

Widow 134

Chapter 134

Crystal said, "Shouldn't you help me achieve every dream?"

Harold pulled her out and said, "I've given you a chance to be the boss's wife, isn't that helping you achieve your dream?"

Crystal's heart ached. "It's stupid if a woman uses her beauty to attract men."

Harold paused and looked at Crystal. "Are you beautiful?"

Crystal touched her face and said uncertainly, "I think so. I think I look good."

That was too modest.

Harold, "You're all right."

Crystal curled her lips. "Is it that bad?"

Harold chuckled. "Then what do you want? Kid, if you want me to praise you, you can say it directly."

Crystal said sincerely, "Then I want you to praise me."

Harold said, "You're dreaming."

Crystal, "..."

answered

inexperienced bumpkin, Crystal knew little about luxury cars, but she could tell that Harold was driving another car today. She asked curiously, long time." Harold opened the car door and pulled Crystal over.

said, "I can tell that it's white. The

Harold, "."

factory left one

in Fairby. Alissa used up a lot of saving to send him there so that he could have a better education.

When Crystal learned about it, she sighed, "When I was a child, I studied in the dark, not to mention attending

of primary education didn't require tuition had been working hard and studying hard, and only paid. the tuition fees after getting your grades when it for a moment and asked, "Which

"What's your score for the college entrance

said, "I didn't attend the college entrance

"I entered university straight."

Crystal, "..."

university did schools called. I simply asked Larry to