

Widow 329

Chapter 329

“You said it was not a good idea last time.” Crystal pushed him. “The car is about to start. Hurry up and fasten your seat belt.”

Harold stopped teasing her and buckled his seat belt. Crystal continued to ask, “Why did you say that you should start from the Coombs family’s younger generation to talk about Felicia?”

“You should have seen that Corey’s relationship with his father is like fire and water.” Harold smiled. “It’s all because of an... arranged marriage more than 20 years ago.”

Corey’s mother, Renata, was born into a literary family, which was known as a noble family in Fairby, but they were only famous. The Fiery family was declining year after year. In a few more years, no one would know about this family. At this time, there was only one way to bring the dead back to life: arranged marriage.

Although the Coombs family had been suppressed by the White family more than 20 years ago, on the surface, they were well-matched. The Coombs family’s only son, Eric, would marry someone of equal status no matter what. The fallen Fiery family was out of their consideration.

However, in order to pave the way for their son, Renata’s parents actually sent their own daughter to Eric’s bed. Renata was pregnant after that.

had no choice but to Renata had someone she loved deeply, and Eric was unwilling to be bound. The two of them were tongue. “It turns out that there really is a real mother who makes things sound, the weighing in her heart will always be different. This is sold by her parents. She married someone she didn’t like and had to give birth to a child be hateful.” Harold said, “She been the most harmonious period between the village. She wasn’t very pretty, at least she couldn’t be compared to Renata.

he proposed benefited greatly from this marriage, so how could they agree? Renata was also not in her right mind. She felt that she was destined to