

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 91 Odd?

She was sure any girl would be immediately doomed into falling for his boyfriend the moment they saw this devilish look of him.

The notion which passed through her mind honestly made her worried about the future, worried and also jealous of the thought of too many girls looking at him all the time.

"Shall we get going now, my lovely Elle?" receiving no response and realizing his first time speaking didn't bring her out of it, Virus talked again.

This time, finally snapping out of her daze, Ella responded a little embarrassed of her previous state, "...Uhh... yes, let's go."

Reaching out the palm of his left hand, Virus sent a signal to her to put her hand on his, so he would escort her to the car.

Understanding his meaning, Ella was about to reach her right hand out when two people appeared behind Ella, but the moment they appeared, they were stupefied by the looks of this man in front of their door.

Because this was the first time they were seeing Virus, their reaction was even more intense than Ella's just now.

However, Ella's dad was quite quick in gathering his wits together, unlike Ella's mom who stayed dumbfounded for a longer period of time.

Seeing his features, Ella's dad could only appreciate this man's look which had a perfect face and body, he thought even though his hair was silver in color, oddly it didn't look unnatural at all on him and he guessed it was a natural hair, not a dyed one, and it fit his perfect face to an almost unbelievable degree, unlike when most other men dyed their hair which gave a strange feeling like they had a problem or a special kind of mindset.

Virus who clearly saw Ella's parents behind her, took back his reached out hand to Ella's bafflement.

Then, before her parents came out of their stunned state, he greeted them, "Hello, I'm Ella's boyfriend, it's lovely finally meeting you two."

Hearing Virus' words, Ella understood what was happening, as she instantly turned around looking at her parents, while her mom came out of her dazed look with Virus' voice as she could finally gather her wits and reply, "Ah, Hi, our daughter's boyfriend seems to be super charming..."

After uttering her greeting with what seemed to be a compliment, she was about to continue when her husband interrupted with his own greeting while reaching his hand out in order to shake it with the man in front of him, "Hello..."

Because Daniel was a man who believed the way a man shook hands with another would talk and reveal a lot about the other party's personality.

Virus reached his hand out as he shook it with Daniel with a strong grip as he put a small smile on his face. But shortly after, he took his hand back.

Afterward, without stating anything more Daniel looked at his daughter and questioned her, "Daughter, would you mind introducing him to us?"

"...Ah, yes dad, he... he is my boyfriend and his name is Aizen Vee." A little surprised by her father's question, Ella answered.

"..." Hearing this, Daniel gazed at Virus once again, as he inquired him directly this time, "Why are you dating my daughter?"

Listening to the inquiry, truthfully, Virus didn't like it as he disliked to be questioned. But nevertheless, looking at Ella's nervous face, he spoke without any kind of nervousness or impatience in his voice, "Of course, it's because I like your daughter."

Listening to his simple and straight to the point answer, Daniel seemed to be satisfied and relieved a little.

But then, for the first time, his eyes fell on the golden beauty by the side which he had ignored because of his mind being too occupied by the thought of his daughter's boyfriend. But the moment his eyes fell on her, he was astonished as he uncontrollably asked, "Who is she?"

Without any delay in his response, Virus provided an answer, "She's my family."

"Ah... is that so..." As he was still a bit astonished by her looks, he acknowledged this fact without any further thinking on it, assuming she was Virus' sister.

Then, he opened his mouth again and asked another question which had been on his mind since he heard his daughter had brought a boyfriend to their house, "What do you do for a living and how old are you?"

Virus about to respond to this too, when Ella intervened promptly for some reason and spoke a little nervously, "Daddd, we're late for our date, let's leave the questioning for another day!" As she uttered these words, she took Virus' left arm by her two hands and literally dragged him with her while the golden beauty followed them, she had not uttered a single word since they had arrived.

Seeing this, Daniel was about to continue when Megan intervened with a smile, stating, "Right, you two go and have your fun, but Aizen, visit our house for dinner whenever you can because we want to know our daughter's boyfriend more... how about it?"

Hearing this, Virus who was being dragged looked back and replied, "Sure, I'll visit you two when I'm not busy with my other matters."

Then without looking back any more, they left walking beside the parked car some distance away, Megan and Daniel continued to watch Virus opening the front seat for their daughter as she got in, while the golden beauty went to the back seat by herself. Then going to the driver seat himself, Virus turned the engine on as he drove away.

The two were still watching when Megan finally spoke and broke the silence with a more serious tone, "Don't you think it's a little odd he's bringing a family member on a date with him?"

Hearing this, Daniel muttered, "... Now that you mention it... it's a little strange... and why did Elle drag him away impatiently when I inquired about his job and age?"

"Hmm... maybe she thought we wouldn't like one of them... whatever, let's just trust our daughter's choice for now and wait for the time when he comes to dinner." Even though Megan had her own doubts, nevertheless she decided to trust her daughter for now.

"...Alright." Daniel agreed.

---

Virus had just driven away with the two beauties when Ella looked at him and inquired, "Where are we going, my Ai?"

Hearing that, Virus only replied with, "You will naturally now when we get there."

It was at this moment when the golden beauty's phone started ringing, looking at its screen, she saw that the caller was the CEO ugly. Answering it, she asked, "What is it?"

"Master's order is already prepared at the address I just texted you." The CEO ugly replied from the other side of the line.

"Okay..." Then immediately hanging up on the CEO ugly, she reported the address to her master. And hearing it, Virus nodded his head.

But oddly, the direction to which Virus was driving, even before the call connected was exactly in line with the address.

After that, Ella kept glancing at Virus who was driving, while asking some things from time to time, trying to talk to him as much as she could.

Other than that, the three conversed about some casual matters until they were finally at their destination.

Currently, Virus had parked in front of a very tall skyscraper. This was the address the CEO ugly had texted to the golden beauty.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 92 Under The Three of Us

After they left the car, Virus and Ella began walking toward the building hand in hand while the golden beauty was accompanying them escorting Virus closely.

Walking side by side, they entered the building and directly went to the highest floor through the elevator.

Then, from the highest floor, they walked to the roof of the skyscraper, and upon arriving there, they spotted two people who were apparently expecting someone to appear there.

The trio began walking toward the two after spotting them. And witnessing the trio that had just appeared on the rooftop, the two also began coming at them after a short pause.

When they were by each other's side, one of the two asked, "Hello, are you, Mr. Vee."

"Hey, I am, is everything ready?" Virus leisurely replied with a greeting.

Pointing to a helicopter that was behind them, the man continued with a respectful smile on his face, "It's a great fortune meeting you Mr. Vee, I'm Dean Pratt, the person assigned to guide you. The helicopter you see behind me is yours now and you can go wherever you want with it,"

"Also, please note that this is one of the most silent helicopters in the world, and the glass along with other parts used in producing it are all almost completely soundproof, which means the noise you will hear throughout your trip will be close to none... so I'm sure this will make your short trip much more pleasurable." The man continued, "Oh right, you have permission to park your helicopter here until you have your own parking spot for it too."

"I see, okay good job, tell those two people on the helicopter to leave." Virus stated.

Listening to this, eying the two beauties beside Virus doubtfully, he thought these two beauties must be this charming tycoon's sweethearts, then he replied, "But Mr. Vee, they are the temporary pilots we assigned for you... and it seems there are no pilots with you currently... unless, you don't intend to have a ride with your helicopter right now..."

Virus glanced at the golden beauty by his side after hearing Dean's words, "Lil Belle... can you pilot a helicopter?"

The golden beauty replied promptly, "Yes, I can."

"You see? We have a pilot here, is there any other problem?" Virus questioned while staring at the man in front of him calmly.

Dean was surprised that a girl who seemed to be only at the latter parts of her teenage life could pilot a helicopter.

But since the person in front of him was said to be someone he could not offend at any cost, he just agreed and told the man by his side to call the temporary pilots back.

After they all finally left, only Virus, the golden beauty, and Ella were left there. Now, the three were standing in front of a brand-new helicopter, while they were surrounded by the city lights all around them.

"Do you like our date's flying vehicle?" It was at this moment Virus glanced at the beauty on his side and stated with a broad smile.

Ella was astonished that the helicopter in front of them was for their date, and it seemed it was just bought by Aizen!

This uncontrollably made her very impressed inside as her heart started beating faster, even though she was worrying that it was a waste of money for Aizen.

After that, Virus brought Ella beside the helicopter as he grabbed her hand and helped her board it.

The golden beauty who was previously informed by her master that other than protecting him, he wanted her to pilot the helicopter he was going to buy, went to the pilot seat and began pushing different buttons on it.

Virus and Ella sat at the back while looking at each other's eyes, smiling from time to time.

A couple of minutes later the helicopter started slowly elevating higher and higher as it flew away above the city night filled with light.

Inside, Virus and Ella almost couldn't hear the sound of the helicopter's rotor blade spinning above them, as they were sitting side by side enjoying the view of the city below them which was filled with lights emitting from the cars and skyscrapers under them.

They could see the city from under their feet because the bottom of the helicopter was transparent.

Time passed as they continued watching the day of the city at night. A while later, Virus picked the bottle of wine which was prepared beforehand by Dean Pratt and poured two glasses from it, giving one to Ella while keeping the other one for himself, as they drank it sip by sip while enjoying their time together.

Sometime after they had a glass each, Virus grabbed her by hand as he pulled her into his embrace, making the distance between them none.

Being pulled into his embrace suddenly, Ella blushed while her body was touching her Ai. Ella's head was now also on his chest as one of his hands were currently hugging her.

Then a silence became dominant between them after that as they enjoyed the scenery from that position. But for Ella, it was a silence filled with lights in the shape of hearts, as she was feeling extremely sweet inside in his embrace.

This was like a romantic scene which she witnessed only in the movies, but now, she was experiencing it herself for real.

Though, she realized that just watching those movie scenes were nothing compared to experiencing it for herself. They were worlds apart from each other in essence.

'Oh my God... please calm down heart...he will realize it.' She thought a little shyly, as her heart was beating like crazy about to jump out of her chest.

She was unconsciously feeling, this was the most romantic scene in her life.

It was at this moment that Virus all of a sudden separated her from his chest with his two hands put on her shoulders, as they each started gazing into the other's eyes in that position.

The wine they had just now, was adding a small feeling of being drunk to her which made her emotions run amok and her feelings much more intensified.

Then at this moment, while they were still in that position, lost in each other's eyes, Virus suddenly leaned over as he sealed her lips with his own and instantly, everything went quiet.

Now, a couple was kissing high above in the sky with a city of colors under them.

The golden beauty who was peeping stealthily, checking them from time to time, glanced back too, but instantly took her gaze back after seeing the scene in her line of sight.

After that, she no longer looked back as her emotions were also entirely unknown.

---

AROUND TWO HOURS AGO

Outside 4 Times Square, currently, Amara was waiting inside her car like always as she was observing the entry of 4 Times Square from time to time.

She was feeling completely disappointed while thinking Aizen would never appear here if she waited just like this, so she was thinking of coming up with another way to meet Aizen.

She was just about to leave for the day, when her eyes fell on two people who had just left 4 Times square, just like her, a large number of other people were observing them too, lost in themselves.

Spotting them, she immediately realized it was Aizen, so immediately getting off her car, she rushed at him, but before she could even pass the street, Aizen drove away with the golden beauty.

Not giving up, she hurried back to her own car as she began following them.

---

AT THE SAME TIME WITH VIRUS

"Master, I think the car behind us is following us... if you park somewhere quiet, I'll deal with it." The golden beauty told Virus who was driving at the moment.

"I know... it's okay, let her just follow us." Virus only replied as such before continuing his drive in silence, making the golden beauty confused as to why it was okay for that car to follow them.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 93 Founded

Then, they went to the suit shop where the golden beauty chose the black suit for Virus.

At the suit shop, Amara didn't follow after them because of the golden beauty being present there, she decided to wait longer to look for an opportunity when she would leave Aizen for a short period.

After leaving the suit shop, they arrived at Ella's house. Amara who followed them there, parked a little further than them, watching to figure what they were doing here.

She witnessed them getting off the car when she felt like the golden beauty had glanced at her, but that gaze seemed to be random and only for a moment before it was taken back.

Still, this made Amara suspicious as to whether the golden beauty had realized she was following them, but as she took her gaze back quickly, Amara started thinking she was being too paranoid.

After that, the two walked in front of the house, and soon, the door was opened by a girl dressed in red. Seeing her made Amara's face a little dark because she recognized the girl as she had seen her pictures in the report.

According to Amara's own words, she was okay with Aizen even two-timing and dating with both her and Ella, but Virus seemed to not be interested in doing that in the least.

'Just if you give me the opportunity... I'm sure you would choose me, it's okay even if you two-time with me and that girl because even if you do that, you would pick me over her in the end... but why don't you just give me the opportunity to do that?' Amara thought.

Then, as she continued to watch, Virus was dragged away by Ella to the car after her parents appeared and soon, they left together with the golden beauty.

At their next stop, the trio strolled inside a building. Amara too, followed after them while being very careful so as not to be spotted by them.

Soon, they were at the rooftop, where she stealthily observed them from the other side of the door to the rooftop.

A while later, she realized that four men were coming her way, so immediately hiding somewhere, she waited for them to leave before continuing her watch again.

Afterward, as she was monitoring them, the golden beauty piloted the helicopter as they left.

Seeing Virus and Ella, sitting lovey-dovey in the back of the helicopter before they leave, Amara couldn't stop herself from feeling jealous as she thought, 'That should've been me sitting there with Aizen!'

---

PRESENT TIME

After receiving the news of thousands of similar deaths around the world in the same way as the death of their dear Russian CEO, the Russian government have been looking for the leader of the Heaven Assassin Organization to question her and today, they finally received the news of her exact location as they promptly sent their agents to invite her somewhere to talk with their leaders.

---

After finding everyone in their base dead, filled with hate, sorrow, and guilt, the leader of the Heaven Organization, Electro, together with her left and right men, tried contacting the other members of Heaven which were spread all around the world, but to their dismay and confusion, they couldn't contact any members at all!

But soon, they received the news of random people dying all over the world which made their faces even more ashen and pale than ever before.

Finally, they realized that the Heaven Organization had been annihilated completely and it was no more from that day onwards.

Then, leaving the base together with all of the information related to their enemies, etc. They tried to find the person behind the massacre of their organization in order to take revenge, so the soul of every member of Heaven would be able to finally rest in peace.

At the same time though, they wanted to empty all the wrath and fury they had been accumulating inside themselves since the day this all happened.

Also, a couple of days after they abandoned their hidden base, the base was discovered by the government as they began identifying the dead bodies.

Now, it's been days since Electro has been looking for the killer but no matter how hard she searched, she could not even begin to guess who was behind the massacre.

This was mainly because, the number of their enemies were too many, so no matter how they looked, they couldn't find anyone with the capability of killing everyone at the same time.

Their strongest suspicion was that the killer was someone with powers. As it was hard for them to even begin to understand how it was possible to kill those many people around the world at the same time. But this made things even more complicated as they became even more lost in the end.

As the three were feeling completely lost with no idea about where to begin, some people suddenly appeared before them.

Currently, Electro and her two men were in a desolate place at one of their temporary secret hideouts when a group led by a male dressing like a normal civilian appeared before them as he began talking with a Russian accent, "Hello miss Electro, the leader of former Heaven Assassin Organization."

Electro, who has been extremely sensitive and on edge these past few days since the massacre, seeing some people appearing before her out of nowhere, instantly grew suspicious of them for being the killers who had slaughtered every member of their organization.

She made sense of this suspicion thinking, 'How would they know who I am or where I was? These people just might be the people we're looking for!'

After these thoughts went through her head, arcs of electricity began rising on her body as a bolt of lightning appeared on her hand as she questioned coldly, "Who are you? Did you kill my men?"

Seeing the arcs of electricity around Electro, the person in the lead was very surprised as he mumbled, "So her name wasn't Electro for nothing...".

He was surprised because he didn't know that her power was electricity. Even the people who had sent him were not certain about what her power was exactly.

In reality, very few people were aware of her power of electricity.

One of the reasons as to why no one knew her power was because everyone who had witnessed it were all dead.

Another reason was that all of her targets always died with no particular symptoms whatsoever.

They all just fell and died as their hearts always stopped beating with no rhyme or reason. Other than that, no burning marks or anything similar was ever found on the corpses of her targets, so most of the times they were deemed as experiencing a natural death caused by a normal cardiac arrest. And like this, it wasn't even discovered that her targets have been assassinated most of the times.

Prior to this, normally, she would've never shown her power easily to anyone, as she had put lots of effort in keeping it a secret from everyone else.

But that was all under normal circumstances and prior to the death of her men.

Now, she didn't care at all about her power being revealed to the world because the only thing she wanted was to take revenge.

So, with a bolt of lightning gathering inside her palm, she stared icily at the leader of the group who was in front of her with intense killing intent in her eyes, ready to attack.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 94 The Moment of Death

The man who seemed to be in charge of the other group quickly came out of his surprise, then turned completely calm and stated, "Miss Electro, please calm down. We are not the killers of your men and we have no hostility toward you, it's the opposite, to be frank. Today, we came here to find you only because... the enemy of my enemy is my friend. Don't you agree, miss Electro?"

Listening to this, Electro held her hand as she questioned confusedly with a cold voice, "What do you mean by that?"

"Okay, just dissipate that bolt of lightning so we could be able to explain with a peace of mind..." The other man spoke again.

Electro stayed quiet for a short period, before demanding, "Explain... or die!" As she said this sentence, that bolt of lightning also got stronger in intensity.

With a helpless grin on his face, the other man knew this wasn't working after listening to Electro's words, so he voiced powerlessly, "Alright, alright..."

"Let me begin with introducing ourselves to you then." The man muttered before saluting as he continued, "We are sent here by the Russian government to ask for your assistance and help in bringing the person behind 'The Moment of Death' case to justice."

"Not interested." Listening to his words, Electro only rejected coldly as she questioned further, "Just tell me who was behind all this, and we three shall personally bring him to our own justice!"

The Russian man felt very dissatisfied when he heard the first part of her sentences, but then after she continued, he felt awkward about what she wanted to know, "...", Nevertheless, after a short pause, he notified her, "Miss Electro, to be truthful, the main reason we came after you was to ask who was behind this all... don't you really know who it was? Didn't you provoke someone you shouldn't have? You should know at least who you've provoked, right?"

Electro felt angry inside hearing his words as she felt like being insulted, so she uttered coldly, "So you guys are useless! Then leave this place immediately if you're not looking for death."

"Wait, wait, wait... miss Electro, maybe my higher-ups know already who was behind this heinous crime, if you would just follow us, we will bring you to a place where you can talk to them directly by your own mouth." Seeing her impatience and realizing she was about to attack if they didn't go, the other man uttered his words in a hurry.

Electro didn't believe that they were aware of the identity of the person behind the massacre, but nonetheless, she couldn't just pass the small possibility that they knew who was behind it, so after a long pause, she first glanced at her left and right men before voicing, "Okay, where shall we go?"

Witnessing the result of his words, the man smiled as he stated more respectfully this time, "Please follow behind us miss Electro, it's in the nearest town to this place."

After that, they got on their cars and started driving to a direction while the trio assassins followed closely behind them with their own vehicle.

On the way Viper asked Electro whether she believed their words, to which Electro replied with, "I don't believe their words at all, but if there is a small possibility of them knowing the answer we have been looking for weeks, then I'm willing to take the risk of following them even if it's a trap!"

After that, they talked no more as they followed the car in front of them in silence.

Forty minutes later, they entered a small town and directly went to a house in an abandoned part of the town.

Getting off their cars, the trio assassins followed after the other man inside a house where they saw lots of monitors through which they seemed to be able to communicate with somewhere else.

"Where are your higher-ups?" Electro stated with a chilly voice after witnessing no one around.

"Wait for a moment please, let me connect you to them. You're gonna talk to them online." After uttering these words, he sat behind one of the desks as he started pressing buttons after buttons.

And soon, a person appeared on the screen of one of the big monitors, but that person's face wasn't clear.

The moment it connected, the man saluted the other person inside the screen before he began talking, "Sir, we have located and brought the leader of Heaven together with two of her men to our hideout, if you would please, talk to her in person, but... they seem not to know who is behind the massacre at all."

"I see, okay, I'll talk to her myself, all of you other than her leave the room." The man inside the screen ordered, from his voice, it seemed to be a Russian middle-aged man's voice.

"Yes, sir."

After they left, only Electro was left in the room, she looked at the screen and spoke coldly, "Just tell me... who was it?!"

Without beating around the bush, the other person replied, "I don't know."

"Then there is no reason for me to be here, goodbye." Uttering this, she turned around wanting to leave, when the person in the screen talked, "Wait! Even though I don't know who it was that killed your men, but I know a way through which we can probably at least narrow the list of suspects!"

Electro was intrigued as she turned toward the screen again and asked, "What way?"

Seeing her interested, the other man grinned, but her grin wasn't clear on the screen. Then he said, "It's simple... actually, there is someone else in our side who died in the same way your men died... the only thing we need to do is..."

Talking until here, the man went quiet for a couple of seconds, but soon he continued, "The only thing we need to do is to compare our lists of suspects and see who appears on both lists! How is it? Do you accept my suggestion of comparing our lists?"

Electro's eyes started shining when she heard that there was someone else in the world who died the same way her men died. Then, they shone even brighter listening to this unknown man's method as she replied, "I accept!"

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 95 Agreed And Rejected

"But, we will do it my way... you show me the list of your suspects and I will choose the one which exists on mine, do you agree?" After accepting the other man's offer, Electro put a condition on their cooperation.

"..." A short pause after hearing her offer, the man on the other side replied, "Sure, I agree..."

"Then let's stop with the unnecessary chit chat then and just begin." Electro uttered impatiently.

Then, the man seemed to stand up and disappeared from the screen for a while.

Five minutes later, he finally came back with a file on his hand.

"This is the file of our suspects, I will begin saying the names one by one and you tell me if you see any familiar names which exist on your list." He voiced.

Then he began pronouncing different names to all of which Electro started shaking her head.

"Osya Belsky" He said.

Hearing the name, Electro shook her head.

"Natalia Belkin"

Again, she shook her head.

"Jean Rose"

"No." She said.

"Anya Berezin"

.

.

.

---

The cycle of pronouncing a name and afterward Electro shaking her head continued for around half an hour.

Most of the names on the list were the names of Russian women, which made it clear this Russian CEO was no decent man.

For some of the names, she shook her head without any hesitation as she had never even heard of anything familiar to them, but she had to deliberate more carefully about some of them before shaking her head, so it took a while to run by the list.

"Latisha August"

"... No."

"The Virus Industries"

"No... WAIT!" After saying no, she suddenly remembered that two days before the massacre, they had sent four of their elites.

She hadn't suspected them before, because the massacre had happened only a day after the estimated time the four elites should've made an attempt on assassinating the CEO of that Virus Company.

She thought it was impossible to respond back and massacre them all in just a day, so she hadn't paid them much attention.

But now, hearing it from the man inside the screen, alarms started ringing in her head, warning her, this was the result of an instinct she had acquired in her years as an assassin.

"What is it? Is something wrong?" Seeing Electro's face suddenly turn completely serious and perturbed.

"That company is on our list too!" Coming out of her disturbed state of mind, Electro stated with a louder voice.

Listening to her confirm the Virus Industries, a deep frown appeared on the unclear face of the middle-aged man but Electro could not see that. What she witnessed was that the man had just gotten deathly quiet all of a sudden.

"So it's them huh?" Finally said the man on the screen after his long silence, his voice was much colder and chillier by now.

He started pondering about everything that had happened with the Virus Industries. They hadn't suspected about the Virus industries much since the death of the Russian CEO because this conclusion was far-fetched mainly because the other CEOs that went against the Virus industries were still alive and kicking.

But now that he considered them to be the top suspect, and how suspiciously they appeared on both their and the Heaven Organization's list, he started doubting everything.

He began thinking that maybe this wasn't only an act against the Russian CEO alone, and it was that company's way of getting back at both the Russian CEO and the Russian government who went against their will.

"I will kill them all!" Electro who by now was emitting a strong killing intent from her eyes turned around and started walking out of the room, but before she could walk out, a voice called and stopped her in her tracks, "Miss Electro, wait!"

"Do we have anything else left to talk about?" Electro stated coldly.

"You want revenge right? We want the same! So... join us! You are a great woman with great capabilities and we could absolutely use those capabilities to its fullest potential against them if you do join us! Consider this offer very seriously. Just think...we have the same goal as you which is to destroy them completely!" The man uttered.

Electro was truly tempted hearing the offer, but thinking further, she was determined to take revenge by her own hands alone, so she rejected quickly, "No... I will take my revenge by my own hands, I don't need anyone's help!"

---

WITH VIRUS

Kissing passionately for what felt like a short spark of time for the two but an eternity to another, their moist lips finally separated from each other, as they started gazing at each other from close proximity.

Shortly after they separated, Virus began reckoning while gazing in her eyes, 'Her lips oddly feel sweet... and the natural fragrance which comes to me when I embrace her is... almost indescribable, the closest thing by which I can only nearly come to describing it is that... it's very sweet just like her lips, with hints of vanilla mixed with hints of rose...maybe. It's a natural scent which tempts me to do her all night...'

---

TWO DAYS LATER

'I should check and see how much it has progressed so far, it must be close to its ends... so it should be finished soon enough.' Virus wondered while sitting on the couch. A random television channel was playing in front of him, it was currently showing a comedy television series about a group of friends who spent most of their time in their New York apartment and a coffee shop.

A while after his attention was drawn to his cultivation, turning the television off, he stood up and began walking toward a cubic box around forty centimeters in width, length, and height which had a hole on one side of it.

The hole was big enough to fit a human's palm inside it, or more precisely, it was big enough to fit in Virus' palm in it.

After grabbing it, he walked back and sat on the couch exactly in his previous location before putting his palm in it. Soon, a small 3D screen appeared above it, on which some futuristic language sentences started appearing before they all vanished entirely shortly afterward.

Then, around thirty seconds later, a list appeared on the 3D screen in the same futuristic language. Its translation was the following:

1st Level: Cleansing The Skin

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

2nd Level: Cleansing The Flesh and Muscles

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

3rd Level: Cleansing The Organs

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

4th Level: Cleansing The Bloodvessels

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

5th Level: Cleansing The Blood

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

6th Level: Cleansing The Tendons and Ligaments

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

7th Level: Cleansing The Bones

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

8th Level: Cleansing The Bone Marrow

[Immunity: 100%] [Impurities found= None]

9th Level: Cleansing The Nervous System

[Immunity: 98.7%] [Impurities found= None]

'Hmmm, the immunity process this time has progressed even faster than I expected, it's almost like it accelerates and gets faster on each level instead of getting slower... this should be due to...' Taking his left palm out of the hole, Virus pondered after seeing the results on the 3D screen.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 96 Blue Flame

'Well, the immunity process should be hundred percent in at most two hours, so I should get ready and begin the next and final level of the Purifying Stage...' He estimated quickly in his mind as he decided to get ready for initiating the last level of his current stage.

The final level was going to be completely different from the previous levels to a whole new degree.

"Lil Belle..." With a voice louder than his normal volume, Virus called the golden beauty.

Then, a couple of seconds later, the sound of her footsteps was heard together with her voice, "What is it, master?"

Shortly afterward, she came out of a room as she was in Virus' line of sight with a teapot and a cup of tea.

Virus replied, "We need to go on a short trip to my atoll..."

Listening to his words, the golden beauty turned around and uttered while walking away, "Okay master, let me just put these back..."

"Wait... we will go after I taste your tea, lil Belle." Stopping the golden beauty in her tracks, Virus voiced.

A broad smile of happiness appeared on the golden beauty's face whose features Virus couldn't see due to her still looking the other way.

Then turning back to her master with a small smile on her face, she questioned, "But master, won't you be late like that?"

"It's okay lil Belle, even if I'm late, it's worth it... because... I'm trying the best tea in the world instead." Virus replied with a grin sitting on his face.

After Virus enjoyed his cup of tea, they immediately left to the airport where they took off to their next destination.

---

A COUPLE OF HOURS LATER - ALDABRA ATOLL

Finally landing on Virus' private atoll, the two walked out of the private jet where both the Island ugly and the Security ugly were waiting patiently for their master to come out.

Seeing their master walk out, without any delay, they both bowed from their waists and saluted at him simultaneously without actually voicing anything.

"Let's not bother with the unnecessary stuff, it's prepared, right?" Without beating around the bush, gazing at the Island ugly, he inquired.

"Yes, master." The Island ugly who knew what his master meant by that question, replied.

"Good, then lead the way." Virus commanded in response.

Receiving the order, the Island ugly led the way to the SUV from where he drove directly to the place he had taken the CEO ugly previously on a tour, the underground world.

When they were above the First floor, Witnessing the huge underground world in front of her, the golden beauty was amazed and fascinated.

Prior to this, she didn't know this magnificent place even existed, and now that she witnessed it, she stared with a frustrated gaze at Virus accompanied with a cute pout, while musing to herself, 'Master always keeps interesting things a secret from lil Belle...'

But Virus seemed not to have realized the golden beauty's gaze as his own was directed at the small world in front of him.

Soon, when they were on the ground of this level, the see-through elevator stopped as its door opened.

The moment the elevator opened, noises of worker robots working were heard from everywhere, but without paying any attention to any of them, Virus and the rest of the party started walking toward a specific direction.

While he was on the way, a particular gigantic unknown tech caught his attention for a moment as he casually made a query without taking his eyes off of it, "Hmm, is this Shape Shifter Technology finished and ready for use?"

The Island ugly who was aware that this question was directed at him replied promptly, "Yes master, it's production is complete and fully usable."

After that, without any further talking, they continued their way and soon enough, the four were standing in front of an enormous cubic metal which appeared to have been made of some unknown material.

A while after staring at the enormous cubic metal, taking his eyes off of it, he directed his gaze at the Island ugly and threw a question at him, "Are the materials I ordered previously already found and placed in their own specific locations, exactly according to my words?"

"Yes, master. Everything is prepared exactly the way you told me." He replied.

"I see, good job." After confirming this, he turned around and told the golden beauty, "Lil Belle, I'm going to enter this cubic room, you keep watch outside."

"Okay, master." Without any delay, she replied.

"Oh also, keep this syringe with you, I'm gonna need it when I come out."

Taking out the small futuristic syringe from his pocket, he gave it to the golden beauty. This was something he had prepared in his free time by himself.

After giving her the small syringe, Virus walked to another side of the huge cube where it had a door at.

Opening the door, he entered and closed the door behind himself without even taking the slightest of a glimpse at his back.

Now, he was standing inside a room with every wall in every direction being completely white, this was inside of the gigantic cube.

Some seconds after staying still, he mumbled, "Interface."

And the moment these words came out of his mouth, 3D screens and texts with other 3D pictures started appearing all around him. Now, the whole room was filled with this huge 3D interface.

'Hmm, these are just random and meaningless unorganized codes. Let's start making this thing ready.' Thinking this, without moving in the least, all of the texts around him started changing, every code in the room were changing at the same time as they were being written anew.

If only there was someone else in the room with Virus, that person would probably think the codes were complete gibberish as there were an infinite number of different shapes in them, almost no single code seemed the same.

'Hmm, now that the materials I ordered have been placed in their own correct spots, I should just optimize it, input the exact order of processing and programme everything else that is necessary, then everything would progress just fine.' In a moment far lesser than a second, this thought went through Virus' head as, at the same time, the codes and texts all around him started changing with an even faster speed and accelerated.

An hour later, a countless number of codes and other unknown things were given to the cube, and ultimately at this moment, the cube was finally ready to start functioning and doing the job it was commanded by Virus to do.

Now that everything was prepared, looking at the interface which existed all around him he thought, 'It's all ready now', then he mumbled in an low voice, "Let's begin, Initiate."

The moment he uttered these words, the white light which existed in every direction abruptly went off entirely as everything turned completely pitch black. Virus could no longer see anything around him.

But this situation lasted only for around five minutes when eventually, sparks of blue flames started appearing in random places everywhere in the room.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 97 The Internal Phase

As time passed, the blue flames increased as he was soon surrounded by them.

After the blue flames filled the room and could be seen everywhere, Virus was soon drowning in them while standing in a room filled with blue flames.

However, when his body came into contact with the blue flames from head to toe, oddly, no burnt marks appeared anywhere on his body, as if the flames couldn't burn him at all like they were incapable of burning anything.

His clothes too, seemed to be completely fine and nothing happened to them, they were just fluttering in the intense blue flame.

If anyone saw Virus in this situation, the first thought that would pop into his mind wouldn't be to be suspicious of the fire, on the contrary, he would believe Virus had some kind of impossible to exist immunity to fire like in those fantasy novels they had read in the past.

After more in-depth pondering, he would also assume that his clothes were made of a material which was resistant to fire.

Right now, Virus was totally fine standing in the pool of blue flames. And according to his current features, it appeared he was feeling no pain whatsoever.

Then raising his left hand in front of his face, he looked in amazement at his hand which was surrounded by blue fire.

Currently, Virus was feeling a deep warmth that he had never before imagined to be possible, it was like he was burning, but he felt no pain, on the opposite, it was filling him with tinges of pleasure. He reckoned that this feeling was completely paradoxical.

---

Inside his body, after achieving the magnification of 1000x, at the level where you would be able to clearly see the details of the cells, right now, changes were occurring in his body inside every cell.

The cells seemed to be vibrating as they were showering in flames. The flames seemed to have passed the surface of Virus' body without the slightest of obstruction as of now, they existed inside every cell too.

As time passed, small changes were occurring inside every cell, because as they vibrated and were placed under the direct effect of blue flames, some parts inside them were apparently starting to disappear.

This was what the blue flame was doing at the moment. It was burning every impurity inside every cell while turning them into nothingness.

This blue flame was a very special kind of flame which could only affect things at the size of cells or smaller as it only worked on the smallest structural and functional unit of organisms or organic matters such as cells.

Another feature which made this flame very special was that it could be commanded to target or not target specific parts, material, matters, or things in the cells. This was a technology the future civilization was supposed to develop in the future.

When Virus was programming and coding previously through the 3D interface which filled the whole room, one of the instructions he gave the 3D interface at that time was for it to not target anything necessary a cell contains, so he had to input everything which has to exist in the cell for it to function correctly, excluding the impurities.

So now, the blue flame was actually targeting everything in the cells which was not on its safe list.

Hours passed, but Virus was still standing in the middle of the room without moving in the least.

As he continued standing there, he started pondering about the actions he undertook until now, 'In the past nine levels, what I have been doing was to purify and cleanse the space between the cells, which means I've been doing nothing to the cells.'

'For example, during the second level which is Cleansing The Flesh and Muscles, if I had magnified to the level of cells, I would've witnessed that the impurities being banished from the body at that time was only between the cells rather than the cells themselves.'

'The cultivators in the Cultivation Multiverse of Qi think that their whole bodies would be purified completely if they were able to purify up to hundred percent at each level of the Purifying Stage while assuming the last existing level is the eighth level. They don't actually know that what they've been cleansing in all of the eight levels altogether was only the space between the cells rather than inside them...'

'Also, they know the brain exists, but they believe it's too dangerous and impossible to go near to before having a high level of cultivation, so they leave it be until be.'

'But in the future after discovering the Cultivation Multiverse of Qi, the Earth's civilization realized that what the cultivators had been doing was very incomplete. And after years of research, mankind developed their own system of levels for the Purifying Stage.'

'They called the first to eighth level together with the ninth level which they had discovered and added themselves the External Phase while naming the tenth level the Internal Phase...'

'External Phase was called as such because its focus was outside the cells while the Internal Phase was called that because in this phase, inside of the cells were targeted directly.'

Two more hours passed as Virus just stood there while his line of thought went to different matters and places in order to kill some boredom when finally, the flames started to die out and eventually disappeared entirely.

After the blue flame was gone completely, he walked toward the door and went outside.

Outside, the golden beauty was still standing there together with the Security and Island uglies.

Without paying any attention to any of them, Virus directly walked in front of the golden beauty and mumbled, "Give me the syringe."

Then taking it from the golden beauty's hands, he directly injected it to himself.

After seeing the syringe injected, the golden beauty spoke with a grin, "Welcome back, master."

"What did you do inside this huge cube, master?" She asked shortly afterward.

"I purified my body." Virus replied casually.

Listening to his response, the golden beauty uttered with a dull voice, "Again?! When are you going to be done with this cleansing process of yours master..."

"Haha, don't worry, I'm done already." Virus answered with a short laugh.

"That's good to hear... anyway, what did you cleanse this time? And why did you inject yourself with that thing..." The curious natured golden beauty continued asking about the details she didn't understand.

"Well, the name of this level was Cleansing The Cells, so I'm sure lil Belle can guess what I did, and as for the syringe, it makes the part which I just purified immune like the previous levels." Virus patiently explained to her.

"Cleansing The Cells? That sounds cool master!... Did you cleanse every cell in your body?" She voiced again but this time her eyes were shining more brightly, indicating that she was now more curious.

"Haha, yes, of course, I purified every cell that exists in my body including my neurons, red blood cells, white blood cells, and even the bone cells." Virus clarified further seeing her funny sounding curiosity.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 98 Immediate Effects

Afterward, looking at the Island ugly, Virus opened his mouth asking about a matter the Island ugly had notified him before, "So, you told me you couldn't find the Stabilizer Rapid Essence even with the Scanner anywhere, right?"

The Island ugly replied after seeing his master's attention was now fully on him, "Yes, master, I even looked at the approximate locations you told me they would probably exist at, but I couldn't find it anywhere..."

'Hmmm... why does it cannot be found? Maybe... it still doesn't exist at this time? Or maybe all of it was gathered by someone else?' These thoughts went through Virus' head after hearing the response.

Then, when his deliberation was over, he spoke, "If that's the case... we can only replace that with something else... something that is very similar to Stabilizer Rapid Essence..."

'Hmm... let's search for something similar then...' Deliberating in this line of thought, he started searching for anything similar which can be found and in less than a second, a result showed itself in his mind as the most similar result with almost the same properties.

'I see, Brisk Balance Fruit... so this is the most similar thing to Stabilizer Rapid Essence... however, I found this in the Cultivation Multiverse of Qi database... it seems I would need to go on another trip.' Virus concluded inside.

"I know another replacement very similar to it... from now on, you don't need to be worried about this matter anymore, because I'm gonna go find it myself." Virus uttered after making the decision to go look for the material himself, he was doing this because even if he went looking for it, it wasn't clear how much time it would take for him to find it, but he knew he would be able to find it much faster than the other uglies.

And, he was in a hurry to find it as quick as possible, because it was something essential for his cultivation to continue.

"Yes, master. When are you leaving? And... will I be following you?" The Island ugly asked.

"I'll leave soon, but first, I need to go back and finish some matters and give some new orders before leaving. Also, you won't be following me on this trip, there are lots of things for you to do here." Virus continued, "Now, putting that matter aside, go and bring me one of those High-Frequency Vibration Ring Weapons."

"Yes, master." Obeying his words without any kind of questioning as to why he needed it, the Island ugly left for a short period of time before returning with a ring in his palm.

"Here it is master." After coming back with the ring, he presented it to him respectfully with two hands.

After the ring was delivered, the party of four left for the airport, and from there, the golden beauty and Virus left promptly without any delay.

Inside the private jet, Virus finally had the time to start checking the immediate changes that had occurred on his body now that no impurities were left in his body.

Beginning from the first level, he focused all of his attention on his skin trying to remember how it felt before and after the cleansing. Quickly, he realized the difference easily, he felt his skin could now breathe and feel the air much better than in the past. And with the first and tenth level complementing each other, this feeling intensified even further.

Every move he made with his body felt like he was being massaged by someone or as if he was stretching his body in pleasure, every move he made with his flesh and muscles was just filled with pleasure.

His organs were all working a little better than in the past, for example, his lung could absorb oxygen more.

His blood vessels were all very clean and unobstructed to the point he could almost feel the easy flow of his pumping blood through his veins.

His blood was optimized to perfection in a way that it consisted of only things which were needed for the body at the most standard level, and no harmful or unnecessary properties or elements could be detected in them, they also functioned more superiorly compared to the past.

His nervous system's function too was eclipsing the past, because now, all the impurities were removed from all over the nerves and neurons throughout his body.

His sense of touch, smell, eyesight, taste, and hearing had heightened a little now and his nerves and neurons could transfer and receive the messages to and from the brain much easier, so with these, even his reaction speed had improved by a small amount.

The only thing which didn't feel much different was the results of levels related to his bones and bone marrow, but Virus knew its differences would be realized in the long run, because from now on with no harmful properties or elements entering and existing in them, he, for example, won't have weak bones or the blood produced would be in perfect shape, etc.

And now, after purifying all of his cells, he noticed improvements in all of the past levels, capabilities, even if the improvement was small. But more important than that, he could feel his life much easier now, even the act of just standing in a place without doing anything or the simple act of breathing was filled with pleasure for him. In simpler words, he was feeling much lighter and much more connected to the world around him.

But at the end of the day, all of this was not the main reason for him to spend this much of his time purifying every part of his body including the cells.

---

THE NEXT DAY

Virus was currently inside his car driving toward Ella's university together with the golden beauty, because he wanted to see her and notify her of the news of his departure in person.

Before moving, he had checked Ella's location and witnessing her exact location, he started driving there.

After arriving at the university, he and the golden beauty got off the car as they started moving toward her current class. Because it was the class period for most students, the campus was a lot emptier than the usual, however, there were some male and female students here and there passing by or sitting somewhere.

Expectedly, those people all stopped in their tracks and even their thought process froze as their focus and attention were all targeted at these two charming and beautiful people.

One of the more confident girls who was walking toward the two even stopped and tried to start a conversation with Virus, but without any change on his walking speed whatsoever, Virus passed by her together with the golden beauty.

Only after they had walked away from her and were some steps further, did he respond with, "I have a girlfriend." Then no longer wasting any more thoughts on her, he continued his way.

When they were finally in front of the class Ella was currently at, he looked at the golden beauty by his side and mumbled, "You wait here and keep watch lil Belle, I'll be back soon."

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 99 Getting Ready

Then entering the conference classroom quietly from the back door, where no one could see him unless they looked back, he directly walked and sat beside Ella without drawing any attention on himself.

Sitting by her side, he promptly moved his mouth near her ear as he whispered into it with a small blow of air hitting her ear, "Hey my lovely Elle."

Ella, who was entirely focused on the lesson was startled out of it by the sudden ticklish puff of air and the familiar voice she heard right beside her ear.

Promptly turning her head to make sure who it was, she was greatly surprised to see it was truly her boyfriend sitting by her side, Aizen!

"Why are you here?" Ella whispered surprisedly with a lower voice.

Listening to her words, Virus replied with a tone of faking sadness, "Sigh, do you dislike me being here that much to ask why I'm here?"

"That's not what I meant!" She answered raising her voice a little unconsciously.

Because of her louder voice, the attention of some students near her was drawn to her as they looked back at her.

But then, other than boys, most girls couldn't take their eyes off of the person they had accidentally gazed at.

The male professor's attention too was drawn to that seat, but soon he took it back and continued his lesson.

"Haha, kidding my lovely Elle, by this high voice of yours it's clearly obvious that it's the opposite and you even want others to realize and see your boyfriend with their own eyes." With a short laugh, Virus responded, but this response made Ella's level of frustration increase instead of decreasing.

"Sigh... really... why are you here Ai?" She asked further.

"Well, actually I wanted to notify you of something personally instead of doing it over our communicative line, because... I'm going on a trip... and you won't be able to see me and contact me until I come back like the previous time." Virus continued whispering beside her ear.

Listening to the words he phrased, Ella felt a rush inside herself, like she was impatient and couldn't tolerate being unable to contact or see him again.

Still, putting that feeling aside immediately, she asked, "How much long would it take?"

Understanding what she meant by that question, Virus replied honestly, "It might take a week, or a year... it's something I can't predict without further information."

That rush she was feeling which was similar to stress boiled inside her again after hearing it could even take a year before he returned, so turning her head, she looked straight into Virus' eyes first and whispered after a short gaze, "Do you have to go?"

Without any hesitation whatsoever, Virus answered, "Yes."

"... I see... although I would miss you and it's going to be hard... but if you must go... then go, I'll wait for you to come back." Ella answered back, listening to the reply he gave without any delay.

Honestly, she felt a little downcast because of Virus' instant response, but putting that feeling aside, she immediately decided to respect his decision because that's what two people should do for their relationship to truly work.

After talking about some other matters, Virus said goodbye to her and left the university together with the golden beauty.

Then, after going back to 4 Times Square and sending the golden beauty to the highest floor by herself, he walked directly to the CEO ugly's office. This was the first time he was going to the CEO ugly by himself.

After arriving at his office, the CEO ugly's secretary was at first dumbfounded by Virus' looks, but coming out of it soon, she stopped him, "Excuse me... do you have an appointment with Mr. Greg?"

Seeing her stop him, Virus stopped in his track as he looked at the secretary who had stopped him and replied, "No."

"Then you can't enter there... please go back." She declared.

Virus was truly amused hearing that he was rejected from meeting his own company's CEO by this little girl who seemed to be around twenty-four or twenty-five years old, but wanting to continue for little while more, he stated further, "What if I still insist on entering?"

Even though the secretary was impressed by his looks, but she was a very serious person while working and took the matters of work very seriously so seeing the other person not wanting to cooperate, she got angry and declared, "Then I would have to call the security to escort you out of the building."

"Haha... you're an amusing person, but what shall we do... I still insist on meeting him, little girl." Virus expressed after laughing out loud.

Listening to him call her little girl, she was even angrier as she grabbed the telephone and called security, telling them to send some people to escort an intruder outside.

At the same time, the CEO ugly who heard the laugh came out of his office, asking, "What's going on?!"

But seeing it was Virus standing outside his office, he was stupefied. Soon, coming out of his shocked state, he was about to bow like always, when the secretary interrupted, "Mr. Greg, this person was trying to intrude into your office, but don't worry... I've called the security to escort him out already."

Listening to this he felt horrified inside as predicting how Virus would react to different matters were unpredictable most of the times.

But without saying anything he just bowed and waited for his master to give permission for him to talk.

"CEO ugly, from now on, you don't need to get permission before talking, pass over this order to the other uglies too." Virus stated after thinking that it was truly bothersome to grant them permission every time before they talked.

After a short surprise and being moved, the CEO ugly began talking, "I shall do as I'm ordered, Mr. chairman. Also, I will immediately fire her and deal with her according to your wishes."

The secretary was terrified by now as beads of sweat were pouring down her face, she felt so weak on her legs that she even peed herself a little after hearing the word 'chairman' and listening that she was going to be fired soon.

Listening to him wanting to fire her, Virus laughed loudly again as he uttered, "Haha... no need for that, this little girl was just doing her job... and she doesn't even know me..."

"I shall follow as I'm ordered then, please come in." The CEO ugly spoke respectfully.

Afterward, they both entered the office as they closed the door behind them, leaving the dumbfounded, terrified and then relieved secretary behind.

Upon entering, Virus sat on the couch while the CEO ugly stood standing there in front of her master as he spoke, "Master, you could've just told me to come over to you... there was no need for you to bother and come all the way down here..."

"That doesn't matter, anyway, I came to you because I need to pass over some orders before leaving on my trip." Virus notified him.

"Master's going on a trip?!" The CEO ugly was surprised.

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 2 - 100 Spaceship

"Yes, the length of this trip is unknown as it might take from days to years. So in this period in which I'm gone, everything related to the company and its expansion will be entirely handed over to you. I will also give you more advanced blueprints so you won't have any problems with further development." Virus began passing over his orders and words.

"Furthermore, you can deal with the government's agent on the arranged meeting day as I give you full permission on this matter to you. But, make them add some must-have clauses on the contract." Virus began explaining his next order.

"What clauses master?" The CEO ugly asked.

"First, they have to accept and fulfill every request we have from now on as long as the country has the power to make it happen. And second, the company will always have the final say in everything, even eliminating the contract, which means we can eliminate the contract whenever we want. Tell them these two clauses must be in the contract and if they don't agree just deny the cooperation. Other than these two clauses, you can handle the rest and add the other cautionary, necessary, or beneficial clauses yourself. Just... don't take it easy on them." Virus described in-depth.

"I shall do as I'm ordered, master." The CEO ugly replied.

"Also, the other matter related to the initial capital is already on progress and some countries have already realized it, they are just keeping it under wraps, but it will be realized by everyone soon. If I'm not back by then, just deal with it yourself as you see fit." Virus voiced as the CEO ugly listened intently.

Gazing into his eyes, he continued, "That was all, just handle the rest of the things that pops up by yourself."

"Yes, I will try my best to accomplish everything in the best way possible." The CEO ugly asserted.

Standing up, Virus was about to leave but before leaving he took a ring from his pocket and handed it over to the CEO ugly as he stated, "Take this, you're gonna need it. Use it when necessary."

The CEO ugly was confused as to what the ring was and for what reason his master was giving it to him.

But seeing that his master wasn't commenting and explaining why he was giving it to him, the CEO ugly too didn't question further. He only suspected that it was like the black ring on his master's finger, but because he wasn't sure, he just stopped pondering about it for now.

So, taking the ring, he spoke, "Thank you, master."

Nodding his head with a small smile, he left the office while the CEO ugly followed after him outside the office, where Virus ordered him to go back to what he was doing before.

Outside the office, the CEO ugly's secretary was standing impatiently like she was waiting for someone, and the moment she saw Virus, with downturned head, she spoke apologetically, "I'm so sorry Mr. Chairman, I didn't know your identity... also... thank you."

Witnessing this, Virus just made a half smile before leaving without making any comments.

Afterward, he directly went to the highest floor where the golden beauty was currently at. When he arrived, the golden beauty inquired after seeing him back, "Did you pass along your orders master?"

Hearing this, he responded, "Yes, now that I've notified Ella and passed my orders, we're ready to go. Did you pack your essential and necessary stuff?"

"Yes master, let's go." She uttered, with a bag in her hand. Virus thought this bag was probably filled with clothes or other unknown stuff.

Then, they left to the airport again, and from there, they took off to the atoll again with the private jet.

---

A couple of hours later, they were back to the atoll again where the two uglies were waiting like the previous time.

Getting off of the private jet, they walked toward the two uglies and when they were by each others' side, the two uglies greeted first by uttering, "Welcome back, master."

They initiated the conversation because the CEO ugly had already notified them that they didn't need to receive permission before speaking in front of their master anymore, which made them exhilarated and moved.

Without paying any attention to their words, Virus directed his gaze at the Security ugly and stated with a grin, "Go, leave to New York at once."

The Security ugly was bewildered hearing this, nevertheless, he inquired, "To do what, master?"

"Go and protect my girlfriend from the shadows, but act only when it's absolutely necessary at dangerous situations. So what you need to do is to secretly follow her everywhere, and when a situation arises where she can't handle it herself, help her deal with it or escape with her if even you can't manage it. Though there won't be many people who would be able to threaten my current Ella, it's better to be safe than sorry." Virus described the Security ugly's new job, which was to keep Ella secure now.

The Security ugly was exuberant listening to this as he thought jovially, 'Finally, I'm out of this monotonous island, I'm going to have some fun soon, haha...'

But outside he uttered, "I shall do as I'm ordered master, but who will be in charge of the security on the atoll?"

Listening to this, Virus changed his gaze at the Island ugly and asked, "You can both take care of the matters of the island together with its security right?"

"Yes, I can master." The Island ugly replied promptly.

Then changing his gaze back to the Security ugly, he stated, "Then it's solved, but remember to be discreet. Also, this job is only temporary, I already have another responsibility in mind for you, but that shall remain for another time after I come back. Go now, you can leave with this private jet."

After that, giving back the marble which was used for scanning the atoll to the Island ugly, the Security ugly promptly left to New York.

Virus and the other two also went to the location where the spaceship was parked at without delaying any further.

When they were in front of the parked ship, Virus first dismissed the Island ugly before boarding the spaceship together with the golden beauty.

Going inside the spaceship, the golden beauty looked around at the interior of the spaceship which was filled with blue and white lights and wondered, 'This spaceship still fascinates me even though it's already the second time I'm inside it.'

Meanwhile, Virus just casually sat on one of the comfortable couches. Soon, without anyone touching anything, the spaceship started moving by itself after getting invisible.

Though all of these were not being done by the spaceship itself as it still wasn't equipped with an AI. It was Virus who controlled the spaceship remotely.

Then, the spaceship started flying outside the atmosphere of Earth with extremely fast speed and soon, they were a long distance away from the planet.

Currently, from the place they were at, Earth seemed almost only like a ball.

Suddenly, a rift opened in front of them and the spaceship entered it without slowing down in the least. Then, the rift disappeared along with spaceship and its two passengers.