

Widow 222

Chapter 222

The news that Harold was still alive swept across the entire Fairby like a hurricane. Crystal fell into a deep sleep that night, but many people couldn't sleep that night.

Some people were glad that they hadn't laid their hands on Harold's territory, while others panicked as they had already plotted against Harold.

Some people were surprised that he was still alive, and some secretly hated that he was not dead. But no matter what other people wanted, after tonight, Fairby was still Harold's Fairby.

He undoubtedly stood at the top, and no one could pull him down.

When Dora heard the news, she was watching a movie in the cinema with Antony. Her hand trembled and the cup fell to the ground.

"Miss..." The servant who came to deliver the message was so scared that she rushed to clean up the broken pieces. "Move away, please. Don't get hurt."

Dora took a deep breath and said, "You just said... Master White isn't die!? Where did you get the news?!"

The maid said, "... The news has spread all over Fairby. Tonight, during Master White's burial, his coffin was buried but he appeared alive in the cemetery. This news came from the White family. It can't be wrong."
