

Virus 51

The God Virus Volume 2 - 51 The Bored God 1

"Haha, that's enough, turn it off." Virus told the golden beauty with a laugh. He knew there was nothing else the phone companies wanted to say, other than the things they had heard already.

"It's really fun and entertaining seeing these monkeys think they've outsmarted me and won already. A top-class joke..." Virus sneered at the hilarity of it all.

The golden beauty was shocked after seeing the news. She turned the television off and asked, "Master... you knew this was going to happen?"

"Of course I knew. What about it?" Virus replied without any change in tone or expression.

"Then why didn't you stop them! You could've sent me to slaughter them! Or make a move before them to not let the matter get this far... Now, this has gotten serious as everyone thinks master has stolen those companies' phones and the money!" The golden beauty pouted, upset and frustrated for her master who only watched them, even though he knew everything all along.

"Tell me my Lil Bella, do you think God exists?" Virus asked, chuckling at her adorable tantrum she made while being upset and frustrated.

"I don't know... maybe? I don't have enough data and information to answer that question." The golden beauty answered with a confused face, unsure what God had to do with her question, which increased her frustration level.

"Okay, let's say He exists. Now if God existed and He created mankind, why do you think He would create them? I mean He is 'the peak', 'the absolute', a God who needs no one, One who has no needs, why would such an entity create humanity?" Virus posed the question with his eyes locked onto the golden beauty's golden eyes, waiting for her response.

"... because He is benevolent? Compassionate?" The golden beauty guessed.

"Is it benevolence or compassion when you create something out of nothing?... I'll tell you my theory: He was bored! Bored of the status quo, the monotony, the loneliness, because He had lived alone for an unimaginable period of time, so He made humanity to entertain Himself." Virus said with an enlightened shimmer in his eyes. This conclusion was obtained from his own experience. As more time passed, his boredom reached levels of insanity. If he weren't an AI, but an actual person, he definitely would have gone mad.

In his past world, the future, there were lots of immortal people, who by different means kept their sanity intact, as they had found different ways to not go insane.

And that was also why there were lots of bored people in his past world who were always journeying to different planets in the universe, or even the multiverse, so as not to be bored and find new things that would entertain them and challenge them.

"Now, assuming God Exists, this brings another question, why didn't He just make them puppets that He could control as He wants? Or why not make them like animals that would move by their instincts, always with the same pattern, why didn't He do that? Instead, He gave them free will, to do whatever they wanted, He gave them the power of decision!" Virus said.

Listening to these things washed away the golden beauty's frustration. It was like a story that made you sit and wonder, so her eyes shone with mesmerizing curiosity as she gave him her full attention.

"Why would He do that? Well... isn't it the same reason as before? Because if he made puppets.. then it was just something that He was controlling... what would be the fun in that, that would be just too boring and pointless, right? or if He made them move only according to their instincts... they would just follow the same pattern and just do what their instinct was telling them to do! That would be too predictable and too boring too!" Virus continued as the golden beauty was listening very carefully, enjoying it while looking forward to what her master was going to say next.

"So He wanted something that would be fun and entertaining, something that would surprise Him. So He gave them free will and the power of decision almost like His own free will, so they could even make decisions that would surprise even Him, He also gave them the capability of learning and improving, as that would make them more interesting and entertaining as time passed, never to bore Him again!" Virus said with the same face like he was just telling a story.

"Now let's talk about another question, why doesn't God stop bad people from doing bad things, or why doesn't He stop or reward good people for doing good deeds in this world? I mean God has omnipotence, omnipresence, and omniscience right? so He would know everything and He could be able to do anything He wanted, but why didn't He do that? Instead, He created Heaven and Hell to punish bad people and reward good people, while He could've just stopped them from doing bad things."

He continued "I would answer to that by saying again, well it wouldn't be fun and entertaining to intervene because that would lower the fun, as it would be like taking away their free will from them, so He just watches, like watching an interesting movie, looking forward to what would happen next."

The golden beauty's eyes glimmered with newfound understanding. She was fascinated by the tale her master weaved.

"And this is where life and death comes, life is a process in which He just watches the human beings with free will, do the things they felt like doing, an entertaining process that He would never intervene. But after the process is over and they are done making the decisions in their life as their cycle ends, and he's entertained enough by that person, Death arrives. This is where they go to Heaven and Hell, this is the time another kind of fun and entertainment begins." Virus said, a little excited by his own theory and explanations.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 52 The Bored God 2

He continued by saying, "Now that their journey is over and he has had enough fun because of that person who has free will almost like his own and now that he can intervene, another kind of entertainment begins, another way of not being bored."

"He is faced with creatures that have free will! They know what's going on and understand and they are almost like him in some aspects! So He sends the people who has done good deeds and believed in Him to heaven, a place he would still be entertained by watching them enjoy heaven, enjoy the blessings, while he also starts torturing the people who have done bad deeds in Hell, because that's also another way of having fun and a way of getting away from being bored."

"And now as He's finally able to intervene, He shows them the consequence of their deeds by torturing them."

"Do you understand my meaning, my lil beauty?" Virus said with a smile on his face showing the golden beauty all the dimples on his face.

"I understand master, so you're saying He enjoys the process and He's entertained by it and doesn't intervene until they are done with their decisions and they are done entertaining and surprising Him with their decision, and after they die, another kind of entertainment begins as he rewards the good and tortures the bad who has done bad things, while getting pleasure again from both torturing and rewarding." The golden beauty said with a shining light in her eyes.

"Haha, you were almost right my cute Bella. Anyway, what I wanna say is that I didn't intervene and stop the phone companies because that would be boring and dull, there would be no challenge at all. So I wait till they are done completely and then I start punishing them, as otherwise would be just too boring!" Virus said with a short laugh.

"So do you now get why I wasn't making any moves till now?" Virus asked looking at Bella.

"Yes, hehe, because master is bored and he likes to play others to death, by first giving them hope that they have won, only to take everything away from them." The golden beauty said with a cute giggle on her face.

"My cute Bella has beautiful ways of interpreting. Well, you would have understood me better just if you had lived as long as me, because when you live forever, everything starts to get boring at some point, and only some things that pose a challenge won't make you bored anymore." Virus replied with a dimpled smile.

"And to me at this point, almost only not being bored matters." He said after a little silence.

Listening to this made Bella's gaze directed downwards not wanting to show her eyes which were turning moist as time passed, she thought 'Just how much a person has to live to get to this point, to just look for something that would entertain him, what has he gone through to be afraid of being bored?'

Seeing her head downturned, Virus knew exactly what was going on in her thoughts, so he said with a tight-lipped smile, "My lil beauty, no need to be sad because I've lived for too long, or because I love to find fun and challenges in life, every person is different from each other just as I am, everyone lives by a goal just as I do, so I'm not that different from others, and I choose to continue living instead of just killing myself, because living is far better than being dead and being nothing at all."

Seeing her master trying to make her feel better, oddly made the golden beauty happy as she turned her head upwards to look into her master's devilishly beautiful eyes as she said with a broad smile, "En... anyway, master has me now and I promise I would do my best so master would never become bored ever again, until eternity."

"Hahaha, I'm sure you would keep your promise... now let's get back to those entertaining monkeys." Virus talked with a fit of laughter at the golden beauty, but then he changed the subject.

He spoke, "Tell me my lil Bella, which one would hurt more, rising to the peak just to fall to the bottom, or going downside first and then fall to the bottom, I mean falling down when you're already near the bottom yourself."

"Which one would hurt more? And destroy you more?" Then his eyes changed to that of a chilly one as he asked with an evil grin.

Seeing the light in his master's eyes change and that evil grin which charmed her unconsciously, she replied "Of course if you rise to the peak and then fall to the bottom it would hurt more.... no, it won't only hurt more, it would kill you for real, losing while you're hoping is so much more painful than just despairing even more while you're already despairing."

"That's right, these monkeys are at the peak right now, thinking they have won, savoring their victory, this is the perfect moment to hit back, it was fun watching them do stupid things that I've already predicted and prepared counterattacks for, even before they had decided upon it. Now it's time for another kind of fun to begin, the fun of punishment!" Virus responded, if anyone else was there hearing and seeing the cold and chilly look in Virus' eyes and that evil grin, that person would probably be either frightened or charmed to death, swearing never to become this person's enemy at all costs or to become his at all costs.

"Now, go call the CEO ugly and the Legal ugly to come here."

"Okay, master." Replied the golden beauty still on the couch on which she was sitting all this time exactly beside her master, then she stood up, walking towards the elevator, from which she was going to leave to another floor on the 4 Times Square for summoning the two uglies.

Ten minutes later, the golden beauty came back with the CEO and Legal uglies, after she came back, without saying anything else she just came smiling and sat beside her master again, only to sit on the couch, exactly beside her master in her previous location

The two uglies though stood at a place their master would be easily able to look at them at the time he desired.

They didn't talk at all. All they did was to bow from their waists, just to wait for further instructions from Virus.

They didn't talk because the first day, the day their first memory was engraved on their minds was still and forever as clear as the day.

They remembered clearly the day they had woken up, only to see their master's chilly wrath, which warned them not to talk before he gave them permission.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 53 From Peak To Bottom 1

After a short period of silence Virus finally looked at the two uglies saying "Okay then, let's start the plans."

"Legal ugly, there is a team of FBI agents coming this way as we talk, their purpose is to interrogate our company, even though they don't have a warrant, so we could just reject going with them, but why would we do that, go with them together with the best group of lawyers we have, you are the best lawyer on the whole planet without doubt, but still take them, it will have some pressure on them..."

"Take that Flash USB with you too, there are videos they would probably like to see." Virus ordered.

"Yes, master." The Legal ugly replied taking the Flash USB on the desk.

"You are dismissed." Virus said as the Legal ugly bowed with his waist as he took his leave.

"Now, CEO ugly, you release those phones I told you to stop from releasing for now to the market. I told you to stop releasing because I had already calculated we would need it today. This is gonna amuse me for a while, as I watch their faces when their worlds start to crumble piece by piece." Virus said in amusement.

"These phones will also prove we have not stolen money from around the world, as we have not stolen the phone technologies... it will be obvious that the other phone companies were stealing our technology after they would be able to take out tech as advanced as ours, also tell everyone through media that we are going to release more advanced sets of phones every month, not just a phone, but a set of phones every month until I feel like it's enough already. Also, tell them we are going to enter whole lots of other industries soon too," he said looking at the CEO ugly.

"Okay master, but still, some would still doubt we have stolen the money as our technology is too advanced and they will draw too much attention from other people..." The CEO ugly said looking a little worried.

"Don't worry, with the things we're gonna do from now on, it would be impossible not to draw any attention, and it's not like I'm afraid to draw attention, otherwise I would've just killed everyone who tried to make a move against me before they had even taken the first step. Just do as I say and don't worry about some people and the government doubting us, they won't be able to do anything without evidence, which doesn't exist in the first place. Also, I already have a plan for those suspicious people who think we are the ones behind the 'Ghost Theft'." Virus said with a crafty grin on his face.

"Also, even if they did have evidence which they don't, so what? it's not like they would've been able to do anything against us, so go and don't worry, just do your job well. Understood?" He was finally done talking to the CEO ugly.

"Yes, master. I shall take my leave then." The CEO ugly said as he took his leave too.

At the moment the whole world was cursing the Virus Company for being so shameless to steal money and technology from the whole world.

People whose money were stolen by the Virus Company were fuming with rage, looking for ways to take revenge and money back, while the governments in different countries were looking for evidence that they were the ones responsible for the 'Ghost Theft' behind the scene.

The internet was exploding with curses toward this criminal company, condemning them.

Lots of countries and other places were getting ready to terminate their contracts with this shameless criminal company when something happened on the same day.

The Virus Industries released a new set of phones! Almost everyone knew what this implied after seeing the phones being more advanced than the previous phones.

Everyone was shocked by the news, this was like shock after shock in the same day in a row!

And the CEO of Virus Industries too held a press conference, telling the world that they have far more advanced phones than the current ones at the market because they have been getting ready for this debut for decades, to appear strong from the very beginning.

He also denied all charges that were thrown at them by the allied companies, telling everyone it was the allied phone companies that had stolen the tech and soon they were going to reveal the related evidence to the world, he also said that the allied companies can show the government their own phone technology pieces which are as advanced as the ones they released today, if they are truly innocent and if the Virus Company is truly the one stealing their technology.

He also announced another shocking news to the world by saying The Virus Industries are far more advanced than they think, saying they are soon going to enter other industries too.

Hearing these shocking news and seeing the phones which were even more advanced than the previous ones the world became confused at first not quite understanding, but after processing the news lights of understanding shone in some of their eyes.

Their doubts and uncertainty too started disappearing and it was soon going to disappear completely if the allied companies couldn't reveal the related technology as advanced as the ones the Virus Phone Industries had just released to the world.

The internet and common people's opinion too started changing, though a lot of people were having doubts about which side were telling the truth.

A person who was saying "These bastards are stealing money from the world both in daylight and dark!" changed his sentence to "Wow, these bastard allied phone companies think they can fool everyone? Seriously... wtf is with this world!"

Or another person which before the release and press conference held by the Virus industries had said "I'm gonna sell my Virus iPhone 1 to half the price and exchange it with the phones of the other allied companies... is there anyone? I'm gonna do it right now!", this poor person was yelling at the internet crying " You bastards! I gave away my awesome phone just because I believed too easily! I want my phone back... please give my phone back... that money I gave you... you can keep them and I will also give back your allied company's phone back.. just give my Virus iPhone 1 back please." But the person who had exchanged his phone with the Virus iPhone 1 never replied.

A person who had said, "I hate Virus Industries" were now saying this, "I hate every phone company except Virus Industries."

Things and happenings like this were going on everywhere throughout the world in almost every country, though people who doubted them or believed in the allied phone companies still existed.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 54 From Peak To Bottom 2

Everyone from the allied companies was at their homes at the moment laughing happily, spending their times with their family, thinking they had won and their companies were saved.

But it was at this moment their phones started ringing as they got to know of the press conference held by the Virus Industries.

Each of them turned the television on to see the press conference they just got the news of, wanting to see how that company would try to justify itself in vain.

What none of the CEOs realized was that at each of their houses, just around them, was a real fly, flying around. But they were much smaller than a normal fly.

They saw the press conference held by the CEO ugly, after thinking how ugly he was, like everyone else around the world, the press conference got to its more important parts as the CEO's faces started turning paler and paler.

When the press conference had finally ended, they were ashen-faced, stunned, and their eyes were frozen open staring at the TV which had completely changed to another programme.

All of them knew they won't be able to provide the government with the technology without reverse engineering first, which would take too much time which they didn't have.

While the CEOs were frozen still, in another location, in the highest floor of 4 Times Square, a person started grinning evilly seeing their funny faces before saying in a low voice "Don't lose hope this easily now, you stupid monkeys, this is just getting started."

After coming out of their stupor the CEOs started calming themselves down first, before thinking all of the allied companies were in this together, which made them feel a little better, they thought it was probably going to be okay, they just needed to find an excuse and then everything would be fine, so after coming out of their shocked stupor, they started calling each other, wanting to hold a conference meeting as soon as possible.

WITH THE LEGAL UGLY

Leaving his master's floor, the Legal ugly came to another floor at 4 Times Square.

This was the floor which only the legal staff worked at, seeing him enter, everyone's attention was unconsciously drawn to his almost abnormally ugly face as they stopped working and answering the always ringing phones.

Their boss, the Legal ugly's office was on another floor and every time he came to this floor, he would start giving orders in a monotonous tone without even stopping for a second to take a breath. It was like he memorized the orders he wanted to give, before coming to the Legal staff's floor.

Some workers even suspected him being a robot in their gossip time, because of how emotionless his voice sounded.

As everyone went quiet, the Legal ugly looked at their faces and he could clearly see the stress and worry plastered on their faces.

Some had dark circles under their eyes, some were chewing on a lip, some were even biting their nails.

Their worry was understandable though, as they were working for the company everyone was cursing at the moment, saying they were probably going to be destroyed.

Also, they were receiving phone calls, wanting to terminate contracts, since the moment those allied phone companies held that press conference, making them even more stressed.

Now they were not sure if the company they were working for was going to go bankrupt. They honestly didn't care about what the company has done, or if the company was in the wrong or right.

All they cared about was to keep their jobs and feed their family or earn a living to pass their days.

Seeing this worry on everyone's face, the Legal ugly honestly didn't care how they were feeling, but he decided to calm them down first before anything else, as their work efficiency would be lowered tremendously like this when they are filled with stress and worry.

So with the calmest face, like the most tranquil water in the pond that would never be disturbed, with an still emotionless tone, he said, "Don't worry everyone, none of the things the allied phone companies said were true and we are going to prove that, as our chairman and owner was already expecting this, so don't be worried at all and just focus on your jobs because this shall pass soon enough."

Listening to the Legal ugly's emotionless calm words which seemed to have no impatience, hatred, expectation, excitement, or anything else in it, surprisingly made the workers and staff calm.

Also, they became excited hearing that their mysterious chairman was expecting this to happen as it made them more hopeful as even more light came back to their eyes.

Seeing his little speech work, with the blank look in his eyes, which were almost there all the time, he straightly went to the main topic he had come here for, as he started giving the order he was here for in the first place as he said with the same monotonous tone as before, "Okay, now, I want a team of best lawyers we have here by my side in at most thirty minutes, move."

Listening to the order, everyone started moving again, wanting to finish the job as soon as possible.

After exactly half an hour, a team of fifteen lawyers was standing in front of him in a very orderly manner.

Right now the Legal ugly was sitting in his office silently not looking at the lawyers that had arrived just now, though before the lawyers arrived, he had checked what was inside the USB Flash his master had given him.

Suddenly the phone on his desk started ringing, he picked up the phone and just listened to the person on the other side of the line talk, after the person on the other side of the line was done, he hung up without saying anything in response.

"The FBI is at the reception, let's go." He said as he stood up from his chair and started walking outside of the office while the team of the fifteen best lawyers started following him.

The fifteen lawyers divided into three groups of five people each group very quickly, then they made three very orderly rows just behind the walking Legal ugly as they followed him, each row was a group of five lawyers.

As they started walking to the reception floor, every worker, staff, and employee's attention was unconsciously drawn to the amazing formation, which seemed to be following a man, like trained bodyguards.

But focusing at the man who was in the lead, the women couldn't stop themselves from being disappointed, seeing how ugly he was, as almost all of them thought, 'Alas! why should the lead of such a romantic scene, which could only be seen in the movies be an ugly guy?'

The God Virus Volume 2 - 55 From Peak To Bottom 3

When they arrived beside the elevators, as they couldn't fit in the same elevator, they separated into two groups, each taking one.

After they arrived at the reception, a team of FBI agents was standing there, talking to the reception, saying they needed to talk to the chairman or the CEO, but the receptionist was unmoved as he said they can only wait for the related department to come unless they have a warrant.

Seeing a group of people with suit coming their way, the FBI's attention was drawn to the group.

The Legal ugly came straight in front of the team of FBI, he reached his right hand out while saying "Hello, I'm Robert James, the head of Legal Department at Virus Industries. How can I help you?"

Listening to his words, the FBI knew they were not going to meet the chairman or the CEO, so the person who was in the lead said rudely without introducing herself first, "Hello, we're here to meet the Chairman or the CEO of the company, not you!" It was obvious she was very much annoyed that no one was listening to her in this thief company.

This woman was a top-notch beauty, she had a light bronze skin, long eyelashes, a medium-sized nose, with blue eyes and naturally filled lips which made her quite the beauty.

Without paying any attention to her beauty, the Legal ugly said "You can't meet the Chairman or the CEO unless you have a warrant, which makes me wonder, do you have a warrant miss?"

Listening to his voice which seemed to be empty of any emotions, she was offended inside immediately, because men always used to try to gain her favor in different ways everywhere she went or at least tried to act cool or ignore her or thousands of other ways for her attention, but as she was a good FBI agent, she could always see it in their eyes that the other person had an interest in her, but knowing their intention was not pure, she ignored them, but still, it made her happy that other people saw her as a beauty.

But this person was just annoying, he seemed to lack any kind of emotion, she could feel there was nothing in his eyes while he was looking at her, it was a blank stare, like a person who was looking at the wall with no thought whatsoever, she was getting this feeling which made her greatly annoyed.

"I said do you have a warrant, miss?" Seeing there was no response the Legal ugly asked again, still as dull as before.

"No, I don't. But we're the FBI and..." She finally answered.

As she started talking the Legal ugly interrupted her by saying, "Oh please miss, let's cut the crap, we are all lawyers here and we all know our rights. You coming to our door without any kind of evidence to accuse us of something would just make us able to sue you for libel you know that right?"

Listening to him talk the police beauty started gritting her teeth, but she didn't say anything because he was right, they had come today just to see their reaction as they were ordered from the higher-ups to see if they would cooperate.

'It seems they won't cooperate...' As she was thinking this, her thoughts were interrupted by that emotionless ugly man.

"... But as our Chairman is a really good man, even though he won't be able to come for interrogation as he's a really busy person, he told us to cooperate with the police and go with you for interrogation... so let's go " The Legal ugly said.

Listening to him made the FBI beauty surprised because she hadn't expected for them to cooperate.

And just like that, they went to the FBI station with fifteen disciplined lawyers.

After they arrived at the FBI station, they went inside a room probably used for interrogation.

Right now inside the room, the FBI beauty and the Legal ugly were each sitting on one side of the table, while behind the Legal ugly three rows of lawyers, each row consisting of five lawyers, were standing without moving in a very disciplined manner, they were famous lawyers that lots of FBI agents at the station recognized.

That beautiful FBI wanted to start the interrogation as she said "Okay Mr. James, so let's start with this, was it the Virus Company that..."

She was just starting the interrogation with the first question when she was interrupted again by that ugly man, making her furious inside.

"Miss, I think you're misunderstanding something, we can leave whenever we want to and we're here just because of our Chairman's kindness in trying to bring justice to light, so I will do the talking while you listen." The Legal ugly said with the same blank expression he always wore.

"First let me start by saying that we, and by 'we' I mean the Virus Company, were not behind the 'Ghost Theft' case and neither have we stolen any kind of technology from anywhere, all of our technologies come from ourselves and decades of research." The Legal ugly said.

"Now talking more than this would be a complete waste of time unless you have evidence, which obviously you don't." The Legal ugly said.

At this point the FBI beauty almost felt like exploding, pressing her lips firmly together while thinking 'first they come here by their own feet, saying they agree to the interrogation out of good will, then after coming here, this ugly bastard doesn't allow me to ask a single question and rejects everything straightforwardly, then what the heck did you come here for!!! You could've just told me this there!'

As she was almost on the verge of exploding, as she was clenching her jaw, the Legal ugly talked again with that blank stare of his, "But worry not, miss, as we have not come here just to announce this and waste a ton of our time."

"Then what exactly have you come here for?!" The FBI beauty said frustrated while glaring at the Legal beauty with fire burning in her eyes.

Honestly, even though there was a serious atmosphere about her right now, but that seriousness and frustration oddly made her seem even more beautiful, the fifteen lawyers behind the Legal ugly couldn't stop themselves from thinking 'So... beautiful... .'

The God Virus Volume 2 - 56 From Peak To Bottom 4

"Calm down miss, take it easy, I'll naturally explain everything. Our Chairman was already suspecting them so he had them under his radar for a while now..." As he was talking, he suddenly stopped as he started staring blankly at her face.

Seeing him stop talking all of a sudden the FBI beauty asked with an awkward tone as she touched her face "What?... is there something on my face..."

"... I'm thinking it would be better if you watched it for yourself, instead of me explaining everything, here, watch what's inside this USB Flash Drive, then I believe most of your suspicion on us would be cleared naturally." The Legal ugly said.

Listening to this, she took the USB Flash Drive from his hands with the minimal eye contact, some seconds later someone naturally brought a laptop to the interrogation room before leaving, turning on the laptop, the FBI beauty inserted the USB Flash Drive to the laptop, but before inserting it, she was amazed at how thin and small it was, this was the first time she had seen such a USB Flash drive.

After inserting it, curious about how much space such a thin and small USB Flash would have, she checked its memory.

But seeing the memory her eyes almost bulged out of their sockets as she said uncontrollably "Fi... five hundred gigabytes of memory!"

Right now a small and thin USB Flash Drive having five hundred gigabytes of memory and space was really a huge matter, something shocking and unseen, so the shock plastered on her face was not surprising at all.

Seeing her distracted, the Legal ugly said, "Oh, no need to be surprised miss, that's just one of our somehow advanced technology... now if you would please check the video inside." But the Legal ugly knew this was not even considered somehow advanced in his master's dictionary.

Even though she was still very much shocked, she knew this was not the time for it, so she brought her attention to files inside the USB Flash, there was one video file by the name of 'One' inside the USB Flash which she clicked on.

After she clicked on it, a video started playing, its view was from the top of one of the walls in the conference meeting room, this video was recorded from the eyes of a very small fly which was sitting there, without moving in the least at the moment.

Seeing the extremely high-quality video the FBI beauty was amazed at the thought of such an advanced camera existing, while they were using such a crappy camera's,

She thought very much astonished that even the FBI seemed not to have these kinds of advanced technologies like the camera and the USB Flash Drive, while this Virus Company that had popped out of nowhere seemed to have all of these wondrous techs.

Forgetting about the irrelevant stuff, for now, she focused all her attention on the video.

THE VIDEO NAMED 'ONE'

"Hahaha, now that we've finished reverse engineering the phones and even made some changes, so others won't recognize the foundation was copied, we're back on business!" One of the CEO's said with a very happy mood as he laughed out loud.

"Hahaha." some other CEOs also laughed along with that previous CEO, while some also agreed loudly with joy saying "We're finally going to at least rival this giant enemy of ours."

...

The video continued like that as the FBI beauty watched it all wide-eyed, all of the allied phone companies' CEO's which had just released the advanced phones in the past few days were present in the video confessing they had reverse engineered the phones with their own mouths.

With this there was no need to waste time suspecting the Virus Company, the FBI beauty just stood up as she hurriedly took the laptop and USB Flash with herself as she left the room.

This was a very big case and an even bigger matter, so she was obliged to report to her boss immediately the moment she found something.

Going to the other room behind the one-way mirror glass, she showed the video to her boss.

Half an hour later she finally came back to the investigation room where the Legal ugly was still sitting with his hands crossed and his eyes closed, while the fifteen decorative lawyers were still standing behind him.

She started talking the moment she entered with a smile on her face, completely different from his previous annoyed expression. "You could've just shown me the video from the beginning Mr. James and I wouldn't have treated an innocent company like a criminal organization."

Seeing her different treatment, there was no change in his facial expression or in his blank look.

Seeing his blank stare and the way he looked at her which was like he was looking at nothing, started annoying her very much again, but her boss had told her to treat him well, so she was forcefully keeping her smile on her face all the time.

"Okay then, we shall take our leave," he was about to stand up when the FBI beauty said "Wait! Wait for a moment please and listen. That USB Flash Drive and the camera technology your company has, my boss contacted the higher-ups about the matter of the video and while reporting the video, he also talked about your USB Flash Drive and Camera technology with them... and let me tell you, the government of the United States is very much interested and eager to work with your company for advanced technologies like the USB Flash Drive and the camera technology with great conditions."

"I'm only the head of Legal Department, I don't have a say in these kinds of decisions, and the only one who can make a decision on matters like this is the chairman himself, not even the CEO has a say in this, so stop wasting my time with this." The Legal ugly said as he stood up wanting to leave.

"We thought it would be like that too, and someone will make a visit to your chairman soon. All I'm asking is for you to talk about this with your chairman and put some good words before the person in charge makes a visit, would you do that please?" Said the FBI beauty with flashing eyes, getting closer to him while initiating and maintaining eye contact with him.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 57 From Peak To Bottom 5

Seeing how excited she seemed and thinking he had to report this matter to his master anyway, with the usual blank stare of his, he monotonously said. "I'll see what happens, but no promises."

'Though master should have already seen this, I better report it as he seems to like living like a normal person at the moment.' he thought inside.

"YESS! That's all I'm asking for! Thank you... really thank you. Can I have your phone number so I would be able to call you when I have something to ask?" she said excitedly, while still maintaining eye contact with him.

"No." He just rejected her straightly making the FBI beauty annoyed and also surprised inside, she had rarely asked for other people's phone number and this was the first time she was rejected! And without a moment of hesitation at that, this made her think that maybe she wasn't attractive for him and his taste might be completely into another gender, but that thought was rejected quickly because in this short period of time she was with him, she had him under her watch and it seemed he didn't show any kind of emotion to anyone, it was like he was completely emotionless and not interested in anything.

Still not wanting to give up, she said "I just said I want your phone number so if any questions or matters related to that case arise, I would be able to get in contact easily."

While she said that, she thought inside 'I only asked your phone number in order to get the news of the related matters to your company's technology, otherwise, why would a beauty like me ask for the number of such an ugly person like you, hmph.'

"If you have any questions you can contact the Legal Department and they will answer accordingly. And in case they can't, they will connect the call to my office naturally. If there is nothing else I shall take my leave." The Legal ugly said as he started walking to the door of the interrogation room while he said "Let's go."

The fifteen lawyers still followed behind him and left with the Legal ugly. They didn't get to use their skills even once as they were going back still disciplined behind the Legal ugly, they all had similar thoughts like 'It's seems we were only used as decoration, sigh.' But as they would be paid a lot for this, they didn't have the slightest of objection, they were even happy to gain some free money by just following the head of the Legal Department.

Even the Legal ugly's skills were not needed in the least as he just showed them the video.

WITH VIRUS

Seeing the FBI do the necessary things needed to act against the allied phone companies, and seeing the press conference held by the CEO ugly, he first send the video named 'One' to all of the countries that the allied phone companies were at, then he waited patiently for a while.

After some time passed and he made sure all of the governments related have seen the video and made enough preparations to act against them.

But as he had expected some of the governments didn't start acting against those allied companies that existed in their countries.

Virus thought this was understandable as the existence of those companies in their countries helped a lot in their economic section.

But the economy of other countries including the United States didn't matter to Virus in the least, so with a sly smile he said, "Let's create another wave." As he said, he began sending the video to all of the news agencies, television channels, internet news, and whatnot, big or small, around the world.

The golden beauty who was beside her master, as usual, knew another storm was coming to the world.

Just after he had sent the video to almost every country around the world, he got a call directly to himself which knowing it was Ella he answered.

It's been weeks since he and Ella had met, and in this period of time other than talking on the direct line they had, they hadn't met, not even once.

An almost gentle smile found it's way to Virus' lips as he answered saying in his mind "Hey my beautiful Ella, how have you been? Is everything fine?"

"Hi Ai, sigh, do I need to call you only when something is wrong?" She replied back in her mind with knitted brows while pouting.

She could talk out loud too if she wanted as Virus would still be able to hear her, but she preferred talking with their minds, as it made her feel closer, like they were one even in their minds, also, honestly she was a little embarrassed to talk out loud because that would make everyone look at her with weird looks, like she was crazy.

"Of course not, haha... I was just asking, where are you?" Virus asked.

"I'm at my college, my class has just ended and I'm at the campus where you picked me up last time, sigh, it's been days and I don't even receive a single call from my boyfriend, let alone a visit, and every time it's me who calls..." She said from the other side of the line, right now she was standing there with a vacant look in her eyes while her head was tilted downward.

"My beautiful girlfriend, you know I have been busy these days, otherwise I want to meet my Ella too." Virus said with a tight-lipped smile while staring down at the table in front of the couch.

"I know, but still..." She understood that he was a busy guy, but still, as a girl, she wanted her boyfriend to spend some of his time with her, now however much busy he was.

"How about this, after I'm done with my things here, I would take you out on a date, but for now, you can come to my building to spend some time with me, while I do my things..." Virus said.

Even though hearing this made her happy, she was honestly still feeling a little down and upset inside, so she hesitantly accepted, as she replied in a low voice "Okay..."

Immediately after hearing her say 'okay', he called the nearest taxi in the vicinity, telling it to go to where Ella was at, while he told Ella "Okay then, a taxi will come to the place you're staying at in a moment, it will bring you to my building and when you get here, someone will guide you to me."

Thinking about how her boyfriend could even make a Communication Device as small as a cell, she wasn't surprised that he could immediately send her a taxi the moment she had accepted to come, so she just said, "Okay."

Then after Virus said he will wait for her, they hung up as the taxi arrived before her immediately.

After hanging up, he looked at the golden beauty who was sitting right beside him as he said, "My lil beauty, please tell the reception to send Ella to my floor alone through the elevator when she gets here."

"Okay, master." The golden beauty said as she called reception, ordering them to do what her master had said.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 58 The Bottom

Almost every government started recognizing the allied phone companies as the criminal who had stolen the technology through their websites or through holding a press conference.

They said the higher-ups had received the related evidence which points at the allied phone companies as the offender, while obviously making it clear that the Virus Industries were the victim in this plot.

Listening to this, everyone who followed the government related topics and announcements were astounded, while most of the normal people still hadn't heard of this news.

But it didn't take long before almost every news channel, television and radio channels, news websites, and whatnot started playing the video which made everyone who saw the news around the world amazed and astonished.

This was the same video that the FBI beauty had watched and seen, everyone started cursing the allied phone companies as the real shameless people and thieves after watching the video.

Now both the government and the common people knew who was the real culprit behind the scenes, and some were blaming themselves for believing too easily in what other people said.

All in all, just like Virus had expected, people's impression of Virus Industries couldn't get better.

But, some people with brains existed that were still suspicious of Virus Industries, now some of these people were among common people while some belonged to different governments with power.

Though this suspicion was not toward believing that they had stolen the phones from the allied companies, no, their suspicion of that matter was completely cleared after seeing the video.

What they suspected was that only the Virus Industries who was so advanced, could be behind the 'Ghost Theft' case, and this suspicion became even more when they realized the technologies like the phones, truly belonged to them.

After seeing the press conference held by the CEO ugly, all of the CEOs from the allied companies held an emergency meeting at a hidden location.

Now, they were all together in a meeting conference room, much smaller than before.

All of them had ashen faces like they were facing the greatest crisis in their lives as a deadly silence loomed over the conference room.

Finally, the CEO from the USA talked with a heavy tone, breaking the silence "I've never imagined they would release better phones, and exactly on the day we release it at that. If we've known, we would have stuck with the first plan to equal the scales, at least like that, our chances would've been higher than this."

"Yeah... that's true..." The CEO from Korea said with a downcast face.

A dark and depressed atmosphere was looming over the room as some had slack expressions, while some had dark circles under their eyes.

The CEO from the USA's phone company turned serious as he continued, "Okay, it's not the time for us to give up, let's think about this very seriously and I'm sure we would definitely be able to find a solution to this problem too, if we put all of our heads and brains in this, just like we did the previous time."

Everyone started gaining some hope as light started coming back to their eyes, thinking what the CEO from the US said was not wrong, they had faced lots of crises in their career and they had gotten past all of them. They thought they will definitely get past this one too just like the previous ones. And more importantly, they were not alone too!

As they were about to start pouring ideas to the table, suddenly someone barged into the conference room as he said "Sorry to intrude, but let me turn on the television, I was just informed that important news related to the allied phone companies are being broadcasted all over the world."

Listening to his tone everyone started having a bad feeling about this.

The CEO from Korea told him to turn it on and leave, and just like ordered, that person who was the secretary of that Korean CEO turned the television on before taking his leave.

All the news around the world had just started broadcasting the video about the allied phone companies' meeting which the FBI beauty had watched.

As they saw the video that was being broadcasted from the news their minds completely froze!

All of the CEOs had been stunned silly and stayed frozen like that, staring blankly with wide eyes at the television which was showing their secret conference meeting which was supposed to be completely secure.

Almost all of them went pale immediately, paler than ever in their lives as their features started trembling.

Some had beads of sweat pouring down their foreheads, while some had faraway look like they were wondering where had it gone wrong.

"...It's all over... we're done here..." Said the CEO from the US phone company clenching his jaws with his pale face, he was the first to come out of being frozen silly, as he immediately started thinking what this meant and he knew that there was nothing that could be done to save them from this situation anymore, which made him sink into the depths of depression and hopelessness.

"We're doomed..." The Korean CEO too came out of his daze as he said with a dark tone, but his eyes were red, completely moist.

There were different reactions from the CEOs as some started crying, some were laughing like they had gone crazy, while some had almost no reaction at all.

One of them even grabbed behind his neck as he seemed to have started having a heart attack, but there were trusted bodyguards, guarding the doors inside the conference meeting room, which immediately acted and took that CEO out of the conference room as they took him somewhere and his fate unknown.

Some were mumbling something under their lips like "All those efforts... everything I've done.... is completely destroyed."

One of them even seemed to be denying all of this as he smiled saying "Come on everyone, we will get past this too! let's just put our brains in this as Mr. X said, and I'm sure we will figure this out too!"

Listening to him the CEO from the US who had almost accepted the reality and knew everything was over thought 'He has lost it...'

The God Virus Volume 2 - 59 The New Plan Is To...

Fifteen minutes later, they finally came out of their extreme moods.

Almost everyone started accepting the truth, even though they had pale faces as hopelessness was plastered on their face, at least now they could think with more clarity.

The Japanese CEO said with his blank stare while his head was down "It seems we have a spy among us, maybe one of the bodyguards, or one of the secretaries, or someone else who put a hidden camera on our last meeting conference room... I don't know... and it doesn't really matter anymore... as he was probably just a pawn." After saying this he went quiet again.

The CEO from the US said with a grave face, he was still pale, but his paleness was much lesser than the other CEOs, it was clear he had one of the strongest minds among the allied CEOs as his eyes too had a lot more focus in them than the others "You're right, like you said, it doesn't matter anymore and we don't have the time to look for him too, so let's just forget about him. Now is the time we accept reality and act according to our options..."

After seeing no one talk or respond he continued "Our companies are definitely doomed, as the reverse engineered phones we released will be collected and banned from being sold anymore... and with this... most of our companies won't be able to tolerate this much damage and will eventually go bankrupt, of course, some of your phone companies that are in other industries too might recover from the damage, but that will be hard and even if it happened eventually, that's unrelated to everyone present here as we will be all fired from our companies or forced to step down from our positions."

Everyone still wasn't talking but most of them were at least listening now, trying to see where this was going and what options were left for them.

Seeing most of their attention was drawn to him, the CEO from the US continued "And if you stay in your countries, except some of you that have more loose laws or very powerful connections, the rest will be all detained and imprisoned by their own governments and put to prison, so I suggest all of us run away to a country that won't detain us and doesn't care about these crimes we've committed, a country that won't hand us back to our countries."

Listening to his words even though they were very much disappointed that there was no way other than running, they knew this was their only option, so some of them started nodding their heads, very much depressed.

"Don't lose hope everyone, we will run for now, but that doesn't mean this is over." The CEO from the USA said, his eyes were red with hate and veins were pulsing through his neck, it was very much obvious other than being extremely upset and pale, he was hiding incredible hate and fury inside him which showed up at this moment.

Seeing his expression some of the CEOs who by this time had almost regained their outward external calm thought. 'He is a person with an ocean of patience, he would definitely be a scary enemy for that company in the future, those we too would take revenge if we get the chance ever.'

As they were thinking this, the Korean CEO said "I don't want a life full of running, I will stay and face my punishment, this is something I brought upon myself, so I will face it with no rage now that I've lost."

Listening to him some of the CEOs admired him for his decision thinking he was a true man, thinking they could never make such a decision, while some disdained his decision, thinking this was complete idiocy, not bravery.

Listening to the Korean CEO, another person actually decided to turn himself in too, like the Korean CEO, he was the CEO from Finland.

This CEO was actually the best phone seller around the world before all this had started happening, before the Virus Industries had appeared.

"... I think I would be able to get away with it, so... so long... sigh," Suddenly, the CEO from Russia said with a Russian accent standing up as he started walking outside the conference meeting room, but before leaving he couldn't stop himself from sighing.

He was one of the CEO's that had talked the least, he thought this alliance would be able to make a genius plan on how to deal with that company, but now seeing them completely give up as they were only planning to run away, there were no more reasons for him to stay there, so he decided to leave at one, as they were of no use to him anymore.

"Okay, those who want to turn themselves in or has a way to get away with it, can leave and do that, while those who want to try my way... stay." The CEO from the US phone company said.

After that, while the governments were looking for the CEOs and searching all of their companies' documents and files, the CEOs were running away to different countries.

But now that they had run away, their crimes had gotten even worse and more severe and if they ever got caught, they would face even more grave punishments.

The countries they chose were either a country that wouldn't bother themselves with them, or countries that were the enemy of their own country, so they wouldn't send them back to their own country.

Of course, the Korean CEO and the other CEO from Finland who had followed his steps had gone back and turned themselves in, while the Russian CEO did the same.

WITH VIRUS

"Smart move." Virus said in a low voice grinning all of a sudden, now it wasn't clear who he meant exactly when he said 'smart move', the Russian CEO, the Korean CEO and the other CEO from Finland, or the other CEOs who were running away.

Right now, he was still sitting on his coach, while Bella was sitting on his left side, in the same place she was used to sitting. But it wasn't only the two of them anymore as another person had joined them a while ago, Ella.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 60 Scared?

Right now, Virus was still sitting on the couch, while Bella was sitting on his left side, in the same place she was used to sitting. But it wasn't only the two of them anymore as another person had joined them a while ago, Ella.

She was sitting on his right side while hugging his right hand as she placed her head on his shoulder.

She was enjoying her time with him very much. When she had just arrived, she was still a little down and slightly upset with Virus, even if she was feeling happy to see him after a long time.

But after she spent a bit of time with him as she lay her head on his shoulder, all of the negative emotions seemed to have just disappeared, like they were never there, to begin with, though that might be only temporary as she was with him at the moment.

Hearing him say 'Smart Move' all of a sudden, Bella was neither fazed nor surprised, as she was used to her master talking from time to time and knew he was dealing with the CEOs right now, but Ella who had just joined them a while ago got curious as she asked "Who made a smart move, Ai, what do you mean?"

"Haha, nothing my beautiful Ella, I'm just playing with some monkeys." Virus said with a burst of short laughter.

"Oh, okay..." Listening to him say 'monkeys' Ella assumed that was probably the word he used for his enemies, so she didn't probe any further, as she lay her head on her boyfriend's shoulder again.

After answering her, Virus focused on the CEOs again as he thought 'Now, let me show you monkeys that there is no running away from this... the amuse continues.'

As he thought that, he reported the exact location of every allied CEO to their own governments or other related departments in the world, but four were excluded on his list of the report.

Three of them were those that had surrendered and turned themselves in, while the fourth was another one of the CEOs which was on the run.

Other than reporting the CEOs' location, Virus did something else too, thinking about it, he grinned as he looked forward to its result which would show itself later.

After receiving the exact location of every one of the allied CEOs from an unknown source, the governments knew their jobs had gotten only more difficult, seeing the CEOs had fled to countries that won't return them easily.

But still, they needed to at least try returning the criminal CEOs, so they started working, as they requested those countries to deport the criminal CEOs back.

But as they expected, except one or two of the countries which were asking for their CEOs to be returned immediately, the rest either rejected or ignored them completely.

Seeing this happen they knew they had no way of getting back those CEOs, and in the meantime, the CEOs that were not returned were celebrating for not being deported.

While all of this was happening, the Russian CEO who had willingly surrendered was released from custody all of a sudden.

Following the happenings, some hours later, the CEO ugly announced that those countries who do not return the criminals which had plotted against them will no longer have any kind of business dealings with their company.

He also added that the same would happen to that country who had released that criminal CEO if he was not put back in prison again immediately.

The CEO ugly had revealed a name list of the criminals that need to be put in prison along with the country name they were currently at, letting everyone know which of the CEOs needed to be imprisoned.

The names on the list excluded the Korean CEO and the CEO from Finland along with another one of the CEO's who was on the run at the moment.

Listening to this, most of the countries that thought the CEOs were not worth the cost of going against the Virus Industries returned them to their countries willingly.

But some countries, Russia included, thought the Virus Industries were being too arrogant, as, through their media, they said things like "a little company thinking it can go against a country." or saying "Their country was the one that would no longer do business with that company, not the other way around."

And the Russian CEO seemed to have a strong backing in Russia as they were very firm in their decision of not imprisoning him again.

Seeing this reaction and response from those countries, there were no other announcements, dissing or threat coming from the Virus Industries anymore, making those countries believe that the company was probably scared of the power a country has in its disposal.

Even the people on the internet believed they were scared, saying things like, "They are truly scared."

"This was expected as they won't go against a whole lot of countries unless they've gone mad."

"Truly funny people, did they think their measly threat would work?"

"Lol, I know right? I mean... you're not against another company... you're threatening a country and not only one at that!"

"Okay, let me analyze, so they thought if they threaten our country, the country would just be nicely scared of the company and return the CEO back, so naive, but seeing that their threat is not working on some of the countries, they became silent and afraid thinking 'We're doomed' hahaha, and that's why they are silent at the moment, they are probably thinking of ways on how to fix their hurt relationship with our country even as we speak!"

There were lots of people on those countries and even other ones that were saying the Virus Industries were digging their own graves and this continued for around two days.

But two days afterward, the phones in those countries started deactivating with no rhyme or reason, and no matter what they did, they could not reactivate it.

This made those countries shocked at first but then they knew that Virus Industries were behind this, in fact, everyone could guess this was the case which left them with gaping jaws.