Chapter 911: Climbing Over The Wall

The electrifying wall was a strange one. There was a reason why large amounts of electrical currents worked so well on Altereded, and it was because it interrupted the Altered process quite a bit.

The wall was too high for Ice to just build a platform and climb over; he had also used a lot of his powers already fighting against the Warden, and now out here, he was exhausted. So he was physically using his Altered strength with a small amount of his ice powers to climb the wall.

Yet, now the electric currents were going through his body; his strength was weakening, his body was getting the same power as before, and even his ice powers were getting harder to use.

Gary, it was affecting him but less so; he had a high endurance after all, so he was able to carry it, but he could hear the sound of grunting from behind. When looking behind him, Blackjack was doing fine, but he could see the heavy sweat on Ice's face, struggling.

Ice looked up at Gary, huffing and panting, his eyes were fading, and just at that moment, his grip loosened, and he started to fall back toward the ground.

"And look at that, one of them only managed to make it about halfway," Theodore claimed.

Ice was regaining his strength now he was no longer touching the wall, but his powers still hadn't returned. All he could think was, at least he managed to help someone while in this place.

That was until he could see green hair coming closer and closer toward him. Gary had pushed off the wall from where he was and leapt down. He was sliding down with his claw-marked hand and reaching out he had grabbed Ice, catching him before he fell to the floor.

"You... have come this far with me; I'm not letting you fall back down there; who knows what they would do. You deserve a better life," Gary said as he lifted him up and placed him over his back with a single hand.

A feat that looked impressive, but Gary, of course, had his supernatural strength.

“Hold on; we’re going to get out of here.”

“Did you think we would just stand around and let you?” Opptus said. With his hand reached out, he started to fire away several of the webs he had used to catch other criminals before.

As the net came at them and with Ice on Gary’s back, it would be harder for him to turn and cut it like he did before, but there was no need to. Before the net had reached the two, several feathers had come out from both Frank and Sadie, hitting it; they had cut several parts causing the net to just fall to the ground.

At the same time, Elijah was busy with his stone rock hand bashing the White Rose agents below that were using their Altered abilities to attack at the wall.

“Keep moving!” Blackjack said as he grit his teeth and was making it up the wall, while Gary did the same, placing one hand in front of the other.

The electrified wall was turning out to be a double-edged sword for the group. On one hand, it was slowing their climb; at this point, most people would have fallen off.

But now, it was also stopping the physical-type Altered from giving chase by climbing up the wall themselves.

“Do you really think I’m just going to watch them escape?” Theodore asked.

“Do you really think that I won’t try to stop you!” Kanu said, looking right into Theodore’s eyes.

The other White Rose agents were slightly confused; why would the Deputy Chief Constable not attack? The two of them were eyeing each other up, almost waiting for the next one to make a move; it was like he didn’t want to go against Kanu.

However, when watching both of them, with a blink, Theodore was suddenly gone, and when looking at the scene again with his long arms, Theodore had grabbed the back of Kanu and slammed him to the ground.

No one had even seen Theodore move, yet he had gotten behind Kanu in an instant.

“You should know why I’m not in a rush, because I can get them at any time; I’m just waiting for them to go over that wall, and they will see me right in front of their eyes.”

“Ha!” Kanu grunted with his face on the ground. “And it’s that cockiness that I was expecting; if they had sent Leon, maybe they wouldn’t have escaped, but I’m glad they have sent you.”

In the middle of their conversation, Gary had pulled himself with Ice over the wall, and at the very top, they turned to look back at the White Rose members.

“I won’t forget about you... I just have more important things to deal with right now; I’ll be back,” Gary said as he leapt off with Blackjack as well.

Theodore, seeing this, had a smile on his face; he was straightening his back as if he was just about to move.

“STOP!” A loud booming voice was heard; the sound was immense, causing some of the White Rose to use their hands to cover their ears.

Turning around, a group of around ten people had entered the scene, their clothing mainly black with a trim of red. For many of the White Rose, it was the first time they had seen this group of people before.

For others, it struck fear in them when seeing them because they knew exactly who it was.

“What are... what is the Superintendent doing here, and why is he with the disciplinary team!”

The Superintendent a group of people that acted separately from the regular members of the White rose, and usually their appearance wasn’t good news.

Chapter 912 The White Rose Discipline

The White Rose agents were frozen in place as they saw the Superintendent team arrive. No longer were they concerning themselves with those that had escaped, and Gary and the others had already made it over the walls anyway; the only person that could catch up to them was the Chief Constable.

Yet, even in the presence of this man, he didn't move. The head of the Superintendent, the disciplinary department within the White Rose, was present, a man known as Adam Law. He wasn't overly large or had a strange body shape like that of the other constables.

If anything, he was quite small in his frame, with his bald-headed appearance obscured by a peaked cap colored black and red like his uniform. He stood upright, but the presence of him just being there was felt by everyone.

"I am here for one reason and one reason only; I am here to perform my duties as the Superintendent. There are those in the White Rose that I have concluded need to be punished!" In Adam's hand, he held a cane, which he didn't use for walking but always had it in his presence. After finishing his sentence, he slammed it on the floor."

In doing so, a clean hole had been made in the ground the same size as the cane. The area around didn't crack; only the small hole had been made.

Adam Law was the Superintendent, the head of the disciplinary committee in the White Rose. They were there to punish the White Rose members for any wrongdoings that would occur from within.

In some cases, some could think of them as an HR team that companies would have. Only, because they were dealing with those in the White Rose, this team needed to be incredibly strong.

Even in government offices around the world, there was always a fear when the White Rose organization was built up. What if someone was able to obtain this power for themselves? It wasn't uncommon for some governments to be in the hand of gangs in the first place.

So couldn't the same happen for White Rose? In an organization as large as this one, there would come times where there would be those that would be corrupt. Officers that turned to look the other way, and even being a part of misdoings themselves, maybe abusing their power.

Even their White Rose needed to uphold their own laws that they were enforcing on the people. Which is how the disciplinary team came into place. They were not involved in any regular cases on the outside.

Their only role was to punish White Rose members if something was found, and in the White Rose bases Adam had just as much power as the Constable, a man of trust, a man of true justice.

"I understand that you might want to punish these people, but now isn't the best time; we have to get the escaped prisoners now!" Theodore shouted.

"The prisoners are not of my concern," Adam answered. "I only deal with the White Rose disciplinary measures. It does not matter to me how many escape, and I think you have something wrong, something very wrong."

Lifting up his cane, it was pointed directly at one of the Chiefs, it was Chief Jones. A man that was in the courtroom when Gary had his trial, as well as the one that made sure nothing went wrong in his trial.

"What?" Theodore said, confused.

"There is a grave matter of injustice that has occurred, that must be dealt with. Chief Jones, as well as several others, have been implicated for working with the Phoenix Gang. All of them will immediately be taken in for questioning.

"It is a shame that something has been going on for so long in our base."

Chief Jones was stunned; he was unsure what to do; his heart felt like it was ready to jump out of his throat.

'How... how did they find out... we've been working with the Phoenix Gang for years, but nothing has ever happened. Is this because of him?' Jones went to look at Kanu who was on the ground.

At the same time, Kanu was glad that everything had come through. In his position as captain, it would be hard for him to investigate those above him. On top of that, who knew how high this went.

It wouldn't be a surprise if one of the Constables was working with the Phoenix Gang. The only people he could rely on were the disciplinary team, but again with his position, it was hard to look into things.

So there was one person Kanu could trust, and that was Chief Hiru. Someone who had been competitive with Kanu from day one, wishing to rack up achievement after achievement getting to the top.

With his disliking for Kanu, he didn't know if Hiru would help him out. It looked like he came through, and with enough evidence to get it so the superintendent will act.

"Involved in this investigation and important witnesses of information are Kanu, Elijah, Frank, and Sadie, so no one is to harm them until the investigation is done, and since I have seen you harming Captain Kanu right now, I will have to bring you in as well, Theodore." Adam claimed.

"Have you gone crazy!" Theodore shouted. "They were helping the prisoners escape; what did you want me to do?"

"I wasn't here at the time. All I can see is that you are harming an important witness right now, and I will make sure to make note of this in my ongoing investigation."

Theodore clenched his teeth, with things having gotten to this situation there was nothing he could do, there was nothing anyone could do, but allow for things to play out.

'It will be fine.' Jones thought. 'Our positions are important to Sin; he is a King; he can do something about this and get us out. After the mess is cleared out in Slough, he will help us.' Jones thought as the disciplinary team took him in.

Chapter 913 Escape The White Rose

After climbing over the large wall, just as Kanu had described, they were now in a forest of some sort. The trees weren't tightly knitted together so there was plenty of space for them to run, and that's exactly what Gary did, still carrying Ice on his back.

All of them ran, and Gary looked back, trying to use his ears to see if they were all right.

“You already said that you would come back to help them, so don’t worry too much,” Blackjack said, seeing the young boy was concerned, or young man now. “From the looks of things, that captain had some sort of plan. So they will be able to handle themselves.”

Up ahead, Gary could see the road that led to the forest, a rather large truck was parked up, partly on the road but mostly in the forest, and an old man was seen with a cigarette in hand. As soon as he saw those running toward him, he threw the cigarette on the floor and stomped on it.

“Are you the guys Kanu said were coming? Where is he?” The man shouted.

The man wasn’t anyone Gary recognized. He thought it might have been someone he knew since Kanu had stated someone had asked him to help break out of the place, but the person in front of him wasn’t giving him any clues.

“We are; Kanu isn’t here,” Gary said. “He told us to go on without him for now.”

Gary took Ice off his back, who seemed to be recovering well now that he wasn’t being electrified by the wall. Rather than getting in the back seats of the truck due to his large size, he got in the back.

Opening the door, Gary was expecting Blackjack to get in, but he hadn’t moved, and instead just shook his head when he looked at him.

“This is where we part ways,” Blackjack said. “My job was done, our deal is done, we’ve broken out of this place, so there’s no need for me to come with you anymore.”

Blackjack was ready to turn around, until he heard Gary call out for him.

“Wait, right now, I’m sure my hometown is in a lot of trouble. I’m sure there are a number of large enemies that need dealing with, that need help.”

“Blackjack, you’re strong, and I could really do with your strength in helping me out.”

Blackjack thought about it for a while. Originally, he never planned to get out this early. Gary was part of his plan, but it was for the Warden to lose her powers. He started to think if Gary never turned up, would he have been able to escape such a place.

Maybe, an opportunity would have presented itself as time went on, but never this early. A good bulk of the reason they had escaped was because of Gary and his allies in the White Rose as well, a part of Blackjack felt like he owed Gary a little bit of help.

“You have Ice that’s already willing to help you... as for me... you should know now, that both of us aren't meant to work with each other,” Blackjack answered.

“Do you think I care about that?” Gary said, knowing that Blackjack was alluding to the words he had spoken before. “My history only goes back as far as 18 years, and all I remember between us two is what happened in the prison.”

“If you help me, then in the future when it comes to it, I’ll help you as well.”

There was no time for Gary to be shy; he needed all the help he could get if he was to go up against the Phoenix Gang, and Blackjack was incredibly strong.

“Help from an Alpha, you owe me a favor, then maybe it is worth it for me after all,” Blackjack mumbled to himself with a smile as he walked forward and got in the truck.

The driver quickly got inside and continued down the path, heading quickly away from the White Rose base.

Now, all three of them were heading to the town of Slough. It had been a long time, and none of them had any devices on them, having no idea what was going on. All they could do was hope that they could get there in time.

They were even unaware of the live stream that was going on, and how the whole country, even people from other worlds, were watching what was about to happen with the Howlers now.

“Thank you,” Gary said. “Thank you for getting me out of there and now doing more.”

“Hey, you being alive will benefit me a lot, especially if I’m owed a favor from you. The others aren’t going to believe what happened to me, I’m not even sure they care since I was stuck in that place for so long,” Blackjack commented.

These allies of Blackjack’s certainly interested Gary quite a bit, but in order not to create a rift between the two of them, he had decided it was best he kept his mouth shut for the time being.

It wasn’t the main issue at hand.

“Alright, we’re almost out of this city, I’m surprised that there’s no one chasing us with helicopters,” the driver said. “I was getting ready to have my mind set like I was in some action movie. I guess whatever Kanu had planned it worked out in the end.”

The man smiled.

Gary also wondered how this older man knew Kanu. He didn’t seem to be an Altered or a member of the White Rose either. Just as Gary was about to open his mouth, they had passed a sign and in an instant, a ding was heard in his head.

[You have successfully escaped from the White Rose]

[Quest reward: Grade will now be upgraded from Rook to - Queen]

[New quest received: Upgrade your Grade To King.]

[The following quest will be unlocked: There Can only Be One]

Chapter 914 Put Your Foot Down!

Gary looked at the message on his system screen, as he was progressing in strength and his levels he had been getting these advance notice messages quite frequently. Before the latest one, he had unlocked the requirements to have another class upgrade.

One of them being at the Queen Grade, which he currently was at, for the second, it was for him to reach a certain level. Now, having reached the Queen Grade he had received another quest on top of that.

'As I expected there was one more grade, the King Grade, but reading the sound of the wording of the text, I'm not too sure I want to find out what it entails.'

'Is it something I have to do, what if I decide to just never get the King rank in the first place.' Gary thought. His mind though, went to the promise he had made. After completing the strange ritual, he had made contact with whoever it was that had created the Werewolves.

In order to not be restricted by the full moon, there were two promises. They weren't allowed to transform into their werewolf forms during the night of the full moon, and the second was to go against the other Alpha. Regardless he was under a time restraint.

While looking at his system screen, it was then that Gary had noticed something horrid. His pupils started to narrow, the same way they would do when he transformed.

His heart was pumping even faster and louder than before, and Blackjack, who was in the car, could immediately tell something was up when he turned to look at him.

"Step on it!" Gary shouted. "We need to get there as quickly as possible." The driver was already driving at an incredible speed on the motorway, but he was still going within his means not traveling over a 100 miles an hour.

"If I go any faster than this, then the police will stop us!" The driver shouted back.

"Are you seriously worried about going to jail?" Blackjack replied. "We just escaped from jail, there's no need to worry about it, just go as fast as you can." The driver did as told as he realized they made a fair point, and were now going as fast as the vehicle could take them, seeing the signs for Slough coming up they were nearly there.

“What’s wrong?” Blackjack asked. “My friends... they are in trouble.” Gary answered, he was filled with anger that it was hard for him to even contain his transformation. While checking out the system screen something had occurred. Gary could see the deaths of his fellow pack members.

The new ones that had been turned into Werewolves, and he had even seen the death of Tyler. Once dead they would no longer appear on the screen. With this, he still knew who was alive, but the fact that members of the gang were dying, it worried Gary that there might be more to come.

‘Tyler... I got you involved in all of this. You were just working at the shop, and I was the one that asked you to join... and now, because of me... crap, because of the damn Phoenix Gang.’

‘F*ck them, F*ck them, I’m going to kill them all, what the F*ck do they think they’re doing in my city!’ Too many thoughts were racing through Gary’s mind, and he had even ripped part of the cushioning on the seat he was on. It was frustrating but all he could do was wait.

Finally though, the vehicle had arrived in Slough, but something odd had occurred, at the border there was a row of cars in front of them, and several members that weren’t in the Howlers uniform.

As soon as they saw the car approaching them, they had pulled anti-altered weapons out, such as crossbows and more, and fired at the car.

As it hit the car, the whole vehicle was electrified and started to swerve out of control. Ice who was in the back stood up, and seeing the attackers he created ice spears and hurled them right at the attackers stopping them from doing any more damage. On top of that, he hurled a hammer made of ice hitting the cars out of the way, allowing the vehicle to burst right through them and continue forward.

“I’m guessing they weren’t members of your gang?” Blackjack asked. “No... but they certainly looked like gang members.” As the car drove through the city, Gary had to clench his teeth at the large scale of destruction that had occurred and there was another issue.

“Umm, I think when the guy shot that car there was a problem, it’s not stopping!” The driver shouted slamming his foot on the brake. They could see themselves approaching an apartment block right ahead, and at this speed they would all possibly die from the crash.

Seeing what was occurring though, Ice in the back started to freeze the bottom half of the vehicle, until the whole thing was frozen over and stopped just shy of the building.

“Oh... dear thank the heavens!” The driver said. He tried to open the door his whole body was shaking, and when he finally got out his legs wobbled so much he stumbled on the ground. Gary and the others quickly got out, but Gary was in no mood to hang around.

“You two, if you can follow the street signs to Burnham food street, I’m sure there are people there that will need your help.” Looking in the air, Gary could see some of the trails he needed to follow from his markings in the air.

“There’s somewhere I need to go as well, both of you, don’t die!” Gary said, rushing off, and climbing to the top of the building.

“We don’t plan on it.” Blackjack said. Once Gary had reached the top of the building, he carried on running jumping from building to building. He was continuing to follow the marking, and that’s when he could see it with his eyesight.

He could see Sin down on the ground, with no hesitation Gary didn’t even have time to evaluate the situation. He jumped down, transforming and falling from the building. Then he reached out with his hand grabbing right onto Sin’s face and slammed it onto the floor.

“Get out of my city!” Gary screamed.

Chapter 915 Strike The King

The camera from above was filming everything: the transformation, the slide down from the apartment, and Gary bashing Sin’s face into the ground. From Clem's position, she could see the back of Gary’s green hair.

“Gary!” Kai called out, realizing who it was. “It’s really him, he freaking made it, he made it!”

Kai was a person who was very calculative. He based a lot of his decisions on logic and the information at hand and didn't like relying on things like luck. If he was honest with himself, he thought they wouldn't see Gary again.

He thought to himself, if he and Midwak were unable to take out Sin, then that would have been the end of Slough. Which was why it was such a relief for him to see this person, to see that he was completely fine and right here in Slough.

'How did he do it? How did he manage to get here on time?' It had almost brought a tear to Kai's eyes, but he knew it wasn't over yet. Just because Gary was here, could he take on Sin?

'We need to help him still. Sin was too strong for all four of us to take on. It will be close to impossible for him to do it on his own!'

Gary continued to push down on Sin's head into the broken ground; he didn't dare let Sin come up from the floor. That was when, right from underneath his fist, Gary felt an intense heat burning his hand.

Soon, the entirety of Sin's body was wrapped in flames, and a large tornado of fire had appeared right by Gary.

The Alpha werewolf had no choice but to lift his hand away as the flames pushed him back. A condensed pillar of fire came toward him, but Gary, with his arms transformed, grabbed onto the fire.

It pushed him slightly backward, but then with his strength, Gary slashed into the flames. Even though it was burning his skin, it wasn't making a large difference and wasn't getting through his hide to his real body.

When his arm swung through the flames, they disappeared from the spot.

"Get out of your city, get out of your city!" Sin said as he stood up. Flames were burning even larger from his two wings on his back, now nearly twice the size. Half of them looked physical while the other half of the growth was from the power of the flames.

"I owned this city from the beginning, the only thing I'm doing is taking it back!" Sin swung his arms, and two giant pillars of flames went right out toward Gary.

The pillars of flames looked like giant serpents in the air. They swirled around and came right toward him.

Seeing this, Gary didn't move far from his position. He then swung his hands twice through the air, and a large claw mark was unleashed, hitting one of the serpents of fire head-on.

The sheer power of the claw mark broke through the flames, making them break apart and eventually fizzle out. The other pillar went to crash into Gary, but he jumped away from it. The pillar hit nothing but the ground, melting part of the ground he was on.

That was how intense the heat from the flames was. These attacks were more deadly than what Sin had been using so far, and Gary's hide was still able to keep up with it.

Sin wasn't even able to see where Gary was. His flames were out of control until someone appeared by his side and swiped a powerful claw cutting right through his chest.

Sin saw his own blood splatter in the air in front of him before his whole body was sent flying, crashing through the building walls.

Kai and Midwak, watching from the back, couldn't believe it. They had been struggling with Sin, so they knew how strong he was. But now, it almost looked like Gary was the one playing with Sin.

Midwak himself could feel something in his body when seeing Gary as well.

'How the f*ck did this kid get so strong in such a short amount of time? Just what did he do in that prison? Right now, I'm feeling his presence; it's close to that of him... my body feels like it wants to bow down... it's disgusting.'

Now that Gary stood alone, Clem was able to get a better view of him from the side and his face, and she could confirm it.

“It is... it’s Gary Dem, the retired AFA fighter who was recently arrested. It looks like he managed to get out, and now he’s protecting his city from the Phoenix Gang and fighting against one of the Kings!” Clem exclaimed.

The comments were a blur as they came in, talking about how it was possible for Gary to escape from prison. People were debating whether or not he had been wrongly imprisoned in the first place.

People were making connections, and after seeing everything that had occurred, it was only natural that they started to root for the green-haired werewolf.

However, on the ground, Gary knew it wasn’t over. He knew just that much wasn’t going to be able to tip the scales of the fight.

“You’re going to regret everything you did to me, including sending me to that prison!” Gary said, clenching his teeth.

The night sky was out, and the Dark Warrior class was activated.

[Gary Dem]

[Grade: Queen]

[Level: 40]

[Health: 500 (1000)]

[Energy: 500 (1000)]

[Strength: 85]

[Dexterity: 84]

[Endurance: 100]

With the night sky out, due to Gary's class type, all of his skills were leveled up, and his health and energy were doubled. It was now or never for Gary versus Sin.

The citizens, the people tuned in on the live stream and the Howlers were all on standby for the final fight.

Chapter 916 Turning Up The Heat

"Hey, Gary Dem, he wasn't always this strong, right? I mean, come on, we all know about the Kings, especially Sin; we've seen him destroy entire gangs on his own."

"Of course, Sin is strong. Didn't you see how he just wrecked all of those people before? He took on four Alters at once, and none of them were weak."

"Then, would that just mean that Gary Dem is stronger?"

"They say prison changes a person; maybe he went crazy because of how many people tried to stick a hot dog in him."

"Hot dog."

"Hot diggidy dog."

"Forget the hot dog comments for a second, what happens if Gary Dem wins this fight... does he become one of the new Kings?"

The comments continued to flow from the live stream at the appearance of Gary Dem. To the viewers, he was someone who was shrouded in great mystery. A man who had come with great potential in the AFC, and then left it just like that.

No one knew why, and not many people tried to look into it. That was, until his name hit the news again, for the second time. Televised all over, stating that he had been locked up for a gruesome crime.

No one knew why, and not many people tried to look into it. That was, until his name hit the news again, for the second time. Televised all over, stating that he had been locked up for a gruesome crime.

However, the memories of what he had done in the news report, helping the people of his town, didn't fade from people's memories, and now they were seeing him do the same again, with his overwhelming strength; they couldn't help but root for him against Sin, who had always been seen as a big bad in the public eye.

"Let's move," Kai said. "The way we are now, where we can't even transform, we're just going to get in Gary's way, and I wouldn't put it past Sin to start using everyone as hostages if he loses this fight."

"Don't tell me what to do," Midwak said, his mood seemingly more sour than before. "I was already walking away; I know when I'm useless."

Walking off, both Midwak and Kai couldn't help but look in the direction of where Gary was staring, where Sin had been hit. They knew the fight was far from over, and their sensitive skin could feel heat rising from that specific direction.

"ARGHH!" Coming out from the torn wall, a shadow of Sin could be seen, the large cut that was across his chest was burning brightly through the darkness, lighting up. When he stepped out, the flames started to dwindle on his chest, and the claw marks were no more.

However, Sin's body transformation had changed once more. His wings on his back were still twice the size they were before, the red feathers that covered his legs flames were burning on them intensely, and now feathers had appeared on his hands up to his elbow.

The feathers covered in flames looked like his body was made out of flames themselves.

“You’re really starting to piss me off!” Sin shouted as he swung his arm in a circle. The flames lingered in the air, making a floating ring of fire, and he then punched the ring of fire, sending it forcefully out.

It was the same ring of fire that had hit Blake and Innu, taking them out, but this time it was coming out a lot faster than before.

Seeing this, Gary swung his hand using the Claw Strike once again. His attack going through the air hit the ring, and both of them lingered in the air for a moment before the strike disappeared, and the ring of fire disappeared as well.

‘That Claw Strike was at level 2 now that the night sky was out... and he now has the strength of his fire and able to block it out?’

A smile appeared on Sin’s face, and making several rings in the air, he started to punch them right at Gary.

‘If my Claw Strike can’t stop them, then I’ll just avoid them all!’ Gary jumped to the side, the ring of fire missing him. He continued moving closer to Sin, avoiding each of the strikes.

When he was ten meters away, it was hard to avoid, but Gary didn’t care, as he charged right ahead through the ring. When it came close to him, he swung both of his arms through the ring of fire.

[-10 HP]

[984/1000 HP]

‘With my endurance and new HP, I don’t have to worry about getting hit!’

Now right on Sin, Gary swung his claws, but Sin was faster than he expected with his arms filled with flames. He blocked the hits with his forearms, and although claw marks could be seen, there was no blood or wounds at all.

Gary, seeing this, decided to change, and rather than using his claws, he started to use his fists. He was punching Sin as much as he could, who was blocking most of the hits coming his way.

“Do you think I didn’t know how to fight and just relied on my power? There is a reason why I’m one of the Kings!” Sin said as he made a ring of fire while blocking an attack and hit it forward, hitting Gary in the stomach.

[-10 HP]

[976 HP]

He had been losing HP every time he slightly made contact with Sin, but it wasn’t by much, and the attack hardly affected Gary.

Going for a Claw Strike just before he had hit.

[Lethal Pounce]

Gary moved in the air, changing position three times, before he had managed to hit the center of Sin’s body.

Gary had hit slightly upward, lifting him up on his feet, and continued to throw a flurry of punches, but each time he was lifted, Gary made sure with one of his hands to hold him so he wouldn’t go flying in the air.

Then pulling him forward, Gary used his leg and kicked him up high in the air. Using his legs and bending his strong thighs, Gary jumped up in the air, and with both hands slammed them down, sending Sin right into the ground.

Like a flaming arrow descending from the sky, his body crashed into the ground, bending the buildings on the side slightly inward.

While Gary was falling from the air to the spot Sin was in, he knew something was up though.

‘Not enough, this is not enough; if the Kings were so feared, they wouldn’t be taken out this easily. I know I gained a lot of strength so far, but something else has to be amiss here.’

While Gary was falling to the ground, a pillar of fire went out from the hole where Sin was in and hit Gary directly in the chest, hitting his body. He spun a few times and eventually landed on a broken part of the ground.

[-22 HP]

‘Well, that hit hurt a bit more.’ Gary thought as he quickly got up from where he was looking, and he noticed the entire air changing around him.

Even through the camera, it was hard for Clem to focus, and she saw a warning sign.

‘Equipment overheating, please consider turning it off.’

“We have to move; we have to get up quickly,” Ash said. He could feel it; he could feel something was amiss.

Chapter 917 An Intense Heat

A great intense heat could be felt from the ground and in the air, even though the citizens weren’t too close; watching from behind the barrier of cars that had been built.

Through their shoes, it felt hot to the touch, burning them if they didn’t lift their feet. At the same time, a blazing heavy heat surrounded all around them.

Naturally, everyone started to move back to avoid the build up of heat everywhere.

At the same time, Clem and Ash had taken the helicopter and rose up in the air again. Thankfully, with their camera, they were able to zoom in and still get a view of the situation that was taking place down below.

“What is this feeling.” Kai thought, getting up from the floor.

Innu and Blake had managed to recover somewhat, not enough to fight, but enough to get up and walk on their own. They could hear the words of everyone from before, so they knew Gary was there.

As everyone moved back from the heat, the Howlers members, Blake, and Innu all stayed closer, taking the heat, wishing the view what was going to happen with their own eyes.

“Kai... he can do it right... Gary can win this.” Innu asked.

“Of course he can.” Kai answered. “You know, from time to time, when we get new members, they ask me a question. Why aren't I the leader, why is someone like Gary the leader instead of me...”

Interrupted his talk, they saw a mass amount of flames erupt from the crater created on the street. Rocks were flung to the side and had come crashing down. Now standing in the centre, they could see Sin's body standing strong.

Despite all the times he had been hit, he was still able to stand, and he didn't look like his body was hurt at all, in fact, there was once again another change in Sin's appearance.

The wings had subsided in size, but they were burning brighter than ever on his back. They were glowing as if made of a pure single flame, moving as he breathed. The red feathers that covered his body, now had gone right up to his shoulders and part of his chest.

His entire body was covered in the red flame feathers, apart from a small part on his chest, and his face that was still visibly human. The intense heat, that all of them could feel, it was coming directly off Sin's body.

"I guess his name of his gang isn't just for show." Blake said. "Just like a phoenix, every time this guy gets beaten or taken down he is rising again, and each time he's rising even stronger."

"And how is Gary meant to beat someone who can't die, and if anything, is getting stronger every time." Innu asked back.

"Stop saying sh*t." Midwak commneted. "You guys aren't even the ones fighting, and yet you're talking like this, and you're forgetting something, does Gary look like he's hurt either?"

[Gary Dem]

[954/1000 HP]

With Gary's endurance at its maximum after defeating the Warden, and with his health increase, he wasn't exactly the easiest person to kill either.

Sin then looked at Gary.

"I can't believe, of all people it's come to this, I thought I would only use this on the other Kings."

Right after finishing his sentence, Sin dashed forward and flames intensely pushed from his wings. He moved increadly fast and was right in front of Gary, but Gary was fast as well.

He swung his arm for a punch with his strength and so did Sin, the two collided and a tunnel of flames erupted from behind Sin's flames. His wings started to flap forward and Gary was being pushed back along the ground.

Pulling away from the struggle, Gary then threw a strike at Sin's side, it was a clean hit, hitting him and sending him away in the air, but quickly Sin had regathered himself with his wings.

He started to dash through the air, flying at a fast speed and changing his path rather than coming straight forward, and now Sin was the one who struck Gary on his side.

Gary had blocked the hit, but he saw that his HP still went down.

[-4 HP]

After blocking the hit, Sin continued to throw hit after hit at the fast speed. With each hit, a large tunnel of flames could be seen erupting in the air. It was a wild sight to see. To everyone watching, those on the camera did not look like a battle between two Altered, it looked like a battle between gods. Only then they could comprehend what they were witnessing with large flames coming out with each individual hit.

Then, Sin pulled back, and out from his hands, quick fire balls had hit Gary one after the other. He blocked them with his guard once more.

“Arghh!” Gary shouted.

[Lethal Pounce]

Quickly he dashed from side to side to side, and then kicked Sin right on his head, it felt like a solid hit, and Sin was sent back across the street, his body crashing into multiple cars until he had eventually stopped.

“Haha, hahaha! Are you like me? Will you not die as well!” Sin was impressed, so many flames, so many powerful hits, and yet Gary still didn’t fall.

However, Gary wasn't so happy, because during the fight at hand, he had seen a message pop up. As Sin walked closer and the intense heat grew, the message had popped up again.

[The intense heat is affecting you severely]

[Your HP will gradually decrease]

[Your Energy will gradually decrease]

[HP 908/1000]

[Energy 640/1000]

'I might not die in this fight, but if I run out of energy, I'm as good as dead.'

Chapter 918 A Burning Cut

Sin had transformed his body once again after being taken down, and now an intense heat was being given off from his body. It was so intense that Gary even received a message from his system.

He would constantly lose HP as well as energy during his fight, and his energy was already low from using a large number of moves.

Right then, Sin charged from his position, the fire boosting him, making him faster than before. Gary lifted his arms up to block the attack, and he was hit; his entire body moved back a few inches, but the fists were coming in one after the other, moving his feet back ever so slightly.

'He's fast, he's really fast, is he just as fast as me!' Gary started to think.

What was even worse though, was the fact that his energy was running low. Standing his ground, Gary then swung his arm and enacted his Claw Swipe. The energy went forward, cracking the ground and tearing through the building on another side. However, it hadn't hit Sin.

Instead, Sin was right by his side with his flaming wings and swung both of his arms up, and from underneath Gary's feet, he felt his entire body being lifted up by a tornado of fire.

Right after that, the fire started to envelop him as if it was alive. It covered his body and then forced Gary down like a tunnel of wind, sending him crashing into the ground.

The flames continued to hit Gary's body again and again until they had completely singed and evaporated into the ground.

[-86 HP]

'That was the biggest hit,' Gary thought, getting up from the floor and jumping back, creating space between the two. 'During that entire confrontation, my HP was going down regardless of the hit, and my energy is lower than before.'

'Although my endurance is high, healing my tough hide, it's taking even more energy than before. Energy and health go hand in hand with this body.'

"You really are a tough one as I expected," Sin stated. "Others who would have been hit by that attack would have burned into nothing but ashes, yet you still stand. Let's see which one of us is going to last longer then!"

A large amount of heat expanded out with flames from his wings, and Sin was boosted forward again. The flames were propelling him like a rocket, heading straight for his target.

Taking the hit head-on again wasn't an option for Gary. If he just did the same thing again and again, he would lose this fight, and that was the same with the Lethal Pounce.

'I don't have the Last Stand skill... I already used it, so there's no second chances in this fight. I have to do what I can.' Gary thought, spreading his legs and placing both of his hands by his side. A change started to occur.

"If I'm going to lose my energy anyway, then I might as well use it all up getting rid of you!"

[Full Transformation]

Gary's entire body grew slightly larger, his muscles bulging, fur covering his entire body. Finally, he was in his full form. He was slightly faster, stronger, and more menacing in this state.

When Sin threw out a fist full of flames, Gary blocked it head-on, grabbing the fist.

Holding on tight, Gary kicked Sin in the stomach, sending him in the air. But he only went a meter or two back before he sprang into flames and came back like a shooting star, hitting Gary directly in his body.

Gary gritted his teeth, holding on tight to Sin, as the flames were growing. To the outsiders watching, it appeared as if Gary was trying to hold back a large meteor, due to the large amount of flames that were coming back.

'The flames on his body, it's getting even more intense. Never mind me running out of energy, at this rate, I'm going to run out of HP as well.'

Tensing and using all the strength he could, Gary pushed on Sin's body, pushing him into the ground. He lifted his feet and started to stomp on Sin's body, but the heat was still causing him to lose HP.

A large amount of flames exploded from Sin's body, and seeing this, Gary quickly jumped back until he had landed on the buildings at the side and was now hanging halfway down the building.

[210/1000 Energy]

[762/1000 HP]

'This... is not good. I never imagined I would be in this situation, where I would be worrying more about my Energy than my HP. The boost from consuming the Warden helped with my resistance and HP; that might be the reason why.'

'If I hadn't consumed her, I might have already been dead in this fight, but I can't just keep doing the same thing.'

Sin had risen from the ground and was now in the air in the middle of the street, looking at Gary hanging on the wall at the same level.

"I can tell, you're worried about something... It looks like this is close to your end!" Sin charged forward, coming in at great speed.

Gary tensed his legs and kicked off the building, breaking its structure and causing it to bend inward. While in the air, he swung his fists and continuously used the Claw Swipe.

'This move uses a large amount of my energy, but all I can do now is focus on this!'

With Sin moving so fast, he allowed for the Claw Swipe to hit his body, but only the side. It had cut across his shoulder, removing the flames. When the second and third Claw Swipe hit his shoulder, it had pierced through the flames and hit his skin, causing blood to drop.

Gary had seen this all before, and sooner or later, the wound would just heal. But focusing on this point, with his energy so low, Gary crashed right into Sin's body.

Everyone looked up into the sky as the two powers collided, and flames exploded everywhere. They were unable to see much as it appeared like a small sun in the sky, and then they could see it; they could see Gary's Werewolf body falling to the ground.

"Gary!" Kai shouted.

Out of the clash, it appeared there was a winner as Gary fell and bounced slightly when hitting the ground.

"F*ck!" Innu shouted, but when looking at Sin, he noticed something.

"It looks like Sin didn't come out of that unscathed," Midwak said, and he had a deep smile.

When looking at the air, everyone was starting to notice Sin no longer had his arm attached to his body. From his shoulder, it had been completely ripped off.

Then when they looked on the ground, they could see in Gary's hand, there was an arm, still covered in flames and the special red feathers.

Slowly, Gary got up from the floor and held the burning arm in his hand; it was still hurting him even now.

[-1HP]

[-1HP]

Then looking at the flaming hand, Gary opened his mouth wide and bit right into it there and then, flames covering his entire mouth and the red feathers falling onto the floor.

Chapter 919 Limb From Limb

The arm that had been removed from Sin's body, it was still burning as Gary held it. He could feel the intense heat, and his system was informing him of the constant HP and Energy drain it was doing to him.

It was going down quicker than before, now that he was holding onto a part of Sin directly.

However, there was one thing that Gary was sure about: it was the fact that Sin was an Altered, and if Gary consumed Altered or parts of Altered, two things would happen to him—he would get stronger, and part of his energy returned.

"I have to do this!" Gary opened his mouth wide and bit through the flames.

The red feathers, when touching his tongue and mouth, gave a heavy burning sensation, but underneath it all, he could still feel the flesh. He only chewed a few times before swallowing as it wasn't something he wanted to savor.

"That fool!" Sin said, looking down from above in the air, and turning his head to his own arm. "If he eats that, the entire arm will burn him from inside out; he's as good as dead!"

Sin's eyebrows were furrowed as he looked toward his arm. Where it had been cut had been healed, but his arm wasn't growing back; he could heal wounds as long as it was attached to his body, but he was unable to grow limbs back. Regardless if Gary was dead, he had come out of this fight the winner.

Pieces of the feathers and flesh went down Gary's throat and towards his stomach. His HP was going down faster than before; he was taking a big hit as he started to digest bits of it.

[-2HP]

The HP continued to decrease, and Gary had already consumed the entire arm. He was starting to think that maybe he had made a mistake. That for once, there was an Altered that he was unable to eat... that was until the system had granted him a message.

[542/1000 HP]

[113/1000 Energy] >>>> [312/1000 Energy]

'It went up, my energy went back up... and it went far higher than I expected; this has to be because he's some type of special Mythical Altered.'

Gary looked up at Sin who was still in the air, confident that he would have died; he could see that his arm wasn't growing back. With this, and his energy still low, it was the only way for him to survive, his only way he could win this fight—to eat part of his enemy and use up every ounce of his energy.

However, the system messages didn't stop there.

[Your Endurance is at its maximum level]

[Endurance can no longer increase]

[Special properties of consumed Altered have been discovered]

[You have gained Fire and Heat resistance!]

After seeing those messages, the heat became a little bit more bearable. He could still feel the intensity of it, but it wasn't affecting him as much anymore, and the time it took for messages to appear about his energy being drained due to the heat were taking longer.

"You're not dead?" Sin said in shock. "Why won't you die!"

Sin flew up in the air and spun his body, a spiral of flames coming out over the sky covering the city; right then, he dived down. Performing his strongest attacks, going through the sky like a falling meteorite.

Since he had flown up higher, it almost looked as if he was breaking the sound barrier. Once in a while, a pulse of flames would go through the air, and it would increase Sin's speed even more than before.

Gary, seeing this, first swung his arms several times, unleashing two claw slashes above him. He then bent his knees down and swung his arms again, swinging more claw slashes. They hit Sin straight on, but he continued to fall, only breaking some of the flames away from him.

As Gary bent his knees fully, he went ahead and activated something he had been saving for a while.

[Lethal Pounce, level 4]

Gary's feet blasted from the ground, crushing the ground beneath his feet. The impact to the ground was the same as if Sin was to have landed on the ground. As Gary blasted from his feet, he met Sin in the middle.

The two collided for a moment, and a shockwave destroyed all of the windows in a mile radius from the power of the clash. What was sent out and was burning some of the buildings in the distance.

'Lethal Pounce, the first level allowed me to quickly lock onto my target. The second stage allowed me to dodge before striking my enemy, and the third stage allowed me to add a number of pounces to my liking before the Lethal Pounce at the end of the strike, using up more energy than others.'

'However, I can use these different levels of Lethal Pounces as I like; the second level isn't always good to use if I want to strike my enemy faster... and through the use of the rest of my pawn points upgrading lethal pounce, and the Dark night sky, Lethal Pounce is now upgraded to level 4.'

'It's like Level 1, but it takes up an enormous amount of my energy, a straight ahead attack!'

[-100 Energy]

[98/1000 Energy]

After the clash, Gary ripped his hands through and continued forward up in the air, now floating in sight of everyone; they watched Sin floating in the air with his wings, with one more of his limbs missing.

In Gary's hands, a part of a flaming leg could be seen, and just like before, Gary opened his mouth wide and chomped down into it.

"I'm going to tear you limb from limb!" Gary shouted, opening his mouth through the flames. "And each time while you're getting weaker, I'll be getting stronger!"

Chapter 920 A Grave Of Fire

Now that Gary knew he could consume parts of Sin, the fight had gotten quite a bit easier for him. Due to his healing powers, he thought that he might have to try and finish Sin off in one go.

To take out his head, or aim for his heart, but in his desperate attempt, when running out of energy, consuming Sin's body, he knew it worked.

Now, he focused all of his attacks, aiming at one single point of Sin's body. It didn't matter if he got hurt in the process.

He had high endurance and had plenty of HP. At this rate, getting Sin limb by limb, he was going to be the victor.

With part of Sin's leg in his hand, Gary went and chomped down through the pieces, swallowing it rather quickly, and jumping out of the area.

However, Sin wasn't giving him a chance; instead, he was looking at his situation.

"You're ripping me limb from limb?" Sin said, deep wrinkles appearing on his forehead, his fist tensing up, and the flames turning darker in color along with the anger that's building up in him.

"Hey, don't we still have to worry? What if Sin flies away, he still has his wings, it looks like Gary's winning this thing, but he could escape at any moment," Innu claimed.

"Do you really think Sin is that type of person?" Kai asked. "The status of the Kings has existed for a long time. There was a reason why they were even given a name in the first place."

"They were at the top, looking down at everyone around them. In Sin's eyes... he won't run because he still thinks he'll win this no matter what," Kai said, and he was right.

"I am a King, you dare to take my body parts from me, you know what that will mean, you will know the punishment that will cause you, it's death!" Sin shouted.

He started to spiral his way toward Gary, charging down and then coming directly at him through the street. It was the same old skill that Sin did before.

"Is that the only thing you can do... if that's the case, then this fight is over," Gary exclaimed.

[[You have gained Fire and Heat resistance!]]

[A part of your energy has been restored]

Gary braced himself as he allowed for Sin's body to crash right into him. Immediately though, after taking the hit, Gary hopped up, and now was on Sin's back.

The flames were burning through his skin, through his body, but having consumed two parts of his body, Gary's resistance was only growing.

Sin, feeling the heavy weight on his back, tried to use the flames to propel him upward and was flying higher up in the air.

However, Gary wasted no time, as he grabbed onto one of the wings and dug his claws in through the flames, drawing blood. Then opening up his mouth, he bit down hard and ripped a piece off the wing.

"ARGHH!" Sin screamed in pain.

Right after that, with a corner of the wing bitten off, he then stood up on top of Sin's back and held onto the wing, pulling it while kicking down with both of his legs right on the body. The wing had ripped right off from Sin's back, and Sin went crashing into the ground.

Gary was seen falling but as he spun his body through the air, he landed on the ground solidly. Up ahead, he could see Sin on the floor, trying to get up.

While walking his way, Gary continued to consume the flame wing, just like he did everything else, and he was losing far less HP this time.

"You should have left me alone!" Gary said. "You should have left all the people in this town alone, and nothing would have ever happened to you! But you had to get involved, you had to hurt everyone and send me to that prison."

Sin had finally gotten off the ground, one arm completely gone, part of his leg missing, and only one wing out of his back; he had never been in this state before.

"I am a King!" Sin shouted, his flames partly dwindling. "I can do what I want, this city, and everything belongs to me!"

Sin with his final strength, let out an almighty roar, and a stream of flames went toward Gary. It was a pillar of fire that was swirling around coming straight for him.

At that moment, Gary had already consumed the flame wing, and he swung his arm through the air, aiming to perform the Claw Strike when something strange happened. His claws turned bright red, and when the Claw Strike left his hand, several lines of flames could be seen flowing through the air.

It crashed into the pillar of fire and both exploded out. The shockwave had caused Sin to stumble and fall back on the ground.

“Fire power... he has the power of fire as well.” Sin lifted his head, wondering what had just happened.

But Gary wasn't too sure himself.

[You have consumed a great part of a Mythical Altered]

[Your fire resistance has increased]

[Special Queen Rank Skill unlocked: You are what you eat]

[Fire Attribute Unlocked]

The system messages came up in his face, but he was far more concerned with dealing with Sin. Jumping from his position, he landed right in front of Sin, and dug his claws into his chest. He then lifted him up into the air, with Gary's face directly next to his.

Gary's face then transformed from a Werewolf back to its human self while the rest of his body was still in its beast-like form.

“I would have lost this fight today, I would have died, if you had never sent me to that prison. Because of you, you were the one that made me stronger, it was your mistake that made me win this fight, and before I take your life, I thought you should know that,” Gary said.

Gary knew this was true; without his high level of endurance from consuming the Warden, would he have had the powers to consume part of Sin's phoenix body? On top of that, without all of the pawn points he gained, he wouldn't have been able to level up his Lethal Pounce, nor would he have been able to save the others.

The strength he had gained, it was all because of the prison; otherwise, this whole fight would have been a lost cause.

Looking at him, Sin's flames were dwindling, and what flames he had weren't working against Gary. Losing his limbs seemed to have also affected some of his regeneration powers as well.

"You think killing me... is the end of all of this?" Sin said. "You asked me, why did I come to Slough? Why did I do all of this? Well, after you're done with me, you'll find out."

"I wouldn't be so surprised if they're watching everything right now; they will surely make their move. You have messed with Royalty; a peasant like you won't fit in, and will get kicked out."

Gary pulled Sin's face in closer.

"If I need to get rid of all the Kings to protect my city, and my people, then this is my warning message to them!" Gary's sharp teeth were on show. "You mess with me, and you end up dead!"

With his other hand, Gary dug his claws deep into Sin's head, and then threw his body onto the ground. Right after, he opened his mouth wide, and let out an almighty howl.
