

Weaponsmith 2011

Chapter 2011: Dai Boqi's medical skills (1)

Amid the voices, Feng Zhensheng picked up the second stalk.

“Second stalk.... Nine Leaf Lingzhi!”

“Third stalk... still Nine Leaf Lingzhi!”

“Fourth stalk...:

He picked up stalk after stalk of medicinal herbs and every single time he inspected it, his hand shook one time and until the very end, even his voice started quivering as his face was filled with astonishment, eyeballs almost dropping onto the ground!

“Seventh stalk... Nine Leaf Lingzhi! All of them are Nine Leaf Lingzhi!”

The Pill Masters all cried out in shock.

“All of them are Nine Leaf Lingzhi? This is absolutely not possible! Not to mention that Bai Ruoli doesn't have any pill refining innate talent, even an eighth ranked Pill Master, couldn't possibly pick out all seven stalks in such a short duration?”

“Moreover she didn't even use any methods, just throwing it casually, this... she can even pick these out like that? What kind of joke is that?”

“I don't believe it, there must be some problem here. Could President Feng have gotten it wrongly?”

When Feng Zhensheng heard that, he wanted to cry with no tears. He really wished that he had gotten it wrongly, to lie to everyone that these medicinal herbs were all Nine Leaf Turf Grass.

However, these seven stalks of medicinal herbs had all been inspected personally by Dai Boqi earlier. In front of him, how would Feng Zhensheng even dare to lie with his eyes wide open? He could only report the inspection results as it was.

Until now, he was still feeling as though he was in a dream!

His puzzlement was not any lesser than anyone else. To think that he was already an eighth ranked Pill Master and he had enough various kinds of talents but such a bizarre and mysterious matter, was his first time encountering it!

This... just where had gone wrong?

Feng Zhensheng's silence had already proved everything.

The Pill Masters were all first shocked and suspicious and until the end, they had no choice but to admit that Huang Yueli had really picked those Nine Leaf Lingzhi accurately from the pile!

Even though they didn't know how she did it, but this was the truth!

Simply unable to imagine, just how powerful her Earth attributed innate talent was, to be able to do this!

Could it be that she really was a pill refining genius who appeared once every thousand years?

On seeing everyone's gaze on Huang Yueli slowly turning from suspicions to admiration, Feng Xiaoyan's heart was both furious and jealous as the ball of fire kept on spiralling, scorching her so much that she was scratching her heart and lungs, incomparably unbearable.

"This absolutely could not be true! Divine Doctor Dai, Father, you absolutely cannot be deceived by this little slut! This shameless thing, in order to rely on Divine Doctor Liu, she could do all sorts of shameless disgusting things..... AH—!!"

Before Feng Xiaoyan could even finish her verbal abuses, a gust of powerful Profound Energy shot right from her back.

She gave a shrill and totally unable to stabilise her body as she fell forward.

A dull thud was heard and her head crashed against the ground. Instantly blood spilled out and at the same time, the veil on her face also dropped off which she was struggling with, revealing a scarred face, which was immediately exposed in front of everyone's eyes.

"Heavens! Feng Xiaoyan's face..."

"It's too horrifying!"

Dai Boqi stared furiously at Feng Xiaoyan, "Who allowed you to speak that about this old man's disciple? Full of foul and filthy words, simply unable to enter one's ears! Men, quickly drag her out for me! Don't let this old man see her ever again!"

"Divine Doctor Dai, I really didn't say anything wrong... Divine Doctor Dai....."

Feng Xiaoyan screeched her voice out but was still dragged out.

When Feng Zhensheng saw this, he felt that he was really embarrassed as he hurriedly followed suit quickly.

Chapter 2012: Dai Boqi's medical skills (2)

The remaining Pill Masters were all stunned by this scene, as they stood in their original spots, you looking at me and I looking at you, not knowing what they should do.

Dai Boqi couldn't be bothered with them because right now, all he had on his mind was to take in this genius disciple under his wing. As for the others, he simply treated them like air totally.

"Alright, now that there's no one to disturb us, hurry up and acknowledge me as your Master!" Dai Boqi's face was filled with anticipation as he looked towards Huang Yueli, rementioning the same old thing.

When Huang Yueli heard that, she shook her head slightly.

Dai Boqi spoke out in displeasure, "Why? You're still not willing to? Which part are you not satisfied, tell me now! This Master will definitely help you settle it!"

Huang Yueli signed and said, "Divine Doctor Dai, are you sure you really want to take me in as a disciple? You should know about this by now that I have no Profound Energy at all, not even cultivation innate talent, nor Earth and Fire attributes. Although I am able to distinguish between the medicinal herbs, and my Earth attributed affinity seems rather high, but..."

"But what? Where's the but coming from?" Dai Boqi flicked his sleeves as he interrupted her.

"Earlier when this old man helped you take your pulse, I had already roughly found out the reason. Your meridians are obviously sealed by someone, resulting in the Profound Energy unable to flow within your meridians hence causing the false alarm that you cannot cultivate! This old man was just thinking, how could it be possible that you have no innate talent but able to pick high levelled medicinal herbs! In reality, your innate talent should be extremely outstanding!"

Saying that, he turned his head back and asked puzzledly, "Why? You're already sixteen, don't you even know that your meridians had been sealed? Surely this is unexplainable right?"

Logically speaking, everyone in Soaring Heavens Continent would attend the innate talent assessment before they were ten years old and for those who had the aptitude, for those whose meridians were sealed, just any high ranked doctor would be able to tell.

Even if they had no ability to seek a Divine Doctor for consultation, but the difference between having and not having innate talent was totally different. For example today's matter of harvesting medicinal herbs, if it happened a few more times, normal people would all be suspicious of this wasn't it?

When Huang Yueli heard that, she slightly pondered over it as she revealed an enlightened look.

"In this way... yes, I've recently lost my memory and there are many things which I cannot recall. Could it be that I could cultivate in the past? But I don't know why someone sealed my meridians?"

Dai Boqi slapped his thigh, "So this is the case, then it's all explainable now! But aren't you Yan'er's fiancée? How did you lose your memory?"

"This... I don't recall it anymore but Brother Liu had once told me a little about it...."

Huang Yueli then told Liu Buyan's version to Dai Boqi.

It was basically that the both of them met with danger while out harvesting medicinal herbs and Huang Yueli had hurt her head, resulting in the loss of memory.

But after she had just finished her story, Huang Yueli herself started to frown, "Strange, since I was able to cultivate in the past, why is it that after I had a fall, not only had I lost my memories, even my meridians were sealed by someone? Could it be that I've also met with some other accident?"

Dai Boqi grabbed her wrist and checked her pulse in detail.

This time, he injected a larger portion of Profound Energy into Huang Yueli's meridians, seemingly searching every single meridian of hers before he slowly retracted his hand, even checking on Huang Yueli's head's "injury".

His expression was even more puzzled, "This is really strange, I somehow feel that your amnesia isn't related to an injury to the head, more like... you've taken some kind of medicine."

