

Widow 310

Chapter 310

Another older man also said, "She's right. If the White family takes revenge on us, what should we ordinary people do?"

Speaking of this, he began to cough violently. The middle-aged man next to him quickly patted his back, and his eyes turned red. "My sister was the youngest in our family. She had been obedient since she was a child. Everyone was sad over her death. But we can't fight with them. This is the truth in front of us!"

There was also water in Lowell's eyes.

He knew that he couldn't blame these weak people. Ordinary people couldn't do anything in the face of power. If they couldn't even live like this, they would really be desperate.

"Brother." Crystal looked at Antony and tugged at his sleeve. "I know that you are the kindest and most helpful person!"

Antony was speechless.

Antony pulled back his sleeves and said, "I'm just here to drink tea. It's none of my business."

"Brother..." Crystal pouted and put her palms together. "I beg you, I beg you!"
