

Widow 341

Chapter 341

Anaya's face was as pale as paper, and the handprint on her face became more and more obvious. She grabbed Crystal's hand and shook her head in pain. "Okay okay, stop talking."

Crystal frowned. "Anaya, why do you have to put up with them when you're not happy?"

Anaya held the card tightly, and her tears fell like beads. She took a deep breath and said, "It's just as she said, I am guilty. I deserve it."

"But..."

"Okay." Anaya wiped her tears and tried to show a smile. "Don't quarrel with her. She is very fierce. If you cry, I won't coax you."

Crystal curled her lips. "My husband is here. I'm not afraid "

for Harold, she wouldn't have dared to rush out and give Sarita a slap so bravely

Anaya

is amazing." Crystal

are talking endlessly,

many people here. Keep you."

ex-boyfriend is getting married, right? It's a pity that he is going to marry a true noble lady. She is from a well-known family and is worthy of his family background. Who do you think you are? You're someone who dislikes the poor, loves the rich, and even meddles in other people's relationships? Other than my all stunned. They didn't it were not for this slut, my brother would not have hurt his leg. He would have been able to find a good job and marry a good woman. To put it bluntly, she is merely paying back the debt. She would never be able to pay back this debt

"I used to think that the one who was beaten was very pitiful, but now it seems that... we really can't judge a book by its

in other people's relationships. Although I think this sister is also very strange, the third wheel is even more done. There is no sympathy