Chapter 23 Beaten Shitless

Meanwhile, Fang and Claw, the men sent by Jonah Jones, were the ones in the Volkswagen. They had also noticed the other two vehicles following Anthony and felt that there were powerful opponents in the car. The men became concerned. "Third Master, the situation is not good. Someone is targeting Anthony, and they are very powerful. We are at..."

Both of them knew that they were no match to them, so they immediately reported the situation to Jonah.

Anthony followed the instructions relayed by his master. Finally, the driver stopped the car next to the woods in the countryside. Poppy had fallen asleep soon after getting into the car. When the car stopped, Poppy had also awakened. When she saw the woods after getting out of the car, she felt suspicious and asked, "Anthony, where are we? What happened?"

After the taxi had stopped, Justin, Joel, and the group of men dressed in black had also stopped their car a short distance away.

Anthony glanced in the direction of Joel and Justin, "Poppy, someone wants to kill us!"

"Argh!" Poppy screamed. "Since someone is wanting to kill us, why did you bring us to such a remote place?"

Actually, Anthony was wondering about that too. Since the master had guided them there, he must have a plan.

In the Audi, Joel brought three of his underlings and stepped out of the car. Anthony's heart sank as he noticed the threatening force coming off him. It was the same one as the one Anthony had felt while at the Grandeur Apartments.

Who was Justin Hammel? Why did the Hammel family have such a strong person? Although Anthony saw that Fang and Claw, the two guards sent by Jonah Jones, had rushed forward to shield him, Anthony knew clearly that these two were no match against Joel Hammer.

Furthermore, over at the Land Rover, there were three stronger opponents!

"Hello, Master, where are you?" The Master had led Anthony to this place, so why hadn't he appeared?

On the phone, the man said calmly, "There's no need to be scared. Since the Orbtagon people are with you, that boy from the Hammel family will not be able to kill you. I still need a couple of minutes to get there. So, defend yourself for a while!"

"..." Anthony was too dumbfounded to reply. He felt that his Master was unreliable. What is Orbtagon? Was he talking about the people in the Land Rover?

Anthony still had something to say to his Master, but Joel had brought his three underlings to surround him and Poppy.

Joel glanced behind him. The man in the Land Rover did not come out, so he felt much more relieved. Joel led a few of his underlings to stand before Anthony, "Anthony Stewart, correct? I heard that you are very arrogant and behaved atrociously in Hammel family's territory. You even took away my cousin's wife and seriously injured my cousin. Tell me, should I cut off your legs or your arms?"

Joel was a collateral apprentice in Mount Beastial. After years of training, he had achieved Class D. As Anthony was just a new Awakener, Joel felt more powerful than him.

Anthony found it a little difficult to breathe under Joel's oppressive force. However, Anthony was not someone who would bow down to anyone easily, "Eh, why do I have a treacherous son like you? And now you want to kill your father? Huh, I should have flung you against the wall."

"You... You are about to die, yet you are so arrogant. Attack him!" Joel's face was vicious as he ordered his three underlings. The underlings immediately pounced on Anthony like tigers.

Fang and Claw each blocked one. The third underling pounced forward and aimed an uppercut at Anthony's neck. He moved very quickly, even his Carnelian vision didn't give him much advantage, and he almost didn't manage to avoid it. Anthony had never been trained in martial arts, and these people were very experienced in physical brawl...

With just three moves, the man's fist had made a hit on Anthony's shoulder, causing Anthony to grit his teeth in pain. However, being an expert didn't seem to give the man much advantage either. Anthony rammed two fingers into the man's nostrils, immediately wounding him and causing blood to flow out of his nose, "Damn you. How could you fight like this?"

Anthony touched his shoulder and rested his hand on his hip before pointing at the man while scolding, "Idiot. Who cares how I fight? I don't care as long as I can defeat you!"

"You need to be taught a lesson. You really think that you are so great?" The man saw that Anthony didn't even have an ounce of martial arts skills, yet he managed to hurt him. He jumped up in rage, his fist smashed through the air towards Anthony. A layer of swirling air hovered around his fist.

Is this what a real Class E's power looks like?

Anthony's expression was still. Without a word, he reached out and grabbed a fistful of dirt. He waited until the man was close before resolutely and firmly smearing the dirt into the man's eyes.

"Damn you, playing dirty again? Despicable... Shameless..." The man was completely focused on attacking with his fists and completely neglected to protect his eyes. As such, dirt had gone into his eyes, thereby disrupting his vision temporarily.

Anthony took the chance and quickly rushed forward. He grabbed onto the man's waist and kned his crotch viciously.

Crack, crack. There was the sound of something cracking. The man's balls had been completely crushed!

"Argh... Help... My balls..." Poor fellow. His eyes hadn't recovered, and he sustained another injury at his crotch. He rolled on the ground in pain and could no longer fight.

At this moment, inside the Land Rover, a few men were laughing out loud, "Haha, chief, did you see that? This Awakener fighting style is quite similar to yours when you were younger!"

"Really? Did I really fight that dirty?" Chief Logan Howell asked with a harmless expression. His team members both nodded in silence and thought to themselves. You were even worse than this fellow in the past. You even took off your opponent's pants when you fought.

Seeing that his underling was defeated and beaten shitless by Anthony so soon, Joel's face was red with rage, "Bastard, I will kill you with my own hands!"

Joel roared. With a stomp of his foot, he formed a large crater on the ground. In the next moment, he shot himself at Anthony like a rocket.

Anthony used his Carnelian vision and saw Joel's line of attack clearly. However, Anthony's movements were restricted by Joel's oppressive aura. The speed of his movement was reduced by half.

"Anthony, watch out!" Poppy called out urgently from a distance, but she could not do anything to help.

Joel aimed his fist directly at Anthony's heart. The energy on his fist broke through the sound barrier, causing a loud boom. If it hits him, Anthony feared that he would die...
