

Widow 223

Chapter 223

For a moment, Crystal became a celebrity in the upper circle of Fairby. Some people sighed with emotion at her luck to be able to marry Harold accidentally. They completely forgot that they used to laugh at her for being a widow. Some people were waiting for news of her death. After all, everyone in Fairby knew about Harold's means.

Crystal didn't know that she was famous. She was awakened by the alarm clock and got up in a daze to brush her teeth and wash her face. After washing up, she was about to change her clothes. Suddenly, she realized something and looked at Harold, who was standing in the cloakroom. "Why are you still here?"

Harold watched the whole process of her cleaning up and said calmly, "Are you sure you cleaned your face with your eyes closed?"

Crystal was speechless.

Harold said, "Come and let me have a look."

Crystal walked over slowly and raised her pale little face. "It's clean."

Harold held half of her face. The little girl's skin was soft and tender, and the feeling was very good. He pinched Crystal's cheek and said, "Your face is clean, but what about your teeth?"

"Ah-" Crystal opened her mouth to show him.

Taking advantage of this, Harold lowered his head and licked the tip of her tongue. After tasting a little bit of toothpaste, he smiled and said, "Yes, it's clean."

Crystal was speechless.

still a little confused as she

and said, "Let's go down until she sat down at the dining table. She stared at in front of her and said, "It was Crystal was speechless.

admitted

opposite him. She took the bowl, sat down in Harold's studio. Harold picked up the

to see that Luke had specially arranged for Crystal. At this time, he was indifferently. Paul's legs went limp and he quickly said, "Young Madam, I suddenly now.”

Crystal was speechless.

and said, “Look,

her lips. “If he has nothing to do, and said, “How could it be, Young Madam? I really have something to sat in the back seat

of the driver’s seat and said, “I haven’t been a driver