

Warning 871

Chapter 871 Refuse George's Help

Helen's POV:

We had already decided on a kindergarten school for the kids, but I was still worried that they might not be able to adapt themselves to the new environment. However, George was so cool about it and comforted me, saying that they would adjust themselves in no time. He even asked me to believe in the kids and said that it was a good experience for them. According to him, Luis and Polly were excellent.

To keep the kids safe and protected, George hired six bodyguards to always be with them, but I found that to be a bit excessive and complained, "Aren't you overdoing it? With that many bodyguards, when the kids go to school, they might get judged by other kids and their parents."

Instead of retorting, George said calmly, "I think my kids should be protected well, and I am doing this for the sake of their safety. Though we have come to New York, we still can't let our guard down. What if those people who were after Platt followed us here and tried to hurt the kids again?"

Chapter 872 Force Erin To Apologize

George's POV:

I was blessed to see Helen and the two children every day as soon as I came back home from work, and I was finally happy and satisfied. I tried hard to finish all my work ahead of time so that I could spend more time with them. I never worked overtime anymore and I even got off work early sometimes to pick up the children from school.

Chana teased. "Ever since Helen and the children came to New York, you've been completely focused on your family. I'm afraid if this carries on, the company's performance will start to decline steadily!"

Chapter 873 Go To Work

Helen's POV:

My first day working at Landen Law Firm was interesting. I met my boss, Lawson Turner, who looked much younger than he sounded. He was smartly dressed in a designer suit and exuded confidence.

Lawson had made a name for himself in the legal field. As a young lawyer, he handled several tough cases successfully, shocking the whole country with his adeptness. His fame subsequently spread like wildfire. A few years later, he founded Landen Law Firm, which quickly expanded its business from criminal cases to other legal aspects. No doubt he was an accomplished lawyer. Under his strong leadership, Landen Law Firm grew immensely. With a strong cohort of lawyers, he no longer had to personally oversee the cases. He was now only responsible for the management and development strategies of the law firm.

Chapter 874 George's Consideration

Helen's POV:

On our way back home, the kids fell asleep in the backseat. After driving the car into the garage, George suddenly leaned over and kissed me when I was about to unfasten the seat belt and get out.

I could feel his shadow painted over me as he placed one hand on the seat to support himself and the other hand tightly embracing my waist. His kiss was gentle yet passionate. I did not know if it was the alcohol, because I soon found myself intoxicated by his kiss and was even kissing him back subconsciously.

After spending time with him, I realized that my love for him had never faded away. In fact, it was only becoming stronger as time went by, and every time he got closer, my heart would beat like crazy. I even started craving his body and I wanted to have passionate sex with him like we used to.

Chapter 875 We Missed Uncle Platt

Helen's POV:

As soon as I got the approval from Lawson, I called Clare and told her that she could come to New York and work with me after she sorted things out at her previous job.

I heard her excited scream followed by her cheerful voice. "Thank you so much, Helen! I actually went to college in New York, but my parents wanted me to come back to Burlington after I graduated, so I had no choice. But now, I can work in New York with you and since you're there to take care of me, I will finally have a chance to make my dreams come true!"

"Have you talked to Ruben about this? And has he agreed to let you leave?" I felt sorry for Ruben because not only had I quit my job at his law firm, but also made Clare quit her job. Ruben did not have many employees, so I knew that he would have to hire new people.

Chapter 876 Erin Played With The Children

George's POV:

After gaining permission from Helen, I took the children to the hotel my mother was staying in the next day. Upon learning that the kids were coming, she prepared lots of their favorite snacks.

Polly had a very good memory. She recognized my mother to be the same bad lady who refused to give her the lollipop back when she was in kindergarten the other day. At first, Polly was glaring at my mother, but later on, my mother took out the snacks she prepared, telling Polly that she specially prepared all those snacks for her. The little girl immediately let go of her anger, smiled brightly, and endearingly called my mother "Grandma".

Chapter 877 Didn't Use The Condom

Helen's POV:

George seemed to be quite distracted that evening. He was not his usual enthusiastic self when he was reading bedtime stories to the kids. I figured that he must be thinking of what his mother had said.

While he read the kids bedtime stories, I leaned against the headboard and started working. The competition at Landen Law Firm was fierce and the workload was unimaginable compared to Ruben's law firm. Hence, I was getting busier by the day. By the time the kids were asleep, I was still reading a lot of client details when George suddenly came to me.

I could smell his testosterone as he approached me. Before I could react, he kissed me, blocking my lips. "The children are sleeping. Be careful not to wake them up," he whispered between kisses.

Chapter 878 Anna Took The Case

Helen's POV:

I was exhausted to the core from last night's wild sex. And when I went to work in the morning, I was groggy and had no energy. I happened to meet Lawson in the elevator of the office building. Like me, he did not seem to have slept well. He was on the phone at the moment, and he sounded annoyed and frustrated. "We've broken up, haven't we? Just so you know, I have the freedom to be with anyone I like, and there's nothing you can do about it."

I then vaguely heard a woman's voice on the other end of the line. I had no intention of eavesdropping on my boss's private phone call, but his voice was just so loud. Not to mention, the elevator doors had already closed. So, even if I wanted to, I could not go out. I could only stand quietly aside and tried my best to look disinterested.

Chapter 879 I Haven't Met Anyone Who I Want To Marry

Helen's POV:

Anna didn't know much about Zhester Technology, so she naturally didn't know that the agency we were talking about didn't actually belong to Zhester Technology. They were just to sell the products that were made by Zhester Technology. Hence, it was not up to Marvin to decide which legal counsel they should choose. However, she was full of confidence. So I decided not to get involved in the matter, worried that she might think I was competing with her for clients.

After the meeting was over, I advised Clare about the false advertisement case. I was also considering finding a big client. Landen Law firm attached great importance to personal performances, and the final assessment at the end of the year was mainly based on that.

After the meeting was over, I advised Clore about the false advertisement case. I was also considering finding a big client. London Low firm attached great importance to personal performances, and the final assessment at the end of the year was mainly based on that.

George then called me to inform that Kendal was inviting us and the kids for dinner and he asked if I wanted to go.

Chapter 880 Daddy Kissed Mommy Again

Helen's POV:

Cece had told me that she and her fiancé had been together ever since they were introduced to each other, because they felt that they got along well. Their jobs and their family backgrounds were compatible too, so if they got married, they could easily live a simple yet happy life. Cece used to attach great importance to her career, and now, she seemed to have a different opinion of her life.

Actually, I purposely mentioned the topic of marriage and children to Kendal because I wanted to find out how he felt about it and if he still had feelings for Cece.

I believed that Kendal and Cece still both had feelings for each other, but due to their differences in life goals, they could not be together in the end.

Love was always like a game of seesaw. One had to hold on tight, or they would be separated. Just like Cece and Kendal, and George and me. Different attitudes, different results.
