

Widow 143

Chapter 143

“Hurry up and make it clear to your wife. Ask her to apologize to the other party, and then arrange for your child to leave the kindergarten. Otherwise, you and I will both be in great trouble!”

Mr. Bowles was in such a high position, he naturally knew what was good for him. He had made a name for himself in Fairby, but compared with the White family, which had been an aristocratic family for hundreds of years, he was like a firefly in the sun, not to mention that Luke was the famous assistant of Master White...

Even if that person died, he would still be a nightmare in the upper circle.

“Tim, thank you for reminding me,” Mr. Bowles said and hung up the phone.

When the principal came back, Mrs. Bowles didn’t know what had happened. She thought that the principal had been persuaded by Mr. Bowles. She squinted at Crystal and said, “You’re just a commoner. How can you compare with me?”

Crystal had already taken out the chocolate from Harold’s jacket pocket. She had placed it in his pocket before this and gave one to Bernard. She slowly finished eating the chocolate and did not say anything.

she frowned and was about to say something. Suddenly, the phone rang sharply. She picked up the phone and found it was Mr. Bowles’s call. She quickly picked it up and said, “Honey, don’t worry. As other party immediately!” Mr. Bowles suppressed the anger in his voice. “I let you be Mrs. Bowles because of your sensible attitude. However, you keep causing me trouble, and simply suspected that she had misheard. “Honey... what did beg them to forgive you, and then help

Bowles opened her eyes wide and asked can come back and sign the divorce agreement.” Mr. Bowles said gloomily, “In the future, Leland will be taken care of by his Grandma, and you this to me?! My son mercy, Mr. Bowles’s angry voice came through the phone. Everyone around Bowles said in a panic, “... It’s just an to provoke the White family?! Let alone you, if you can’t handle this matter well, I’ll be done for. I’m implicated by you and you still want better ask for forgiveness from the other party, or you won’t be able