

Virus 61

The God Virus Volume 2 - 61 Leverage

"HOLY COW!"

"OH MY GOD! THIS COMPANY HAS COMPLETELY GONE MADDD."

"How can we witness something like this happening in today's world!"

"Lol, I'm enjoying this so much, this is making my dormant blood start boiling again."

"Bravo Virus Industries, I love the way they handle things, hahaha."

"How is this possible? Is it truly the Virus Industries behind this?"

"In response to the above, well, there is no evidence leading to them, but who can it be other than that Virus Company? I mean you were following the previous news since two days ago, right?"

"Isn't this too much? I mean, they shouldn't be able to do this as the law shouldn't allow it, am I wrong? the country should sue that company!"

"Actually, this is just plain stupid, they are harming themselves too by showing they are not trustworthy and like this, they will take lots of economic damage, they might be experiencing it even now, as we speak."

"I just heard the country can't do anything as the contract was too much loose, almost allowing the Virus Industries to do whatever they felt like doing..."

"To the above speaker, why would the country sign such a contract in the first place? Are they stupid? And more importantly, how do you even know such important inside news."

"Well, seeing that advanced phones and the cheap prices they were selling for, the country only wanted to sign the contract faster to allow the phones to be sold in the country, not caring about the clauses and terms in the contract, it's not like they were left with any other choice too, as that company had said they would not change a single term and clause in the contract, also, I know of this because my father is one of the higher-ups... now I won't say who, hehe."

The internet was exploding once again as people started talking about it all over the world.

But despite all this, the Virus Industries remained silent about the matter, now however much those countries accused them of different things.

Because first, they could not prove this was done by the Virus Industries in any way, no one could even figure out how this was happening, even though it was obvious who was behind this and everyone could guess it was done by them.

And second, it was their phones and software so if they wanted, even though it would be a little difficult, they could probably start banning and sanctioning specific countries from using their phones.

Because before going into contract with all of the countries, Virus had already roughly anticipated such a day might come, so he had ordered the Legal ugly to add odd and harsh clauses that would almost make the company do whatever it wanted.

At the time, seeing the super advanced phones with such cheap prices, almost all of the countries had accepted it with no hesitation whatsoever, while a few did hesitate at first but eventually accepted it with opened arms, thinking only a fool would reject such a good deal.

And about the company's image which would take some damage because of this matter, Virus didn't care honestly, as the more advanced their technologies start to get in the near future, the more the countries and their people will throw themselves at to buy.

Seeing their phones not working, people of those countries with deactivated phones started complaining about the Virus Industries as they condemned and criticized them at first, but after a while they saw the country could not do anything about it, so they started thinking they just wanted their phones to be activated again as they had paid for it, so they changed their side and started saying it was their country that was in the wrong for not returning the criminals, as they started blaming their own country.

Seeing the situation escalate and knowing things couldn't continue like this as most people had already bought the phones, all of the remaining countries except Russia sighed in surrender as they returned the criminals while thinking the Virus Industries were a fearful company that could take you down only with its advanced products.

But Russia was still not cooperating with the Virus Industries as they did not imprison that Russian CEO back again, it could be imagined what kind of background that CEO must have for the country to go to these lengths for him, though what they announced through their media was that, "they will not imprison back that CEO, because the country does not negotiate with criminals, as the true criminal here is the Virus Industries for deactivating the phones." and they also said the Virus Industries was probably behind the 'Ghost Theft' too.

After the countries made their standing points clear, all of the deactivated phones other than those in Russia started reactivating by themselves again, as it had never happened in the first place, this made the common people around the world speechless of how a company could just do whatever it wanted and no one could do anything about it unless their demands are met.

Some of those CEOs that were returned back to their countries and imprisoned were once again in despair and started regretting their decision of ever going against that Virus Industries, they swore if they only had another chance, they would never go against that company again, but unfortunately for them, no such a second chance was going to be given to them.

While most of the CEOs started hating the Virus Industries to their bones, hating it for destroying their companies, hating it for not leaving them alone even when they had run away, some of them even started planning whatever they could think of to deal a blow to that company in any way possible.

Even though they were not as powerful as before, they still had some of their connections and more importantly, now they had almost nothing else to lose, which made them even more dangerous than the past.

WITH VIRUS

"It's truly amusing watching them in despair bound by the laws they thought they could use to their advantage..." Virus said while grinning.

A couple of days had passed since Ella had come to his visit, after laying on his shoulder for some time, she left as she seemed to feel better and happier.

Now although Virus still had things to do, he decided to put a hold on it temporarily for something else.

Today, finally his bones and skeleton were completely immune to all impurities, so he wanted to break through to the eighth stage of purifying stage, which was considered the top and peak of the purifying stage in the Cultivation Multiverse of Qi.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 62 Crying Ugly

"Master, everything is ready, I've emptied the yellowish-white liquid which was made by the MDA to the WRD. Now, master just needs to give the commands to the WRD and then go inside it." The golden beauty said as she walked in front of her master who was drinking red wine at the moment.

"Okay, good job my lil Bella." Virus said as he gulped down the rest of his glass of red wine as he stood up from the couch.

Then, he started walking towards the White-Ray Device as he said "Guard beside the WRD this time too and don't allow anyone to disturb or get nearby, not even the uglies."

"Yes, master." The golden beauty answered with a serious face.

Then as Virus arrived in front of the White-Ray Device he stopped as he started looking at it.

A very huge amount of words in that futuristic language kept appearing on its 3D screen, but they disappeared almost as soon as they appeared, only to be replaced by another set of words as Virus kept adding more commands into the WRD.

This level of the Purifying Stage was a very important level as this part of the body was in charge of lots of important matters of the body.

Except wanting to breakthrough to the next level faster, there was another reason for why Virus stopped dealing with the allied CEOs matters just to breakthrough to the next level of the Purifying Stage the moment his bones were immune.

The reason was because if he doesn't purify this level and this part of his body faster, most of the impurities will remain in that specific part of the body as the other surrounding parts of the body, which all didn't allow any impurities, might lead the impurities or the destroyed impurities to this specific part of the body, if it doesn't get immune as fast as possible.

And as time passed these impurities will increase and accumulate in that specific part of his body leading to unknown side effects, and that was the most important reason why Virus didn't want to wait for even a second longer before starting the process.

After he was finally done with the commands, the White-Ray Device was now like an expert surgeon ready to act according to the different situation it may face in the process of operation.

"Good luck, master." The golden beauty said with a bright smile before his master went into the WRD.

He looked at the golden beauty's face as he smiled back at her for a moment before he lay down inside the coffin-like WRD and its door was closed.

Again, a series of commands started appearing on the 3D screen of the White-Ray Device, but it was very short, as it started working soon. At the same time, a text appeared on the 3D screen stating: The surgery has been initiated, please refrain from interrupting the process as it may put the patient at risk.

Inside the WRD before anything else, Virus was put into a coma like before, though a matter worth mentioning was that this induced coma which the WRD put him in, had no side effects like the induced coma which the hospitals puts the patients in.

After he was put in a coma, almost everything that happened was the same as the previous level.

First, his bones got softened again by the White-Ray just as before, and then those thinner than hair-like needles started injecting the yellowish-white liquid into different parts of his bones.

But the difference this time was that those very thin needles were sinking much deeper in the bones.

And other than that, another difference was that the needles were mostly gathering in the flat bones such as hip bone, breast bone, skull, ribs, vertebrae and shoulder blades, and in the cancellous ('spongy') material at the proximal ends of the long bones femur and humerus.

The other parts of the bones like the long bones too had those thin hair-like needles injecting the yellowish-white liquid into them, but the number of the needles gathered there were much lesser than those other areas mentioned above.

The CEO ugly was in the 4 Times Square inside the elevator at the moment, ascending to the highest floor of the building wanting to report some matters related to the allied CEOs, his attention was completely somewhere else analyzing some company-related stuff when his hairs all over his body stood on end as he heard a chilly cold voice saying "Don't come any closer or I'll cut you into pieces."

At the same time, a sword was touching the skin of his neck, it was clear if he did make any moves, his head would fly away.

Slowly looking at who was pointing the sword at his neck, the CEO ugly felt like crying, because it was the golden beauty who was putting the sword on his neck, he hadn't recognized whose voice it was at first because the voice was too cold and too horrifying, unlike her usual voice he hears most of the time.

Looking at his face the golden beauty said, still with that chilly voice of her remaining "Return for now, master has something to deal with for a while."

The CEO ugly who had imaginary tears of depression pouring down on his face said with a wronged voice "Couldn't you just tell me that without putting a sword at my neck..."

"..." There was a couple of seconds of silence before he received a response from her.

"Master told me to guard beside him and to not allow anyone to disturb or get near him, not even the uglies.... so...I'm just following orders, now return." The golden beauty replied.

Listening to her the CEO ugly now truly felt like crying in depression for real as he thought 'But he didn't tell you to scare us away while putting a sword at our neck, did he?!'

"Go away, I can't take any risks." The chilly and cold voice of the golden beauty brought him out of his thoughts as he answered with a depressed voice "Okay, see you later miss."

After that, he turned around leaving the floor with that depressed ugly face of his.

Around ten hours had passed since the CEO ugly left, the hovering 3D screen of the WRD showed a text stating: The operation is complete.

As she saw the 3D screen, the door of the coffin-like WRD was opened as Virus sat down inside it, he checked what time it was, only to see it was six in the morning, after knowing the time he thought 'So it had taken around twenty hours for the operation and the process to be over huh..."

"Welcome back master." As he was in his own thoughts he was brought back by a very sweet sounding voice, even sweeter than the sweetest candy in the world.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 63 Curiosity And Suspense

"Thanks, lil Belle, did anything happen while I wasn't awake?" Virus questioned.

"No, only the CEO ugly came, but I sent him away for now." The golden beauty said without any change in expression.

Listening to her report, Virus grinned looking at her face but didn't probe further.

"So where and what did you purify this time, master?" She asked a little curious.

"Hmm, well, let me guide you to answer that question yourself, " Virus said looking at the golden beauty.

Listening to him not answer like the usual, the golden beauty had a quizzical smile on her face with blinking eyes.

Seeing her eyes blink in some curiosity, Virus continued "The place I purified has two types of red and yellow. The yellow color in the yellow type is due to the much higher number of fat cells. At birth, all of them are of the red type and both types contain numerous blood vessels and capillaries. There are also several serious diseases involving this part of the body which I purified. You should have guessed where I purified at the first sentence, right?" Virus asked with a dimpled smile.

"Hehe, yes, I had figured the answer when I heard there are two types of yellow and red, the purified place of the body is the bone marrow, It is the place where new blood cells are produced and it has also two types of stem cells: first, hemopoietic, which can produce blood cells and second, stromal, which can produce fat, cartilage, and bone." She replied with shining eyes like she wanted to be complimented for knowing her stuff.

Reading her shining eyes, Virus said "Hahaha, great job my lil Belle."

The place he had purified was indeed the bone marrow and it was the eighth level of the Purifying Stage which was called: Cleansing The Bone Marrow.

"But, master, when are you going to be done with purifying your body and why are you so insistent on purifying your whole body?" The golden beauty asked with a quizzical look in her eyes.

Listening to her question Virus answered as such "I'm almost done, and about why I'm so insistent on purifying my whole body, well, that's because it's very important especially for me to have a completely pure body with immunity to impurities. But, having this kind of body would be very beneficial to anyone who cultivates, as it would be like having a stronger foundation as I told you in the past and it would make cultivation much easier as it would be like increasing the potential the body has."

Now according to the Cultivation Multiverse of Qi, not only had he achieved the complete Purifying Stage but also done far more than that as he had purified all of the eight levels perfectly by hundred percent, this was almost a myth in the Cultivation Multiverse of Qi.

"I see." The golden beauty answered as she understood.

Now Virus only needed to wait for his Bone Marrow to be completely immune, but for the meantime, he wanted to finish some of his unfinished business.

ONE DAY LATER

As Virus and the golden beauty were sitting on the couch in silence, he suddenly said, breaking the silence, "Go tell the CEO and Legal uglies to get ready, we're going out."

Listening to her master talk, the golden beauty was confused about where her master wanted to go all of a sudden, and together with two of the uglies too, but putting her confusion and curiosity aside for now, she said. "Okay, master."

Half an hour later, Virus and the golden beauty along with two of the uglies were inside the CEO ugly's Jaguar B99 which was now called Virus B99.

Right now, the CEO ugly had just started driving the car while the Legal ugly was at the front seat, and Virus was sitting at the back together with the golden beauty.

"Go to the airport, we're going to Russia." Virus said yawning.

Sometime later they were finally at the airport, the four were in front of Virus' private jet, as they boarded the jet.

The people who were piloting the private jet were the Legal and the CEO uglies as they had already gotten the relevant certificates for piloting, they didn't know why they were going to Russia, but they didn't ask either.

They could only guess and their best guess led them to think Virus wanted to do something about the Russian CEO, but that was just their best guess.

While the two were at the flight deck, piloting the jet, Virus and the golden beauty were at the back relaxing.

Virus had a glass of red wine on his left hand as he was staring out of the jet's window at the clouds as he laid back on his seat relaxing and thinking about something.

An hour later, after the golden beauty was done looking out of the window with shining eyes as she got tired of it, probably for a while, she finally couldn't contain her curiosity as she asked looking at her master who was savoring the wine and scenery as he lay down on his seat relaxingly "Master, why are we going to Russia? Is it to deal with the Russian CEO?"

Seeing her no longer able to contain her curiosity, Virus came out of his relaxed mood as he started laughing "Hahaha, my lil Belle truly couldn't contain her curiosity, I thought you would last for another two hours before asking."

Listening to her master's answer the golden beauty pouted as she thought 'It's because you always don't tell me what you are doing or where we are going for what reason exactly, so I'm forced to ask, hmph.'

"Well, my reason for going there is not for the Russian CEO... that's all I have to say, you will know the rest for yourself soon, haha." Seeing her cutely annoyed face as she pouted, Virus answered her question with an answer that could probably count as half an answer.

This answer made the golden beauty even more curious as it made her even more frustrated inside, but her only option was to wait and see for herself as she knew her master wouldn't tell her the complete answer, she thought her master seems to enjoy keeping people at suspense.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 64 Moscow

Eleven hours after the jet had taken off, the four finally arrived at Moscow, the capital city of Russia.

When they were above Moscow, the golden beauty's eyes were shining in excitement as she stared out of the jet at the city underneath.

After the uglies landed the jet, they guided the jet to a location where a black 2002 Ford F-650 Super Limo Bus 5297 was waiting for them with a middle-aged man beside it.

The first one to get off the jet was the CEO ugly and seeing him getting off, the man immediately recognized him seeing his ugly feature as he walked towards him.

"Welcome to Russia Mr. Greg, hope you have a wonderful time here at Moscow." He said respectfully with a Russian accent, it was obvious he was a native from here.

This man was in charge of the Moscow Branch of Virus Industries in Russia, right now the Russian branch wasn't doing well because of the deactivation of the phones all over the country, and the Russian government was also very hostile toward them at the moment, if it wasn't because they had signed the contracts themselves, the situation would have been even much worse.

But still, the branch still wasn't closed down, though they were targeted a lot by the government and even the common people since the Russian government had rejected to compromise. Lots of common people were angry at the Virus Industries too, for deactivating the phones they had paid for.

The CEO ugly had called him as they were on the way to the airport, telling him to prepare a good and strong car for them.

The CEO ugly hadn't said exactly who was coming with him to Russia, the only thing he had said was that he was coming to Russia and he wanted a good and strong car ready, as he was only relaying Virus' orders.

"Hmm, did you prepare the thing I told you over the phone?" After nodding his head the CEO ugly asked.

"Yes, I prepared it just as I was ordered. Here is the key." The man replied as he reached a car key out with both of his hands very politely as he continued "Just like I was ordered, I prepared a very good car which is very strong and hard too, I hope you like it."

Seeing the CEO ugly take the key and nod his head again like he was satisfied, the Russian middle-aged man continued, "Please tell me if you need anything else Mr. Greg, I will definitely accomplish it."

"Very good, you can go now, I'll call you if I need anything else." The CEO ugly said.

"But do you know Moscow? I could be your guide..." The middle-aged man said.

"No need, I know the way." The CEO ugly replied back as he had the satellite map of all of the world in his memory, so he would be able to find his way wherever he was on this Earth.

"... Okay, Mr. Greg, I had another question related to our branch in Russia, as you know the situation is not..." As he was continuing he was interrupted by the CEO ugly as he ordered, "Go for now, we will talk about this matter over the phone when I'm done with my business here."

"Yes, Mr. Greg." The middle-aged man respectfully replied as he went to a little further where a black Sedan was waiting for him with a person beside it who opened the door for the middle-aged man, but what no one saw and realized was that a very small fly had entered their car too.

After he got the keys and the middle-aged man went back, Virus and the golden beauty along with the Legal ugly got off the jet as they started walking toward the CEO ugly who was waiting beside the Super Limo Bus.

Virus and the golden beauty were walking together while the Legal ugly was a little at the back with a bag on his right hand.

Without saying anything the CEO ugly opened the door for his master and the golden beauty.

After they went in to sit at the back, the Legal ugly and the CEO ugly went to the front seat and the driver's seat to drive the car.

After the CEO ugly sat behind the driver's seat to drive Virus said "Go to the Lotte Hotel from less crowded places... just follow the path I sent you."

"Okay, Master." The CEO ugly replied as he started driving.

A while later they were near the hotel when Virus talked again, "We need to enter the hotel from a place which people usually don't go, here, check the map of the Hotel I've sent to you, you will know where to park the car."

As Virus said that a map with a marked line on it appeared at the CEO ugly's mind as he immediately understood which paths he had to take and followed as ordered.

"Put them on." After they were at their destination, Virus pointed at the bag which the Legal ugly had brought with himself, inside which were sunglasses, masks, wigs, gloves, and baseball caps.

Following the orders they all put them on, even though the two uglies and the golden beauty didn't know for what reason they had come here, they knew it wasn't something good.

After all of them including Virus put them on, they got off the Super Limo Bus as Virus said "Follow me."

Right now, Virus, the golden beauty, and the two uglies were walking in a relaxed speed inside the hotel from another passage of the hotel which was hidden, probably made for shady reasons.

Virus and the golden beauty were walking beside each other while the two uglies were following behind them.

But the golden beauty's hair was no longer gold, it was black, just as Virus' and the other uglies, they all had put on wigs.

They had sunglasses and masks on too so it was impossible to see their expressions or eyes, no one would recognize them now even if they examined the four from a very close distance.

Right now, the four were walking inside the hidden passage and their walk took around five minutes.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 65 Hunt 1

There was no camera at the passage but after they finally came out of the hidden passage, the corridor was filled with cameras and they were oddly still recording as Virus seemed not to have turned them off, but even more oddly, no security guards were coming to see who these suspicious men with baseball caps and masks were, it was as if they were not here at all.

The golden beauty who had a hunch of what was going on asked curiously "Master, why is no one coming here even though the cameras seem to be still on?"

"Well, the cameras being on doesn't mean they can see us, right now, I did a little something so everything seems completely normal in the control room as we are like ghosts on their screens, invisible." Virus replied with an indifferent tone, as he continued, "And as for why didn't I turn them off, I'm sure you can guess that if I had turned them off, they would try to fix them which means they would need come to check and fix them."

"Okay, now focus, be careful to follow me very closely from now on." Virus said just as he was done explaining to the golden beauty after he made the three completely understand.

Agreeing to the order, they all nodded their heads in compliance.

After that, Virus stopped at some areas for around a second or more, while he quickened his pace at some of the corridors and at some, he even took a detour.

At first, the three didn't know what was going on, but soon they understood what was happening exactly without asking.

Even though they were walking at the main corridors of the hotel, they had not seen a single person the whole way, this meant that their master was avoiding everywhere that a person was walking by.

If a person was going to pass by a corridor, he would stop or quicken the pace while detour if it was too crowded.

They had also taken an elevator to another floor, but while they were inside the elevator, the elevator straightly went to the floor they wanted without waiting on the way for those who wanted to get in the elevator.

After around twenty minutes, they were standing in front of a hotel room quietly.

The golden beauty and the two uglies didn't know why they were waiting in front of this room, but they could guess that the reason why they had come here was probably behind this door, so they were looking forward to meeting this reason.

Virus had raised his left hand as he was looking at its middle finger at the moment, there was a pitch black ring on that finger of his which was there since the day the White-Ray Device was delivered to him, this was one of the 'toys' Virus had ordered the Island ugly to make for him in his passing.

It took a moment for Virus' mind to connect to it when the ring seemed to melt and then transform into a very beautiful futuristic black matte handgun.

There was a line of blue light above the trigger on its left and right sides which continued from the rear sight to the middle parts of the gun.

There were about ten pairs of vertical blue dots of light too on the two sides of the front rear of the gun which continued from the trigger guard to almost the muzzle. All in all, it seemed to be a very complicated weapon.

Seeing the black ring on their master's finger turn into a very beautiful weapon the two uglies were surprised inside, though on the outside under their sunglasses, the Legal ugly still had that blank stare of his while the CEO ugly unconsciously hid his emotions very skillfully, but under the golden beauty's sunglasses, her eyes were shining with stars in them, if anyone saw her right now, that person would immediately realize that she seemed to be extremely interested and excited about the gun.

But not waiting for the golden beauty to talk and react, Virus looked at the digital lock of the hotel room as it opened by itself, opening it he immediately went in just to see a man sitting on the couch in his bathrobe looking at Virus and the other three who had followed Virus in shock.

Not waiting for the man to come out of his shock Virus pointed the gun at him and shot, but before he shot him, in his mind he said 'Paralysis Mode'.

A blue light came out of the handgun's muzzle as it directly hit that man's heart, as he was immediately completely paralyzed, still looking at Virus with that shocked eyes of his.

The two uglies were still a little surprised seeing the gun but they knew their duties well and what had to be done in particular situations, so without waiting for Virus' order they closed the door behind them, as they then walked behind their master who had just shot the man and now had his left hand which was holding the beautiful handgun down.

At the same time, he told them they could take their sunglasses and masks off for now as there was no risk of anyone coming.

The golden beauty wasn't paying any attention to the man who was just shot down, both of her eyes under her sunglasses were now shining with even more intensity after seeing the blue light that came out of the black ring which had transformed into a beautiful handgun.

Coming beside her master, her eyes were still at the gun as she said with those hidden shining eyes of hers "So cool!"

Some seconds later she looked at her master with stars still shining in them as she asked "Master, that gun so so cool! Can I touch it?"

Looking at the golden beauty, Virus laughed as he saw the amusing reaction she had after seeing the gun, as he had predicted she would react like this.

After the laugh, he said, "Sure, here you go." As he tossed over the gun to her which she easily caught. Then, she completely forgot the situation she was in as all of her focus was drawn away and put on the cool handgun.

Meanwhile, the two uglies were no longer surprised about the gun in the least, knowing some of their master's capabilities, honestly, they were surprised in the first place because they thought the gun was really cool too as it could transform.

After that, they took their masks and sunglasses off like Virus had, while the golden beauty had taken them off the moment she had received the gun to check it out and see the gun more clearly without her sunglasses.

Now, the two uglies attention were no longer on the gun like the golden beauty, as they were looking at the paralyzed man at this moment, and seeing his face, the two uglies were immediately shocked because they recognized him.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 66 Hunt 2

The man had just come out of the shower when the door suddenly opened by itself as four masked men barged into his room, with one of them having a gun in hand, which shocked him very much.

He just wanted to yell, when the first masked person who entered with a gun in hand shot at him, and then he could no longer move, as he lay paralyzed on the couch he was sitting.

The paralyzed man was now looking at the four with his shocked gaze, which was moving between the four, even though his body was paralyzed completely, as he lay there powerlessly without the capability of moving in the least, his eyes could move around looking at the masked men.

He was afraid inside as his skin color had gone somewhat pale at the moment, he was afraid of that gun, afraid that he couldn't move, and terrified of what they were going to do to him next.

He was in a strange country at the moment as he was on the run, he had just run away here because he thought this country would be the safest place for him against that company.

But now, just a day after he got here, here he was paralyzed by a group of four unknown people.

He just hoped they had come for his money and would leave after they emptied out all of the money he had on him.

But, after they took their masks and sunglasses off he experienced something unbelievable which made him forget the situation he was in temporarily.

That was because, first, he was shocked and stunned, seeing how devastatingly beautiful the young girl who had just taken off her mask was.

Seeing her golden eyes, nose, eyebrows, and charming lips, he was completely dazed. His heart was uncontrollably beating faster, not in fear, but in a way when men's heart tremble and beat faster after they see an extremely beautiful woman, even though currently, he wasn't in a situation to be feeling like that.

A moment later, he came out of his daze, just to be sent into another one, when he saw the charming man who seemed to be the leader of the group, he could swear he had never seen such a handsome and charming man in his life before.

Those colorful eyes of gold and clear blue with a tinge of gray, that little mole under his right eye which gave him a devilish quality, his lips, nose, eyebrows, etc. He thought this was probably the most perfect face in the world that other women would die for, a face that could have anyone he felt like having, even every man who was not interested in the opposite gender would probably kill to have him for himself.

Then, after he finally came out of his daze again, he was sent into another one, but this time he was dazed into another level completely after seeing the two uglies. So he immediately took his gaze off of them, as he felt like it was too much for his eyes like he would go blind if he looked at them for even a second more.

The reason for that was because he had just seen two otherworldly beautiful and handsome beings when his eyes gazed upon two extremely ugly men, which made them seem even more ugly considering the fact they were standing beside those other two beings.

This experience made the paralyzed man totally touch and comprehend the true meaning of paradox. He felt like he was sent to hell just after he had experienced the pleasure of heaven.

But as he was too terrified at the moment, he was stunned for a very short period of time before he came to himself, remembering what kind of situation he was in currently.

After coming to himself, he started thinking about the situation he was in, but as he thought, his fear of the situation increased, because they had just casually shown their faces to him, this either meant they didn't care about their faces being exposed, or that they were not going to let him go, but he knew it was most probably the latter one.

Anyway, he decided to put that thought aside for now, as he started looking at their faces carefully trying to remember them so he would know why they were doing this, and like that, he might be able to find a way to convince them to let him go.

First, he looked at Virus and the golden beauty, but he was sure he hadn't seen them before. Then, unwillingly, his eyes fell on the CEO ugly, but the moment he looked at his face with focus, his eyes were frozen still immediately, because he knew that ugly face very well.

The next moment, his paralyzed face went even paler than before, as he knew who had come for him and most of his hope of convincing them to let him go disappeared from his mind, but deep within his eyes now, there was a hidden trace of strong hate too.

Seeing his face the two uglies were shocked as they had recognized him right away, this was the man who was shown a lot on the television all over the world recently.

With wide eyes, at the same time, both of the uglies thought, 'That's Mr. X, the CEO of that phone company of the United States!'

They were honestly surprised seeing that the reason why their master had come to Russia was this. They had not seen this coming.

They started thinking of why their master would come all the way here for this man, because they were certain if he wanted to deal with him, by the things they had seen so far, their master definitely had lots of ways to deal with him very easily, which wouldn't involve him moving in the least.

He could probably kill him without even moving a finger from his 4 Times Square, without the need for him to come all the way here to Russia.

And the more they thought about it, the more confused they got.

Virus was looking at the two uglies at the moment, and seeing their faces which seemed to be in deep thought, he grinned, a little amused, as he took his eyes off of them for now, then he looked at the paralyzed CEO from the US as he started walking beside him.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 67 Hunt 3

Walking beside him, he looked down at his face with his cold eyes as he started talking with a little chilly tone, "You don't know me, but you know Steven Greg very well, don't you?"

Seeing his paralyzed body unmoved without the ability to respond, Virus continued "Well, it doesn't matter if you know me or not, just know I'm the highest seat of the company you were trying to destroy, but that's not important right now."

"Let's talk about you, I mean, let's figure out what kind of person you truly are and what kind of sin you've committed for being in the situation you are currently, now, let's start by analyzing you step by step...." After saying this Virus stopped talking for a moment as he only stared into the paralyzed CEO's eyes with a cold expression on his face.

Seeing the look by which he was being looked at, the paralyzed CEO felt very nervous and beads of sweat started appearing on his forehead, because he was feeling like something far above his level was looking at him currently, like an elephant staring at a single ant.

Then, still with his eyes on him, Virus started talking, "Okay, so first, you ran off to Syria from the US, thinking Syria wouldn't return you, even if they were asked to deport you back because they have no US Extradition Treaty."

"After arriving at Syria you thought you were safe now, but then... that list of the location of every criminal CEO was released which made you worried, however after checking the list and seeing that your name was not on the list, you were relieved." Virus continued staring into his eyes as he talked, which made the paralyzed CEO feel like he was all naked in front of Virus when he heard his voice and that penetrating gaze like he was easily seen through by him as he analyzed him with those piercing eyes.

Four people's name was not on the list of location report, three of which had already surrendered, while the fourth was the CEO from the United States who was on the run. He was the only CEO who was on the run but not reported.

Virus continued with the same gaze, but his voice was getting colder and chillier the more he talked, "At first you thought you were safe, as even if your name was on the list, you thought the country you were in, probably wouldn't deport you back as their relationship is not that good with the US, but then we started threatening the countries and afterward deactivated their phones..., while asking the CEOs to be returned, now with this, you thought, only if we asked you to be returned they would definitely return you... but oddly, it was like our Company had completely forgotten about you."

"This made you somehow relieved, but as you are a suspicious man by nature, you started doubting if this was a plot or scheme planned against you, so you started looking for a haven that would protect you no matter what, but then again, you thought, which country would be stupid enough to let their people's phones be deactivated only for you your sake?"

"You were almost despairing that such a place wouldn't exist when you saw that Russia seemed to reject and even condemn us for their CEO, this made you finally have some hope, as Russia seemed determined to go against us, so you immediately planned to come here and as a result, here you are..." At this point Virus' tone was freezingly cold, to the point the paralyzed CEO felt fear in his core, it wasn't that his voice was truly freezing him and that it could freeze reality. No, his voice was more like an ancient voice which could freeze his courage and the ability to see another person at the same level as himself.

At this point, the paralyzed CEO was horrified inside like never before, as beads of sweat were pouring down his face, thinking just what kind of frightening monster was he against, as every sentence he said was absolutely true too!

Seeing his eyes which were obviously very much frightened as they seemed to be pleading him, Virus said "If your crime was only going against my company, then I wouldn't have bothered coming here, and if I wanted to destroy or kill you, I would've done it without moving in the least, but you... did something you should not have done."

After saying that, he turned around looking at the CEO ugly as he said "Do you know for what reason we're here? I mean why we came here only for this man, and why did I ask you to come along?"

"..." Listening to his master question him all of a sudden and connect the question of why they had come here for this man and why his master had asked him to come along, made him start connecting the dots and after a while, he was finally able to think of a reason as his eyes shone, but thinking more about it, he started doubting his thoughts, doubting if his master would come all the way here for him, nevertheless, he answered "I'm not certain, but I suspect that he was behind my assassination attempt."

Listening to the conclusion the CEO ugly reached the CEO of the phone company from the US was stunned deeply as he hadn't expected him to reach this conclusion, not in his wildest dreams had he thought anyone would ever know he had sent an assassin to assassinate the CEO of that company, as he had done that very secretly.

Virus grinned evilly as he replied "Bingo! You are correct, his greatest sin was not to go against the company or trying to destroy it, it was trying to harm my important properties! And no one other than me has that right! If he had not done that, I would've given him a natural death at most, without the need for me to personally come all the way here."

Listening to his words the two uglies were really surprised inside, though what he said sounded a little off, still, they had never seen this side of their master that seemed to care about them, they thought their master only cared about the golden beauty between the five of them while he felt dislike toward the other four uglies if not hate.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 68 Hunt 4

But they had just heard him state he had come all the way here because that CEO had attempted to assassinate the CEO ugly, who wasn't even put in danger because of that assassination attempt. Right now, they were witnessing a completely different attitude from him which he had never shown toward the four uglies.

Even the golden beauty, who was almost done checking the handgun was taken aback hearing her master's words, as she assumed Virus almost didn't care about the uglies, though she knew he wasn't completely indifferent toward them.

The CEO from the US too, at this moment, realized he was probably not going to live for long, so he despaired completely as tears started pouring down his extremely pale and horrified frozen face.

"And the reason I ordered you to come with me to this hunt was so that you would deal with him personally." Virus explained looking directly into the CEO ugly's ugly eyes.

The CEO ugly was still feeling very much moved, just as the Legal ugly was.

"How do you want to deal with him?... If you want to torture him, lil Belle has a torture bug which would torture him to insanity." Virus questioned the CEO ugly while making a suggestion.

After pondering for a moment, the CEO ugly sighed as he shook his head and replied "No need to torture him deliberately, just killing him is enough for me master, as that assassination attempt wasn't even something that endangered my life."

Listening to his words Virus acknowledged "It's your decision."

Then looking at the golden beauty Virus spoke "Lil Belle toss him the handgun."

Listening to this, the golden beauty felt a little unwilling. But nevertheless, her master had already spoken and also, she was finished checking out the handgun, so she tossed it over at the CEO ugly as there was no reason for her to not hand it over.

While the handgun was in the air going toward the CEO ugly, Virus connected to the handgun as he changed it's mode from the 'Paralysis Mode' to the 'Incineration Mode'.

The CEO ugly easily caught the handgun with his right hand, seeing it being tossed at him.

As he caught the gun and wanted to shoot the CEO from the US, Virus raised his right hand interrupting the CEO ugly's action, "Wait, let me notify and show him something before his death."

Without checking to see if the CEO ugly had stayed his hand and lowered the gun, he stared icily at the CEO from the US who had almost shat his bathrobe until now, as tears and snot were flowing down his paralyzed face.

Then he stated in the chilliest of voices, "You won't be tortured before you're killed, and so, your punishment will be lowered, as you will be only killed. Because that's a choice I gave to the CEO ugly, I won't interfere with it, but don't think just because I gave the choice of handling your life to the CEO ugly means I'm not going to punish you... No, I had a separate punishment ready in mind for you since the day you hired that assassin organization. So you will die today, but don't you worry, as that will not be the end of your punishment, because I will also engrave your name in history as one of the worst of at least this decade."

Listening to the icy and chilly voice of Virus, the paralyzed CEO knew this monster in front of him had done something, which made him start shaking at what would befall him next.

"Turn the television on, and change it to channel XXXXX, there is something I want him to see before his death." With a lack of interest, Virus dictated.

Today a Swiss Bank had announced that there seemed to be a suspicious account in their bank that had escaped their sights until now which they found by almost pure coincidence.

This account was a completely anonymous numbered one which was impossible to exist in today's world, as right now at least a select few private bankers had to know of the identity of its anonymous clients, but this account which seemed to have escaped their sights skillfully until this very moment seemed to have no identity at all.

But all of this was not what astounded the world. The thing that astonished the people and the world was that the Swiss Bank announced that the amount of money in the anonymous numbered bank account was almost the same as the money that was stolen in the 'Ghost Theft' case.

Now, they could've hidden this news or tried to use the money for themselves, but this matter was too big and it would make any person or organization scared, so the bank had decided to reveal it.

They said for discovering the person behind this suspicious account, they had hired the best and most powerful experts around the world to discover this person's identity, and after many days and nights of effort, they finally somehow cracked it, as at last they successfully bypassed the advanced program that was hiding and faking the IP of the person who was the owner of the anonymous bank account.

The bank said the program that was blocking the experts was a very powerful and unlike anything they had seen before, which proved even more, that the owner was most definitely the one behind that case called the 'Ghost Theft'. And now, today they finally announced who was behind this major world level crime theft.

Listening to them announce the name of the person who was the owner of that account, and hearing that person's background, the whole world was bewildered.

The Legal ugly heeded Virus' command as he turned the television on and changed the channel to the one Virus had asked for.

A press conference room was being shown on the screen, as a person of authority from that bank seemed to be standing above the tribune as he was in the middle of an announcement, stating "...So after days of effort and struggle, we finally could trace the IP back to its source, which was hidden to an almost impossible level, but with the world's best hackers and programmers, we were finally able to crack and access its source, which was the IP of the owner of that account that handled the money."

The God Virus Volume 2 - 69 Hunt 5

He continued "And that man is, Mr. X, the CEO of the XXXXX phone company in the US... so he used his own personal laptop at his office, we checked his laptop which was at there and found traces and evidence of the money he used for different reasons."

Listening to the television, Mr. X was psychologically near insanity, he didn't understand how this was happening.

He started yelling inside himself that it wasn't him, that it was all a conspiracy, but alas, no one would ever hear him.

After he completely despaired at the situation he was in, he thought why did everything had to come to this point? He was going to die and according to this monster in front of him, even after his death, his little remaining legacy was not going to be left alone intact and ruined completely to the last bit.

"Kill him." Virus pronounced those two words with a completely indifferent tone like he was muttering two of the most normal words in the world. That cold look in his eyes was completely gone too as if he had died already and now there was nothing to look at with coldness.

~POP

'I should have never provoked... AAAaaaAaAAaAhH....' This was the last thought that went through the CEO from America's head, when a low noise was made because the CEO ugly had fired without any hesitation and then a light shot out of the handgun hitting Mr. X, as his thoughts were cut off only to be replaced by inner screams of anguish which he could not let out as he was paralyzed.

Then around five seconds later, nothing of him remained as he had disappeared completely from existence.

Even though the CEO ugly didn't deliberately torture him, the CEO from the US had spent the last five seconds of his life in a monstrous amount of pain and suffering that would probably break anyone.

After the paralyzed CEO was dead, Virus connected to the handgun as he mentally imagined the gun to be 'Released', as he raised his left hand.

Immediately, the gun hurled by itself into Virus' hand as it started transforming into a pitch black ring on his left hand's middle finger once again.

"We need to leave here immediately, but destroy everything that paralyzed CEO had before we leave." Virus commanded them as his left hand was lowered.

The world was going crazy once again, the media were reporting the matter like they were on steroids.

Different television programs were talking about this matter very intensely. But one of the most popular ones was the program on which Amanda was hosting Professor West who was invited as a guest again.

"So Professor, the last time we invited you, you talked about different possibilities about how the 'Ghost Theft' happened, now here we are again today after the culprit behind the 'Ghost Theft' has been revealed, what do you think about this?" The middle-aged woman called Amanda questioned.

After a short silence of pondering, Professor West started talking "..., well, I'm very astonished and almost not believing that it was Mr. X who was behind this, but the evidence clearly leads to him and there is no doubt he was behind this because he has spent some of the money too. Now, I think our first priority should be to find Mr. X and bring him in for interrogation."

"But Professor West, I remember at the last program you were with us, you stated the hack was unlikely to be done by a single person, but now the evidence says all the money was being controlled by Mr. X, what does this mean?" The middle-aged Amanda questioned with a smile.

Professor West was a little upset that Amanda mentioned the last episode in which he was present because the evidence was pointing at the only possibility he had said to be far fetched. Still, after a little pause he replied with a very calm outward appearance "Well, nothing about this case made sense to anyone from the beginning, not even to me. I just analyzed and reached the most logical conclusions I could think of, but as this case was illogical from the beginning I'm thinking maybe I shouldn't have done that, I should've just thought outside the box. But still, even though almost all of the money was with Mr. X, this doesn't completely eliminate the possibility of him working with someone else, because I still have a small doubt that it was not done by a single person, so the first thing we need to do is to find Mr. X for interrogation for more solid answers."

"That's true... right now we only know Mr. X was the mastermind behind this act, but we don't know if anyone has helped him in doing what he did, but I'm sure we will naturally receive an answer to our question soon after we find Mr. X," Amanda stated.

"How is the stolen money going to be handled by the way?" Amanda continued with a tricky question.

This was a question to which Professor West knew a definite answer so he responded without any pause, "Well, Each country will receive the stolen amount of money back, then each of governments will in charge of returning the money to their rightful owners." The old Professor West replied with a calm voice.

"That's good to hear, is there anything else you want to add Professor?" Amanda asked further.

"No that was all." He responded.

The governments in different countries around the world were in a mess at the moment, as they were trying to return their money to their own country, while also trying to find Mr. X faster so they would know the method by which he stole the money. More importantly, they also wanted to be ready in case something like this happened again.

Every country started looking for traces of Mr. X and they finally found that he seemed to have run to Syria first, only to change locations again, this time to Russia.

The Russian government was very cooperative in finding the CEO, as they started searching everywhere in order to find him sooner, and after hours of searching, they discovered the last location he was at, which seemed to be in their own capital, at the Lotte Hotel.

The God Virus Volume 2 - 70 Unsolved Mystery

They immediately sent lots of soldiers and agents to detain and secure him. Honestly, the government was feeling happy he was in Russia, because if they could detain and interrogate him themselves, they might be able to learn the method by which he stole the money from all over the world, and that would benefit them in lots of different fields.

As they arrived at the hotel, they straight away went to the room of the paralyzed CEO.

But after they finally went inside, they saw the room was completely empty with no traces of the CEO from the US there.

Still not giving up, they checked every camera at the hotel or outside, but to their dismay, absolutely nothing was recorded on them, it was like he had melted away in the room.

After that, they started searching for him very intensely all around the country, while other countries were searching for him in their own countries.

But after that, no one found or saw that CEO again, that room was the last place he was ever seen.

This made the world very anxious because, with the CEO from the US missing, it meant their money could still be stolen from them by him.

So they started searching for him even more intensely because he was like a threat to everyone in the world.

Some said a person who could steal from the whole world probably had genius ways to flee and never get caught, while some said Russia already had that person, but they were probably interrogating him while trying to learn his methods of stealing, so they might benefit from it.

All in all, now the world believed that the money was really stolen by him, and the fact that there were lots of pieces of clear evidence proved he was truly the person behind this case.

Now, almost every country put his name on the top of their wanted list and naturally, he became known as one of the worst criminals alive in the world, as his name would definitely go down on the history as one of the trashiest people just like Virus had stated.

But obviously, no one saw him ever again, leading him to be one of those mysteries never to be solved.

At least now, everyone's suspicions on the Virus Industries were gone as they realized that the Virus Industries were the good guys from the beginning.

They saw them as a company who was only trying it's best to prove its innocence, and like this, their sales skyrocketed as everyone was buying their phones.

WITH VIRUS

After they had left the hotel quietly, Virus was done with Russia for now, so he decided to go back to America.

And thirteen hours later they were at 4 Times Square again.

Meanwhile, the Legal ugly had left while Virus had asked the CEO ugly to remain as he had orders to pass over.

The golden beauty too was present beside her master sitting at her usual spot, at that left side of her master on the couch.

"Okay, now that the phone industry is dealt with, let's enter some other industries. But before that, about the Automotive Industry, note that I'm going to send you a few more advanced blueprints of some cars and some other motor vehicles. In conclusion, remember that I'm going to speed up the process of dominating the economic world from now on." Virus stated calmly.

Virus continued, "But if we are going to enter more industries all at once we need lots of capital, so our first one industry we enter should be a field that would grant us with lots of profit and solve the problem of capital immediately."

"And for that, we need something that everyone would buy, something that everyone is forced to buy to be exact." Virus said, but as the CEO ugly saw his eyes at this moment, he didn't know why, but he could feel some cruelty in them.

"Okay, the industry we're going to enter is ... "

TWO DAYS LATER

Virus was sitting on his couch alone as he thought, 'Uhh, it's not entertaining enough to play with those monkeys anymore... I mean, what's the fun in playing them when they have lost everything, they are already at the bottom... it just feels like a waste of my time.'

IN THE MEANTIME WITH THE IMPRISONED CEOs OF THE ALLIED PHONE COMPANIES

Some of them had already regretted what they had done, while most of them were still gritting their teeth in hate.

Among those CEOs who was regretting and despairing at their decision of going against the Virus Industries, some were recovering from their despair, but the more they realized the situation they're in, the more they realized they had nothing to lose anymore, so some of them even started planning to harm the Virus Industries in any way they could, small or big.

Some of those who were hating the Virus Industries to their bones had already taken some actions to start dealing some small damages to the Virus Industries. Alas, they didn't know Virus was watching all this through the eyes of the flies around them, and seeing their petty actions of trying to deal very small damages that wouldn't be even noticed by him, he was kind of disappointed with the CEOs.

So he started feeling like it was boring to play with them now, like it was a big waste of his time to even pay some of his attention to them anymore, it was like being distracted with some small matters which were only a nuisance, thus he decided to stop playing with them completely.

If the imprisoned CEOs knew what Virus was thinking at the moment and the decision he had reached at, it could only be imagined how hurt they would be and how their already full of hate minds and hearts would probably start loathing him to insanity.

At the moment, some of the CEOs were at their cells while some of them were at the other parts of their jails, like meeting their family, etc.

One of them was even meeting someone who was the last of his remaining connections, that CEO was talking to him about how to deal some damage to the Virus Industries.

The intense hate in his eyes was very clear as he was explaining to the other person of what exactly he wanted to be done "So I want you to ..."

It was at this moment that the flies that were flying around each of the CEOs suddenly sat on their necks, hands, or other areas of their bodies as they stung.

But oddly, none of the CEOs felt any pain, they didn't even feel the fly sitting on their body for that moment.