, we are receiving direct orders from the President himself." A voice was heard inside his ears.

Some seconds later, he heard that voice again, "The President has passed along the orders, you have to eliminate all three of them. We can't allow unknown creatures to exist on our planet."

Just as expected, mankind always feared the unknown. So, receiving the direct order to eliminate the possible enemies with a hidden agenda was not surprising at all.

"Roger that." Voiced the man touching his ear.

At the same time, a similar order was given to the commander of all of the soldiers and armies gathered at the vicinity.

"Launch attacks." So, receiving the orders, the helicopters immediately aimed at the trio and took a shot.

Fshh~

Fshh~

Bratatat~...

Promptly, many bullets and bombs were sent toward the trio as it got closer and closer to them.

Then, just as they were about to be hit, all three of them jumped at the same time.

However, the difference between them was that the bat-winged frog jumped toward the ground in a relaxed manner, while the two humanoid rabbits launched themselves in the direction of two of the military helicopters that had just attacked them.

Bam!

Bam!

Moreover, astonishingly, the strength they put behind their legs before propelling themselves from their previous spot was so great that it seemed as if a small explosion had happened there as pebbles and rocks spread everywhere.

Then, with a speed which was no lower than the speed of a missile, they darted toward the military helicopters.

Bang~

Meanwhile, the previous spot the trio were standing on were instantly reduced to smithereens as the bombs and rockets had finally arrived at their destination, albeit no one was standing there anymore. Nevertheless, as a result of that multiple layered explosion, a huge chunk of that building had already disappeared.

Bang!

Bang!

Meanwhile, just as the two humanoid rabbits were upon the two military helicopters, they did a backflip in the air before clashing with the two helicopters directly using with their feet. But, what was special about this clash was that in addition to their already terrifying momentum gathered as a result of their monstrous speed, in the very last second before their confrontation, they also recollected their legs before sending a kick attack with all their might.

So just like that, the very next moment, two helicopters exploded into many pieces as everyone inside also joined the majority.

"Try this!" Seeing those two still in the air, an evil grin found its way on the man's face as he knew this was the best opportunity to attack them since they were going to stay in the air without any control for quite a while. This meant that as long as they were still in the sky, they wouldn't be able to change their direction at all!

As this notion popped into the man's head, two new rockets appeared behind him as they were flung toward the two rabbits.

However, just as the two rockets were about to hit the two humanoid rabbits, a shadow emerged right behind him...

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 4 - 244: To Swallow

Chapter 244: To Swallow

In the very last second, sensing someone behind him, a shiver went down his spine as he immediately abandoned every last bit of control he had on the rockets and instead focused all of them behind himself.

And at this time, a frog leg finally kicked in his direction.

Ding~

However, much to the frog's shock, most of the strength behind his legs were reduced by a kind of pressure that had shrouded his whole physique at the very last second.

This unknown pressure was a barrier made out of a repulsive force field!

At this point, an evil grin formed on the man's face. This was his power, psychokinesis. At the final moment, he had imitated a repulsive force field by trying to push away everything that was behind him.

Nevertheless, that grin didn't last long as a small amount of the strength behind the frog's legs still successfully passed through the force field and hit his back.

Bam!

Puff...

Instantly, like a broken kite, the man was sent flying toward the ground. At this moment, the shape of a flying frog also, at last, displayed itself entirely in front of the camera. Before now, the cameras were focusing on the humanoid rabbits, so even they had been caught off guard by this whole situation.

After he had abandoned every last bit of control he had on the rockets, their direction was slightly altered downwards, and this enabled the humanoid rabbits to step on the rockets very softly as they did another backflip which distanced them from the rockets that exploded the very next moment.

Bang~

.
. .
.

Cough~

Laying on the ground, the psychokinesis man coughed while realizing that a few of his bones seemed to have been broken. This made him feel intense pain all over his body.

And considering the fact that the impact was still so terrifying even after nearly all of the power behind the frog's strength had been exhausted made his hands tremble in fear while he wondered to himself, 'Too powerful... these monsters...'

Not stopping at all, the flying frog lunged in his direction once more. This made the man's face sunk as he understood that he wouldn't be able to use his trait before the frog reached him. And this time, he would definitely...

"Nooooo!"

"Oppaaa! You have to live!"

"No god! Please don't let our hope die!"

Seeing this scene, everyone was very nervous as they kept praying for him to stay alive.

Anyway, the frog immediately arrived before him as it threw another kick toward him...

Bang~

Many people couldn't help but close their eyes unconsciously. And after the sound of the bang was heard, they slowly started to open them, only to realize he was still just fine!

This was because strangely enough, the frog had kicked a few centimeters away from the location the man was laying at.

"Hahaha..." All of a sudden, a burst of loud laughter started to reverberate around the area before another voice was heard, "To think I would have to lend a hand in the end! You were too arrogant to think you can defeat all of them by yourself uncle... and now look at you... sigh... you're simply a wreck."

"You finally decided to make a move, kiddo, damn it! I thought you would cower away!" The man uttered wearing a smirk.

"You old uncle! Don't call me kiddo! I'm 15 years old! you would've died if I didn't make a move... so what other option did I have?" At this point, a teenager walked over beside him.

"Who's an old uncle! You're a kiddo, so I would call you kiddo! And by the way, I'm at the prime of my age! The best age! So just call me K!" Yelled the man, or simply K, in a frustrated manner.

"Well, whatever. Shall we finish this quickly, old man?"

"I said call me K! And what's with degrading 'old uncle' to 'old man'!"

"Anyway, let's finish them off." Ignoring his words, the teenager articulated.

"Alright, use your trait on the frog in the very last second." As he phrased this sentence in a low volume, two rockets and tens of grenades flew over to stand all around K before they were all thrown at the bat-winged frog!

Seeing a new round of attacks coming his way, the frog was just about to easily leap in order to avoid the explosion, when it suddenly felt extremely dizzy as it fell over afterward.

Boom~

The frog was straightly cut apart into many pieces before dying there and then.

"Yes! The first one is over! Now, it's their turn." Looking in the direction of the two rabbits who were staring in their direction, the teenager uttered.

However, just as they were assuming the humanoid rabbits would soon charge at them, unexpectedly, they turned around and jumped. It seemed they were planning to escape!

"Oh no! They are too fast... quick! Stop them! We can't allow them to run away!" Yelled K at the teenager.

Filled with tension, the teenager raised both of his hands before voicing nervously, "I can't... I can't make my trait work on both of them simultaneously... I can only stop one of them." Gritting his teeth, the teenager used his trait on one of the humanoid rabbits.

Bam!

Promptly, a dizzy humanoid rabbit fell on the ground, unable to walk as the world spun all around him.

"Good job Dizzy!" Straight away, another two rockets with a batch of grenades swooped at the rabbit. By now, K's forehead was filled with sweat. It was clear that he was already at his limits.

Bang!

So, just like that, one of the rabbits was shredded into pieces while the other one was already nowhere to be seen.

This meant that the war was... over!

"Yes! Hahaha! We won! We won!" It wasn't clear who was the first person to shout in happiness. But after that, every soldier started to scream in happiness and also sorrow due to the loss of so many of their comrades as tears kept rolling down from their face.

"Hurray!!!" Simultaneously, everyone else watching this scene alive also burst into cheers of joy and happiness. Some were also shedding tears. It wasn't a matter of country anymore, it was a matter of race, so almost every single human being was jovial for this victory even if it all might mean the start of something much bigger.

In the meantime, the teenager who K called Dizzy appeared to be staring at the spot where the frog had exploded at.

His eyes were fixed on a small scarlet crystal that was among the pieces of gory flesh. Yes, not a bead, but a crystal!

Then, he slowly walked over as he picked it up.

'Hmm?' Studying it closely, he realized it was as if a scarlet flame-like fog was confined inside the crystal, a flame just like the red flame-like fogs in different parts of those creatures!

Only, the flames seemed much more concentrated.

Looking at the crystal, Dizzy had this intense desire to swallow it.

And ultimately, after looking at it a few times, he directly threw it into his mouth and swallowed the whole thing.

"Eh... did you just eat something?" Said K feeling pain and exhaustion all over his body. However, before Dizzy could reply with anything, he grabbed his head with both of his hands as he fell on his knees and began screaming, "Ahhhhhhh..."

"What happened to you, kiddo! What did you eat?" As his eyes became wide-open, K inquired worriedly.

Alas, Dizzy was already experiencing a terrifying pain that was too much for someone of his age to handle, so he continued to scream, "Ahhhhhhh..."

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 4 - 245: The Crystal

Chapter 245: The Crystal

After screaming for a while more, due to excruciating torment he was experiencing, he finally gave in to the pain as he passed out.

"Quick! Take us to the best hospital!" K yelled at the closest soldier while Dizzy started to float beside him.

At the same time, he wondered to himself, 'I think I saw him eat something that he picked up from the remains of the frog, then... the humanoid rabbit might also have it. I better take it with me in case it might help the doctors in saving him!' Thinking to this point, he started searching the spot where many shredded pieces of the humanoid rabbit were at before truly finding a scarlet crystal there.

Staring at it for a moment, he also started to feel drawn and attracted to it. He had this illusion as if he was looking at something very tempting and delicious. Nevertheless, remembering Dizzy's miserable outcome, shaking his head, he put away for now.

Then, without hesitating at all, he took the kiddo to the hospital.

.
. .

At the hospital, the doctors had to go through a lot before finally being able to take out the object this silly teenager had eaten.

The doctor held a clear crystal in his hand as he showed it to K, "Here, it seems like that kid has swallowed this thing... sigh, kids these days..." Giving him the crystal, the doctor left while shaking his head.

Looking at the clear crystal, which didn't have the scarlet flame-like fog in it, K was surprised while pondering, 'May... maybe they were different?'

At this time, Dizzy's eyes finally started to flutter as they opened up.

"Old man, why are you at my house?" Confused, this was the first thing he inquired about.

"This is the hospital! Not your house! And stop calling me old man! I'll be satisfied with you calling me uncle!" He could swear, this kid knew exactly how to frustrate and anger him to death.

"Why did you eat that thing! You almost died! If this oldie... fuck, I mean if this uncle wasn't fast enough in bringing you to the hospital, you would be dead meat by now!" While making a ton of spat land on Dizzy's face, K kept yelling at him.

"Hah?" Listening to his words, Dizzy promptly recalled everything that had happened on the battlefield.

"It looked delicious..."

"No shit! You just eat whatever you find delicious don't you kiddo? Sigh..."

As he remembered the fact he had swallowed the scarlet crystal, he promptly started to search for any difference inside his body. A few seconds later, his eyes opened so widely that his eyeballs were about to pop out of their sockets!

"What happened to you kiddo, why are you staring at me like that?" Frowning, K questioned him for looking at him like that.

"My... my trait... my trait!" Not finishing his words, he kept repeating the same word.

"Your trait what? Did it vanish?" K, at last, started to get worried as he articulated this question, a bit disturbed.

"My trait feels a bit stronger! More powerful!" In exhilaration, Dizzy's eyes were shining as he uttered this piece of news in happiness.

"What?"

.

.

.

ONE DAY LATER

Currently, the world was a mess, other than the matters related to the rift and the creatures, everyone had questions regarding K, Dizzy, and other people like them living among them.

The internet was almost exploding as almost every single person in the world was either talking about the rift and the creatures, or the extraordinary people that had been living among them but they were left in the dark.

Currently, through the internet, the representative of each country and the head of the Special Surveillance World Jurisdiction was holding a secret meeting which was going to decide some very important matters.

Looking at the President of France, the President of the United States of America began berating him in front of everyone, "This is absolutely ridiculous! How can you trespass such a taboo? How can you make a decision all by yourself without consulting us first?"

"The situation didn't allow me to consult and get permission from the SSWJ and everyone else. It wasn't your country getting attacked, so you can easily say that while sitting on your seat can't you?" However, the President uttered without any remorse, it looked like he didn't regret what he did at all, not even a bit, "My people were dying, so if I have to, I would make the same decision over and over again if it stops the butchery!"

"You!" The President of the USA was left speechless in some anger.

At this time, the President of Russia also started talking, "If this issue was about you revealing these secrets in front of a few people... it would've been fine. But you just had to do it in front of everyone. Now, it's impossible to hide it from the rest of the world. This is bad, this could bring chaos to the world once more."

After listening to their reasoning which was mostly looking at the dark side of the things, the President of France opened his mouth again, "Anyway, what's done is done. So let's just forget about it. Moreover, I don't think this is a bad thing at all... since it happened once and even twice... it's extremely likely to happen for the third time too, right? And it might happen anywhere! Now, we can use our special people in daylight so I don't believe this is unnecessarily a bad thing." He finished his words like this.

"..." The President of the USA was gnashing his teeth in anger at this point. He was mostly pissed that the decision was made without consulting him first.

"Sigh... well, he's right. There is no point in being angry about this any longer. Our citizens are already aware of the truth, so let's just give them the truth they're looking for. Who agrees with this? Please raise your hand." Taking a deep sigh, the President of Russia articulated.

Hearing this, everyone, including the President of the USA raised their hands. Not that he had any other choice anymore... now that the whole world had seen everything alive.

"Then it's decided."

"Alright then, one of those creatures escaped our men, so I better go looking for it before it harms anyone." Saying this, the President of France was about to cut off the line in some dejection, when the Russian President interjected, "Wait! before you go... don't you have any information you would like to share with us? Any useful information you might've discovered?"

Catching this sentence, the President of France sank into deep deliberation for a moment, 'Hmm... it's not like I can gain much by hiding it from you guys since everyone rules over their own country.' As this notion popped into his head, he started talking, "Well, since I'm also feeling a bit guilty for revealing this truth which had been kept in secret for decades now... I'll tell you all one thing! Inside those creatures which had flame-like things exuding from some parts of their bodies... we found crystals! These crystals seem to make traits stronger. However, directly eating it is also too dangerous as it makes the consumer experience tormenting pain and also some other risks which will probably lead to death... well, you figure out the rest yourselves if a rift happens to appear in your nations. That's it then, goodbye.' Elaborating to this part, he disconnected the line.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 4 - 246: Great Changes

Chapter 246: Great Changes

A day before, at the scene where K revealed his trait, in almost every corner of the world in all countries, a specific group of people started to sigh one after another as they watched the scene of this man using his power in front of everyone. Then, they began to vocalize various words in a variety of languages.

"He's too strong! But now... the world's probably going to experience some drastic changes because of him and those monsters, I might be finally free..." A young teenager mumbled while clenching his fists. He didn't feel anything but excitement at this moment. To this day, he had been forced to hide his powers every day. His family was very strict with him when it came to him using his powers and they had kept reminding him that the government would punish those who use their powers in public. So, to this day, gritting his teeth, he had been forced to live in the shadows. Of course, he knew that might change now and that made him truly exhilarated and filled with hope.

"The world is aware of our existence... sigh." An old man voiced while shaking his head. He had already comprehended the fact that this revelation might lead to both good and bad results.

Deep among the mountains, an extremely muscly old man who was watching everything on his ancient television voiced while looking at the man being displayed inside, "It seems we have to step up in order to lend a hand to those in need... otherwise..." He was someone who had power and believed he should use it in the way he deemed as good. After voicing this, he stood up as he started to walk out the cave he was currently residing in, after years. He was finally about to come out of seclusion once more. Who knew what storms he would create this time around.

Bursting in laughter, a young man with tattoos all over his body uttered, "Haha... everything's changing! Now it's time for me to shine! Hahaha... this is daddy's turn! Let me swim among those beauties who worship my brilliance."

"He's very powerful! Much stronger than me... but even if I'm weaker than that guy on TV, I'll still be able to shine." A girl whispered in a low voice. She always wanted to be an idol and for that, she had the looks. However, due to her limited talent in acting, singing, etc. she was never able to achieve her dream. But now, she just found a new path for herself.

These reactions were just the tip of the iceberg among thousands upon thousands of responses these extraordinary people shrouded in mystery showed.

It seemed like in case everything progressed the way they were expecting it to, the society may be adjusted or even changed in some aspects and that might be their opportunity to shine brightly. Just like stars at nights.

---

A DAY AFTER THE SSWJ ONLINE MEEETING

Today, every country was officially going to finally reveal the truth they had been hiding for decades now.

.
. .
.

IN FRANCE

"So, in this day, I stand here on this tribute as the representative of the whole country to finally reveal the truth that's been kept hidden for at least decades or even more." After the President announced this first piece of information, seeing many shocked faces, he continued, "Yes, there is this TOP-SECRET organization called the Special Surveillance World Jurisdiction or SSWJ whose task before today was to search and hide every phenomenon taking place regarding those with power or other subjects similar to that." At this point though, he paused as he took a deep breath.

Albeit, at this moment, a reporter tried to interrupt him by raising his hand, seeing this the President looked at him before requesting, "Everyone, please listen to every single word I have to say without interrupting me until I'm entirely finished."

Then, he added further, "Now, very soon, the purpose and the goal of the existence of the SSWJ would be probably reshaped into a new one. Moreover, it's more likely they'll work in daylight from now on." Talking to this point, he looked at the face of everyone present before continuing...

.
. .
.

IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

"The SSWJ has named these people the 'Abnormals' while their extraordinary powers are called the 'Trait'." Elaborating these simple basic information, the President of the United States of America proceeded, "According to the rough data the SSWJ has gathered from all around the world throughout the years, it's estimated around 0.01 percent of the population of Earth can be considered 'Abnormals'. This means more or less 700,000 thousand of the populace in the world consists of Abnormals." ...

- .
- .
- .

IN RUSSIA

"Of course, not all Traits are useful. In fact, most of them have been reported to be useless Traits that won't give their users any advantages over others in their entire lives, for example, there is a trait recorded in the SSWJ which makes the nails of a person grow at twice the speed that of normal, this is a totally pointless trait to have." The President of Russia voiced as he continued, "Also if you search through the web more carefully, you will realize there are some other information regarding some special cases of Abnormals which the SSWJ didn't even bother to censor. For example, there is a man who can light a lamp by allowing electricity to directly flow through him. There are also many other instances whose names have already been registered in the Guinness World Records."...

- .
- .
- .

IN KOREA

"Anyway, according to the statistics, more or less, only 0.01 percent of the residents of each country seems to be Abnormals." Uttered the President of Korea...

.
. .
.

IN CHINA

The President of China was also explaining everything very clearly, "Moreover, It's been written down that almost in all of the recorded history of SSWJ to this very day, the present... most Abnormals appears to have had only a single Trait in their physique! However, there have also been some exceptions who possessed two Traits in a single body. Unfortunately for them though, having two Traits in a single body comes with great risks and great dangers. Thus, in the end, presumably, they were never able to live a long normal life."

All over the world, every single country was unveiling the historical secret as their people listened in amazement, shock, startlement, speechlessness, and many other emotions mixed within. This was simply too much for a lot of them because although they clearly understood it was the truth, it was still difficult for them to digest this truth and believe.

.
. .
.

In the meantime, while all of this was happening outside as devastating tremors shook the whole world over and over again, a certain Artificial Intelligence who now possessed a real physical body was still sitting in the same spot he was days ago!

He seemed to be determined to a terrifying degree so as not to leave his seclusion before completing his particular goal, which was to complete the False Sixth Level, Remoulding The Residual Cells.

'What's going on... why can't I tread this one last step?' This notion had popped into his head almost hundreds of times by now, however, he had yet to unravel the reason behind it. So, he also hadn't found a single solution to it other than to persistingly continue.

However, at this point, just as he finished another cycle of the rotation of the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution... like it was the most natural thing to happen, bits of energies started to flow toward all of the residual cells as they entered them without any hindrance whatsoever! Which in return, instantly perfected the False Sixth Level, Remoulding The Residual Cells!

His eyes immediately turned wide open as he felt through his own body while pondering, 'Why? Why did it happen now?' As this question appeared in his mind, he promptly increased the speed of his thinking process to the maximum while analyzing every single aspect that might fill this gap.

And in less than a second later, his eyes started to shine as he found the answer he was searching for, 'I just finished the 10,000th cycle of rotating the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution!'

Then, he was just about to stand up and leave, when to his incredulous bewilderment, great changes started to ensue within his body...

THE GOD VIRUS

Chapter 247: Whats Happening To Me?

Chapter 247: What's Happening To Me?

Noticing these abrupt changes, his eyebrows rose upward in surprise as he sat in his previous location cross-legged before closing his eyes entirely.

'What's happening to me?' He thought simultaneously.

The moment his eyes were shut, his awareness drifted into every single part of his body in order to unravel the current situation of his physique.

However, what he witnessed next made his heart immediately sink as his whole body couldn't stop trembling for some time.

'Oh no, this is bad... if this...' This line showed up inside his mind next.

He was slightly trembling because he realized the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution had started to rotate by itself without any kind of prompt from his side!

This could be said to be the very first time for something like this to happen because, before today, he always had to separate a bit of his focus and attention to revolve it non-stop most of the time.

But now, it was as if it had obtained a consciousness of its own as it rotated faster and faster!

What made Virus' whole body shake though, was the fact that very soon, the speed of the rotation was so fast that in just a split second, the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution had rotated almost a thirty times!

And rotating that much in such a short period meant that startling energy was being transferred to all over his figure.

Also, as a result of that, the temperature of his physique began to rise to a terrifying degree.

Sss~

Gradually, steam started to rise from all over his physical body. His skin and deeper within his whole body also slowly lit up in bright yellowish-orange light just like magma and it intensified at every second.

"Ahh..."

However, this still wasn't the end. Because, accompanying the terrifying temperature, a horrifying sensation of pain also rose in every single part of his being, forcing even Virus who didn't bat an eye even at the expense of the harshest of torments to let out a moan of agony.

Seeing how painful and agonizing it was, Virus doubted that the outcome of this situation would be anything but good. So, in order to make sure about the situation and to unveil the truth, focusing all of his attention inside his physique, a realization hit him.

He noticed that every single cell inside his body was dying one after another due to experiencing the tormenting heat which even his tempered cells couldn't tolerate.

If this process went on, he knew the eventual outcome of this would be the death of every single cell within his body which would ultimately lead to his death. True death.

So, making a strong resolve, he made the decision to stop this whole process no matter what, 'I have to put an end to this. Otherwise... I would die.'

And so, he tried to stop the rotation with his own control.

Cough!

However, the moment he tried to stop the revolution, a backlash struck at his internal organs. In that instant, his innards felt as if they had been hit by a truck as he promptly coughed up a mouthful of blood.

Moreover, the rotation didn't budge in the least and intensified instead. By now, the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution was rotating almost 60 times every second.

Seeing this result and the consequence of his action, Virus clearly understood that trying to stop this procedure would kill him sooner than the rotation itself, so he knew attempting to end the operation was not one of his options anymore.

'I can only tolerate and futilely pray that the revolution won't kill me.' As this notion appeared in his head, he immediately calmed himself before persisting through the agony while gritting his teeth. His closed eyes shining with some light of despair.

Unfortunately, in less than two minutes, he was no longer able to bear the frightening pain.

"Ahh..."

"Ahhh..."

.
. .
.

At almost every second, he would yelp in a low tone before going quiet.

.
. .
.

"Ahhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh..."

In five minutes, even he was no longer able to grit his teeth and persist through the torture. He began to pointlessly scream non-stop in an attempt to psychologically alleviate the pain in order to release some of the pressure that would drive anyone crazy.

Two minutes later, even his bright silver hair was no longer able to endure the heat as it gradually turned into dust and vanished, making Virus entirely bald. The rotating technique was also making 100 cycles at every second now. Furthermore, shockingly, Virus realized that the Synchronous Transformations Crystal had also shrunk a bit.

By now, almost ninety-five percent of the cells throughout his whole body was no longer alive, truly dead. The orifices throughout his whole body were also bleeding without any end to them.

Currently, the pain was so grievous and disturbing that in case it was a normal human being, that person would've long fainted. However, soaked in blood and sweat that vaporized instantly, Virus was different.

The steaming had also reached its most intense state as he was literally surrounded in fog. His whole body was also extremely thin as he had lost a lot of weight already.

"Ahhhhhhhhh..."

'Am I really going to die just like this? For me to travel through time only to die by a random technique? What a joke! Sigh...' He couldn't stop this thought from showing up.

Three minutes later, all of the cells in his entire body were finally entirely lifeless as his body no longer had any sparks of life in it. Even his screams had stopped and his breathing was no more.

His corpse was also extremely dried up as if he was just a bony skeleton.

Hearing the previous screams, the golden beauty finally arrived into the area that was specifically prepared for her master only to see the horrifying state of Virus' dried up body which was soaked in his own blood.

"Master!!! What happened to you!!! Are you okay?" She screamed in the direction of Virus, only to hear nothing in response.

"Master?!?!? Ahhh..." She shouted in fear as she rushed to him before trying to feel his pulse. But, much to her horror, she realized her master Virus no longer had any heartbeats! Moreover, he was no longer breathing!

A river of tears promptly started to roll down her face as she continuously screamed and wailed, "Master!!! Master!!! Sob... Master!!! You can't leave me here! You can't... sob... leave me alone here... please... wuuuuu..."

However, no matter how she called out to him, she didn't receive any response from him as he stayed... dead.

"No... master... master... master won't die like this... it all must've been a part of his plan... yes... everything's within master's plans... so he should be fine soon... he will come back to life for sure..." Brokenly putting this sentence, the golden beauty uttered in despair. However, it was obvious she was only trying to bring some hope into herself, even though it was clear she was totally despairing.

'I should do a CPR on him!' As this solution popped up into her mind, she started doing CPR on him.

One minute...

Two minutes...

Three minutes...

Covered in tears, the golden beauty proceeded to do CPR on him.

Unfortunately though, in the end, she realized it seemed her master was truly gone. So, stopping the pointless CPR which might hurt her master's remains, falling on her buttocks, she sat there in an entirely motionless state while staring at her master's sorry corpse.

THE GOD VIRUS

Chapter 248: The Time She Cried

Chapter 248: The Time She Cried

Every second she continued to gaze upon her master's now bald and dried-up corpse, it felt as if one more string had broken in that very second within her heart.

Tears also never stopped dripping from her face, although her face no longer held any expressions on it. It was as if she no longer had any reason to show emotions since the reason for her emotions was gone already. There was also no sparkling lights shining inside her eyes. Her eyes seemed to be already... dead.

At this moment, inside Virus' body, the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution had stopped functioning entirely. Every single spot and every single cell was dead in a true sense. Absolute stagnation. A frightening gloom and darkness dominating every corner.

This state continued for around six minutes, until finally as if a spark had been lit within Virus' body, the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution quietly began to go in motion once again.

At first, it took around ten seconds for it to complete a single cycle. Moreover, if one was able to perceive the revolution itself, that person would be able to realize that there was now something additional attached to the very rotation of the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution itself! Being carried with it everywhere!

Anyway, soon afterward, the time of rotation was reduced to only a second for every perfect cycle.

Before long, ten rotations were done in a single second...

Then the speed accelerated even further as a hundred revolution was perfected in only one second...

By now, externally, Virus' physique's temperature had risen to a terrifying degree as that magma-like burning brilliance started to show up all over his body once again.

Meanwhile, in the outside world, watching this abrupt change that had shown up in the state of Virus' corpse, the golden beauty's dull and dead eyes started to regain all of its lusters too as a ray of hope was promptly set aflame within her.

'Could this be...?!?' The moment this line of thinking howled inside her mind, the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution's speed of rotation hit a terrifying thousand-revolutions in a single split second!

Now, the glow surrounding his corporeal body intensified to another level as at this point, the pure energy itself was being emitted from his whole being. And the temperature was also so horrifying that the golden beauty unconsciously took a few steps back due to feeling very uncomfortable.

However, seeing her master's previously sorry corpse transform into a bright source of light which was truly difficult to look at just like the very sun itself, an extreme sense of excitement began to overwhelm her as she gazed upon her master jovially and alive. At this moment, she was truly determined not to take her eyes away from her master even momentarily. Just like a passionate butterfly who willingly flutters into the burning flames itself. To death.

Actually, if it was a normal human being instead of her right now, it would've been truly hard and almost impossible for that person to directly continue looking at Virus without batting his eyes a single time. Because right now, it was as if his entire body had transformed into a flash grenade, making every corner of the space in the room extremely bright. Moreover, an extraordinary heat was also being discharged from his entire body.

This radiance was actually being produced from his whole figure because of the energy that was brought from the Synchronous Transformations Crystal situated within his heart which also resulted in a terrifying temperature.

Anyway, Virus continued to remain in that state for around two minutes, when finally, another minor change took place.

That slight change was the fact that an almost unnoticeable hint of dark glare was also added to the fray, merging with the blinding blaze and showing itself in the outer interior of the illumination which was covering every single corner of his being.

At this moment, as if his entire build was going through a renewal phase, drastic transformations started to commence everywhere in his figure.

The first transformation was the fact that, as if he was a snake going through a metamorphosis, he started to shed his skin before a new layer of skin revealed itself underneath. This skin, unlike his previous one which was very dull, had an abnormally moisturized bright shine to itself, as if it was now alive. Just like the rest of his innards.

However, even though his skin was now absolutely abnormally charming, his extremely dried-up body overshadowed it. Making it impossible to look at it in a positive way.

Fortunately though, this wasn't the end of the transformations because next, his dried-up muscles and innards started to regain some of their previous packed and healthy state.

So, his anatomy which was just like a dried-up skeleton began to transform as it gradually bulged further and further.

Ultimately, in just five minutes, his frame regained its former healthy and filled-up shape... with the exact changes that have occurred underneath his skin completely unknown at this time.

Alas, these heavenly changes weren't cost-free as the further his muscles regained their previous glory, the more the Synchronous Transformations Crystal shrank and got smaller.

Next, his body remained in that blazed state for almost an hour as the golden beauty continued to stare at his body which had regained its former charm. She didn't understand what earth-shattering transformations were taking place inside his body at this moment, but she was certain something extraordinary was truly happening.

If she had to point out a flaw in all of this though, it would be the fact that he was now... bald. Not that she cared about it at all.

In the meantime, the STC had gotten extremely small as it seemed like it would vanish from his heart at any moment now.

Anyway, eventually, after an hour drifted away, just as the notion about baldness popped into the golden beauty's head, startlingly, another visible shocking revolution took place outside Virus' body.

To be more precise, this time, the renewal was happening on his head as new hair began to grow from his bald head in an extremely noticeable speed. Moreover, looking at her master's new hair in an amazed manner, the golden beauty realized that his hair no longer bright silver like in the past, instead, its color was now... darkish-silver!

At first, his hair was only around a few centimeters long. However, before long, it regained its former size which could be said to be the average normal size men usually had.

Nevertheless, the hair seemed to have no intention of wanting to stop the process of getting longer as it continued with its renewal procedure.

Two minutes later, when the end of his hair reached his armpits, the growth process, at last, stopped entirely.

And exactly at this moment, the final drop of energy contained within the STC situated inside his heart was used up as it vanished from there entirely!

Now, the Synchronous Transformations Crystal was no more!

And it was in this moment when all of the glowing energy which was covering his entire being to this very moment, began to be sucked up and gathered exactly into the very location of his heart.

Soon, the moment all of that energy was concentrated inside his heart, the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution went into motion once more!

However, this time, it didn't follow the same rotation path as before and instead, it initiated a weird revolution that was explicitly confined to the interior boundary of his heart.

Ba-dum~

Ba-dum! Ba-dum~

Ba-dum! Ba-dum! Ba-dum! ...

Just like that, his dead heart was revived at this time as it started to throb stronger than ever! Just like a loud beating drum!

Following the resurrection of his heart, blood began to pump through his veins and arteries at a speed that was much faster and powerful than before due to the strong pumpage from the motor of the body itself, the heart.

And so, every single internal organ together with the rest of his body started to function again as a calm breathing sound reverberated inside the golden beauty's ears who started grinning from ear to ear afterward.

And it was at this moment when Virus promptly opened both of his eyes widely as he stared at the ceiling above him in a lost manner.

Yes, Virus was alive again!

It was also at this time when tears welled up inside the golden beauty's eyes as she charged toward him without any care in the world while screaming, "MASTER!!! Sob... You... idiot...sob... shcared me... Wuuu..."

Bam!

The next moment, she was already laying powerlessly within his embrace as she cried there with her whole heart, "Ahhhhhhh..."

THE GOD VIRUS

Chapter 249: A Good Name

Chapter 249: A Good Name

Feeling the crying girl within his arms and seeing how hard she was wailing, Virus was surprised at first.

Then, shaking his head with a helpless grin, he reached out his hand as he patted her head gently, "It's okay now... I'm fine. So, don't cry anymore."

Hearing his comforting words, the golden beauty stuck out her face from within his embrace as she glanced at him with teary eyes and a puppy face before asking innocently, "Really?"

"Of course! Not only am I fine, but I'm also even stronger now!" He voiced with clear confidence exuding from his tone, 'I wonder how stronger I've become though...'

"But master, what happened to you just now, why were you so wrecked and bloody... I could neither feel your pulse nor your breathing... I was so scared." She asked in a worried tone.

"Well, hmm..." Hearing this question, Virus also started to recall everything that had happened earlier.

In a deeply contemplative state, he proceeded, 'The moment every cell within my body was tempered to the absolute limit, those transformations were initiated as the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution started to rotate on its own... hmm...'

As he thought about the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution, he became very curious as he unconsciously tried revolving it. But, the next moment, his eyes became wide open as he froze while wondering, 'I can't... I can't revolve the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution anymore... why?'

Making an effort to reach a conclusion as to 'why' he wasn't able to rotate the technique any more, Virus released his awareness inside his body before discovering another stupefying fact, 'The Synchronous Transformations Crystal has disappeared!'

'Hmm...' However, that also made his thoughts start to process everything as he promptly reached the most likely answer as to why he couldn't rotate the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution anymore, 'It's probably because there is no source of energy within my heart.'

After arriving at this result, he focused his attention on every change he could sense and unveil directly, 'I feel like I'm so much stronger now... every move I make, I have to limit my strength if I don't want to cause destruction or harm...'

as to how powerful I am currently... I can't ascertain the accurate answer to that before testing my strength...'

Heee~ Haaa~

At this point, he took a deep breath while trying to feel every transformation that had taken place within him.

After a short rundown of his own physique, Virus realized every single part of his body had broken through to another horrifying degree. Everything was stronger now.

His lungs could absorb oxygen better. His body could go on without oxygen for much longer. His heart was pumping as if it was the best and the most powerful engine in the whole world. His hearing was also so sensitive now that he could directly hear thrice the amount he was capable of previously.

Furthermore, his eyesight could now catch the slightest changes within the room, even the smallest ants in the faraway distance didn't escape his eyes. It was as if his eyes had transformed into that of a hawk's.

Additionally, the moment he stiffened his muscles, they became almost as hard as the bones of a normal person.

This long list went on and on. However, in summary, his whole being and the function of everything within his corporeal body had elevated to another level!

"Master? I said what happened to you earlier? Why were you like that?"

Seeing she was receiving no response whatsoever and instead he appeared to have sunk into a state of deep contemplation, the golden beauty was forced to repeat herself.

"Hmm, so this is what happened... the moment I completed the..." Initiating his elaboration on that odd situation, Virus first began from the moment he had perfected the False Sixth Level, Remoulding The Residual Cells and how after that he had experienced a feeling of breaking through some kind of barrier that shouldn't have existed in the first place.

He also went on to explain about the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution and the Synchronous Transformations Crystal and how they had worked together in order to achieve all of the following amazing renewals.

Proceeding further, he also mentioned how he felt so much stronger now and how every piece of his existence had been improved and modified. All of these were only the visible changes that were noticeable to him though.

"Hmm... so in short... master broke through from the so-called False Sixth Level which was still within the limits of the fifth level of the Corporeal Tempering Stage... hmm... doesn't that mean what master did was to break through to the real Sixth level?" Touching her chin after hearing about so many amazing things that had happened, the golden beauty mouthed.

Listening to her words, Virus felt they really did make sense. That conclusion was logical. So, looking at her, he added, "You're right... if the previous one could be called the False Sixth Level, a false perfection... then this level should be the real sixth level... the True Sixth Level... and the true perfection and harmony of the body."

"Hmm... but I have no idea what this level is actually called..." A thoughtful expression appeared on his face as he mumbled. There was no information whatsoever regarding this level inside his database, so he truly didn't understand anything about it.

A few seconds after seeing his contemplative expression, her eyes began to shine as she suggested, "What if we name it the True Sixth Level, Ethereal Metamorphosis."

Surprised, he replied, "Hmmm... actually... that's a pretty suitable name... how did you think of that?" Virus truly liked the suggestion as he inquired while nodding his head. He wanted to know the reasons she had behind this naming.

"Um, I chose the word 'Metamorphosis' since the Dark Dragon's Metamorphosis Revolution was the cause of all of this and considering the fact that master also previously shed his skin exactly the same way a snake going through a metamorphosis would. Moreover, previously... master seemed so out of this world while his whole physique was glowing like a blinding sun or even a heavenly being... and that's where the word 'Ethereal' comes from." Seeing how he took a liking to the name, the golden beauty felt happy internally as she explained patiently.

"I see... that's probably one of the most suitable names for this level... so let's name it like that. True Sixth Level, Ethereal Metamorphosis." Nodding in satisfaction, Virus accepted the name.

"Oh, right, did anything worth mentioning happen while I was in my closed-door training?" Suddenly remembering something, he queried while deliberating to himself, 'Did she come?'

"About that... actually yes... some startling matters took place in the world. However, because master had previously ordered me to not bother him unless it was a very urgent matter, I decided to wait until master exits his seclusion... also... I had this odd feeling that all of this should've already been within master's calculations... I mean... how can such a major disaster escape master's eyes?" The golden beauty phrased while, in total blind faith, her expression seemed to be saying, 'Master is the best! So that's impossible, right?'

However, listening to her rather confusing sentences, a slight frown sat on Virus' face as he promptly connected to the whole world in order to understand and unveil exactly what the golden beauty was talking about.

THE GOD VIRUS

Chapter 250: Fun?

Chapter 250: Fun?

After the monster breakout in France and Korea, the whole world had been feeling an invisible thread of fear and pressure weighing on their hearts as a single question dawned on them repeatedly. That question was, 'Would another rift open somewhere else in the near future?'

As a result of this, every country was in a state of absolute caution as they would move the moment any rifts opened anywhere in their territory.

And today, just as some people were having a bad premonition, a soldier who was searching the Jeju island spotted a new rift in the space of the island. This promptly sent shockwaves throughout their country and even the world once again.

However, it appeared the world felt this level of shock wasn't adequate, so just a single day later, yet another rift appeared around the same area in Paris!

Alas, this horrifying sequence seemed yet to be done as on the very same day, the third crack also popped into existence at a rather crowded location in the Angeles National Forest, about 50-miles northeast from Los Angeles. This rupture in the fabric of space was spotted by someone a day later.

With this, the entire planet went into a state of shock and terror which seemed to be the norm these days. Meanwhile, the media were going crazy with their reports.

After getting the news of the cracks, the governments of Korea, France, and the United States of America also respectfully went in motion as they discharged their army to those specific locations.

"The President has already given the order to dispatch the Army to Angeles National Forest before today. Moreover, he has already promised that he will deal with this problem while trying to keep the casualties at the bare minimum." A reporter of CNN who was currently standing in front of the building of the White House elaborated toward the camera.

In the meantime, another reporter of FOX was currently standing in a viewable spot from the rift in the Angeles National Forest as he talked toward the camera non-stop. He was standing at the utmost limit of entry that was allowed for the reporters and alike.

"As you can see, we are currently reporting to you this piece of news while standing in the closest distance allowed to us. The rift seems to be almost exactly the same as the one that had appeared in Paris..." After that, he went on to talk about many facts and pieces of information regarding the rift until finally, he reached another important juncture in his report, "Currently, we have yet to see any of those Abnormals present at the scene... everyone seems to be soldiers. This brings us to the questions... could it be the President is confident he can deal with this disaster while solely utilizing the Army and the weapons we have at hand? Or could it be that he is going to dispatch some of those extraordinary people soon enough? Stay alert for further updates regarding the answers to these questions."

A journalist of the New York Times also wrote, "At first, they appeared one by one. But now, three of them have shown up simultaneously! Could this mean our world is truly doomed to destruction and war?" Of course, by 'They', he was referring to the rifts.

The situation in Korea and France wasn't any better either. If anything, they were in a state of even more shock and terror since this was the second time they were being struck with this bloody disaster. So, their emotions could only be imagined.

Currently, in a chatroom in Korea...

"Sigh... I don't have a Trait like those abnormal people... so what I can do in the face of these disasters is simply... nothing!" A sad user typed.

Another user who seemed to agree with the comment of the above user replied back, "I know right? When I heard there are actually people with Traits in this world... I was so happy and excited, thinking I would soon obtain my own Trait and keep getting stronger every day until I'm the strongest... but now? That seems to be a joke! Sigh... how can God be so unfair to me...?"

"Joke? Let me tell you what the real joke is here! This noona here has a Trait... but it's a completely useless one! Isn't this the real joke here? It's as if I'm being messed with! To be granted with something extraordinary, but it happened to be the trashiest one among them! Totally useless! Why!!!" Someone else cried.

.
. .
.

In the meantime, Virus also became aware of the existence of those three cracks.

"Master, what are you thinking about?" Asked the golden beauty gazing curiously at her master's contemplative expression.

"I'm just calculating how dangerous would it be for the current me to go and fight in one of those monster breakout spots..." He uttered emotionlessly.

"No! Master... please don't go... it's too dangerous, we don't know what kind of unknown monsters would pop up this time... so master better don't go." With clear worry apparent in her expression, the golden beauty voiced in an anxious tone.

"Lil Belle, I know... since there are many unknown factors, even for me, going there might pose me some danger... however, I'm really curious about a few things like those wonderous crystals! So its really tempting me to go there right now!" Virus stated, his eyes shining a bit.

"Master... don't tell me you also want to enter those rifts? You know no one comes back from that..." Disturbed a bit, the golden beauty inquired.

Hearing this question, Virus stayed silent for a moment before responding, "Haha... for now, no. Where the rift would lead me to is kind of a mystery even to me. And I can feel that wherever it would lead me to, it might be even more dangerous. So for now, that's off the table."

Listening to her master, the golden beauty heaved a sigh of relief, nevertheless, carefully analyzing his sentences and recalling him emphasize the words 'For now' twice, she couldn't stop a hint of worry and distress from showing up on her face.

"Well... I might not go there at all. So don't worry... let's see if the temptation wins over me." He stated with a chuckle.

Then, just as he was about to proceed, his phone began to ring.

I'm a virus, an infectious particle~

A nano-thug, a pirate, the genuine article~

Ebola, chickenpox, west Nile, influenza~

Yellow fever, AIDS, herpes, SARS, I'm comin' right at ya~

Pressing the green button, he queried into the phone, "What is it, Island ugly?"

"Master... I just wanted to notify you that the tool you wanted for our new Mining Industry is ready... should I call the CEO ugly and tell him to come and pick it up?" The Island ugly replied in an inquisitive tone.

"Hmm... currently, I have nothing better to do anyway, so I'll come and pick it up personally, this might actually be a bit fun!" With a smirk showing up on his face, he declared.

"I see, alright. Then travel safe, master." Answered the Island ugly while pondering to himself helplessly, 'Sigh... Master and his obsession with fun.'