Chapter 22 Harvey's Power

A few minutes later, the ruckus abated.

Owen was covered in thorns and blood, looking terrifying as the cactus in the desert.

"Garrett, you've gone too far. Look at him. He used to be such a handsome guy. Now, his face is so swollen that even his mom can't recognize him. We are civil people, and civil people don't do such ruthless things," Harvey sighed. He couldn't help but pity Owen.

Garrett smiled obsequiously, "Duly noted, thanks!"

"Owen, are you all right? Should I call an ambulance for you?" Harvey gave a playful smile and ridiculed.

"Harvey! How ... dare you humiliate me like that? I will not stop until I get even with you today!"

Owen was enraged. He scowled at Harvey with a reddened face and bulging veins on his neck.

"Oh? Are you not giving up?" Harvey scoffed. Then he said plainly, "Owen Wood!! If you want to play, let's play! You are allowed to call in reinforcements, but be sure to bring as many as you can, because I'm afraid I won't have enough fun."

"Tsk! What a conceited prick! I will grant your death wish and call all the Wood family's bodyguards here!"

Owen decided to throw caution to the wind. If he didn't get even with Harvey today, he would certainly be discredited in the Riverport in the future.

Thus, Owen endured the pain and fished out his phone crankily. The moment he tapped on the screen, his father, Stuart Wood, called over.

"Dad, I was just trying to call you... I was bullied by Harvey. Hurry up and send as many bodyguards over as possible..."

Owen grimaced and cried for help.

"Tell me where you are, brat!" Stuart asked in a serious tone.

“An abandoned warehouse on the outskirts of the city.”

“I see! Don’t go anywhere! I’m coming over right now!”

Stuart bellowed. With dispatch, he hung up.

“Weird? Why did my dad sound like he was going to teach me a lesson? No way! It’s all in my head...”

Owen muttered to himself in his heart.

However, he didn’t harbor too many suspicions, after all, he was his father’s only son.

His father tended to spoil him instead of scolding him.

It was not long before several cars arrived outside the warehouse.

Then a horde of bodyguards in black suits got out of the cars and marched over as if dark clouds descended across the sky.

In the lead pranced Owen’s father, Stuart Wood!

“H-Harvey, what ...what to do now? It seems they won’t let us off this time!”

Garrett was a little scared because they were outnumbered. Once they fought, there was a fat chance to win.

“Calm down!! I’m still here!” Harvey smiled faintly. He didn’t look flustered at all.

“Harvey, you are about to die! Stop talking big! I’m telling you. My dad is here! You’d better know your places and apologize to me, and kneel before me and lick my shoes!”

The Woods’ presence instantly boosted Owen’s confidence. He was even emboldened to fling insults at Harvey.

In the next second, Owen waltzed at Stuart. Then he glared and pointed at Harvey, hissing, “Dad, this is the prick who bullied me. Look at the thorns all over my body! He did this to me!”

Without hesitation, Stuart slapped Owen.

It was so loud that everyone could hear it. Stuart stared at Owen and scolded, “You asked for it! You deserved it!”

“Wait? Garrett, what ... is this all about? Did Owen get slapped? Isn’t he Stuart’s son?”

“You ask me? How would I know?”

“Did Owen’s mother cheat on Stuart? Is Owen not Stuart’s biological son?”

In an instant, everyone was dumbfounded.

No one had expected such a dramatic reaction from Owen’s father.

“Dad! What are you doing? I’m the apple of your eye! You would never vent your sleep on me. Why did you smack me in front of so many people? Are you losing your mind?" Owen had a blank expression on his face. If he hadn't felt the pain, he would've believed this was a dream.

"Why the hell could you not figure it out? If I hadn't known you were such an imbecile, I would've shot my sperm onto the wall!"

Knowing Owen had no idea who was behind this, Stuart almost had a heart attack. He thought his half-witted son wasn't like him at all and wondered if his wife had cuckooed him.

His suspicions weren't baseless.

Nonetheless, Stuart couldn't care too much right now.

With a loud thud, he knelt before Harvey. The other bodyguards saw it and all emulated his action.

Their face was twisted as they gingerly implored, "Harvey, please show us some mercy! Let the Wood family off! We're sorry that we made a mistake!"

"What ... what? Dad!! Did ... did Harvey make us broke?"

Instantly, Owen was too shocked to stand still.

Previously, he looked down on Harvey, but now he was in awe and even fearful of Harvey.

He just couldn't wrap his head around why this deliveryman was this powerful.
